New Q-CAP Crime Awareness Program Launched

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Do you know three easy steps to help "burglar proof" your home? Would you like to know how to secure sliding doors? Or, how to secure your home when leaving on vacation?

This information and more is available in a 16 page brochure on home security and the Quincy Crime Awareness Program (Q-CAP) in this week's Quincy Sun.

Q-CAP, a city-wide community crime prevention program, was launched Monday at a city hall news conference by Mayor

Francis X. McCauley.

"It's a Godsend to us," said McCauley. "I'm happy to put my support behind it."

In addition to the brochure, the program will include residential security surveys, security and crime prevention seminars for local retailers, programs in the Quincy schools, and the formation of new neighborhood watch groups while strengthening existing groups.

Administered by the Quincy Police Department, Q-CAP will aim at reducing residential and business break-ins and burglaries.

It will use the resources and talents of city government, business and citizens' groups to mobilize against crime.

"Business involvement in Q-CAP is especially appropriate," stated McCauley, "because financial resources are scarce at all levels of government and people are increasingly concerned about crime."

"The money just isn't around anymore," agreed Police Chief Francis Finn who said the Q-CAP program can "reduce crime in the city very substantially."

"We hope to reach out to the many of you who have been trained in crime prevention techniques."

"With the help of the private sector, we will be providing new materials and new initiatives for you as citizens to improve your neighborhood's security."

"The brochure will explain how the citizen can become the foundation of Q-CAP."

Commercial Union Insurance Companies, headquartered in Boston and Quincy, donated consulting services and materials to Q-CAP. Two local independent insurance agencies that represent CU, the Hurley Agency and Burgin, Platner & Co., Inc., are also involved in Q-CAP.

"We have chosen the problem of crime in America as our particular area of social concern," said CU chairman and chief executive officer Lawson L. Swearingen.

"We call our approach to crime prevention, 'Unlocking America' and are pleased to work with Q-CAP as part of this national program."

Don Hansen of the Quincy Police Department will serve as Q-CAP coordinator.

Pair Arrested In Boat Break

Stephen MacDonald of Bicknell St., Germantown pleaded innocent in Quincy District Court Tuesday to charges of breaking and entering a vessel at the Continental Marina, Quincy Point, in the nighttime.

MacDonald was released in $100 personal recognizance for trial March 23.

Police said MacDonald and a juvenile were arrested on one of the boats at the marina on Washington Court Friday night. The teenager was held for juvenile court.

Stolen Car

Geraldine A. Gianotti of Sea St., Adams Shore, reported to police last week that her 1976 Ford Pinto station wagon was stolen from in front of her home.

MBTA Still Wants S.Q. Pedestrian Access

By TOM HENSHAW

The MBTA may feel that a pedestrian access from Independence Ave. to the new Quincy Adams MBTA station is still negotiable but the city has no intention of permitting it.

"Our position is that the decision has already been made and it is cast in concrete," said Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson. "As far as we are concerned, the issue is closed."

Rocco Mangini of the MBTA told a transportation and construction briefing at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce last week that the structure is already there to provide emergency access.

"Whether or not to open it to pedestrian access is a matter to be discussed," he said. "I'm sure the policy makers will take this into consideration when the trains start to use the station."

Anderson said he plans to send a letter to MBTA Chairman James O'Leary pointing out that Quincy has a commitment from the authority that there will be no pedestrian access to the station from Independence Ave.

"Quincy has 3.79 votes on the MBTA advisory board and they will be looking for help to get a supplementary budget," he said. "I think they'll pay more attention to us because of it."

The MBTA promised three years ago that there would be no such pedestrian access after local residents complained of additional traffic in Independence Ave. as people were dropped off to catch the train.

The subject came up at the briefing when Jack Fehan, the Braintree town engineer, pressed Mangini on the possibility of pedestrian access through an emergency ramp that has been built from Independence Ave.

One Third Pay Up City Gets $115,000 In Back Taxes

The city has collected about $115,000 from 80 property owners in delinquent taxes dating back to 1980.

Delinquency notices were sent out last month to some 200 property owners who owe $385,200 for 1980 and they were instructed to pay by March 12 or their property would be placed in tax title.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said both he and Tax Collector Robert E. Foy III were "very pleased with the response from more than one third of the delinquents."

The next step against those who still have not paid, he said, will be an advertisement in The Quincy Sun of April 1 notifying one and all that the property is going to tax title.

"I urge those who haven't paid to do so as soon as possible," he said. "There is still time to avoid being advertised."

Man Sought For Armed Assault In Wollaston Home

Quincy police are seeking a slender young white man in Levi shirt and pants who forced his way into a Wollaston home early Tuesday morning with a pistol and assaulted a woman occupant before fleeing on foot.

Cheryl Tolson of Marlboro St. said she was knocked down by the intruder, who stands accused of armed breaking and entering into a building, and assault with a dangerous weapon, to wit, a shod foot.

Quincy police along with MDC

police and State Police with a dog searched the area without success.

About an hour later, a man who answered the same description was seen acting suspicious at Davis St. and Quincy Shore Drive. He dropped a tool box and fled when approached.

Police described the man as in his 20s, 5-foot-8, 160 pounds, slight build, with brown hair. He was also wearing a blue print bandana over his face and a cap with the words "USS Kitty Hawk".

Fire Dept. Gets Funds For 6 Resuscitators

The City Council Monday night appropriated $3,944 to purchase six resuscitators for the Fire Department so that all eight stations will be equipped with the life-saving device.

Chief Edward Barry told the Council that the Sons of Italy has agreed to purchase two resuscitators and that six more are needed to cover all the stations.

The appropriation comes from an equipment bond issue that has been on the books since 1975, said Acting City Auditor William Grindlay.

Council Confirms Fr. McMahon For QHA

The City Council Monday night rejected an effort by President John J. Lydon Jr. to put the matter in committee and confirmed the Rev. John J. McMahon as a member of the Quincy Housing Authority.

Lydon said he had been contacted by at least three individuals who, he said, wanted to speak on the qualifications of the pastor of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, for the post.

But Councillors James A. Sheets and Joseph J. LaRaia, both of whom live in West Quincy's Ward 4, rose to the defense of their constituent and the Council overrode Lydon's objections by an 8-1 vote.

Sheets said that he too had had phone calls on the McMahon appointment but when he queried the callers "they were unable to say specifically why they opposed the appointment."

Sheets noted that not since the controversial Ellen Neiters appointment was rejected some six years ago had the confirmation of a member of the QHA been placed in committee for a full hearing.

"The last individual appointed to the Housing Authority was confirmed on the night it was brought in," he said. "I don't see why the Council can't act tonight on this well-qualified clergyman."

After the Council meeting, Sheets questioned whether or not there might be some item on the agenda of Tuesday night's Housing Authority meeting on which someone did not want Fr. McMahon to vote.

"If we have to debate it, let's do it this evening," said Councillor LaRaia. "If we delay this vote then any action of the Housing Authority in the meantime has to be viewed skeptically."

"Fr. McMahon is in the audience tonight. His time is valuable. I don't want him to have to spend it at committee meetings."

"Councillor Joanne Condon said that she had also received anti-McMahon calls and she wondered aloud if Mayor Francis X.

McCauley might not take a couple of weeks to discuss their concerns with the callers.

"The mayor had hoped this would pass this evening," said Peter Kenney, the mayor's executive secretary, "so that Fr. McMahon could be at the meeting tomorrow."

"The mayor has received calls, too, but he is satisfied with his appointment."

The Council, it turned out, was satisfied, too, and voted to confirm Fr. McMahon, 8-1, with only Lydon voting in opposition.

McCauley said he was pleased by the Council's quick confirmation of Fr. McMahon.

"We didn't get much interest in the Housing Authority job," he said. "Fr. McMahon was very interested. He always has been interested in public housing and he is a capable administrator."

He acknowledged that he had had some phone calls on the appointment and he attributed them to "people who might have had problems with him over parish affairs."

DeCristofaro Seeks Block Grant Funds For Point Area

Ward 2 Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro announces he has requested the City Department of Planning and Community Development to check the possibility of designating the Quincy Point neighborhood a target area of the City's Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program.

In a letter to Planning Director James Lydon, DeCristofaro requested the designation, and noted that the area had had a successful neighborhood revitalization program in the early 1970's, and "would benefit greatly if allowed to participate in the CDBG Program."

Lydon has informed DeCristofaro:

"In 1975, at the time that the Community Development Block Grant Program was begun, it was felt that neighborhoods which had not had the opportunity to take advantage of earlier programs should be given such an opportunity. Since then, as we have added neighborhoods to the program, we have attempted to follow that same philosophy."

Lydon also noted that the Quincy Point neighborhood presently cannot be added because "The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has been very firm about its regulation that the program must be concentrated within a limited number of neighborhoods, and we are presently at that regulatory limit."

DeCristofaro said he hopes that at some future time, the Quincy Point neighborhood will be included in the CDBG Program, for the benefit of all Quincy Point residents.

Gold Dealers To Stay At Flea Market

Gold dealers operating out of the Squantum Antique and Flea Market will be allowed to continue there, according to manager Hassan Haydar.

Haydar said at last week's License Board meeting that he would have "no dealers with gold at all".

Since the meeting, Haydar has stated that he meant he will have no new dealers.

"Dealers who sell gold right now or prior to Tuesday, March 9, will remain in business until they decide to leave," stated Haydar.

Haydar was at the meeting in connection with two requests for licenses to sell gold at the flea market.

The requests were withdrawn when Haydar said he would rather not rent space to gold dealers.

The board had informed Haydar of a complaint it received of a ring sold at the flea market for $500, that was not real gold.

Finn, Barry Raises Draw Council Criticism

The City Council Monday night served notice that it is going to take a long, hard look at pay raises for the police and fire chiefs who are due to receive a $3,000 pay hike under a Jan. 18 order.

Acting City Auditor William Grindlay told councillors that the salaries for Police Chief Francis X. Finn and Fire Chief Edward Barry are fixed by ordinance at $44,700 a year.

But, he added, when you add in fringe benefits, Chief Barry received $51,000 and Chief Finn $49,000 last year. Councillors thought that was more than a little too much.

"When we read about possible layoffs in the Police and Fire Departments," said Councillor Joanne Condon, "I don't feel sorry for a chief who receives $50,000 a year."

"The salaries they get are excessive," said Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia. "We should deal more harshly with any increases."

City To Stop Home Sewer Cleaning Service

The Public Works Department is discontinuing on April 1 the practice of cleaning out sewer lines on private property in an effort to trim a growing deficit in the Sewer Division.

Commissioner Paul Anderson said the deficit was $25,000 on Feb. 1 when he took over the department and he attributed a large part of it to overtime paid to clean clogged private lines.

He said he was trying to determine the frequency of such private calls. Each one, he said, costs the city time and a half overtime for a worker who gets a minimum of four hours.

The service was not funded in Councillor Richard J. Koch Jr. noted that the population of Quincy as well as the number of men in the two departments has decreased in the past few years.

"I don't see how we can give increases to these department heads," he said.

"With the massive layoffs under Proposition 2½," said Councillor James A. Sheets, "I would support an across the board moratorium on pay raises."

"The City Council should have stood for a moratorium on all increases rather than picking and choosing. The line should have been drawn a long time ago."

The chiefs' salaries are pegged by ordinance to the salaries of the men under them. When the men get a raise the chiefs get the same hike. Recently, the men won a 7 percent raise.

The matter was sent to the Ordinance Committee for hearing and discussion.

the budget for fiscal 1982, he said, but apparently due to a large number of complaints the service was never halted. It will not be in the 1983 budget, he said.

Discontinuance of the service means that Quincy residents with clogged sewer lines on their property will have to hire private cleaners to open them.

Theft At S.S. Bank

Officials of the South Shore Bank reported to police Monday that someone broke through a door at a bank building on Cottage Ave. and stole two electric typewriters valued at $1,100 each.

Donnelly Denounces Cut In Handicapped Aid

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly has denounced a proposed 30 per cent cut in federal support for education of handicapped children "as the most heartless, heinous, reprehensible cut in the entire Reagan budget."

"I cannot believe this country does not have the resources to help handicapped and retarded children to go to school," he told Education Secretary Terrel H. Bell at a recent Budget Committee hearing.

Bell told the Committee that the cut is needed to promote the Reagan administration's plan for economic recovery, although he admitted, "This cut is not without pain."

"What sort of civilization is this that needs to inflict pain on crippled and retarded kids," retorted Donnelly. "What kind of heartless economic program requires this kind of sacrifice, Dr. Bell?"

Donnelly estimated that Massachusetts would lose $10 million in federal support for "helping the most defenseless people in the country, handicapped children."

He warned that many disabled children would be sent to institutions because their communities would no longer be able to afford special education.

Koch Scholarship Applications Ready

Applications for the 1982 Koch Club Scholarship Awards are now available from the guidance offices at Quincy and North Quincy High Schools and the Vocational Technical School.

Scholarship Committee Chairman Anthony T. Delmonico said high school seniors may apply and applications must be completed and returned to guidance offices no later than Thursday, April 15.

The Koch Club of Quincy will provide $100 scholarships — a total of $600 — to a boy and a girl graduate of each of the three public high schools.

This year's awards will bring to $10,000 the total of the scholarship awards since their inception in 1959. Since then, 110 boys and girls have won scholarships.

The Koch Club Active Scholarship Fund provides the annual awards and in 1998, on the 50th anniversary of the club, the Permanent Scholarship Fund will assume the responsibility.

There is presently $11,500 in the permanent account, which was started in 1973 with a $5,000 trust.

McCauley: A Long Run?

As mayor, Frank McCauley is smack in the middle of all the city's problems but he likes the role of chief executive.

And friends say, he isn't thinking one-term. He plans to be around City Hall for awhile.

The late Amelio Della Chiesa holds Quincy's mayoral longevity record. He served 12 years — four as Plan E mayor and eight under Plan A.

Tops under a single form of government was Charles Ross who was a Plan A mayor nine years.

Youngsters grew up in the 1930's and early 1940's knowing Franklin Delano Roosevelt as their president.

And, in Quincy, between the mid 1950's and 1960's, there were youngsters who knew only Della Chiesa as their mayor. He was mayor when many of them started the first grade and was still mayor when they graduated from high school. In fact he was there graduation night to help pass out the diplomas.

McCauley, who admired Della Chiesa, is patterning his administration along the latter's tight-fisted style.

And, he may have a few thoughts of following in Della Chiesa's mayoral longevity footsteps. At least he appeared to have dropped a hint — inadvertently or otherwise — during the departure of Joseph McParland as city labor negotiator.

McParland received $14,587 in back pay for 162 vacation days not taken over a 10-year period. The city decided not to contest McParland's claim because of Sarah Saccone who won 17 weeks of back vacation pay in a long dispute with the city. According to the Saccone decision, city employees are entitled to back vacation pay as a matter of policy.

"But we are going to review that policy," said McCauley. "I am not happy with it."

Sounding like Della Chiesa, McCauley sent a letter to his appointees declaring:

"All appointees of the McCauley Administration are going to take the vacation time entitled to them during the calendar year. This policy will be in force during the duration of the McCauley administration."

He later commented — again sounding like Della Chiesa:

"Back vacation pay is like an unfunded pension liability. There is no provision in the budget for unused vacation pay."

And, then came the hint that McCauley intends to be around as mayor for awhile:

"If I am here 10 or 12 years, there could be a whole group of Joe McParlands."

Ten or 12 years. Hmmm!

"I found in the banking business," he observed, "that it is not only good for employees to get out of the office for awhile, but it is good for them to get the boss out of the office, too."

There are a lot of people who wouldn't give him much of an argument on that.

consecutive term last year may be back in the political arena in 1983. "I haven't given up the ghost," he says. "I might do something in '83."

Quinn at one time was thinking of running for mayor. "It's still there in my mind," he says. It would be a great challenge to serve a term or two.

STORK REPORT: Dave Keefe, manager of Quincy Cablesystems, and wife, Pamela, are the parents of a daughter, Emily Jean, their third child.

ATTY. Richard W. Barry, former City Councillor and assistant district attorney has signed on aboard the gubernatorial campaign train as Quincy coordinator for Lt. Gov. Thomas P. O'Neill III.

MAYOR Francis McCauley was a little perplexed at the cheers for "Mayor McCloskey" as he walked the St. Patrick's Day parade route with the Quincy delegation in South Boston.

Brownell Asks Unique Drug Fight Fund

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell has proposed creation of a Drug Enforcement Assistance Fund, financed by the drug dealers themselves, to help in the fight against drug-related crimes in the state.

The money would come from the sale of real and personal property seized in drug raids.

"There is now no legal mechanism where confiscated property can be used to fight crime," said Brownell. "Confiscated property such as money is merely turned into the state's general fund."

"I believe that when law enforcement agencies do successfully confiscate property in a drug raid, the proceeds should be used to help further fund the fight against drug crime."

"A special Drug Enforcement Assistance Fund would use the fruits of illegal drug activity to enhance the capacity of law enforcement officials to combat a very serious problem."

The bill would place a $300,000 cap on the fund, with the excess going into the general fund.

Parker Council Sponsoring Carroll Scholarship

The Parker Advisory Council is sponsoring the William E. Carroll Scholarship for graduating seniors of North Quincy, Quincy, Quincy Vocational Technical, Boston

School Committee Should Reconsider $2.6 Million Budget Cut

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The Quincy School Committee should reconsider its cut of $2.65 million from the budget. Hopefully, members will be more sensible than in the recent votes on closing schools and reorganization.

The School Committee has the responsibility to vote a reasonable, but educationally valid school budget. The mayor, when he gets a city budget, can make whatever recommendations he wishes to the city council. The council votes to determine what will be the bottom line on the school budget.

There is no rush at this point to cut $2.65 million out of the school budget. Deadlines for city budgets will no doubt be extended again this year. Why should cuts be made of this size in the first round before we know how much local aid the state will provide? Declining enrollment cuts, cuts for more efficient and streamlined operation, etc., - yes, those are reasonable to be made.

This year, local aid will come through much earlier than last year because this is an election year on the state level. What will be allotted to the school department as its fair share can then be made known.

If deep cuts are still necessary in the school budget, when the city council has finally given the bottom line, the school committee members can then revise the budget when it is returned to them.

The decision on General Dynamics' assessment will not affect this budget year because of the snail's pace at which our court system handles appeals. That issue should not be a red herring.

Politics aside, the Quincy School Committee should carry out its proper function as to educational policy, of which the budget is a part. It will take guts, but note the action of other school committees around us and their willingness to take the battle to a town meeting. The battle in Quincy will be at the City Council. In all good conscience, the school committee should take up the battle.

2,400 Americans Still Missing In Vietnam

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The personnel of our Embassy were seized in Iran and held hostage for a little over a year and when they were released we all rejoiced.

To secure their release, our government made an all-out effort, they sought and secured the help of other governments, seized Iranian assets and placed sanctions against the country.

We believe if this sort of effort was used to secure information on our 2,400 military who are missing in Vietnam this problem would have been long ago solved. Many believe that some are still alive and held prisoners.

We urge your readers to join with us in appealing to President Reagan who is the Commander-In-Chief of our military forces respectfully asking him to use all sources to solve the problem of these missing Americans.

Council Approves Loan For QCH Addition

The City Council passed loan orders totaling $1,525,000, which, in effect, gave its stamp of approval to a proposed $1.2 million addition to City Hospital.

A loan order for $850,000 along with an expected $400,000 in federal aid was earmarked for construction of an X-ray department, a nursery and a special care unit at the hospital.

Councillor George G. Burke opposed the hospital order, saying that the city had more pressing needs, like a new City Hall.

Also included in the $1.5 million loan order was $225,000 for a North Quincy branch library, $150,000 for a new Atlantic fire station, $150,000 for streets and $150,000 for sewers.

PRINCIPALS INTERVIEWED

The School Committee interviewed seven candidates for the post of principal at Quincy High School where both Principal George A. Wilson and Asst. Principal Leland H. Anderson were retiring.

Six of the candidates already were working for the Quincy public schools — Dr. Robert P. Fox, Edmund J. King, Dr. Arthur Christie, John Chrusciel, Frank Kerwin and George C. Young. The seventh candidate was Paul Kirsh of Saratoga Springs, N.Y., a doctoral candidate at Harvard.

BETTER PAY IS LURE

William Villone, director of the Department of Veterans Services, told the City Council that he cannot retain trained personnel because they are lured away by better paying jobs.

He said he expects that his assistant director and one of his three investigators will leave soon to join the State Department of Veterans Services.

Pay for a state investigator ranges from $89.75 to $113.75 a week, said Villone, while he is authorized to pay in the range of $73.59 to $93.50.

SEEK FRIGATE CONTRACT

Cong. James A. Burke arranged a meeting with Navy officials in Washington in an attempt to secure a $60 million contract for a nuclear powered missile frigate for the Fore River Shipyard.

It was the only contract remaining to be awarded in the 1962 Navy budget.

Sprinklers For Seniors Housing Required By Harold Bill

The Legislature's Committee on Public Safety has given a favorable report on a bill sponsored by Sen. Paul D. Harold that would require automatic sprinkler systems in new or renovated housing for the elderly.

Present law requires sprinkler systems only in buildings which exceed 70 feet in height.

"I am pleased at the committee's swift and favorable action on this important corrective legislation, which would require sprinklers in these buildings, regardless of size," said Harold.

He noted that buildings which house senior citizens need special attention to fire protection since the elderly are not always able to react quickly in the event of a fire. The bill now goes to the house for action.

Coping With Limited Vision Workshop Scheduled March 31

South Shore Home Care Nutrition Program, in conjunction with the Massachusetts Commission for the Blind, will sponsor a one-day workshop, coping with limited vision, March 31 from 11 a.m. to noon at Sawyer Towers, 95 Martensen St., Quincy.

Elders Coping with Limited

Vision is a special project designed to help people understand the many resources available to overcome the problems created by diminished vision in the elder population.

When the loss of vision interferes with one's life style, it can become a handicap. Most handicaps can be overcome through rehabilitation training. This training is directed towards developing skills through substitution or enhancement to allow individuals to carry on those activities which are important to them.

Woodward School All-Women Trustees Board A 'First'

The Woodward School has what is believed to be a "first" in the nation:

A 15-member Board of Trustees—all of them women.

"As far as we know," says Headmaster Robert L. Johnston, "this is the first time that a girls' school has had a board of trustees made up of women."

The board of trustees was established by the school's Board of Managers and Board of Supervisors.

In developing the concept of the new board, Johnston said, "One of the goals at Woodward is to foster the qualities of leadership among young women. In order to demonstrate this role of women in our society, we felt that it was only appropriate to pioneer the idea of an all-woman board."

The function of the new Board of Trustees will be to increase the level of community awareness of the school, assist the school in major fund raising activities and have the members serve as role models for the students.

"The Woodward School has an honored place in the life of Quincy and the South Shore," said Johnston. "In the years ahead, the school will have even more impact on the lives of young women."

Woodward, which was founded in 1894, through a bequest of a Quincy physician, Dr. Ebenezer Woodward, offers a college preparatory program for students in grades seven through twelve. Currently, 122 students are enrolled.

Sandra Dennis, 67 Dewson Rd., Quincy has been elected to serve as the first president of the Board of Trustees.

Other board members from Quincy include Joyce Baker; Alicia Coletti, clerk; Jean Fain; Bernice Mader; Marcia O'Connell; Ruth Paven; Louise Randall and Miriam Sherburne.

Milton board members are Concetta Kelley, treasurer, and Helen Tragellis.

Braintree residents include Elizabeth Metayer and Anita Dickinson.

Randolph is represented by Blossom Glassman, vice president; and Boston by Dianne Luby.

A formal reception and installation ceremony honoring the new board members is planned for April 25, at the school.

Commenting on the organization of the board, Mrs. Dennis said, "It is most appropriate that women should have leadership responsibilities at a girls' school because more women are moving into positions of responsibility, and we would like students to learn from some of the areas successful, interesting and concerned women."

"We look forward to working with the Woodward students and hope that we bring them into contact with women of achievement and accomplishment in order to help them open new doors of opportunity."

LISA THOMPSON, 11, of Wollaston, is congratulated by Harry Hood for being the top cookie seller in the Patriots' Trail Girl Scout Council last year after selling 671 boxes. Lisa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Thompson, hoped to do even better this year. The cookie sale generates the largest single source of income for the council.

3 Women Serving On Parks-Recreation Board

For the first time three women are now serving on the Quincy Park-Recreation Board.

Mayor Francis McCauley is authorized to appoint six of the nine members of the Board. The Council approves the appointment of three members.

McCauley's appointments represent the six city wards. They are: Ward 1, Francis Donovan; Ward 2, Mrs. Charlotte E. Digiacomo; Ward 3, Timothy P. Cahill; Ward 4, Mrs. Gail S. Kilcommons; Ward 5, J. Thomas Mullaney, and Ward 6, Mrs. Janet M. Coughlin.

The Council appointments submitted by Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro and approved at the Council meeting recently are Gerard Coletta, present board chairman, Joseph Burke, and Christopher Kennedy. A member of the School Committee Kennedy serves as liaison between the school committee and the parks board. One of the Council appointments must be a member of the School Committee.

Council Gets Sewer User Charge - Almost

The long-awaited sewer user charge proposal was sent to the City Council's Public Works Committee in absentia Monday night.

Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson told councillors that the full package will be in their hands as soon as some technical items can be straightened out with the State Department of Revenue.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley described the proposal as an ad valorem charge on the homeowners' tax bills with industrial and tax exempt sewer users billed on the basis of water use.

"We wanted to get the matter before the Council as soon as possible so there could be a committee meeting on it before the next Council session April 5," said the mayor.

Anderson said the full package was ready to go last week but Acting City Auditor William Grindlay brought up some questions on financing last Friday.

"We did not want to go to the Council with some questions not answered," he said. "I want to be able to present the full package to the Council and be ready to defend it."

The questions, he said, involve somewhat complicated mathematical formulas.

It is necessary that the city have some form of sewer user charge in place to qualify for federal aid in improving the city sewer system, which in some cases is over 80 years old.

Council Approves Labor Settlement

The City Council gave its stamp of approval Monday night to settlements of long labor disputes worked out by the city's new labor negotiator, David F. Grunebaum.

In one of them, the city agreed to hire back three engineers and pay them $30,000 in back pay. Their union originally asked the reinstatement of seven with $147,857 in back pay.

The State Labor Relations Commission had backed the engineers' demand.

In the other settlement, the city agreed to rehire three employees illegally bumped with $65,600 in back pay for five employees. The union sought to have seven reinstated with $96,053 in back pay.

An arbitrator required the city to reinstate an undetermined number of employees and backed the union in its back pay demand. This was known as the Grossmanward.

Grunebaum said the employees desire to get as many jobs back as possible played a major role in the settlement negotiations.

"They recognized that it was important to get back to work," he said. "They made sacrifices."

"This is our former mayor's legacy to the city," said City

Councillor Joseph J. LaRais, an apparent reference to ex-Mayor Arthur H. Tobin.

"We are paying these employees for work they did not perform. We are getting nothing productive for the money we are paying out. There is a lot of money involved."

LaRais noted that the employees who were illegally bumped during the city's layoffs were people that he appointed to their jobs.

"That should tell you something," he said. "There sure was retaliation."

"The sad thing is that the people they are bumping to come back were people I appointed too. I hope that this injustice can be corrected in time."

"But I have to vote to help those people who have been persecuted over a period of time."

The Council approved the engineer's award by appropriating $55,433 to pay it and the bumping settlement was sent to the Finance Committee for hearing.

Also sent to the Finance Committee was an order for $5,000 to pay the legal fees involved in the settlements.

Mayor Proclaims March Red Cross Month

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has proclaimed March, American Red Cross Month and urges citizens to support the organization.

The mayor thanked the Red Cross for all the help given to the American people in time of need and natural disaster.

He also thanked the Red Cross on behalf of the City of Quincy for untriting aid during the Blizzard of 1978.

Honorary chairman McCauley also announced that tickets are on sale for the South Shore Chapters' "Second Century Ball" Friday, March 26.

There will be a social hour beginning at 6:30 p.m. followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m. and dancing until midnight.

The "Outstanding Neighbor of the Year" Award will be presented to Henry H. Chmielinski, Jr., retiring Justice of the Superior Court.

The Catechumens to be beginning its third year at St. John's and provided the parish as well as the Catechumens, with many opportunities for spiritual growth.

The Catechumens who participated in the Rite Election will attend the 9:45 a.m. Sunday Mass regularly during the Lenten season. Following the Mass they will participate in discussions and readings regarding Christian doctrine and the Gospels.

On Holy Saturday the Catechumens will participate in the final liturgy prior to receiving the sacraments of baptism, penance and confirmation.

'Monks And Missionaries' At Squantum Church

The series of Lenten programs entitled "The People of Jesus: the First Thirteen Centuries" is continuing at the First Church of Squantum Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m.

Last night, church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin spoke on "Monks and Missionaries."

He talked about the development of the monastic system. Dr. Langevin explaining in particular the role of Pachomius, Benedict of Nursia and Brother Bernard of Cluny; the spread of Christianity in Europe, especially the roles of Patrick of Ireland, Boniface in Germany, Columba in Scotland and Augustine of Canterbury in England; the essential difference between Eastern and Western Christian churches.

Before the program, young people of the church served a dinner to raise money for youth programs.

Next week, the meal, which begins at 6:30 p.m., will be a spaghetti dinner.

Reservations, which should be made in advance, can be made by calling the church office at 328-6649.

Next week's program will be on "The Church Gets Power," including the development of the papacy and the launching of the Crusades.

72nd Birthday For Camp Fire Clubs

Quincy Camp Fire clubs are marking the organization's 72nd Birthday with a variety of activities for young members who range in age from six to 18.

Camp Fire members and their families and leaders will attend an ecumenical folk mass Birthday Sunday, March 21, at St. John's Church.

Boys and girls across the city will wear their Camp Fire uniforms to school, honor distinguished former Camp Fire members, and hold birthday parties as they work for the new "Celebrate Camp Fire" award.

Winning entries in a Birthday Poster Competition will be on display in the Quincy Sun window through March; more will be in the Children's Room of the Thomas Crane Library.

Quincy Camp Fire is also sponsoring a 72nd Birthday Drive to recruit 72 new members for the Friends of the Library. Membership dues paid by the new members will be used to purchase books for the financially strapped public library.

A Birthday Breakfast was held recently at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall for Camp Fire members and their families.

An Award Presentation followed the breakfast. Leaders presented certificates, emblems, gold candy charms, and prizes earned by club members during the Camp Fire Candy Sale. Prizes were awarded to winners of the Birthday Poster Competition.

On Founder's Day, Camp Fire members across Quincy flew kites saying "I love Camp Fire" and released helium balloons with Camp Fire messages inside.

Mayor Francis McAuley has been asked to declare one week in March Camp Fire Week in Quincy.

The bride makes headlines with picture-perfect hair

Your wedding is when you, the bride, are the news of the day. While you may have a case of the jitters and a stomach full of butterflies, your guests can't know that. It is your happiest day and you should be smiling in confidence, knowing that you never looked more beautiful.

You wouldn't chance having any part of you not looking as beautiful as possible, would you? "Of course not," says The Wella Corporation, and so the people from one of the world's largest hair cosmetic manufacturers compiled some helpful hints to get your hair in the shape it should be for that important day.

• Once you've decided on your gown and headpiece, visit your favorite hairdresser for a consultation. He'll be able to create several hairstyles for you to choose from that will look perfect with your gown.

Don't forget to take the headpiece with you—and if done in enough time, you'll even be able to try out each style to see in which one you feel most comfortable.

• You may wish to have your hairdresser give you a new haircolor for your big day—selecting from one of the 63 Color Charm shades by Wella—and perhaps staying fairly close to your natural color.

Try out this new color a few months before the wedding, however, to be sure it's flattering and that your fiance likes it, too. If a touch-up is necessary, you can have that done the week before the wedding.

• If you're having a perm, do so a few weeks beforehand

THERE WILL BE MORE PHOTOS TAKEN of you on your wedding day than probably any other day in your lifetime. Advance planning of your headpiece, hairstyle, and make-up will assure your being "picture-perfect!"

so that it has a while to relax and be more controllable and you have the opportunity to work with the new style.

• Take a good look at your hair. Is there a shine? Does it look like healthy, beautiful hair? If not, start regular deep conditioning treatments immediately. (Wella's Kolestral is a real fix for dry, lifeless or damaged hair.)

• If your hair needs a trim, get it done a couple of weeks before the wedding day. That way, if it's a drop too short for your liking, it will have some time to grow in!

• When visiting your favorite salon, see if they have a make-up center—many salons today do. Take the time for a make-up redo and find out about special techniques for applying make-up for your formal photographs.

Because you've taken the time weeks before to get your look together, your wedding day is yours to enjoy. Just smile—confidently—and let the cameras click away!

WHEN LOVE WALKS IN—it's time to talk diamond engagement rings, reports the Jewelry Industry Council. Diamonds, even in today's inflated times, will hold their value in the years ahead.

Engagement rings — the traditional symbol of love

"The time has come," the jeweler said, to talk of many things:

Of shoes and rice and wedding bells
And diamond engagement rings . . .

And, that time inevitably comes to all young couples who are in love and thinking of purchasing that very important diamond ring as a symbol of their love, reports the Jewelry Industry Council.

Time was when the parents of today's young couples went through the same experience in a not-too-different fashion.

In 1956, the average young man paid from $230 to $250 for an engagement ring—which was about a month's salary at that time.

Guidelines for the groom

Now, a quarter of a century later, the average engagement diamond costs about $800 or more, and today's young man should plan to spend about two months' salary on the ring for his intended bride.

In these inflated times, the diamond is a bargain for, compared to what has happened to rents and the price of automobiles, the diamond has more than retained its value.

Ask Dad how much a typical Saturday night date with Mom at the movies cost. Chances are, for a 10 dollar bill he could take Mom to a first-run movie, fill his gas tank, and have enough money left over for hamburgers and malteds at the drive-in. The same date today would cost two and a half times as much.

Alas, the prices of 1956 are long past, but Mom's diamond engagement ring has appreciated in value much more than its original cost—and that doesn't even consider its sentimental value!

Consult a jeweler

So, while the diamond engagement ring is a good investment, it is still a good idea for couples to enlist the aid of their favorite jeweler when they want to purchase one.

Your jeweler can interpret the worth of the diamond you choose based on its coloring, how it is cut, its freedom from imperfections and its carat weight.

Preserve flowers as mementos

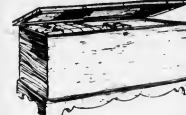

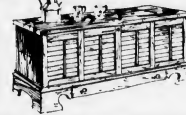

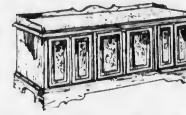

If yours is a traditional wedding—or even if it's not—chances are that you are a romantic at heart. And, one of the most romantic and traditional ways to remember your special day is by preserving flowers from your wedding bouquet.

To make decorative mementos of fresh flowers, advises the American Florists Marketing Council, cover them with a drying agent for at least a week until the petals feel crisp, but not brittle.

Borax, cornmeal or even kitty litter will serve as a drying agent, but the quickest and most effective drying agent is silica gel, available at most florists.

Flowers should be dried within a day or two of the wedding in order for them to retain their color and shape. Since you'll probably be on your honeymoon, have your mother or a member of your wedding party start the drying process for you.

Healthful cooking with aid of natural ingredients

Now that you're in your new home, and cooking for two, you may be concerned about the extensive use of synthetic chemicals found in today's processed foods.

However, there are many natural ingredients you can add while cooking to enhance flavor, color and taste.

Water, nature's sparkling gift, can be used to make foods moist, and reduce calories and greasiness.

It can be used when making a cheese spread to reduce the oiliness, and to make the spread less fattening.

Water can also be used with instant dry nonfat milk as a milk substitute in many cooked dishes.

Instant nonfat dry milk is, by itself, a valuable addition to your pantry. It is less costly than whole milk and contains much less fat.

Powdered milk is rich in lactose, or milk sugar, and can be used as a natural sweetener.

The flavor of the foods you create yourself can be made more interesting and exotic with the use of herbs and spices.

Fresh herbs and spices have more flavor and vitamins than dried. Garlic, onion powder, thyme, basil and oregano are absolute essentials for any cook.

If there's a chocolate lover in your house, nature has provided a substitute.

Carob comes from the fruit of the carob tree, which grows in the Middle East. It contains fructose, a low calorie sugar that is easier to digest, and no natural oil.

With this beginning knowledge on healthful cooking additions, you can produce chemical-free foods in your new home, at little cost.

Cookware guide for the bride and groom

Sharing is the style of the eighties. No longer does a girl begin marriage with a filled hope chest. These days, couples-to-be shop together for the things they'll need for their new home.

And they probably list the items they fancy with the bridal registry at their favorite store. That way they'll receive the gifts they want—from china, glassware and silver to cookware, bakeware and portable electric.

Of course, selecting tabletop patterns is mostly a matter of taste. But there's more to cookware than meets the eye. Performance, price and convenience are as important as appearance.

Quality is key

To perform efficiently, saucepans and skillets must conduct heat quickly and evenly, without hot spots. They should be well balanced, with handles that are comfortable to grip, and covers that fit snugly.

In cookware, quality pays off with countless numbers of well cooked meals. But that doesn't mean that the cost has to be out-of-sight.

For example, heavy gauge aluminum, a superb metal for cookware and the most popular, is moderately priced. And it's available in sets or open stock pieces.

For easy cooking

Convenience counts too. Both men and women are finding cooking creative, but they dislike the tedious, time-consuming task of soaking and scouring pots and pans. That's why the cookware produced by many American manufacturers with non-stick surfaces of "SilverStone" or "Teflon" is loved, honored and cherished in kitchens around the country.

"SilverStone" is the durable non-stick surface that resists staining, chipping or peeling, and its easy release of food makes cleaning it a cinch. A quick wipe-out in hot sudsy water and a rinse is all it takes, no matter how sticky the food.

Diverse appliances

When selecting small electric for the first home, opt for those that are multi-functional. Electric frypans, griddles and woks, for example, can be used for cooking many different kinds of dishes and their portability makes them ideal for entertaining.

Several manufacturers have recently introduced some of these energy efficient appliances with the same premium non-stick surface, so clean-up time is cut to a minimum.

The pleasures of home baking that young people are discovering now puts bakeware in the must-have category for many newlives.

Heavy-weight aluminum bakeware that cooks and browns evenly is the best investment.

The best bakeware

And the newest have "SilverStone" surfaces so not only is it easy to clean, but crusty loaves of bread and tender cakes come out intact.

The important pros and cons of various cookware materials are detailed on the following chart—consult it to help you select the cookware that best suits your needs and lifestyle.

Be sure to protect your skin from those damaging rays

Planning a honeymoon of fun in the sun—tennis, swimming, sunning and sight-seeing?

You can return home with stories to tell and a deep dark tan that reflects the beautiful warm sunshine, or you can spend much of your vacation applying skin creams to return home flaking and peeling.

Don't overdo it.

Take care of your skin

Skin care will probably not be uppermost on your list of honeymoon priorities but, if ignored, can put a damper on an otherwise wonderful vacation.

It is important to take precautions against over-exposure to the sun, both during and after your vacation.

Tan your skin gradually, 10-20 minutes the first few days and an additional 5-10 minutes each subsequent day. Bask in the sun under the protection of sun preparations that block damaging sun rays.

For all complexions

Most department or drug stores sell numerous brands of sunscreens for every skin type. Remember that baby oil and cocoa butter are moisturizers—not protective sun blocks.

The sun's ultra-violet rays are the most intense from 10 AM to 12 noon when avid sun bathing should be avoided.

When you know you've had enough, and you will know, block out the sun. Put on a sun hat or go indoors.

Water does not block out the sun's rays—you can get a good burn in the water due to the reflection of the sun off of the water's surface.

Lanolin-enriched lotions or after-sun smoothers are good

Sun-drenched fun

SOAK UP THE SUN on your honeymoon in Palm Springs, California, the most famous desert resort in the country.

moisturizers for after sun care. They will help prevent dryness and wrinkling, which lead to the formation of unattractive lines in the years to come.

When the sun is hot!

Sometimes a terrible burn is unavoidable. If and when you find yourself feeling like a cooked lobster, cool down with a lukewarm bath, cold compresses, a soothing lotion and lots of shade.

Every bride appreciates a practical shower gift

Setting up a new home is fun, but it can be expensive, too. To give a bride a head start, host a housewares shower.

You could theme the shower toward a particular room such as kitchen or bath, or let guests choose gifts for throughout the home. Whether you're hosting or attending a shower, these practical gift ideas are sure to please a bride-to-be:

• For the kitchen: A good basic cookbook will come in handy in any home. Or gadgets like a whisk, wooden spoons and a spatula/spreader can be packaged nicely in a cutlery tray for a thoughtful gift.

• For the laundry: A durable laundry basket filled with necessary cleaning supplies is a functional present that will help brighten wash day. Tie a big bow around the basket and include a set of hand towels for an added treat.

• For storage: No matter how much or little space a new bride may have, good organization always makes life easier.

• For the table: Once newlyweds settle in, their attention turns to entertaining. Serving trays, a lovely crystal water pitcher or a matching ceramic creamer and sugar bowl make nice presents a couple will enjoy showing off.

The next time you're considering a bridal shower theme (or are invited to a shower), remember... a practical gift that can be used frequently will be appreciated for a long time to come. That makes the giving even more fun!

Cookbooks help newlyweds get acquainted with entertaining

Of all the purchases a soon-to-be-married person makes, that first cookbook may well be her—or his—best friend! For people starting out in their first home or apartment (and this applies to single people as well as newlyweds), there's no better investment than a good basic cookbook.

Such classics as The Joy of Cooking and The Settlement Cookbook have graced the kitchens of many people over the years, and their food-stained pages attest to their inestimable value to generations of cooks.

How many inexperienced cooks have gotten over such hurdles as their first Thanksgiving dinner, or that momentous first meal for the in-laws, with the help of these books, or others like them.

In recent years, with the awakening of the American palate to international influences, the task of the novice cook has become increasingly complex.

Despite the recent swing back to wholesome cookery which celebrates the natural flavors and aromas of food, the surge of interest in cuisines from all parts of the globe continues unabated.

Thus, the newly wedded pair may find themselves expected to have mastered Veal Cordon Bleu and Beef Wellington before they've learned how to roast a chicken.

And, they may receive as perfectly well-intentioned presents cookbooks written for people with a tremendous interest in food and, all too often, the time and pocketbook to match.

These books should not be abandoned, by any means, for they contain within them a tremendous knowledge of the art and craft of cookery that anyone who is interested in food would do well to probe.

However, if you don't feel you are "up to" mastering the complexities of the recipes they offer, don't despair. There are many alternatives to be explored.

Most bookstores carry a wide selection of cookbooks that range from the mundane to the exotic. Depending on your interests, you may want to take home one or several: a good, basic, all-around cookbook that will stand you in good stead for years to come is a "must," but let your taste buds guide you in the choice of one or more others to add variety to your diet.

If your passion is Italian food; or if you received a wok as a shower present, and don't know what to do with it; or if you're a vegetarian or must cook for someone on a low-salt, low-cholesterol or low-sugar diet, you will find an ample selection of volumes from which to choose.

If you expect to be doing a great deal of entertaining, a wise investment for you might be a book that not only details recipes for a wide variety of occasions, but which devotes a chapter or two to planning the event—whether it's a buffet for 50 or a cozy dinner for four.

Such a book is the recently published Entertaining: Step-by-Step Menus for Every Occasion by Robert Carrier (A & W Publishers, Inc.). Lavishly illustrated with color photographs, Entertaining is a thorough guide which both the novice and the experienced chef/party-giver will appreciate.

Carrier offers a wide variety of menu suggestions for a multitude of occasions—everything from a Sunday brunch to a Fondue Party to a Barbecue.

There are menus designed with economy in mind and easy-to-prepare one-dish menus, Game Dinners to warm an autumn evening and Summer Meals, European style. All in all, a treat... not only for the newlyweds but for their guests as well!

Entertaining in a thoroughly elegant fashion is the theme of Sara Stamm's The Park Avenue Cookbook (Doubleday & Co., Inc.). Elegant, however, is not always difficult—which point the author proves with elate time and again.

Stamm, too, provides suggested menus—hers run the gamut from "The Great American Cocktail Party" to thoroughly intime, thoroughly enjoyable "Romantic Dinners" to dinners for "Holidays Great and Small"—everything from St. Patrick's Day to Derby Day to an unforgettable menu for a once-in-a-lifetime occasion.

Stamm's recipes are as varied as Bell Peppers Stuffed with Corn and Roast Pheasant, Tournedos Dauphinois and Chicken Curry. Delicious!

An increasingly popular phenomenon is smaller-format paperback cookbooks, which are inexpensive enough to buy in multiples. Dell has recently released half a dozen such books, all written with an eye to flavorful dishes which are both economical and easy-to-prepare—in other words, the ideal guides for people who have little time to invest in cooking.

Sure to be of particular interest to a newly-married couple is Dell's Cookery for 1 or 2 by Barbara Swain, which, its author proclaims in her introduction, "considers the fact that most of us are busy people with limited time, limited storage and somewhat unpredictable schedules."

"In brief, the theory is simply to buy the foods that make the most sense for small-quantity cooking, store them so they stay in top condition, and combine them creatively in an infinite number of ways." Enough said!

Ceil Dyer's Wok Cookery, another book in the Dell series, takes an increasingly popular approach to food preparation, which has the inestimable virtue of being delightfully versatile, makes the most of food (in terms of both flavor and nutrition) and uses relatively small quantities of high-calorie oils.

And, Dyer offers a wide selection of recipes that dispels the notion that cooking with a wok means an Oriental menu. Chicken Breasts Maryland, a savory dish with asparagus and mushrooms; Scrambled Eggs, Italian Style; and Salmon Cocktail Croquettes are just a few of the non-Oriental recipes to be found in Wok Cookery, in addition to a tasty selection of recipes from the Far East.

A third book from Dell which is sure to make a hit, as more and more people discover the pleasures of brunching, is Pat Jester's Brunch Cookery.

The recipes range from Apricot Citrus Cooler and Sangria, to Buttery Croissants and Herbal Popovers, to Eggs Benedict and Champagne-Glazed Chicken.

The proper etiquette of wedding invitations

There is a certain degree of etiquette which surrounds most of the rites of passage in life, not the least of which is the institution of marriage.

Wedding invitations in particular have strict rules of etiquette attached to them. If your wedding is being planned "by the book," you will want to heed them.

Traditional weddings call for traditional invitations. The following guidelines, excerpted from the Bride's Wedding Planner, will provide you with all you'll need to know about the wedding invitations:

- On the traditional invitation, names are written in full—no nicknames or initials. No abbreviations except Mr., Mrs., Ms. and Dr. are used.
- Numbers, including those in short addresses, are spelled out. Likewise, the date and time of the ceremony is written out.
- For a church or temple ceremony, "the honour of your presence" is requested; for a non-church wedding or reception, it is "the pleasure of your company."

- You may request a reply to the reception with "R.S.V.P." or "Please respond" in the lower left corner of the invitation. (Printed reply cards are more suitable for business functions than for social events such as weddings, Bride's points out).

- Invitations are almost always issued in the name of the bride's parents, even if she lives away from home or has been married before.
- If her parents are deceased, her guardian, a close relative or a family friend may sponsor the wedding.

Where only one parent is living, the invitations are issued in his or her name alone. If the bride's parents are divorced, the name of only one parent—usually the one who raised her—appears on the invitation.

If this parent has remarried, the step-parent's name also goes on the first line, followed by "his (or her) daughter" to indicate relationship.

If the hosts of the reception are different from those of the wedding, a separate reception invitation is required.

- Invitations should be addressed by hand, using a neat, legible script. Use black ink, if possible, to match the printing.

- The guests' full names go on the outside of the envelope, followed by the address. The inside envelope carries the last name only (Mr. and Mrs. John Doe), and nothing else.

- Each adult member of the family receives an invitation. So do roommates and dates of single guests.

- The phrase "and family" is never used. Instead, invited children's names go on a line under their parents' names on the inside envelope.

Say it with flowers

Since ancient times when bunches of herbs were carried by brides under their veils, flowers have been an integral part of the wedding ceremony.

Traditionally, they were symbols of fertility, however many flowers also have significances all their own.

The rose is a symbol of love, the orchid of beauty and the carnation of distinction. The white daisy symbolizes innocence and the orange blossom, purity and loveliness. Blue violets symbolize faithfulness, and the blue bell, constancy.

Forget-me-nots mean true love, lily of the valley, happiness. The white lily is a symbol of youthful innocence, red chrysanthemums of sharing, and the gardenia of joy.

Experts suggest that you consult a florist at least one month in advance, and decide on colors and price. Also, make sure you find out what flowers will be in season, since these will cost less.

Don't forget flowers for the mother of the bride and the groom's mother, boutonnieres for the men, bouquets for any female attendants and flowers for the altar and reception hall.

The answers to questions which the groom often asks

Traditionally, when a wedding is in the offing, attention is focused on the bride.

Friends and relatives alike gather round to offer suggestions and advice and, for the definitive word on any aspect of her approaching wedding, she can consult a wide variety of magazines and books, written with her in mind. But, what of the groom?

Information gap

The plethora of information available to the bride seems equaled only by the scarcity of information available to him.

To help alleviate this situation, the American Formal-wear Association has compiled the following list of frequently asked questions with answers—written with the groom in mind.

Q.: Who or what decides if the wedding is to be formal, semi-formal or informal?

A.: Those decisions are usually up to the bride, and are often determined by the choice of gown that she wears and the site of the ceremony.

If she wears a long gown with a train, the ceremony is definitely formal. If the bride elects to wear only a veil with her gown, the ceremony can be considered to be semi-formal.

Q.: If the wedding is formal, what do I wear?

A.: In the daytime, a cutaway coat and striped trousers. However, in some contemporary weddings the groom will wear a white tuxedo, but traditionalists hold out for the gray cutaway.

It's your choice!

For a contemporary evening formal ceremony, the groom may wear a black or white full dress (tailcoat), while the traditionalist will wear the classic white tie and tails.

Q.: If the wedding is semi-formal, what do I wear?

A.: For a traditional daytime wedding, a gray stroller with striped trousers.

For a contemporary daytime wedding, a tuxedo of your choice or an updated stroller.

For a traditional evening ceremony, a black tuxedo or a white dinner jacket. For a contemporary evening wedding, a tuxedo of your choice.

Q.: What do my ushers or groomsmen wear?

A.: In a traditional ceremony, the same as the groom, with the exception of the boutonniere which in the groom's case should be a sprig of lily-of-the-valley from the bride's bouquet.

In a contemporary wedding, the groomsmen may dress "a step down" from the groom. I.e., if the groom wears a tailcoat, the groomsmen may wear a short coat.

Q.: What do the fathers of the bride and groom wear?

A.: The same rules apply to the fathers as to the ushers and the groomsmen.

Q.: Do I give a present to the bride?

A.: As a rule, the gift of the wedding ring is considered to be sufficient. However, there is no rule against offering her a further token of your devotion.

Q.: Do I owe a gift to any of the wedding members?

A.: Yes. Some small gift should be made to your ushers or groomsmen. Dress studs, cuff links, pocket jewelry or the like is appropriate. Those gifts serve as mementos of the occasion.

Q.: Who decides on the type, place and length of the honeymoon?

A.: Those decisions should be made by agreement between the bride and groom. The available time for the trip and its type is usually determined by financial capabilities.

Q.: Who provides the bride's bouquet?

A.: The groom buys his bride's bouquet and also the usher's boutonnieres.

Q.: Who pays for the honeymoon?

A.: The groom!
Q.: Who gives the honorarium to the officiating reverend or judge?

A.: The groom.

Q.: Who pays for the rental of the formalwear?

A.: The groom and the members of the wedding each pay for their own.

Q.: Who pays for the wedding?

A.: The bride's family.

Q.: What are the duties of the Best Man?

A.: The Best Man attends the groom prior to ceremony, hands him the ring to place on the bride's finger during the ceremony, and offers the first toast to the bride and groom at the reception.

He also reads, to all assembled, any and all congratulatory messages sent to the bride and groom at the reception.

Q.: If I am a member of the military is it correct for me to be married in uniform?

A.: In the U.S., one usually only wears a uniform if on active service. In that case it is correct to wear full dress (if you have it) or, at least, your Class A's.

If your attendants are also in the service they should be similarly attired and officers may wear swords as well. Except for regular uniforms are best avoided in peacetime.

South Shore Motorists Face Twin Traffic Jams

The State Department of Public Works is training both barrels on South Shore motorists next week.

Reconstruction work on the Fore River Bridge will resume Monday, March 22, at 9 a.m. and traffic on the bridge will be reduced to two lanes with the overflow given an optional detour through Weymouth Landing.

At the same time, construction work that has been tying up the Southeast Expressway for the past several months will continue on the ramps to the MBTA station in South Quincy near the junction of Route 128.

The DPW said the contractor will be working 16 hours a day in order to complete the $2 million reconstruction job on the Fore River Bridge by the deadline date of June.

The DPW announced the approaching problems with the bridge work as part of a new policy of keeping the public informed of possible traffic jams.

James Kerasiotes, under-secretary of Transportation and Construction, conceded last week that the DPW had failed in its efforts to communicate road construction problems to the public.

That failure, he said, was largely responsible for the massive traffic jam earlier in the week when traffic patterns were changed on the Southeast Expressway in South Quincy where the MBTA ramps are being built.

And that was the reason the Office of Transportation and Construction held a briefing for local officials and the media at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

The hottest items on the agenda were the South Quincy ramps construction and an optional detour around construction on the Fore River Bridge which starts Monday, sending cars around through Weymouth Landing.

Kerasiotes said the two projects were not supposed to be going on at the same time but "sections of concrete were falling out of the bridge and the problem had to be addressed immediately."

Horace Del Grosso, chief of construction for the DPW, said a change has been made in the traffic patterns at the South Quincy ramps to alleviate the traffic problem.

The temporary roadway that was built parallel to the north-bound lane of the Expressway is being used to take most traffic to Route 128 while traffic from the Capen's Bridge ramp is still going to the Furnace Brook Parkway exit to make the turn.

Norman Diegoli, chief of maintenance for the DPW, said signs have gone up directing traffic to the optional detour around the Fore River Bridge, which is 2.5 miles and 10 minutes travel time longer than the bridge route.

The detour will leave Route 3A in North Weymouth and follow North St. and Commercial St. to Weymouth Landing; then up Quincy Ave. to Southern Artery in Quincy, rejoining Route 3A in Quincy Point.

There will still be two way traffic on the bridge, with one lane each way.

SPECIAL NEEDS AWARENESS month was proclaimed for March in Quincy by Mayor Francis McCauley. Taking part in the proclamation ceremony during Special Needs Athletic Night at North Quincy High School were, from left, Jane Granstrom, director of Children's Services, Thomas Crane Public Library; Mrs. Virginia Lewis, co-chairperson, Quincy Parent Advisory Council to Special Education; Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, Director of Pupil Personnel Services, Quincy Public Schools; and Mayor McCauley. New Program To Reduce Commercial Areas Crime

A major effort to reduce crime in the commercial areas of Quincy will be kicked off Monday, March 22.

In a joint effort by the Quincy Police Department, the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the Commercial Union Insurance Companies, Burgin, Platner and Co., and the Hurley Insurance Agency the program will be initiated at a meeting at the Commercial Union building, North Quincy.

Following a 4:30 p.m. cocktail hour, a nationally known criminologist and consultant in the criminal justice field, Dr. Georgette Bennett, will address the group on ways to prevent commercial crime.

Lawson L. Swearingen, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Commercial Union and host for the meeting, will preside.

Several hundred owners and managers of Quincy businesses are expected to attend.

The Quincy project is a pilot program and will become a model for other South Shore communities.

Daniel Fabrizio Re-elected Sons Of Italy Orator

Daniel Fabrizio was re-elected orator of Quincy Sons of Italy Lodge by a margin of one vote at elections held Monday.

Fabrizio had 91 votes, compared to Michael J. Capone's 90 votes.

Unopposed for office were John Marella, venerable; John Tamasco, assistant venerable; Domenic D'Arcangelo, ex venerable; Richard Realini, recording secretary; John Di Carli, treasurer; and Anthony Cardarelli, financial secretary.

Newcomers elected by acclamation were H. Paul Bertone, assistant financial secretary; and John Carini, sentinel.

Masters of ceremony are John Rossi and Frank Saldi.

MBTA Lot Theft

Gerry Vitti of Hingham reported to police last week that his 1980 Plymouth Volare station wagon was stolen from the North Quincy MBTA parking lot.

YOUR NEW DENTURE

Patients getting a denture for the first time don't know what to expect. Often they are surprised at just how STRANGE it feels at first.

Here are a few hints: GAGGING—Some patients feel like they are going to gag, especially with new upper dentures. This takes a little time and patience to get over, but almost everyone does. Your dentist may be able to give you some medicated lozenges to help. TASTE—New dentures may have a funny smell or taste. This will pass in a day or so.

HOLDING POWER—New dentures may fit properly, but they are still a foreign object in your mouth. Your cheeks, lips, tongue and palate must learn to hold the dentures in place. Until they do, denture adhesives will help.

SORE SPOTS—Your mouth WON'T adjust to sore spots. See your dentist to have your dentures adjusted.

Quincy Camp Fire will hold a Spring Potpourri, featuring a catered dinner-fashion show and drawing, Wednesday, March 24, 6 to 11 p.m. at Sons of Italy Hall, 120 Quarry St., Quincy.

Spring and summer fashions will be modelled by Camp Fire leaders and friends; commentator will be Jan Burton.

There will also be a raffle with an assortment of prizes.

The public is invited.

Tickets can be obtained from any Camp Fire leader or by calling 773-1130.

Raffle tickets will be sold throughout the community and during the event.

Proceeds from the event will help sponsor Camp Fire Clubs for youth in the Quincy community.

Counselling Service Moves To Washington St.

South Shore Counselling Associates Inc. has moved its office from Adams St. to newly renovated larger quarters that can handle an expanded volume of business at 72 Washington St., Quincy Center.

The new 3,200 square feet of office space is leased from the Sonar Realty Trust, owners of the building, through Flavin and Flavin, Quincy realtors.

Car Stolen

A 1981 Ford Escort, owned by John Carlson of Tern Rd., Adams Shore, was reported stolen last week from its parking space on Newbury Ave.

Openings For Water Safety Instructions Course

The Quincy Recreation Department still has limited openings in its Water Safety Instructors' course scheduled to start Monday, March 27, at the Lincoln Hancock Community School.

Recreation director Barry Welch notes the Red Cross course leads to certification as a swimming instructor of Red Cross material which is accepted nationally as the standard teaching certificate. Welch said that "completion of this course provides an excellent marketable skill for college youth seeking employment as swimming instructors and lifeguards both for municipal and private employers."

The recreation department utilizes over 20 water safety instructors each summer to staff its aquatic programs at the Lincoln Hancock pool and swim stations at city beaches.

The course is open to those who are at least 17 years of age and hold a current advanced life saving certificate. Telephone reservations will be taken, but all persons must pass a qualifying swim test before formal acceptance in the course.

The program will begin March 22, and continue on Mondays and Wednesdays from 6 to 10 p.m. The training takes approximately eight weeks and is held at the Lincoln Hancock Community School pool.

Registration can be made by telephone or in person at the recreation department, 100 Southern Artery from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily until Monday.

Gov. King At Chamber Dinner Friday

Gov. Edward J. King will join the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Friday in honoring the immediate past president of the chamber and recognizing the personal and business accomplishments of three local individuals.

Honored will be Lindsay Tait, past president of the chamber and president of Braintree Savings Bank, Father William McCarthy of St. John's Church, Quincy, and Peter and William O'Connell of O'Connell Brothers Construction, Inc.

"It is because of individuals such as these that Massachusetts continues to excel in its economic and humanitarian efforts," said

King. "I am proud to be part of the ceremony honoring them."

The event will be held during the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Annual Meeting and Dinner at Lantana, Randolph.

Dinner begins at 8 p.m. followed by the awards presentation at 9 p.m.

Quincy Wrestlers Wind Up With Impressive 18-2 Record

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy wrestling team recently finished another brilliant season by competing in the Mass. Federation state tournament at Worcester Tech.

The Teachers, who have compiled amazing records under Coach Carmen Mariano, finished with an 18-2 record, losing only to the state's two top-ranked teams, Norwood and Lowell.

The team won its fourth successive Suburban League championship with a perfect 8-0 record and is 34-0-0 in the league since last losing a league meet Jan. 28, 1978.

The Presidents' overall dual meet record since the sport was revived in 1975 is 125-27-1.

The team, however, failed to win its fourth straight South Sectional title as it finished third out of 25 teams, but did produce eight place winners.

Quincy's standout performer this winter was senior Mark Picot, unbeaten at 188 pounds (19-0-0 including 12 pins and 109 points scored), who won the Div. 1 South

Sectional title, the Lowell Holiday tournament crown and the Milton Academy tournament title and was runnerup in the state tournament.

Others who earned tournament places or medals:

Senior Gerry McSharry (12-0-1 and 62 points), runnerup at 128 in the Div. 1 sectionals and the Lowell tournament.

Sophomore Mike Notarangelo (17-3-0, 89 points), third in the Milton Academy tournament at 114, second in the sectionals and third in the state tournament.

Junior Joe Madden (10-2-2, 53 points), third at 121 in the sectionals.

Junior Glen Oriola (13-4-1, 69 points), sixth at 141 in the sectionals.

Sophomore Kevin Cabezas (2-6-0, nine points), fourth at 147 in the sectionals.

Senior Steve Ricci (13-3-0, 68 points), fourth at 157 in the sectionals.

Junior Jamie Gravalese (11-5-0, 66 points), sixth in the heavyweight class in the

Other leading performers included Junior Bill Rollins, 14-1-2, 64 points; Sophomore Joe Monahan, 12-7-0, 60 points; Sophomore Dave Coulter, 9-11-0, 45 points; Junior John DePolo, 6-4-0, 27 points.

Also, junior Shawn Wynn, 5-1-0, 28 points; junior Darrin DeCoste, 7-4-0, 31 points; junior Bob Willard, 5-0-0, 28 points, and senior Walter Rosberg, 4-1-1, 21 points.

Madden, McSharry, Oriola, Ricci and Picot were named to the Suburban League first all-star team and Notarangelo and Rollins to the second team.

(North Quincy's Chris Butler and Lester Gerry were also named to the first team).

"This was another great year thanks to the hard work of all of our kids," said Mariano. "I had a fine group of assistant coaches, who contributed heavily to our success."

Mariano's aides were Tim Cahill, Joe Streadwick (80 years young) and Rich Schiarizzi.

Bobby Orr Speaker At SOI Sports Night

BOBBY ORR

Joe Sacco, Joe Carini, Gus Purpura, Bob Salomone, Fred Volpini, Dick Reallini, Tom Santangelo, Recco Marella and Tony Vardaro.

Hall-of-Famer and former Bruins star Bobby Orr will present the Most Valuable Player awards to Jim Milano and Rich Horrigan of the Sons of Italy Bantam A hockey team Monday night at 7 at the Sons Social Center, 120 Quarry St.

This marks the second year in a row in which two players were selected by their teammates as their team's MVPs.

Orr will be the principal speaker in addition to presenting the awards at the Sons of Italy Sports night.

Head table guests will include Venerable John Marella, Asst. Venerable John Janasco, Sports night chairman James Mastrantonio and Quincy Youth Hockey Association president Frank McGrath. Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth will be the emcee.

The committee includes Lindy Monticone, Bill Nesti, John Rossi,

North 6th In Class C Track Meet

Although the North Quincy boy's track team had only a 2-6 record this winter, the Raiders made a good showing in the state Class C meet, placing sixth among 25 teams.

It was North's best finish in many years.

Leading the Raiders in the meet was last year's Suburban League outdoor champ in the long jump, senior Richie Palma, who ran a fine 33.5 in the 300 trials to lead the field going into the finals where he tied for first place, running an excellent 33.2, one-tenth of a second off the school record. In the same race Bob O'Brien placed fifth with his best time, 33.8.

"Richie and Bob ran great," said North coach Bart Petracca, himself a former Raider great who set many records and went on to shine at Cornell. "Richie was running the dash all season but I knew he had a good chance of placing in the 300. But I didn't know he was going to tie for first."

In the shot put senior Bob Pound threw 47 ft, 8 1/4 inches, his best of the year, to take fifth. Senior Paul Ciarfella just missed placing.

North's mile relay team surprised many people with its fifth-place finish.

Sophomore Tom Keaney led off with a fine 53.7 leg, followed by cross-country captain senior Ricky O'Brien. Next was senior Scott Pano, running his first season of track, and anchoring the team was promising sophomore Jim Kennedy. The quarter's time was a good 3:40, its best of the season.

Also running in the state meet were Kennedy, who ran 2:26 in the 1000, good for seventh place; Ricky O'Brien in the 1000, Garth Petracca, running a decent 4:48 in the mile; freshman Dan Anderson, and junior Dave Ceurvels, who ran the dash.

Several good performances were turned in during the season, senior John Dunlea doing well in the two-mile, freshman Scott Coyne in the mile, Bill Donnelly in the 1000, sophomore John DeLappe in the hurdles and senior Mike Panaro in the shot put.

"Despite us not having as much depth as the other schools, the boys worked very hard all season and I am definitely looking forward to the spring season," Petracca said. "I think we can set some records and finish in the top three in Class C. I would like to thank girls' coach Lou Tozzi and my assistant coaches, distance runner Mike Burke and weight men Paul Doherty and Chris Morton, all of whom helped immensely."

Norfolk Stars To Compete In National Hockey Tourney

The Pat Logan-Norfolk Stars, champions of the Massachusetts Junior Hockey League for the second straight year, are raising money for a trip to play in the National tournament starting March 24 in St. Louis.

The Stars, coached by Tom Connolly and Al Shaughnessy, won the league title last Sunday by beating the Charlestown Juniors, 11-2, to sweep their playoff series, three games to one.

Five Quincy boys play on the team, which is made up of youngsters 20 and under.

They are Neil Shea, who also played for Don Bosco; Mark Boussy of Boston College High; Richie Milano of Don Bosco; Kevin Chase of Archbishop Williams and Kevin Craig of Quincy High School.

Connolly said the cost of the trip and lodging in St. Louis amounts to about $300 per player, which means that the team has to raise $6,000. A total of $2,000 has already been raised, including $1,000 from the Amateur Hockey Association of the U.S.

The Stars take their name from Pat Logan, the Quincy hockey player from Don Bosco who was killed in an auto accident in South Boston last year.

YMCA Aquathon-Runathon Starts March 27

The South Shore YMCA, 79 Coddington St., Quincy, will hold its annual Aquathon/Runathon Saturday, March 27, from 9 a.m. to midnight and Sunday, March 28, from 7 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Purpose is to help sponsor needy youngsters to "Y" camps, aid on-going YMCA programs and to support YMCA World Service.

The Aquathon/Runathon is open to the public. Participants' entry forms may be obtained at the YMCA Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. A minimum pledge of $2. is required for both running and swimming. The rules are that a swimmer or runner may swim or run any time during the designated 25 hours.

Participants are backed by one or more sponsors or they may sponsor themselves. A swimmer may swim as few as one length, or as many as 200. Joggers will use the Y running track, and run as many times as designated on their forms. Counters will be on duty in both the pool and track area to sign Aquathon/Runathon forms.

If a person is unable to swim or run and still wishes to participate a YMCA Staff person will be glad to fill in.

Contributions are tax deductible. For more information, call the South Shore YMCA, 479-8500.

Quincy, North Bow Out Of Tech Tourney

Both Quincy and North Quincy High School basketball teams bowed out in the first round of the Tech Tournament at the MIT Hangar in Cambridge.

Quincy's Granite Chips blamed poor shooting for their 29-19 loss to Lynn Classical as they sank only eight baskets in 67 attempts, their worst shooting night of the season.

Fred DiSantis, playing his last game for Quincy, led the scorers with seven points while Art Mackie had six, George Page five and Jackie Pettinelli one. Sonny Nicholson and Mike Barba also played in the game.

Classical sped out to an 8-3 lead at the end of the first five minutes and Quincy trailed the rest of the way, closing to three points, 22-19, on a DiSantis basket early in the fourth period.

"You can't win if you can't hit the basket," said Quincy Coach Munroe MacLean. "The boys played very well otherwise."

North Quincy, which was in the Tech Tournament for the first time, showed its nervousness by failing to score in the first period, falling behind Somerville 3-0 for an eventual 32-18 defeat.

Coach Jack Mullarkey's Raiders snapped back to make a game of it, trailing by 22-15 at the end of the third period, only to fall apart in the final quarter.

Tom Underwood led the North Quincy scorers with eight points while Scratch McCutcheon, who was switched to forward to help Underwood, played a fine game off the boards.

QUINCY FIGHTERS WIN

Two Quincy fighters, Vic Lange and Tony Amiola, qualified for the second trials of the Diamond Ring Tournament with first round knockouts before some 1,000 fans at Quincy Arena.

Lange belted out John DiAntonio of Milford in less than two minutes of the opening round to win the 147-pound final. DiAntonio was counted out while resting on one knee.

Amiola, a student at Quincy Trade School, flattened highly regarded James Cunningham of Warner, N.H., also in the first round after Cunningham had chalked up kayos of his own in earlier bouts.

WRESTLING CHAMPS

Dave Brown of North Quincy and Warren (Swede) Larsen of Quincy won titles in the sixth annual Tufts Interscholastic Wrestling Tournament in Cousins Gym in Medford.

Brown decided Ronald Goodwin of Needham to win the 110-pound class while Larsen got the nod over Dave Murnsell of Milton Academy to capture the 145-pound championship.

In the upset of the tournament, Austin (Honey) Norton of North Quincy, who was undefeated in the 100-pound category, lost a decision to clever little Don Currier of Haverhill.

OLINDY TRIUMPHS

Jim Olindy, the celebrated Quincy bowler, got even with his great rival, Joe Girardi of Athol, beating him by 27 pins in their return 10-string candlepin match at Olindy's alleys.

The final score was 1115 to 1068 with Olindy outrolling Girardi 140 to 113 on the key seventh string.

'Y' TEAM BOWS

The Quincy YMCA basketball team, forced to play with only four men over the last five minutes due to fouls, lost to the Lynn YMCA, 55-54, despite 20 points by Ralph McCollom.

The Quincy lineup included: Collins, Mulligan, forwards; J. McCollom, center; R. McCollom, Moorehead, guards.

ALL STARS NAMED

Quincy and North Quincy dominated the annual Patriot Ledger schoolboy basketball all star team, which included George Page and Fred DiSantis of Quincy and Joe Driscoll and Wally Pendergast of North.

Jackie Pettinelli and Art Mackie of the Granite Chips and Tom Underwood of the Raiders made the second team.

MAD TURK ON TOP

Pasha the Mad Turk, who predicted his victory, disabled Ted Germaine, the South Boston badman, with an arm bar at 18:29 and went on to take the feature bout at Dick Gordon's wrestling show at Quincy Arena.

SPORTS BITS '39

Lou Fette and Jim Turner were scheduled to pitch for the Boston Bees in an exhibition game with the New York Yankees at their spring training camp in Bradenton, Fla. ... Page scored seven points to lead Christ Church to a 22-14 upset of Point Congregational at the Quincy YMCA gym ... Bobby Bauer scored the tying goal with 47 seconds left to play and Milt Schmidt and Roy Conacher scored in overtime to give the Boston Bruins a 5-3 victory over the New York Rangers.

Mary Riordan Ends Career As Providence's Top Scorer

Mary Ellen Riordan of Quincy, a product of the Quincy Youth Hockey program, ended an outstanding career for the Providence College women's hockey team Saturday night when her team, for the third year in a row, lost to New Hampshire, 6-4, in the finals of the Eastern Regional championships.

The Lady Friars had defeated North Eastern, 7-1, in the tournament semifinals. Providence ended with a 22-3 record, its third straight 20-win season.

Mary Ellen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Riordan of 60 Bunker Hill Lane, is the all-time scoring leader at Providence with 214 points and this season finished with 20 goals and 24 assists for 44 points.

Riordan, who played for the Quincy Comets from 1974 to 1978 before attending Providence, is a 1978 graduate of Sacred Heart High of Weymouth where she lettered in basketball and softball. Last season she had 23 goals and 23 assists for 46 points.

During her Providence career her teams were 78-14-1 with records of 16-3-1, 20-3, 20-5 and 22-3.

A remarkable thing about her performance this season is that she didn't have a single minute in penalties in the 25 games.

"Mary Ellen is a superb player and she can play both offense and defense," said Coach John Marchetti.

The Quincy player, who was co-captain of this year's team, was voted the team's MVP in her freshman and sophomore seasons.

Among the Lady Friars' accomplishments this year was ending New Hampshire's 74-game winning streak.

Their only losses prior to the Eastern final were to New Hampshire and the U. of Toronto. Providence this year failed to defend its Concordia Invitational title in Montreal (the loss to Toronto came in that event) but did win the Cornell and Princeton Invitational Tournaments.

A teammate of Mary Ellen's was Leslie Matthews, a defenseman from Marshfield. Quincy's Peggy Birchill, a sophomore, a former teammate of Riordan's in Quincy Youth hockey, played for Northeastern, and Lauren Apollo of North Quincy, a freshman, is playing for New Hampshire.

5 Quincy Players Help Xaverian To Good Season

Five Quincy players were members of the Xaverian High School hockey teams this season.

Under former Norwood coach Don Wheeler, the varsity team completed its season with five straight wins while posting a 9-7-2 record, the best in recent years.

Skating only four seniors, the Hawks had the youngest team in the Catholic Central League. Among the players were Quincy juniors Bill O'Brien and John Grenier.

O'Brien played in every game on second defensive tandem. He was an outstanding defenseman and also helped the offense with a goal and six assists. He is also a varsity baseball player.

Grenier played on the second line at right wing, scoring 10 goals and adding 12 assists. A hard skater and dedicated worker, he should be among the better wings in the league next year, according to Wheeler.

Quincy freshman Jamie Seamans played a wing position for the junior varsity and also saw some varsity action when injuries forced Wheeler to move some better players up from the jayvees.

Tom Ryan, another freshman from Quincy, played forward at both the freshman and junior varsity level, and freshman Patrick Duffy also played forward on the freshman team.

Based upon its outstanding performance in winning its last five games (three coming over teams that qualified for the state tournament), Xaverian should be one of the stronger teams in the league next winter. With more returning starters than any other squad in the area, Xaverian may be moving into prominence in South Shore Hockey circles.

B.C.-Kansas Game On Ch. 56

Channel 56 will telecast live the Boston College-Kansas State NCAA Tournament basketball game Friday night at 8 o'clock from St. Louis.

The Eagles have been among the surprises of the tournament, shocking DePaul, the country's No. 2 team, after defeating San Francisco in their opener.

If BC wins Friday, it will advance to the quarterfinals.

New Schedule At Pool

The Quincy Recreation Department announces its new schedule of recreational swims at the Lincoln Hancock Community School Pool.

The schedule features several new instructional programs and will take effect March 21.

The pool is open to Quincy residents who obtain a participation card in the pool entrance on Water Street in South-West Quincy. There are a variety of memberships available for family, youth, or adults for either one half or a full year. The new schedule is as follows:

EUROPE TOUGH ON DRUNKS

Although the drunk driver kills some 25,000 people annually on American highways, our penalties are extremely mild and convictions equally low compared to the havoc seen.

This is not so in foreign countries. Finland, for instance, jails a person caught driving with any detectable trace of alcohol in his blood. Even with no accident involved, he faces up to five months in prison. In Bulgaria, a driver faces a minimum of ten years imprisonment if he causes death with ANY alcohol in his system. Norway and Sweden both allow alcohol concentrations of .05, but beyond that, watch out ... you automatically go to jail. This is about half the allowable rate in this country.

Are these stringent laws effective? They must be! The highway death rate in Sweden, for instance, is half of that of the United States.

'A Young Man's Sacrifice' Historical Society Topic

John C. Swanson will discuss "Edward Avery Bumpus - A Young Man's Sacrifice" at a meeting of the Quincy Historical Society Thursday, March 25, at 7:30 p.m., at Adams Academy, Quincy Center.

Swanson will tell the story of the Quincy boy who died in combat at age 24 in the Philippines in 1901 while serving as an Army lieutenant.

Letters to his father, Judge Everett C. Bumpus, and records of his service and the engagements in which he was involved, offer details of the young man's life and experiences.

Swanson researched his subject as a history major at Eastern Nazarene College. His sources included records in the society's library of Quincy's John A. Boyd Camp, United Spanish War Veterans.

Swanson is now a student at Andover Newton Theological School.

Ample parking is available in the Adams Academy parking lot. The meeting is open to the public.

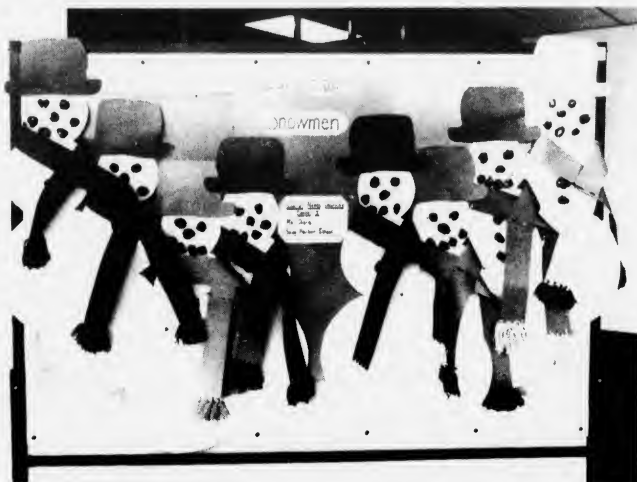

Squantum Center Has Flower Show Tickets

The Squantum Community Center still has some tickets available for the flower show Saturday at Commonwealth Exhibition Pier.

Ticket prices include the show and a bus, which will leave at 10 a.m. and return at 3:30 p.m.

For more information, call 328-4851, Monday to Friday, 1 to 5 p.m.

OUR HAPPY SNOWMEN is among the art by children with special needs in the Quincy Public Schools on display this month in the lobby of new City Hall. The display was arranged by Dr. Patricia Del-Val, Coordinator of Special Education, and members of the special education staff.

Berlin-Porter Music Featured In St. John's Parish Show

Words and music of Irving Berlin and Cole Porter will be featured in the ninth annual parish musical show to be sponsored by St. John's Church Friday and Saturday, April 2-3, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Archbishop Williams High School, Braintree.

Proceeds will benefit the Parish building, maintenance, and charitable funds.

More than 100 parishioners will present songs and dance numbers based on the works of both Berlin and Porter, two of America's most gifted song composers.

The show is under the direction of Fran Kelly. Tickets are now on sale at $3 for adults and $1 for children under 12 years of age. Tickets are available by contacting Norma and Peter Gacia, ticket co-chairmen or by calling the rectory 773-1021.

Berlin wrote the music for Broadway and film hits such as Top Hat, Alexander's Ragtime Band, This Is The Army, Easter Parade, Call Me Madam, White Christmas, There's No Business Like Show Business, and Holiday Inn.

Porter wrote hit songs for Night and Day, Broadway Melody, Anything Goes, Rosalie, Kiss Me Kate, High Society and Can Can. The general public is invited.

QSO To Present 'Youth Performs'

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra will present a concert, "Youth Performs" Friday and Saturday, April 2 and 3, at 8 p.m. at North Quincy High School's auditorium.

The concert will feature Jamie Edwards, piano, and the Quincy Choral Society.

For ticket information, contact Mary Vallier at 479-2408.

'Best Boy' Film March 25 Special Needs Highlight

The academy award winning film, "Best Boy" will be shown at a theater night Thursday, March 25, at 7:30 p.m. at the Wollaston Theatre as part of Special Needs Awareness Month activities in Quincy.

Activities during the month are to highlight the programs and services available to children with special needs and to increase the community's sensitivity to, and awareness of, persons with special needs.

"Best Boy" focuses on the film maker's 52 year old mentally retarded cousin.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon and Susan McKeon, co-chairperson of the Quincy Parents Advisory Council to Special Education, will welcome guests.

Following the film, wine, soft drinks and cheese will be served by Chairman Carter Caudle, Bill Mulcahy, Louis Tozzi, Richard DeCristofaro, Jean Whalen, Leonard Ciavarrro, Marie Hurley, and Bob McKay.

For tickets, which are $1, contact Mrs. Mary Costley in the Special Education Office at 786-8743.

Also planned during the month is a "Build a Ramp Presentation" Tuesday March 23, at 3 p.m. at the gallery entrance to the Thomas Crane Public Library.

After a welcome by Warren E. Watson, library director, Patricia Del-Val will present a ramp for the gallery entrance that will make the main branch accessible to the handicapped.

The ramp was made by students in the EVA Program of Quincy Vocational Technical School under the direction of woods instructor Ralph Younie.

Students will participate in the presentation as will Edward T. Hannon, director of career education, and Joseph Mazzarella, director of Quincy Vo-Tech.

The library will have available through the month displays of books and publications about special needs.

The Department of Special Education of the Quincy Public Schools and the Crane Library is displaying the work of students with special needs and library resources on special needs for parents and children.

The displays are in the windows of the South Shore National Bank, in the main lobby of new City Hall, and in the administrative offices of the Quincy Public Schools.

Any community group wishing to have a speaker present a program on children with special needs and/or services and programs within the Quincy Public Schools can call Patricia Del-Val, 786-8743 or Carol Lee Griffin, 786-8742.

The Planning Committee for "Special Needs Awareness Month" includes Jane Granstrom from the Thomas Crane Public Library, Carol Lee Griffin and Patricia Del-Val from the Quincy Public Schools, and Virginia Collins, Marie Lalama, Virginia Lewis, Susan McKeon, Julie Morrissey, Kathleen Piacski, and Ann Wickberg, all from the Parent Advisory Council to Special Education.

Tree Sales Bring $100 To Tourism Assn.

It was a good season for Christmas trees so the Quincy Tourism Association is $100 richer.

Loren Strout, owner of the Winfield Tree Lot, which has been lucky to break even over the past few years, made a promise to the association.

QCH Personnel Assisting At 'Health Works'

Quincy City Hospital personnel will be assisting at "Health Works" Friday, 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the South Shore Plaza, Braintree.

"Health Works", a series of community based health fairs, offers free medical screening and basic health maintenance information.

Services and information provided are multiple test screening including an optional blood test and screening for special populations, distribution of health education information, counseling, referrals to local or specialized health care agencies, follow-up reports to those found to have medical abnormalities.

"Health Works" is sponsored by the Shawmut Banks and WCVB-TV Channel 5 in association with WHDH radio.

Paul Falconer is local fair coordinator.

For more information, call 843-8200.

Craftsman's Tools At Historical Society

More than 200 hand tools used by Quincy craftsmen over the past three centuries are on display at the Quincy Historical Society's museum in the Adams Academy building.

The exhibit, called "An Extension of the Hand: Tools of the New England Craftsman," includes tools used by a spar maker, pattern maker, ship's joiner, wheelwright, stone cutter, cobbler and tailor.

The exhibit is open each weekday from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and Saturday from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Admission is free.

Meat Drawing At St. Mary's

St. Mary's School Guild will hold a meat drawing Monday, March 22, at 7 p.m. in St. Mary's Church Hall, Crescent St., West Quincy.

Approximately every 30 minutes, fresh cuts of meat will be awarded as prizes. All meat will be cut and wrapped on the premises.

WEEK OF: MARCH 18

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Observant Aquarius can find outstanding career opportunity nestled among week's happenings. Dear friend needs your stimulation in order to reach potential. Make family health resolutions.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Accident prone and a little forgetful, but you survive every social gaff — and with flair. Older family member approaches you on controversial matter. Travel detours slow weekend trips.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
As friend becomes increasingly demanding of your energies, a showdown may be unavoidable. With realistic planning, financial objective can be within reach. Don't keep feelings a secret.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Scientific and technical accomplishments spotlighted, even if you show little aptitude in such areas. Rivalry from associate is friendlier than you think. Partner may need more time alone.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
No matter how you try to escape, you're caught in a maze of red tape all week. Diplomacy is crucial at family meeting. Hobbies are rewarding through the weekend.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
For participants or spectators, a delightfully successful sports week. Keeping informed of community happenings ultimately boosts your status. Speculative ventures may be riskier than you think.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Timing is current problem. Expected cash may not arrive, while household guests turn up early or not at all. Workload can be cleared with assistance of a clever Libra friend.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Week sees you signing papers or making verbal agreements; be more than careful. Honest dialogue lets you and loved one express ideas and articulate expectations.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Allow promising relationship to take its own course — and don't rush anything. Property matters are favorably accented, but resist taking on more household chores than you can manage successfully.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
Travel plans and schedules may be shuffled Thursday-Saturday. Sunday finds you in glamorous setting. Romantic mysteries are solved on Monday. Casual friendship deepens by Wednesday.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Financial gains are greater than financial upsets. Current trend is making order of chaos, at home and at work. By Tuesday, you advance to the forefront of a team project.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Monetary gains are directly related to willingness to do more than the competition. Humanitarian projects are accented through the week. Don't postpone mechanical jobs.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You show a great range of feelings, have a great range of interests. Insights are strong. Patience is not your greatest virtue. Moneymaking opportunity is bright in September. Change of location or career direction spotlighted in early '83.

BORN THIS WEEK
March 18th, actor Peter Graves; 19th, actress Ursula Andress, 20th, actor Michael Redgrave; 21st, actor James Coco; 22nd, actor William Shatner; 23rd, actress Joan Crawford; 24th, actor Gene Nelson.

Free IRA Clinic At 1st American Bank

A free Individual Retirement Account (IRA) clinic will be held Monday, March 22, at 7 p.m. at the 1st American Bank, 77 Granite St., Quincy Center.

Panclists will answer questions about investing in IRA accounts.

Some of the questions to be discussed are "What are the tax benefits of an IRA account?"

How can I afford an IRA? When can I withdraw my funds?

Are my funds "locked in" to one investment?

Panclists will include Robert G. Lee, president, 1st American Bank; Sandra Logan, assistant treasurer, pension plan department, 1st American Bank; and Atty. Dixon Matthews, CPA, Wolf & Co. of Massachusetts, PC, Certified Public Accountants.

For reservations, which are required, call Thelma Wilde, manager, at 471-1112.

College Aid Available Despite Reagan Edict

Qualified high school seniors still can obtain college aid from the Social Security system in spite of the Reagan Administration's plan to cut them off, notes Cong. Brian J. Donnelly.

The student benefits are scheduled to cease after May 1. Donnelly met with state officials recently and urged them to allow qualified high school seniors to enroll immediately in state community colleges to claim their right to financial aid.

Donnelly said the State Education Department and the Board of Higher Education have adopted the recommendation.

"Students who are the children of deceased, retired or disabled workers are eligible for college assistance from the Social Security program," he said.

"College credits earned by high schools students in community college while they are completing their high school studies can be transferred to other colleges the students attend in the fall."

For more information on the plan, call Donnelly's office in the Quincy Post Office building at 477-1800.

Theater Party Nets $1,100 For Heart Fund

John J. Daniels Memorial Night, the 13th annual theater party at the Wollaston Theater, raised $1,100 to date for the Quincy Heart Fund, it was announced by Richard J. Koch, special events chairman.

With other donations and proceeds still coming in, Koch said he is still hoping to reach the $1,500 goal which would bring to $20,000 the amount raised by the party for heart research and education programs.

Persons wishing to donate to the 1982 special events drive for the Heart Fund should leave contributions with Committee Treasurer John J. McGue at the North Quincy branch of the Hancock Trust Co., 415 Hancock St.

Brain Injured Center Workshop

All interested persons are invited to attend the South Shore Center for Brain-Injured Children's sixth training workshop tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. at the center.

Jeanne Mankus, M. Ed., will discuss visual development and training in the severely handicapped child.

She is a developmental specialist at the Boston Center for Blind Children in the Community Based Program.

The center is located at 46 Lincoln St., Braintree.

Morrissey Bill Would Shift Tax Burden To Land

A bill co-sponsored by Rep. Michael W. Morrissey that would shift a part of the property tax burden from buildings to land has received a public hearing before the Committee on Taxation.

The bill would lower property taxes on buildings and other improvements and make up the difference by raising the tax on the land.

"The time has come to stop penalizing people for improving their homes or constructing new buildings and subsidizing slums and other undeveloped properties," said Morrissey.

"This legislation would be the first real tax reform in Massachusetts in decades."

"It is local option. It neither raises nor lowers the net amount of taxes collected by any community but it stimulates development and improvement of urban areas."

School Officials Meet On Bus Cessation

Carl Leone of the Quincy Public Schools was among public and parochial school officials who met recently with MBTA General Manager James F. O'Leary on possible cessation of school bus transportation May 1.

In a series of meetings held at MBTA Headquarters last week, O'Leary told school officials that the MBTA is forced to live within a 1982 budget that is $5 million less than was spent last year.

Daniel Shea In Air Force

Daniel Shea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Shea of 15 Swan Rd., Adams Shore, has entered the Air Force Delayed Enlistment program and will leave for basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas, in November.

A 1981 graduate of Quincy High School, he plans a mechanical career in the Air Force.

42 Tires Slashed

Sixteen incidents in which 42 tires were slashed on autos parked in Norfolk Downs and Wollaston were reported to police last Thursday morning. They occurred on Holmes, Moscow, Vane and Pierce Sts. and Billings Rd., Norfolk Downs, and Greenwood Ave., Wollaston.

"Despite major cost saving measures recently implemented at the transit authority, the MBTA has had to close stations and reduce its workforce."

Without an additional spending authorization from the MBTA Advisory Board, many MBTA services, including school transportation, will be curtailed.

"Inflationary costs impact the MBTA as they do every school system," added O'Leary.

O'Leary noted that a larger transportation budget for the MBTA will not adversely impact municipal budgets because of Governor King's commitment to cap the assessments paid by cities and towns in the transit district for service.

In addition, the MBTA could lower fares and increase service to encourage ridership if the MBTA's $17.5 million supplemental budget resubmitted to the Advisory Board on March 9 receives favorable acceptance."

Town Brook Residents To Visit The Flower Show

Residents will leave Tuesday, March 30, at 11 a.m. for a tour of the Kennedy Library and Museum. Lunch will follow the tour.

Donald Gohl of Quincy Cooperative Bank, accompanied by Nils Lindin, entertained at a St. Patrick's Day celebration at Town Brook House.

Edward O'Gara On Rensselaer Dean's List

Edward M. O'Gara of 49 Highland Rd., Merrymount has been named to the dean's list for the fall semester at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y.

A freshman, O'Gara is majoring in electrical engineering.

To qualify for the dean's list, candidates must be full time students, earn at least a 3.0 grade average out of a possible 4.0, and have no grade lower than "C."

Council Votes Opposition To MDC Sewer Plan

How much sewage is dumped into Quincy Bay in a year from the MDC facilities on Nut and Moon Islands?

Well, says Dr. Robert P. McKeogh, if every man, woman and child in Quincy were to take one gallon and dump it every 20 minutes, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, you'd have an approximate figure.

And when the City Council heard that Monday night they promptly voted for a resolution in active opposition to MDC plans to treat sewage at plants either on Nut Island or Long Island, or both.

Dr. McKeogh, who is the city health commissioner, called the sporadic breakdowns in anti-quoted equipment at Nut Island "intolerable, and if treatment is moved to Long Island it will be even more intolerable."

Dr. McKeogh noted that the people of Houghs Neck have been harassed by the Nut Island facility for years and now, he said, "I am trying to raise the consciousness of the people in the north end to the problem."

"The people of Squantum and Atlantic," he said, "have no concept of what a sewer treatment plant means. The MDC is now zeroing in on Long Island as a primary sewage treatment plant."

"We can't say it's a Houghs Neck problem or a North Quincy problem. It's everybody's beach."

Dr. McKeogh urged everyone from North Quincy to come to a meeting on the MDC's plans sometime in May "and throw rocks at them. It's the only language they understand."

The Health Commissioner had five suggestions for what the MDC could do about sewage treatment:

Close Moon Island, design reverse pumps, close Nut Island, abandon plans for Long Island, install a pumping station at Stoddard's Neck, carry out all treatment at Deer Island with deep ocean outfall.

"Or," he added, "move it to Gloucester. We have suffered with it for almost 100 years. Quincy has had it."

City Council Readies New Condo Petition

The City Council is preparing to send a home rule petition on condominium conversion to the state legislature for the third time.

Councillor Stephen J. McGrath, the moving spirit behind condo regulation in Quincy, said he has been advised by Sen. Paul D. Harold that the last petition will have problems in the Legislature.

Harold said the petition would be more likely to win approval if the details of the ordinance the Council has in mind were spelled out more specifically.

McGrath noted that the Council already had a proposed ordinance under consideration while awaiting the Legislature's approval of its petition for permission to pass one.

He suggested that the Council's Ordinance Committee mold the petition and the ordinance into one new petition and send it to the Legislature for the third time.

The first petition was filed in December and the legislative year expired before it could receive consideration.

McGrath's suggestion was sent to the Ordinance Committee and Monday, April 5, at 6 p.m. was set as the date for the meeting.

Gypsy Moth Spraying To Begin In Early May

The city plans to begin spraying for gypsy moths in early May, mostly in the heavily wooded areas west of the South-east Expressway.

The City Council Monday night appropriated $5,000 to do the job.

Forestry Supt. John F. Koeigler said the city spent $6,000 for spraying by a private contractor during last year's moth infestation, but the city plans to do the job this spring.

City Set To Join Mass. Municipal Assn.

The City Council Monday night appropriated $3,174.50 to pay six months dues so that the city can join the Massachusetts Municipal Association.

The vote was 7-2 with Councillors Leo J. Kelly and

But, he warned the councillors, he may have to come back for more money if the $5,000 is not enough.

"Past history and the state egg count last year shows that the major problems will be in the West Quincy area," said Koeigler. "We plan to spray everything west of the Expressway and the Willard and Wesson St. areas."

Joseph J. LaRaia voting in opposition.

"It strikes me we could better use the money in other areas," said Kelly. "We could hire back a secretary with the money that will be spent on dues for a full year."

Board To Vote March 30 On 1 A.M. Closings

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A vote will be taken at the March 30 License Board meeting on whether or not to roll back the closing hour of Quincy liquor establishments from 2 to 1 a.m.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. at City Hall.

City Clerk John Gillis says he hasn't received any phone calls on the controversial issue, but the public's interest in the matter was clear at a March 16, evening meeting which attracted "wall to wall people."

Numerous civic and other organizations, government officials, and local residents favored the 1 a.m. closing citing the relationship between drinking and traffic accidents in the early hours.

Petitions were also presented to the board including one from Carmela Lynch of Quincy Point with 1,387 names.

Opposed to the roll back were the 15 Quincy establishments with 2 a.m. closings.

Members of that group stressed that accidents occur no matter what the time.

About 88 people at the meeting signed a petition opposed to the roll back.

Concannon Judgeship Stirs Local Political Pot

The Quincy political pot started boiling this week unusually rapidly for a municipal off-year election.

The name of John P. Concannon of Braintree, the Norfolk County Clerk of Courts, is scheduled to be submitted to the Governor's Council for a judgeship in the next week or two.

This, of course, would throw open Concannon's job, an elective post that now pays $32,000 a year and will soon pay $38,000 on a raise that has already been approved.

The term is for six years and it is one of those posts for which tenure is all but guaranteed once the candidate gets over the hurdle of being elected for the first time.

Concannon, who has been clerk for many years, is up for appointment as one of three judges of the Boston Juvenile Court. It could be submitted to the Governor's Council as early as this week.

Already the candidates are jockeying for position as his successor.

Nicholas Barbadoro of Quincy, Concannon's first assistant, is reported to have taken out nomination papers at the State House for the fall election.

A rumor was strong in Quincy Tuesday that former City Councillor Daniel G. Raymond was being named to a county post in Dedham but a check of county offices refuted the report.

"Danny could be thinking of running for the court clerk's job," said a source at the county offices.

Raymond was not available for comment at press time.

Another report from Dedham had George B. McDonald, the county commissioner from Quincy, running for Concannon's post with Raymond running for county commissioner.

Other names that were mentioned included former Quincy City Councillors Dennis E. Harrington and Warren A. Powers and Dennis Mahoney of Quincy, an assistant district attorney.

A strong Quincy base is important to any candidate for county office since it is the only city in Norfolk County and has by far the largest population.

Should Concannon be appointed and confirmed far in advance of the fall election, an acting clerk of courts would be named by the county's superior court judges.

Strand Owners' To Appear Before Board Over 'Riots'

Owners of the Strand Theater, Quincy Center, have been requested to appear at the March 30, License Board meeting to show cause why their license should not be revoked after an incident last week-end.

Police Chief Francis Finn told board members this week that a "Led Zeppelin movie" was shown at the theater Saturday night.

According to Finn, the movie resulted in "riots" which spilled out into the street.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald said that seven police cars responded to the scene.

Parking Fines Collection $5,000 A Day

By TOM HENSHAW

Collection of the long backlog of parking fines owed the city has been running at a rate of $4,000 to $5,000 a day since the drive started Monday, according to City Clerk John Gillis.

"It's great," he said. "Unbelievable!"

Gillis said he expects that collections will start to tail off soon but that the city probably will collect as much as $400,000 of the $500,000 owed in parking fines since 1978.

About 100,000 tickets are outstanding.

"The motivating force to pay these back tickets is the fact that the delinquents can lose their licenses and registrations if they don't pay," said Gillis.

"If we didn't have that behind us we wouldn't be getting the money."

Parking fines in Quincy used to be collected by the Quincy District Court in a manual operation that soon slipped hopelessly in arrears as motorists ignored the tickets.

In January, the collection of fines was turned over to the City Clerk and the contract has been given a Boston bank to provide computer service to chase down the violators.

Automobile Torched

A car burst into flames while parked in front of 20 Appleton St., Atlantic, shortly after 2 a.m. Tuesday and police called it arson.

Some two hours later, someone apparently threw a Molotov cocktail at a garage down the street at 48 Appleton St. The garage was destroyed.

Police said a flammable liquid was poured over the roof of a 1973 Ford Mustang convertible owned by Denise Dansro of Jamaica Plain while she was visiting at 20 Appleton St. and lit it on fire.

A pile of trash across the street also caught fire.

The Molotov cocktail apparently was thrown at a garage owned by Michael Penzo. Police said they found the unexploded bottle on the street with only the wick burned.

Investigating officers were Peter Flynn, John M. Kelly Jr. and Michael Lukeman.

Boston Man Arrested In Quincy Police Chase

Quincy Police Officer Robert Curtis pursued a stolen car on a high speed chase early Saturday morning on the Southeast Expressway to Adams St., Dorchester, where he arrested a Boston man on a charge of larceny.

Mark H. Pendergraph, 24, of Dorchester pleaded innocent in Quincy District Court Monday to charges of larceny of a motor vehicle and possession of burglarious tools (a dent puller).

He was released on $100 personal recognizance for conference April 14.

The chase started at 494 Willard St., West Quincy, when a resident reported that three white males had gotten out of a Pontiac Firebird and were trying to start a Pontiac Lemans.

Curtis pursued the Lemans on the Expressway where, he said, the occupants attempted to force his police car off the road by swerving into it in Milton.

The Lemans left the Expressway and continued on Granite Ave., Milton, to Adams St., Dorchester, where the driver lost control and went up on the sidewalk.

Two of the occupants fled but Curtis arrested Pendergraph before he could get away.

The 1976 Lemans was listed as owned by Gary Dello Russo of Weymouth.

Special Committee Studies Bids For Abandoned Schools

A special committee has taken under advisement a number of bids and proposals for four schools that have been abandoned by the Quincy public school system.

They are the Adams, Cranch, Gridley Bryant and Quincy Schools. City officials said they were pleased by the amount of the bids, which included one for $350,000 for the Adams School.

The bids included:
Adams School
$350,000 - The Adams School Associates, a partnership of Kenneth F. Parry and Associates, Inc.; Development Concepts, Inc.; and Quincy Square Development Corp.

$290,000 - Quincy Schoolhouse Properties, a venture between Urban Consulting Associates of Boston, Inc., and Richard A. Barry.

$116,000 - Northgate Construction Co. Inc., Howard Rockstrom, James Zieff and Northgate Construction Co., Inc., principals.

$145,000 - Thacher Montessori School, Inc., a non-profit educational corporation.

Newport Management Corp.,

Anthony Herrey, president, offered $108,000 for both the Cranch and Adams Schools.

Gridley Bryant School

$151,000 - SPQR Associates, the Ricciardi family, principals.

DeCristofaro Asks More Police In Ward 2

City Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro, noting recent incidents of vandalism, has asked police for "more enthusiastic protection" in the Ward 2 area during the coming summer months.

"The Quincy Point area has been plagued with broken windows," he said in a letter to Police Chief Francis X. Finn, "twice at the Crazy Eggs Restaurant and also at Harry's Outboard Shop.

"The last break at the Crazy Eggs was discovered by an employee at 5 a.m. The door was smashed and one big plate glass window broken with a great deal of damage also to the interior.

"I would also appreciate more frequent patrols at the Mount St. Beach where they have already started with parties.

"I feel that if the patrol car assigned to this area would make more visits it may help to keep the youths from congregating."

Brownell Seeks Overhaul Of MDC

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell has called for the replacement of the commissioner and associate commissioners of the MDC with a secretary and an unpaid community advisory board.

"This type of overhaul is long overdue," said Brownell. "The current organizational structure is not working.

"The recent spills of over 500 million gallons of partially treated sewage is only one glaring example for the inadequacy of the existing management structure to carry on the day-to-day operations.

"The people of Quincy and the entire MDC area not only expect but also deserve competent operation of the sewage treatment facilities."

Brownell said the four associate commissioners "serve no useful governmental function" and cost the taxpayers close to $50,000 a year for jobs that take less than a day a week to perform.

"An unpaid community advisory board could perform the same job at almost no cost to the taxpayer and be more representative of the communities served by the MDC," said Brownell.

House Break

Judith Metzger, 71, of Fairmont Way reported to police Monday that thieves broke into her home by forcing a rear window and stole an Austrian 20 shilling piece and piled up several antiques before they were apparently frightened off.

Police Officers Thomas Bolinder and Joseph Phillips investigated.

Liquor Establishments To Get 'Happy Hour' Policy

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh requested at Tuesday's License Board meeting that copies of the board's recently approved policy on "happy hours" be sent to all Quincy liquor establishments.

The policy, which Dr. McKeogh submitted to the board, will also go to local package stores.

Approved at the March 16 meeting with City Clerk John Gillis opposed the policy states that:

- Such beverages should not be advertised, sold or offered free, or at prices which are less than one-half the usual price at that establishment;
- An "open bar" at a fixed price should not be advertised or offered;

- Package stores should not advertise, offer, or sell drink-sized containers singly or in multiples less than the usual packaging.

The policies are based on the belief that dispensing alcoholic beverages in a contrary manner "tends to increase drinking, drunkenness and drunken driving."

The board's policy is not legally binding, according to a ruling by City Solicitor William B. Golden.

Comments On Special Needs Athletic Night Coverage

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
On Monday evening March 15, I spent a very enjoyable evening watching a special needs athletic night at No. Quincy High School.

I saw children compete in races and conquer the task. I saw pride in their faces at having accomplished what they set out to do. I saw joy in their faces at the recognition they were receiving. It was their night, they were the stars!

When I got my Quincy Sun I opened it looking for news coverage of their achievements. I hoped I would see the happy faces of these kids, not only to remind me of an enjoyable evening, but to shower recognition on these children who so seldom get it.

When I closed my paper I felt these kids had been cheated. Instead of their accomplishments, a picture of adults passing a certificate was highlighted. This coverage completely missed the point of what the evening was all about, these special kids being recognized.

Next year when they have their night please be more aware of the kids.

Sincerely,

Ann L. Silverman
168 Elmwood Ave.

Editors note: The Sun did take photos of youngsters at the Special Needs Athletic Night but before using them had to first obtain permission from parents. At last week's deadline permission had not been obtained so only the photo of the adults was used. However, the required permission has since been received and we hope reader Ann Silverman will be happy to see them and a story this week on Page 19

Comments On Lenten Season Letter

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would like to respond to a letter written by Peter J. Maurano, Jr. that was published in the March 11th issue of your paper.

I have a rude awakening for Mr. Maurano!! The entire population of Quincy, 91,487 residents (to quote the Gentleman) does not celebrate Easter. Though we do respect the Lenten Season and Easter Sunday, very much, I must inform him that many Quincynites are of the Jewish faith and celebrate Passover. Therefore I do expect him to acknowledge us, as we do all our friends who do not celebrate our holiday with us.

Quincy Quiz

One winner in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Senator Paul D. Harold of 31 Riverside Ave., Adams Shore, wins a T-shirt.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the tax collector of Quincy?
2. Virginia Rd. is located in what sections of the city?
3. Which of these women never served on the Quincy City Council: Emma Tausant? Edna Austin? Ida Glasser?

4. What new Quincy landmark is located at 81 School St.

5. True or false: Presidents John and John Quincy Adams and their wives are buried in a crypt under the First Parish Church.

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Elmer Fagerlund, Patricia Ceriani and James Papile are the three members of the Board of Assessors.
2. Pray St. is located in the Quincy Point section of the city.
3. James A. Sheets did not serve on the Quincy School Committee.
4. The Wollaston Theater is located at 14 Beale St.
5. True. Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti is the only Quincy residents currently holding statewide elective office.

The First Ladies

I can get into trouble just sitting in front of a typewriter.

It usually happens when I go wandering into the subject of equal rights and women's liberation. Even though I am in favor of women having all the rights men do.

My problem is that I am also a firm believer in men's rights — old and new.

But I seldom make much noise about it. And when I do, I'm usually misunderstood and deep in trouble.

Like whenever I mention I don't care for the designation Ms. Everytime I hear it, I think of a buzzing mosquito. But if women want to use it, it's all right with me. As long as they let me keep my right not to use it if I don't want to.

You never hear me ask how come the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College isn't called the Person's Center if everything is supposed to be 100 per cent equal.

It never bothered me a bit when society editors for years went into lengthy detailed descriptions of what the bride wore at her wedding without even mentioning that the bridegroom had the decency to show up in a tux.

And speaking of society editors — who are usually women — how about the long-standing discrimination about grooms' pictures? Only the bride got her photo in the papers for years and years. In fact, it was The Sun that broke that taboo right here in Quincy. Now every groom has the right to be seen with his bride on the social page.

I could go on and on but I'm sure I'd only get deeper and deeper into trouble.

But I would like to comment a little about this year's Quincy High School girls basketball team and a request from them.

Led by Coach Peter Swanson, they had the best girls basketball season in the school's history. Quincy won its first girls Suburban League championship and went all the way to the finals in the Eastern Mass. Division I South tournament.

It was a super season and the girls are to be congratulated. But, they are a little unhappy with The Sun.

Not the coverage of the games. But The Sun's nickname for Quincy High School girls teams. We've been calling them the First Ladies for years. We think it is appropriate because, as everyone knows, the Quincy boys teams have long been nicknamed the Presidents. A natural nickname because of Quincy being "The City of Presidents".

The girls basketball team, it seems, would prefer to be called the Presidents, too. And request that we do that.

And, at this point, I may be about to get into more trouble.

Frankly, I think the Presidents name belongs to the boys. They had it first. And, for that matter, there has never been a woman President so calling girls the Presidents would seem inappropriate.

We've been calling the girls teams at North Quincy High School the Raiderettes for years. So far they haven't complained they want to be known as the Raiders as the boys have since Jack Donahue was coaching football.

The Sun covers a lot of boys and girls sports at both high schools and being able to use nicknames now and then allows us a little variety in stories and headlines. Two nicknames instead of one allows for even more variety.

We're sorry that this year's Quincy girls basketball team objects to the name First Ladies.

Wonder how the other girls teams and fans feel. Should we keep the nickname First Ladies or retire it? Is there a better nickname?

Suggestions, anyone?

SENATOR Paul Harold had a 100 per cent roll call record in the State Senate for the 1981 session, marking the third year in a row he has not missed a roll call.

State Majority Leader Daniel Foley's records show the Senate had 391 roll call votes during the year, and considered a total of 9,726 bills, not including a special legislation.

The 391 vote total for 1981 was more than double the 1980 total of 161 in both the regular and special sessions. The record means that Harold has not missed a roll call vote since he entered the State Senate in 1979.

McGRATH

THE SOUTH SHORE Chamber of Commerce annual dinner at the Lantana, Randolph, attracted more than 750 persons, one of the biggest — if not the biggest — turnouts in its history. It was Quincy's night, really with the two main awards going to well known Quincy figures:

The Rev. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church, received the "Humanitarian of the Year Award" and the O'Connell developer brothers, Peter and William, the "Business Family of the Year Award".

Peter had them smiling when he noted when he says his prayers at night he always asks God to bless several banks and insurance companies.

Fr. McCarthy and the O'Connell brothers also received special citations from Gov. Edward King and congratulations in a taped message from Vice-President George Bush. Commending Fr. McCarthy, Bush mused: "You give things away and in your profession, that's a humanitarian. If a politician does it, he's a Democrat."

During the campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination, both Bush and Ronald Reagan appeared at Chamber breakfast meetings. And each was presented a traditional Chamber seagull motif tie. Photos later showed both wearing the ties as they campaigned around the country. Bush, it seemed, had his on at least once a week. Maybe he has worn it out. In his taped message the other night he asked Chamber President Gene Roundtree to "send along a couple more Chamber ties."

Webster School Staff Protests Dual Principal

The staff of the Daniel Webster School is protesting a decision by the City-Wide Parent Council to petition the School Committee for separate principals in the elementary and middle schools.

Members of the staff noted that historically the school building in Quincy Point, which contains both the Webster and Point Junior High School, has been considered a complex.

Under the school reorganization plan, the junior high will become a middle school.

"It (the complex) functioned under the leadership of one principal," said the staff in a letter to the parent council.

"Many of us have taught here for a period of years and have always felt that the single principal was equally concerned with the welfare of both age groups.

"Dividing authority when the physical plant is one and has many common areas, i.e., the gymnasium, cafeteria and media center being shared by both groups would create problems.

"There would be a duplication of effort, a slowdown in decision making and needless expenditure of money that could be put to better use during this time of budget crisis."

The staff noted that the total combined enrollment of the Webster-Point complex has gone down from 842 in 1972 to 495 in the current school year.

Projected enrollment for 1983 and 1984, including students from the closed Pollard School, are 705 and 715.

"These figures clearly indicate," said the Webster staff, "that one principal adequately supervised a much larger enrollment in the past than is expected in the near future.

"Any change in administrative structure would not be in the best interest of the children of Quincy Point."

The staff endorsed current principal Joseph M. Long as "experienced, capable and qualified to respond to the needs of the complex."

City Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro has urged the School Committee to act favorably on a proposal to have two principals at the Webster-Point school complex.

For many years, one principal guided the destinies of the Daniel Webster Elementary School and the Point Junior High School, which share the same building in Quincy Point.

Under the school reorganization plan, students from the Pollard School will join the Webster students in the building and Point Junior will remain as a middle school.

The new complex will have many more students but less than the old one had 10 years ago.

DeCristofaro, in a letter to Mayor Francis X. McCauley, who is also School Committee chairman, noted that the parents of Pollard School children fought a losing battle to save that facility.

"Now, once again," he said,

"they have joined forces on the importance of two principals at the Point Webster complex."

"It is their feeling that with the increase in numbers at this complex and the situation of kindergarten with seventh and eighth grade students there should be a separation of authority.

"This request is made for the benefit of the children, if, in fact, the closing of the Pollard will not be reversed."

Lewis Named City Manager At $10,000 Yr.

The City Council elected Edward T. Lewis to the $10,000 a year post of city manager, replacing Donald H. Blatt who was leaving April 9 to accept a similar position in West Hartford, Conn.

The Council interviewed four candidates — Lewis, George W. Yarrington, executive secretary of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, William H. Mitchell, an engineer, and William A. Gildea of Weymouth.

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa said the vote for Lewis was 6-0 with one councillor, Mrs. Edna B. Austin, vacationing in Florida at the time.

Lewis, 50, who held a city job since 1925, had been Blatt's administrative assistant at $5,600 a year. He was to serve as city manager until Jan. 1, 1958, when Plan A was due to replace Plan E.

COSTLY SNOW STORMS

Department of Public Works officials said that three snow storms in eight days had cost the city $175,000 in snow removal expenses, raising the total since the first of the year to $264,000.

The first storm on March 16 cost $42,000, the second $98,000 and the third on March 24 cost $35,000. It was believed to be the most costly series of snow storms in the city's history.

Mayor Della Chiesa said it would mean $1.64 on the tax rate.

EXPLOSIVE PROTEST

West Quincy residents, led by S. Stanley Bowering and Mrs. Catherine DeCelle, protested the proposed removal of the Hercules Powder Co. from its present location off Ames St. to Willard St.

The company, headed by James D. Shea, had to move to make way for the Southeast Expressway and the License Board was withholding its permission pending intervention by the City Council.

JOINT MEETINGS

City Councillor James R. McIntyre introduced a resolution calling for the City Council and the School Committee to hold joint meeting twice a month.

"I believe that the Council would be more cooperative with the School Committee if we could have a more detailed knowledge as to their plans, objectives and problems," he said.

BUSINESS UP

The U.S. Census of Business showed that retail sales in 863 Quincy stores was up 33 per cent from 1948 to 1954 and store payrolls were up 28 per cent over the same period.

"These increases are due fundamentally to our parking program," said William A. O'Connell, executive vice president of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce.

Anti-Vivisection Society Donates Book To Library

The New England Anti-Vivisection Society (NEAVS), one of the country's oldest animal rights organizations, recently began a literature distribution program with communities and public, private secondary school libraries in Massachusetts.

Warren Watson, head librarian at Thomas Crane Public Library, recently received Margaret Tuttle's "The Crimson Cage", a young adult story about a Shetland Sheep Dog who became a victim of laboratory experimentation.

One thousand exclusive editions of "The Crimson Cage" have been made available to libraries. According to Robert M. Ford, President of Neavs, "The literature distribution program not only assists institutions in a time of funding cutbacks, but also helps raise the awareness among our youth about the unnecessary suffering resulting from vivisection." Notes Ford, "Many young people do not know what the word means. NEAVE opposes vivisection which results in the painful abuse of live animals in research, experimentation or testing."

Because of the positive response to "The Crimson Cage", the NEAVS literature review committee is already making plans for future literature offerings.

Paul Clasby Elected President Handicapped Children Assn.

ORAL HYGIENE FOR DENTURE WEARERS

Once people get their dentures they often think they don't have to pay much attention to their teeth any more. This isn't true.

Dentures, like natural teeth, tend to collect dirt. If you have a partial denture with clasps around the remaining natural teeth, this means that this dirt can be held tightly against your own teeth, causing decay. It is important to remove your partial denture after every meal and clean your own teeth AND the denture. There are special small round brushes made to clean inside the clasps. Your remaining teeth must be taken care of, or you may soon need a full denture.

Full dentures must also be cleaned after meals. Even patients with full dentures should be checked by their dentist at least every two years, even if their mouths feel comfortable, to make sure the dentures fit properly.

Q. HOW CAN I MAKE THE ROOMS IN MY VERY SMALL HOME APPEAR LARGER?

A. Paint the walls and ceiling a very light color or use a small foametric print to help "push out" your walls. The installation of a light to medium tone, wall to wall carpet, will unify and expand your visual space. Keeping furnishings and accessories to a minimum will help to achieve a more spacious look.

member of the Rural Masonic Lodge.

Husband of the late Mrs. Lucy (Brooks) Hutton, he is survived by a son, Sidney B. Hutton of West Harwich; a brother, David B. Hutton of Weymouth; and two granddaughters, Diane Hutton and Deborah Hutton, both of Quincy.

Rev. Steele Martin, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, officiated.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

March Of Dimes Opens Area Office In West Quincy

The Massachusetts Bay Chapter of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation announces the opening of a Community Service Office at 265 Willard St., West Quincy.

The office will serve 17 South Shore area communities.

The new South Shore office will enable those in area communities to take advantage of all the services offered and to become more involved in chapter activities.

A. Margorie Sandman, director of the South Shore office, said many local clubs, civic organizations and politicians have lost contact with the March of Dimes due to the broad chapter base.

"Though it is impossible to have an office in each community," Sandman said, "It is important for people on the South Shore to realize that the March of Dimes will now be able to more fully serve every community."

Energy Booklet Is Available

Copies of "Common Sense Conservation", an energy booklet compiled by the State Office of Communities and Development, is available from the office of Rep. Michael W. Morrissey.

The booklet explains in detail with illustrations the steps individuals can take to cut down their home heating bills.

Some of them are how and where to apply caulking compounds, how to install weather-stripping on doors and windows, how to insulate hot water pipes, the care and maintenance of radiators.

Further information is available by calling Morrissey's office at 722-2470.

Penance Service At Sacred Heart Church March 30

A Penance Service will be held at Sacred Heart Church, Hancock St., North Quincy on Tuesday, March 30 starting at 7:30 p.m.

The service will include music, scripture reading and a teaching by Rev. Kevin Cronin from Arch Street in Boston.

There will be an opportunity to go to Confession following the teaching. Priests from the parish as well as visiting clergy will be present.

Mass will be celebrated at approximately 9:45 p.m. All are welcome to attend and participate in the evening services. The theme is "To Experience The Forgiving Touch of Jesus Christ."

Evening Lenten Services At Faith Lutheran

Faith Lutheran Church will hold evening Lenten Vesper services Wednesday March 31 at 7:30 p.m. at 201 Granite St., Quincy.

Services are held jointly with the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd. The Rev. James L. Kimmell will officiate. His sermon will be "Just Who Is Boss Here?" Refreshments will be served. All are welcome.

Lenten Programs At Squantum Church

Lenten Programs are continuing at the First Church of Squantum Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m.

Theme of the programs is "The People of Jesus: The First Thirteen Centuries of the Christian Church."

"The Church Gets Power" was the title of the talk last night.

Church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin highlighted the characteristics of the medieval world in its interaction with the world and with God. He explained the development of the papacy and of the church hierarchy, and outlined causes and results of the Crusades.

Some of the personalities mentioned were Thomas Aquinas, Francis of Assisi, Bernard of Clairvaux, Bernard of Cluny, Pippin, Charlemagne, Pope Leo III, Henry IV of Germany, Pope Gregory VII, and Pope Urban II (1088-1099) who almost single-handedly led Europe into the first Crusade.

Young people of the church served a Lenten dinner before the program to raise money for youth programs around the church.

The dinner next week at 6:30 p.m. will be a turkey dinner.

Reservations, which should be made in advance, can be made by calling the church office at 328-6649.

Inspirational Rock Concert Saturday At Sacred Heart

The Sacred Heart Church Prayer Community of North Quincy will sponsor an Inspirational Rock Concert, Antioch Ministries with John Police Saturday, March 27, at 8 p.m. in the main church, 400 Hancock St., North Quincy.

New Law Clarifies No Fault Divorce

Divorcing couples who decide to use "no fault" divorce after they start proceedings will no longer have to start the waiting period all over again under new legislation, Sen. Paul D. Harold reports.

The new law provides that when a complaint for divorce is amended to cite "irretrievable breakdown of the marriage" as the grounds, where the parties do not file a property settlement agreement, the one-year waiting period continues from the date the original action was begun.

Because the law was unclear, some courts previously required couples to start the waiting period over when they changed their minds about the grounds for their divorce, Harold said.

OCC Meets

The Quincy Conservation Commission was scheduled to meet yesterday (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room at 100 Southern Artery.

The Commission was to hear a report of a field inspection at 12 Sumac Rd., Squantum, and take up the request for determination of applicability by Ronald W. Keating of 163 Bayside Rd., Squantum.

Great Hour Of Sharing Held At Squantum Church

Members and friends of the First Church of Squantum observed "One Great Hour of Sharing" during the Sunday morning worship service with the Lord's Supper.

A special offering was taken to help needy persons throughout the world.

The hour of sharing is observed at this time in many Protestant churches of North America.

The offering is an attempt to minister in the name of Jesus Christ to victims of war, famine and natural disasters by giving emergency relief and supporting long-range tasks of development to eradicate hunger, thirst and disease.

Before the Lord's Supper, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, preached a sermon on "The Difference Between Religion and Faith."

The text was from a public address by the apostle Paul in Athens: "Men of Athens, I perceive that in every way you are very religious." (Acts 17:22b)

Seated with the pastor at the Lord's Table were Deacons Doris Longmire, Leon McIntyre, Hazel Mayne, Tom Williamson and Kathryn Hansen.

At the time of receiving the elements of the supper, members of the church renewed their covenant with God and with each other by reading the church covenant together as a church.

Earlier in the service, the pastor had spoken with the children about "The Beautiful Hands of Jesus."

For the anthem, the Chancel Choir sang an early American folk tune "O Come and Mourn" as arranged by Hal Hopson. Mary Ruth Scott directed. Soloist was Lee Sindelar.

Greeters were Ed and Marie Reister with their daughters Karin and Kristen. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Ellen Ogilvie, Pat Sorensen and Sandra Stohlberg.

The service next Sunday will begin at 10:15 a.m.

Shroud Of Turin Film At St. John's Sunday

"Silent Witness," a film on the Shroud of Turin, will be shown in the lower church of St. John's Church, School St., Quincy, Sunday at 7 p.m.

The film discusses evidence that the Shroud of Turin is the actual cloth in which the body of Jesus Christ was buried.

Computers In Small Business Chamber Topic

Can a computer benefit a small business?

The question will be explored by a leading computing consultant at the first of a series of monthly meetings of the Small Business Consulting Center, a division of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

The program, "How to Select and Install a Small Business Computer" will be held Thursday, April 2, at Valle's Restaurant, Braintree.

John Hansen, a computing consultant and author of "How to Select and Install a Computer System", will conduct the program. Hansen has an extensive background in computers through his association with BTI Computer Systems, Sperry Univac, Data General, Digital Equipment Corp., and RCA.

He will deal with such issues as

Beachcomber To Appear Before License Board

The Quincy License Board has requested that the owner of the Beachcomber, Quincy Shore Drive, appear at next week's meeting to discuss alleged serving of a minor and traffic problems.

According to Police Chief Francis Finn, the board would like to question the owner about the alleged serving of a 19 year old girl, Cynthis Elias, who was later struck by a car and seriously injured on Quincy Shore Drive.

The owner will also be asked about plans requested by the board for another exit from the parking lot.

Watch. Cash Taken

Thieves broke into a 1975 Chevrolet El Camino owned by Ralph Costello of Elmwood Ave., Wollaston, Sunday and stole a radio, a CB set and a tack gauge.

Mrs. Margaret Dougherty, 73, of Verchild St., South Quincy, reported to police that someone broke into her house through a bathroom window and stole a gold watch with diamonds, gold earrings and $500 in cash early Monday night.

The break was investigated by Police Officers William Falco and Thomas Bolinder.

Donut Shop Approved For West Quincy

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The Quincy License Board voted 4 to 1 Tuesday to approve a license for Donut King, Inc., 151 Copeland St., West Quincy.

Voting against the common victualer license for the shop was Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh.

Joseph L. Melchione of Quincy told the board that donuts would be baked on the premises, and filters placed on the vents to "cut down on smoke and odors."

Melchione, who has worked at other donut shops, said that the shop will have about 20 seats, and will be open 6 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

"Let's refresh our memories on Adams St.," said Fire Chief Edward Barry, referring to problems of cooking odors from establishments in that area.

"If there are problems with odors, it's your obligation to solve them," said Building Inspector Allan MacDonald.

"The technology doesn't exist to destroy odors," maintained Dr. McKeogh.

Melchione told the board he would rectify any problems that arise relative to odors, and that restriction was written into the license.

License Board Briefs

The City License Board took the following action at Tuesday morning's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted Mass. Cerebral Palsy Association a one day all alcoholic license for a testimonial dinner Friday, May 21, 6:30 p.m. to midnight at the Fore River Clubhouse.

- Granted with Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh opposed, requests from the Quincy Legion Post Auxiliary for a flea market and cake sale April 3, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the post home, and a poppy drive April 29, 30 and May 1, (rain dates May 13, 14 and 15).

- Continued for two weeks a request from Lauri and Denise's Variety, 87-89 Copeland St., for two video machines. Police Chief Francis Finn said he would like time to consider the request since there has been some problems in the area.

- Granted the North Quincy High School Music Parents Group a one day all alcoholic license for a scholarship and benefit dance Friday, 7 p.m. to midnight at North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall.

- Approved change of manager for the Furnace Brook Golf Club, Inc., off Summit Ave., from Marty Healy to William F. Fraher of Weymouth. The change must now be approved by the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission.

- Granted a one day all alcoholic license to the Quincy Youth Arena, Inc., for a dinner dance Friday, April 30, 6:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. at North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall.

- Granted a one day all alcoholic license to the Woodward School Parents Club to be used in conjunction with a Las Vegas night Saturday, March 27, 7 p.m. to midnight at the school. Proceeds will benefit the scholarship fund.

- Referred to the police department for further investigation matter involving alleged operation of a lodging house at 74 Bigelow St. without a license.

- Granted a request from Chevron Service Station, 588 Adams St., for a Motor II (used car) license for three cars. The property is to be kept clean, and signs are to be approved by the Building Inspector.

- Granted a one day all alcoholic license to the North Quincy High School Track Boosters Club to be used in conjunction with a Las Vegas Night Saturday, April 3, 7 p.m. to midnight at North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall.

- Approved a request from Vincent P. Sullivan, 86 Beach St., for change of auctioneer's license. Sullivans plans to sell antiques and used furniture at 1043 Hancock St. He is to report to the police any sales involving second hand gold or silver.

Pop-Up TV Stolen

A four-inch Panasonic television, AM and FM radio and tape player valued at $300 was stolen from the home of Christopher Brighton on Walnut St., Atlantic, Monday night.

Also taken were four MDC police shirts and a digital clock. Police officers Robert Kelley and Anthony DiBona investigated the break.

Buick Stolen

Carol Magner of Standish Rd., Squantum, reported to police Tuesday that her 1981 Buick Regal was stolen from its parking place on Des Moines Rd., Quincy Point.

ORDER OF PRIORITY

If a $10 fire extinguisher saves a $30,000 home, the economics are self-evident. If that same extinguisher misleads a person into forgetting logical, intelligent priorities, a discussion of economics is inappropriate.

What is the proper order of priority in case of fire in the home? First: Be certain that everyone is evacuated (fire drills are recommended). Second: Notify the fire department. Third: If the fire is a small one, and if you are sure which class it is, and if you can safely fight it, then consider fighting it. Just keep in mind that this is a dangerous business for an amateur. Often a fatal business.

In regard to the purchase and ownership of a fire extinguisher, remember to be certain that it carries a UL (Underwriters' Laboratories) label, and that it is neither too heavy nor too complicated to operate during what probably will be a panicky time.

Cutbacks Jeopardize Program Koch Club Basketball May End After 33 Years

The Koch Club of Quincy will complete its 33rd season of Youth Basketball Programs Thursday night at the Atlantic Junior High School.

It may close out the program for good because of recent cutback voted by the School Committee to curtail the use of school facilities after the regular school day by non-school or outside organizations.

The Koch Club Basketball Recreation Program was initiated in 1949 at the original North Quincy High School gym and expanded to include the Broad Meadows Junior High School and Montclair Elementary School Gymnasium in later years. In 1980, the 17 year old Broad Meadows and 11-year old Montclair District Basketball programs were discontinued when the hourly rate for gymnasium use increased from $3 to $12 an hour with an hour for cleanup added. The parent North Quincy District continued welcoming those who could obtain transportation to Atlantic Junior High School gym on Thursday evenings.

Richard J. Koch, executive director and founder of the Koch Club said that if the gym is available in the fall the program, its 34th season would be initiated.

In the early 1970's during the energy crisis, the program was continued despite the reduction in heat necessitated by the shortage of oil and the program was continued at the three locations.

It is estimated that more than 5,000 have enjoyed the winter weekly recreation activity for the past 33 years in the basketball program alone.

The Koch Club, in its 34 years of organization, has sponsored year round basketball, bowling, baseball and softball activities with approximately 75,000 girls and boys from ages five through 15 participating in four geographical districts of the city.

The summer boys baseball and girls softball leagues are the most popular and involve the largest numbers.

YMCA Gym Teams Place 3rd, 4th

The South Shore YMCA Class II and III gym teams did well in last Sunday's state championships in Salem, the Class II team placing third and the Class III team finishing fourth.

"These strong finishes were the result of hours of practice," said Coach Jane McGilvray.

This is the Y's first year in Class II. Teams in this class must perform both compulsory and optional routines in the all-around category.

The efforts of Julie Killion, Patricia Novak and Diane Raftery qualified the team to represent Quincy in the Northeast Regional championships in New York. Killion won an individual honor, placing fifth in the vault.

The Class III team performed compulsorily well with Natalie Nigro taking fifth in balance beam. Leading optional competition was Jennifer Raftery, who placed second all-around, second on vault and sixth on floor exercise. Michele Healy won on uneven bars and took third on floor exercise and Nicole Manton took fifth on balance beam.

Class III members qualifying for the Northeast Regionals were Raftery, Manton and Healey.

Youth Soccer Opens Season April 4

The expanding Quincy Youth Soccer League will open its spring season April 4, completing its second full season of operation.

Since its inception in 1980 the league has brought a soccer program to both Quincy's junior and senior high schools that will soon rank among the tops in the state. It has tripled its registration in its two years of existence and now sports 40 teams with an average of 18 to 20 boys and girls on each team. There will be four new teams this spring.

The league will play at the varsity soccer field behind Veterans Stadium, Broad Meadows Junior High, Perkins Field and Cavanagh Stadium in North Quincy on Sundays throughout the spring.

Boys and girls from grades 1 through 9 will be competing in the league.

Durfee Ousts North In Tech Tourney

Russ Gibson's basket with two seconds remaining in overtime gave the Durfee High School basketball team a 59-57 victory over North Quincy and eliminated the Red Raiders from the Tech Tournament.

North Quincy led 54-50 with two minutes remaining in regulation time in the quarterfinal contest but Durfee tied it with a basket and a pair of free throws by Al Attar to send the game into overtime.

Durfee froze the ball for almost the last minute and 45 seconds of regulation time but was unable to get off the last shot.

With 25 seconds left to play in the overtime, the Raiders' Bob Walsh calmly dropped in two free throws to tie the game only to have Gibson come back to score the winning basket.

Doug Grutchfield had 16 points, Walsh 14, Jack Crowley 13, Al Adams six, and Don Stevenson and Cliff Cox four apiece for North Quincy while Attar led Durfee with 20 points.

"I have absolutely no alibis," said North Quincy Coach Jack Mullarkey. "I am very proud of our boys and I think they played a wonderful game. Durfee was just a little bit better."

LEAGUE DROPS NORTH

Bob Laing, faculty manager of athletics at North Quincy High School, reacted angrily to the news that North Quincy, Quincy, Canton and Sharon had been dropped from the Norfolk County Golf League.

The remaining teams in the league, Norwood, Dedham and Walpole, were absorbed into the Bay State League where those schools held membership in other sports.

"The Bay State League has scored again," said Laing angrily. "After more than 20 years of continuous competition in the Norfolk County Golf League, North has been dropped without even an explanation."

Laing said his Raiders have been trying to get into the Bay State League, which would make scheduling problems easier, but were told that the Quincy school is too far away for satisfactory travel.

COACH'S LAMENT

Quincy High School football coach Bill Sullivan, two weeks into spring training with his squad, boiled his problems down to a formula that went like this: CMG divided by F equals O. Translated: Cars, Money and Girls divided by Football equals Zero.

"We have lost three players who could definitely make our varsity team," he said, "but they have given up football to go to work -- not to help the family out but because:

"They want a car. They need money for a car. They need the car to meet girls, who cost more money.

"We have no objections to cars, money or girls, but when they take precedence over football, something is wrong."

SCANLON BASKET WINS

Tom Morrell set up Tom Scanlon for the winning hoop as the buzzer sounded to give the Quincy High School basketball team a 61-60 victory over the Old Timers in the annual Q Club game.

The Quincy lineup included Scanlon, Brown, Marshall, Richard, Rockwell, O'Brien, forwards; Morrell, Rhodes, centers; Allsop, Galante, Naylor, Needel, guards.

WILLIAMS ASSAULTS DRAFT

Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams, a Marine flying hero in two wars, charged that young Johnny Podres, the Brooklyn Dodgers' star pitcher, "is paying the penalty for being a star" by being drafted.

"It's the fault of gutless politicians, gutless draft boards and gutless sports writers that a kid like Podres is being drafted," said Williams at the Red Sox training camp in Sarasota, Fla.

"When he became a hero in the world series, politicians said, 'Why isn't a big strong kid like that in the Army?' The draft boards didn't have the courage to oppose the politicians and the sportswriters are equally to blame because they did not take up the case for Podres."

SPORTS BITS '56

Eddie Densmore, the tournament's most valuable player, had 18 points but his North Quincy Independents bowed to the Dorchester YMCA, 74-71, in the finals of the Dorchester Y tourney....World Heavyweight Boxing Champion Rocky Marciano of Brockton, who last fought in September when he defeated Archie Moore, said he was thinking about retiring....Clement Nelson of Maypole Rd., Merrymount, was named the most improved player on the Wheaton College football team in Wheaton, Ill....Washington outfielder Roy Sievers was rumored to be coming to the Red Sox in trade for Ted Lepcio and Dick Gemert....The Quincy Park Softball League expanded from eight to 10 teams with the additions of Wells Cafe and the Squantum Aces....Commander William B. Brenner of the Squantum was re-elected head of the Quincy Power Squadron.

Lots Of Stars At Special Needs Athletic Night

To the cheers of over 400 people, 70 students in the Quincy Public Schools demonstrated their athletic prowess and skill at the Second Annual Special Needs Athletic Night in the North Quincy High School gymnasium.

The event was arranged by Dr. Patricia Del-Val in cooperation with Mary Pratt and Carol Messina, adaptive physical educators, Jack Raymer was announcer.

Coached by teachers Sandra Murray, Connie Graham, Brenda Shore, Anne Smith, Gail Nogueira, and Ellen Hurley, the following children from the Snug Harbor, Pollard, Parker, Willard and Montclair Schools participated in novelty relays:

Team 1: Dana Martin, captain; Brian Brunstrom, Brian Jabotte, Frances Langley, Christina McPhall, Chris O'Connor, Robert O'Keefe, Edward Fortey.

Team 2: P. J. Flaherty, captain; Keith Dunn, Kenneth Lombardi, Susan McGonagle, Michael McManus, Tommy Peterson, Erin Riley, John Downey.

Team 3: Russell Walsh, captain; Richard Buckley, T. J. Fantasia, Billy Keefe, Michelle Mullen, Todd Stewart, Colin Nee.

Team 4: James Brown, captain; Raquel Cavalero, David Lee, Edward Shine, Sean Kennedy, Patricia Walsh, Robin West.

A volleyball game between students from the Mass Fields, Wollaston, and Merrymount Schools set the tone for the second event.

Under the watchful eye of teacher coaches Robin Billing, Dorothea Craig, and Maureen Wurzberg, captain John Lennon led his team to victory. Participants included:

Team 1: John Lennon, captain; Kenneth McCloskey, Elaine McKeon, Gerry Neal, Karin Picarski, Mark Smith, Danny Troy, Michael Losee, Kevin Cunningham.

Team 2: John Farley, captain; Lori Cinquergano, Tony DiBona, Michael LaChance, Mathew Lalama, Tracy Princiotta, Timmy Ring, Sean Peachey, Robert Kyler.

In a fast paced, basketball game, Jim Lynch coached his team to a 16 to 12 victory over David Donovan's and Howard Mason's team.

Lynch's team included Michele Germain, Margaret Goguen, Paul Grant, Timmy Jones, Eugene Kvan, Eugene Rinaldi, Richard Salomone, and Richard Smith.

Opposition was provided by James Agres, Dale Bartolotti, Mike Cassidy, Anne Conlin, Rusty Herrett, Bill Mahoney, Tim Murphy, Laura Neal, Joe Ruscio, Michael Smith, Joe Howe, and Tim Bleehen.

To the applause of the crowd, Eugene Kvan, Eugene Rinaldi, Bill Mahoney, Paul Grant, and Richard O'Brien played an outstanding game.

The night marked the second major win for Lynch's team.

On March 13, 1982, at the Eastern Regional of Special Olympics Basketball Tournament, Lynch's team won a gold medal in the 16 years and under division.

In addition, members of Donovan's team won a silver medal in the over 16 years division at the same tournament.

Awards to all students were presented by Mayor Francis X. McCauley, Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, and Peter J. Chrisom.

Adding to the festive spirit of the evening was the music of the North Quincy High School Band under the direction of Anthony Ferrante.

Members of the North Quincy High School Student Council served refreshments, some donated by O'Brien's Bakery, Gib's Bakery, and the Mug and Muffin.

Special Needs Athletic Night is one of the many activities planned as part of Special Needs Awareness Month in the City of Quincy.

St. John's Baseball Registration Starts Sunday

Registration for St. John's baseball and softball leagues will continue Sunday, March 28, and Sunday, April 4 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the rectory hall.

Boys 8 through 12 (must be 13 after Aug. 1), are eligible for the baseball leagues and girls 12 through 18 (must be 19 after Aug. 1) are eligible for softball.

Coaches, managers, umpires and anyone else interested in helping out in St. John's baseball are asked to call Tony Porcaro at 479-5751.

Meetings will be held Tuesday, April 6, and Tuesday, April 13 at 7 p.m. in the first floor classroom at the school. All those interested in helping out in any capacity are asked to attend.

A banquet for all boys who played basketball for St. John's will be held Saturday, April 17, preceded by Mass at 4 p.m.

WJDA Featuring Red Sox Interviews

Radio Station WJDA is currently presenting its annual series of interviews with Red Sox players from Winter Haven, Fla.

The series of 48 interviews was conducted in Florida by station sports director Charles Ross. The programs are presented Monday through Saturday at 12:30 and 4:50 p.m.

While on assignment in Florida Ross was heard doing live updates on spring training every morning. The Sox starting lineup is being featured on the programs, along with Manager Ralph Houk and team officials.

Some of the other featured guests are Los Angeles Dodgers manager Tommy LaSorda, Chicago White Sox manager Tony LaRussa, Richie Hebner of Walpole and the Detroit Tigers and Red Sox prospect Bobby Biagini of North Quincy.

The programs will run through April 3 on WJDA at 1300 on the dial.

QYHA Annual Meeting March 31

The annual meeting of Quincy Youth Hockey Association will be held at the Youth Arena on Wednesday, March 31, at 7 p.m. All members are invited to attend for the financial report and open discussion.

Nominations for election to the board of directors will be taken, with the voting to take place the nights of registration.

Registrations for the 1982-83 season will be held April 14 and 15 from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Youth Arena. The fee will be $10 for the first child and $5 for each additional child in the same family. Registration fees will be increased after April 15.

Beginners, born 1977 or after, who want hockey instruction are invited to register on these nights for the program beginning in the fall. The fee is $5, and those registering for the first time must bring birth certificates and proof of residence.

Plans for the annual Family Day and schedule and fees for A and B team tryouts will be available at registration.

HN Women's Softball Registration

The Houghs Neck Women's Recreational Association will hold registration for the summer softball season Tuesday, March 30, at 7 p.m. at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall. Registration fee will be $6.

Houghs Neck women 19 and older as of May 1 are eligible to play in this league which does not require tryouts and is a league in which everyone plays.

Quincy Pee Wee B's Invited To Buffalo Tourney

Quincy's Pee Wee B Hockey team has been invited to play in a regional tournament the first week in April in Buffalo.

Quincy will be one of two Massachusetts teams to represent the state. The balance of the eight-team field will include teams from New England, the Mid-America region and the New York region.

The Quincy team recently completed its state tournament action, advancing to the semifinals before losing to Stoneham, the tournament winner, 5-3.

Quincy's strong challenge in the tournament led to its invitation to the regional tournament. Quincy topped Milton, 5-3; Stoughton, 5-1, and Westwood, 3-1, in the district playdown, then defeated Cape Ann, 3-2; Shrewsbury, 7-4, and Woburn, 2-0, before bowing to Stoneham in the state semi finals.

The Pee Wee B's are in first place in the South Shore Conference with two games left and are gearing up for the conference playoffs.

The team has been backboned all year by the strong goaltending of Ronnie Fletcher and Brian Mahoney, who have allowed only 1.44 goals a game, including 14 shutouts in 56 games.

The defense corps has been outstanding, led by Scott Hohmann, John Pacino, Wayne Chambers, Mike McClory, Paul McGrath and Jeff MacDonald.

The scoring punch has come from Mike Bartkus, Tony Pece, Paul Scola, Rich Connelly, Eric Seamans, Rich Golden, Hank Miller, Shawn O'Neil, Greg Chambers and Eddie Mortell.

The team is coached by Charlie Chambers and Tony Scola.

St. Joseph's To Present 'Hello New York'

Rehearsals are underway for "Hello New York" the annual variety show of St. Joseph's Parish, Quincy Point, to be presented Saturday and Sunday, April 17 and 18, at Atlantic Junior High School.

Show times will be 8:30 p.m. There will be a special children's performance April 17, at 1 p.m.

Ed Rooney is directing the show with a musical love letter to the "Big Apple". Choreographer is Mary Murphy.

The show will feature songs and dances from Broadway, and a nostalgic look at New York's main attractions.

Over 150 boys and girls, teenagers and adults make up the cast.

A program ad book will be available to those attending the show.

Proceeds from the ad book and ticket sales will be used to sponsor programs for children in grades one to eight in the parish.

Tickets can be purchased from cast members, or by calling Frank Brillo, 471-0057, or Anne Marie McBride, 479-2212.

A limited number of tickets will be available at the door on a first come, first serve basis.

Reception Sunday To Open Art Association Show

The Quincy Art Association will open its annual juried show with a reception "A Toast to the Arts" Sunday, 2 to 4 p.m. at the National Fire Protection Association, Batterymarch Park, West Quincy.

The reception is for association members and their guests.

The exhibit will be open to the public March 29 to April 2, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Guest artist Eugene Conlon will exhibit several of his watercolors.

Conlon's work shows New England, its buildings and bridges.

He is a member of the American Watercolor Society, Boston Watercolor Society, Guild of Boston Artists and South Shore Art Association.

"SHOWBOAT '82" will be presented by Blue Hills Regional School Friday through Sunday at Canton High School. From left, are Alfred Varraso of Braintree; Tom Lennon, Canton; William Cahill, show director, Gordon McConaty and Gordon McConaty, Jr., all of Quincy. For ticket information, call 828-5800.

3 Local Residents In 'Showboat '82'

Three Quincy residents will be among those participating in "Showboat '82" to be presented by Blue Hills Regional School at Canton High School Friday to Sunday.

Show time will be 8 p.m. each night. There will also be a Saturday matinee at 2 p.m. with reduced ticket prices.

Local residents taking part in the show are William Cahill, show director, Gordon McConaty and Gordon McConaty, Jr.

Students, staff, instructors, past graduates, family and friends will take part in the show.

Proceeds will benefit scholarships for students attending Blue Hills, and are donated to other local charities.

Tickets will be available at the door, or may be reserved by calling the school at 828-5800, ext. 208.

WEEK OF: MARCH 25

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Hostile personality may enter your environment but it is possible to remain uninvolved. Workload increases through the week. Romantic partner may be ready to make a major commitment.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Bright light is shed on outstanding financial matter. Gemini or Libra may step into friendship scene. Resistance to your ideas is not a veto, so go back to the drawing board.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Enjoy opportunities to use newly developed skill, but realize that there's still much to learn. Communication tie-ups mean delays in completing projects. A good hunting week if between jobs.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Speak your mind at home; in the car, clear up a basketful of correspondence. Children benefit from your encouraging remarks. Older relative shows unexpected optimism.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Romantic disappointment is shortlived; don't make much ado about something quite minor. Delayed educational activity is back in motion by Monday. Lecturing or guest speaking spotlighted on weekend.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Taking a trip or entertaining with panache are featured. Important people are discussing your future; be clever without being a showoff. New policies surprise you on Monday.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Give and take arrangements involve an excess of the former. If working out any kind of document, total patience is a must. In-laws decide to back you on a family matter.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Decide whether requests are appealing to your mind, your heart, or your ego — then act accordingly. Wit sparkles, making you the life of every party you attend this social week.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Good time to catch up on miscellaneous health needs and clear up mini misunderstandings. Speak up if you doubt partner's judgment. Interesting travel is favored through the week.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Easy to misinterpret loved one's motives; be a little less quick to speak out. Weekend offers chance to make some extra cash. Good period to sign up for group-oriented sports program.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

It's delightful to be a Sagittarius, for you're entering a lucky cycle. There's encouraging financial news on Thursday. Your mate may need an ego boost; be a patient listener.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Home improvement project may be delayed, there's little you can do to speed matters up. Ideas about job or academic values are changing. Don't make too many quick decisions just yet.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

When they discuss fiery personalities, they speak of you. "They" also note your abundant energy, competitive spirit and need to be appreciated. Appreciation comes mostly in intangible forms this year. Saying hello to new friends is accented through the summer.

BORN THIS WEEK

March 25th, singer Aretha Franklin. 26th, playwright Tennessee Williams. 27th, actress Gloria Swanson. 28th, actor Dirk Bogarde. 29th, singer Pearl Bailey. 30th, actor Warren Beatty. 31st, actress Shirley Jones.

IRA Clinic Held At 1st American

An overflow crowd filled the lobby of 1st American Bank, Granite St., Quincy Center, for the first in a series of bank sponsored IRA clinics Monday night.

Some 78 persons filled the bank building for the free, 75 minute presentation, hosted by bank president Robert G. Lee.

Panelists included Atty. C. Dixon Matthews, CPA, a Quincy born member of the public accountancy firm of Wolf & Co. of Massachusetts; and Sandra Logan, assistant treasurer and manager of the bank's pension plan department.

The program is to help inform people of their options when shopping for the new Independent Retirement Accounts. It is modeled after a series of homebuying clinics which the bank has presented.

"The response to tonight's program was very gratifying, and it underscores the need for consumer education for bank services," said Edward Forry, bank marketing officer. "The reaction from our audience was quite enthusiastic, and people indicated to me that they felt a good deal more informed about the IRA retirement plans when they went home tonight than they did when they arrived."

IRAs were authorized by the federal government to enable persons to invest a portion of their earnings each year in a tax-sheltered environment. The savings appreciate, building a "nest egg" for retirement years. IRA investments may be withdrawn without penalty when a worker reaches the age of 59½.

"There has been much publicity and heavy media advertising about IRAs, both here and throughout the country," Forry said. "We think that many of the claims made for IRAs have bordered on the outrageous. A program like tonight's enables a consumer to hear first hand from some experts about the real value of the IRA accounts, and to make some intelligent, well-informed decisions about what is best for each individual."

Forry said that future programs would be planned, and that interested persons can register by calling Mrs. Thelma Wilde at 471-1112.

O'Lindy's Lucky Total Contest For MDA

The final drawing in Olindy's Lucky Total Contest for MDA will be held Monday, March 29. Olindy's co-owner John Mezzetti will bowl three strings. The person who bowls - or guesses - closest to Mezzetti's total will win a Paramount bowling balls and carrying bag set.

Each entry requires a 50-cent fee. Proceeds benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Winner of the March 15 drawing was Dave Walsh of Quincy, who bowls with Quincy Fire Department League with a guess of 344.

Runner-up was Ann O'Brien of Quincy who won a bowling towel.

Lorraine Ingenito Completes Century 21 Course

Lorraine Ingenito of the Quincy office of Century 21 Tullish & Clancy, Real Estate, Inc., has completed the Century 21 2&1 Course in Brockton.

A Weymouth resident, she has been in the real estate business with Tullish & Clancy for two and a half years.

She is an active member of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors, the Massachusetts Association of Realtors and the National Association of Realtors.

Prior to her career in real estate, Miss Ingenito was associated with a national company in a sales capacity.

Harold Urges Continued Flu Vaccine For Elderly

Sen. Paul D. Harold has urged the State Department of Public Health not to scrap its flu vaccine program for senior citizens.

Harold contacted Health Commissioner Alfred Frechette after learning that the state program is to be eliminated due to the loss of federal funding and restricted state spending.

Local health departments would purchase vaccine at their own expense rather than being provided with it by the state under the new plan.

"I can appreciate the budget constraints," said Harold, "but I would like to point out most emphatically that the individuals benefited by this program are, by definition, 'high risk.'"

"They are in the main senior citizens, whose limited financial resources are well known to us all."

"Since virtually all budgets have been drafted by this time, if not already voted upon, this sudden discontinuance will make it impossible for many communities to plan funds for the vaccine."

Harold urged Frechette to re-examine his figures to see if he could find funds or else file a deficiency budget request with the legislature.

"The state Public Health Department has a $109 million budget, and while I recognize that they have a lot to cover, I also think it would be easier for them to find the money than for local health departments to come up with it," said Harold.

He cited a letter from Quincy Health Commissioner Robert P. McKeogh, who estimated that Quincy would need 4,000 vaccine doses at a projected cost of about $12,000.

Dr. McKeogh just doesn't have an extra $12,000 in his budget, and there really isn't any way he can get it at this point," Harold said.

Harold told Dr. Frechette that although agencies at all levels are under fiscal constraints, "this particular program, with its direct impact on the most susceptible segment of the population, deserves to be continued."

USDA Food Book

At Donnelly Office

"Will There Be Enough Food?", a lavishly illustrated publication of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is available at no charge from the office of Cong. Brian J. Donnelly in the Quincy Post Office.

The 300-page book details the problems of American agriculture in the face of declining farmland, discouraging long range weather forecasts and rising energy costs.

Donnelly noted that Massachusetts depends on other states for 83 per cent of its food, adding, "we have a vital interest in making sure that this country's agricultural resources are used wisely."

After Board Stalemate Condon Seeks 1 A.M. Bar Ordinance

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"Round one is over, but round two has just begun," says Councillor Joanne Condon who plans to introduce an ordinance at Monday's City Council meeting to roll back liquor establishment hours from 2 to 1 a.m.

Mrs. Condon's action comes in the wake of the License Board's 2 to 2 stalemate on the issue Tuesday morning.

Voting to roll back the hours were Building Inspector Allan MacDonald and Fire Chief Edward Barry who think it would be "in the best interest of the city" because of alcohol related traffic accidents, fatalities and police calls around 2 a.m.

Opposed were City Clerk John Gillis, who favors possible roll back on an individual basis, and Police Chief Francis Finn who has said he would favor a state wide roll back, but not one just in Quincy.

The fifth board member, Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh voted "present", after his motion for a two week continuance died.

McKeogh requested the time to delve into the medical aspects of the proposed hours roll back.

"You spent a lot of time in the accident room," MacDonald said to McKeogh, "I don't see why you can't take a stand."

"I don't have solid information," replied McKeogh who showed the board several reports he has been studying.

Mrs. Condon said she was "surprised, shocked and disappointed" at the board's lack of action.

After the meeting, she asked that a motion be made for the board to reconsider the issue. Gillis later indicated that such a motion would be made next week.

Mrs. Condon said she would introduce the ordinance "if she legally can" after checking with the solicitor's office.

Solicitor William Golden indicated in February that the City Council could roll back the hours, said Mrs. Condon.

A public hearing would then have to be held on the matter, she said.

"I'm more anxious to see the license board deal with this," said Mrs. Condon. "They're the people who issue and monitor licenses."

"The license board always indicates it wants input," she said, "but it has absolutely not listened to the people."

"I feel bad for the city. People deserve a stand, for or against."

"I hope Dr. McKeogh takes a stand one way or another."

5000 More Parking Warning Notices Being Mailed

By JOHN NOONAN

Another 5000 notices for motorists who have ignored paying their parking fines are being mailed out this week by City Clerk John Gillis.

Gillis said that 5000 notices were mailed out a week ago and that fines owed the city had been enriching the city coffers to the tune of $4000 to $5000 a day.

He expected collections to tail off a bit but in the long run the city stands to collect as much as $400,000 of the half million dollars owed in parking fines since 1978, he said.

About 100,000 tickets were outstanding, according to Gillis.

"The motivating force to pay for back tickets is the fact that the delinquents can lose their licenses and registrations if they don't pay," said Gillis.

Parking fines in Quincy used to be collected by Quincy District Court in a manual operation that soon slipped hopelessly in arrears as motorists ignored the tickets.

In January, the collection of fines was turned over to the City Clerk and the contract has been awarded a Boston bank to provide computer service to track down the violators.

The notices indicate the amount of the parking fines plus the fee for late payment.

Relief For Motorists Delayed

South Shore commuters hoping for some small relief in their daily ordeal at the Rte. 3-Rte. 128 I-93 intersection in Braintree-Quincy will have to wait until Monday, April 5.

State DPW Commissioner Sandino J. Tersigni announces that changes to the traffic patterns for northbound Rte. 3 motorists approaching that intersection under construction have been put back another five days. The changes were to take place Wednesday.

The new traffic plan calls for no interruption to the normal traffic pattern for motorists desiring to connect to the Southeast Expressway or Route 128 until after 9 a.m.

From 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. all northbound motorists will be directed to the Southeast Expressway towards Boston. The existing connecting ramp to 128 northbound will be closed to all travel at that time.

Traffic from Rte. 3 desiring to connect to Rte. 128 will have to take the Southeast Expressway to Furnace Brook Parkway interchange to reverse direction to connect to Rte. 128.

Boston bound motorists from Rte. 3 will not be affected but will be able to proceed on the existing connector to the Southeast Expressway.

This revised traffic pattern is expected to be in operation for a period of three to four weeks.

Pharmacy Held Up

The Brewers Corner Pharmacy, 1 Copeland St., West Quincy was held up Monday at 5:10 p.m. by two youths, one of whom reportedly carried a .357 Magnum.

The youths fled in a red vehicle with a black vinyl roof believed to be a Buick on Granite St. towards Center St. Taken was a Class 2 controlled substance-Tussanex.

Sgt. William Curran is investigating.

Descriptions of the youths are sketchy. One suspect was unshaven and wearing a blue jacket. He was supposedly carrying the Magnum. The second suspect was wearing a tan jacket and sun glasses.

Tires Slashed — Again

For the fourth time in four months the four tires on a 1973 Chevrolet Monte Carlo owned by Elsie DiTullio, 15 Stanley Circle, South Quincy were reported slashed.

The latest tire slashing incident occurred while the car was parked in the driveway.

Police are investigating the latest slashing.

HCA Turns Over First $1 Million Payment Due City

The Hospital Corporation of America, the business firm now running Quincy City Hospital, turned over a $1,184,336 check this week as part of the monies due the city for the operation of the hospital.

In accepting the check at city hall Mayor Francis X. McCauley stated that HCA was right on target in its payment to the city.

HCA promised to pay some $2,385,000 by June 1982 for operating the hospital. All monies which are receipts received from Medicare, Medicaid, Blue Cross and other sources are turned over to the city and are earmarked in computing the city budget for next year.

Lydon Names LaRaia To JRTC

Council President John J. Lydon, Jr., announces he has appointed Joseph J. LaRaia, Councilor-at-Large, to serve on the Joint Regional Transportation Committee, as a representative of Quincy.

LaRaia is chairman of the City Council Transportation Committee.

The Joint Regional Transportation Committee (JRTC) is composed of representatives of state agencies, public interest groups, and cities and towns in the greater Boston area, serves as the policy advisory committee to the following state and regional transportation agencies: MBTA, State DPW, Massachusetts Port Authority, Metropolitan Area Planning Council, MBTA Advisory Board, and State Office of Transportation and Construction.

The JRTC also functions as a forum in which regional transportation issues are discussed and information is disseminated.

The JRTC is seeking representation from Quincy, specifically, as transportation is a critical issue to South Shore communities. The planned reconstruction of the Southeast Expressway and other transportation projects in the area are likely to exacerbate existing traffic problems. They feel that participation from affected communities would make a valuable contribution to the committee. They feel the South Shore is presently under-represented on the JRTC.

Cited Errors May Save City $2 Million In GD Case

City Solicitor William Golden says that two errors have been found in the $18 million judgement against the city in the General Dynamics case that could cut the judgement appreciably.

The city plans to go ahead with plans to appeal nevertheless, Golden said recently.

On March 4 Superior Court Judge Hiller B. Zobel ruled that the city overassessed the General Dynamics shipyard when it claimed the value of the property was $110 million.

Golden said the judge and counsel for General Dynamics both acknowledged that the mistakes in some figures had been made which would hike the judge's assessment of the property.

Neither Golden nor Mayor Francis X. McCauley would state the approximate amount of the assessment errors.

City Hall sources, however, speculate that the error was in the vicinity of between $2.4 and $2.5 million rather than $8 million quoted in another newspaper.

Judge Zobel was expected to make a final judgement this week and the city will then proceed immediately with its appeal.

License Board Wants MDC Commissioner At QSD Traffic Problems Meeting

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
The City License Board is requesting that MDC Commissioner Terrance Geoghegan appear at its April 13, meeting to discuss traffic, parking, and other problems on Quincy Shore Drive.

The board is also seeking the aid of Rep. Michael Morrissey and Sen. Paul Harold for help with the situation.

The board discussed the boulevard during a hearing Tuesday on the Beachcomber, 797 Quincy Shore Drive.

Board members asked owner

James P. McGettrick why he has not submitted plans for a new exit from the parking lot as requested and whether a 19 year old woman, later seriously injured in a traffic accident on the boulevard, had been served at the establishment.

Atty. Richard Barry, representing McGettrick, told the board that he has requested to appear before the MDC Commission on the traffic matter but has not yet been allowed to.

"The bureaucratic procedures of the MDC bother me," said Fire Chief Edward Barry.

Officer Jerry Nichols told the board that he was working a police detail at the establishment the night that the woman, Cynthia Elias, was struck by a car on the boulevard.

Nichols said that he and a lounge employee check all IDs of those entering the establishment.

"Something's gone wrong with the system, I'll tell you that," said Building Inspector Allan MacDonald.

Police Chief Francis Finn said that he would request a copy of the accident report from the MDC.

Atty. Barry told the board that McGettrick is planning to renovate the inside and outside of the establishment. He is also contemplating a new name for it, "The Nostalgia," according to Atty. Barry.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh cautioned against such expenditures in the near future.

"If you don't get the situation under control, you'll have no license," McKeogh said.

License Board Briefs

The City License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall:

- Placed on file a complaint of alleged operation of a lodging house at 242 Fayette St., Wollaston. According to Police Capt. Paul Nestor, the tenants in question are in the process of moving from the house, as requested by the board.

- Granted a request from the EYC group of St. Chrysostom's Church, Linden St., Wollaston, for a permit to conduct a flea market Saturday, May 8, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the church grounds. There is to be no second hand clothing sold.

- Granted a one-day all alcoholic license to Quincy Civil Defense for a benefit dance for Frank Eddy Saturday, April 24, 7 p.m. to midnight at the Fore River Clubhouse.

- Continued for 30 days a hearing on gasoline storage at Quincy Auto Parts, 671 Southern Artery, Inc., previously listed as Standard Auto Gear, 675 Southern Artery. The board instructed that gasoline tanks be removed.

- Continued for 30 days a hearing on the current holder of gasoline and used car licenses at Ace & Auto Services, 310 Washington St.

- Continued for two weeks a request from C & C Diesel Service Inc., 156 Penn St., South Quincy, for a Motor II (used car) license.

Stolen Car Recovered

A 1978 2 door Ford Thunderbird owned by Ben A. Zaida of Attleboro was recovered in front of 346 Highland Ave., Wollaston.

The car had been reported stolen earlier by Zaida. Two youths were seen leaving the car at the Wollaston address. One youth was described as being about 17 years of age, 5-5, wearing a dark blue down vest with a tear in the back.

Revaluation Delay $36 Tax Rate Drop Seen

By JOHN NOONAN

In an effort to tie up loose ends and be in a position to set a 1982 tax rate, Mayor Francis X. McCauley said he plans to ask the City Council to act on all financial orders before the Council at its meeting April 5.

Last week McCauley announced that the state had postponed 100 percent revaluation in Quincy for one year and the city will use old values to set the tax rate for fiscal 1982.

The mayor estimated that the tax rate for the current year, which normally would have been set in 1981, will be about $206.20 per thousand, a drop of $36.40 from the $242.60 of last year.

On the average home in Quincy, which is valued at $6500, the tax bill for 1982 would be $1340.30, a decrease of $236.60 from the 1981 tax bill of $1576.90.

Since Quincy homeowners have already paid the first half of their 1982 taxes based on what they paid last year, the second half payment for 1982 will be some 30 per cent less than the first half.

McCauley said the state cited the heavy backlog of cities and towns waiting for certification of revaluation as the reason for allowing Quincy to use old values for one more year.

All the property in Quincy is valued about $276 million. It has been predicted that under 100 per cent revaluation that total will soar to $1.5 billion.

McCauley declined to speculate as to when the tax rate for 1982 could be set.

New Hearing April 13 On Strand Theater License

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A License Board hearing on possible revocation of the Strand Theatre's license was dismissed on a legal technicality Tuesday.

But the issue is far from dead as a new hearing is scheduled for April 13, which will give the license holder the legally required 10 days written notice for such a hearing.

Fire Chief Edward Barry appeared ready to move for revocation of the theatre's license after "irresponsible action of the management" when Atty. Milton Kafka of Sharon pointed out that proper notice of the meeting had not been given.

Kafka was representing owner Anthony Delpidio who, he said, was in Florida until the end of the week.

The board had requested that the theatre owner appear at the meeting after incidents resulting from the showing of a Led Zeppelin movie March 20.

Police Sgt. John McDonough read to the board a police report on the incident which included youths blocking Chestnut St., calls on fights and knife assaults inside and outside the Strand, and one arrest for assault and battery with a broken beer bottle.

"Chestnut St. was almost gutter deep in beer bottles," according to McDonough who said that the theatre had hired four security guards.

"I feel that the management of the Strand could have foreseen these problems from the experience of the last time they had a rock movie, and I believe they acted irresponsibly with regard to their responsibilities to the rights of the other businesses in the square and persons who have to travel in the vicinity of the square," said McDonough.

"It's gotten totally ridiculous," said McDonough who also spoke of other incidents at the theatre last year.

Theatre manager Gena Tardieu of Quincy told the board that she hadn't expected problems with the movie being shown.

Kafka said the movie has been shown before with no alterations.

The Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston, held "A Beechwood Evening" for 200 community residents recently.

Following a buffet, entertainment was provided by the Beechwood Players, a dramatic group, and the faculty of Musik Schule.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley and Councilor Stephen McGrath presented a Community Development Block Grant of $5,000 to Dr. Cecil R. Paul, Executive Director of the Life Center.

Spring term offerings are available at the center for courses which begin April 5.

Mayor To Meet With Dept Heads

Mayor Francis X. McCauley will meet with the heads of all city departments today (Thursday) to discuss programs and projects.

It will mark the first time under his administration that the mayor will have met with department heads as a group. He has been meeting individually on budgets and issues with various heads since his inauguration.

McCauley said the meeting will enable him to evaluate the progress of his administration during the first three months since taking over as Mayor.

TV Sets Stolen

Robert Edwards, 77 Adams St. reported that two television sets, a black and white, and a color, were taken from his apartment while he was away for a couple of days.

Edwards moved into the apartment March 11. He reported the missing televisions Sunday upon his return. Police report there were no signs of a forced entry.

Fire Dept Personnel Learn T.V. Production

Quincy Fire Chief Edward F. Barry and eight members of the Quincy Fire Department and Fire Alarm Division recently completed a television production workshop.

Department members were trained in the operation of video cameras, recorders and lighting necessary to produce their own training films.

In addition to learning the operation of the equipment, they were given instruction in script writing, pre-production planning and editing.

Chief Barry stated, "All of the skills learned are necessary to produce quality training tapes to be shown to all departmental personnel. In addition to our in-house training program we may in the near future produce tape for cablecasting on Channel Three that would be of interest to the residents of Quincy."

Barry mentioned the use of Quincy Cablesystems Community Access Channel to instruct homeowners in the proper installation of smoke detectors as one example.

"Only a very few fire departments in the nation have taken advantage of cablecasting to provide information to the general public," stated Barry. "We plan to polish our new found skills and look forward to the Quincy Fire Department being second to none in the production of in-house training programs."

The production workshops were conducted at Quincy Cablesystems Studios, 81 School St., and at locations within the city.

The workshops, part of the agreement between the City of Quincy and Quincy Cablesystems, were conducted by Cablesystems staff at no cost to the city.

In the near future, all fire stations in Quincy will be connected by a closed circuit television network that will allow training sessions by television.

Participating in the television production workshop were: Chief Edward F. Barry, Deputy Chief Carl V. Valenti, Firefighter Harold R. Carroll, Firefighter Robert N. Mood, Superintendent John E. Schmock, Signal Maintainers Robert J. Campbell, William H. Blake, James M. DeNeill and Angelo P. DiGravio.

Chmielinski In D.A. Race

Superior Court Judge Henry H. Chmielinski, Jr. hung his black robe and one career in the court last Wednesday.

Friday, he will step into the political ring and, hopefully, begin a new one.

Chmielinski is expected to officially announce his candidacy for Plymouth County district attorney at a press conference at Christos in Brockton.

And friends and admirers — many of them from Quincy — are raring to get out there to campaign for him.

A former Quincy attorney and long-time Weymouth resident, Chmielinski, a Republican, recently leased a house in Brockton and registered to vote there. That makes him eligible to run for district attorney, the post now held by Democrat Walter O'Malley.

He wasn't sure at that time that he would actually run. But he was making the necessary preparations in case he decided to.

The state Republican convention almost sidetracked him by drafting him for attorney general. He was flattered, but declined.

He also received a number of attractive offers to join well known law firms. But again, thank you, but no.

Why run for district attorney? And why Plymouth rather than Norfolk County?

Well, who knows the crime problems better than a superior court judge who has heard cases of all sorts the past 20 years.

Chmielinski who has sat frequently in both counties thinks Norfolk County William Delahunt and office are doing a good job. But he thinks O'Malley and his Plymouth office leave something to be desired.

It's as simple as that.

Chmielinski's reputation over two decades as a tough but compassionate judge and with special concern for the victim in criminal cases, makes him an attractive candidate for a top law enforcement post.

Chmielinski was honored as the "Outstanding Neighbor of the Year" Friday at the fourth annual ball of the South Shore Red Cross Chapter.

Perhaps Atty. John Corcoran, chapter chairman, summed Chmielinski up best when he said: "He is the E. F. Hutto of the bench. When he speaks, everyone listens."

And if they listen on the campaign trail, in Plymouth County he may soon be in the courtroom in the new role of district attorney.

MAYOR Francis McCauley and School Committeeman Frank Anselmo, Quincy's only two elected Republican officials, aren't hitting it off too well. They're beginning to sound more like two feuding Democrats.

McCAULEY

McCauley, as chairman of the School Committee by virtue of his mayoral office, has been presiding over the school board meetings. He has been challenged on more than one occasion by Anselmo on points of parliamentary procedure. In all cases, the board upheld McCauley's rulings.

The most recent encounter blossomed last week on McCauley's move to cut two administrative posts from the School Department's Learning Management Team. The two job eliminations would save some $70,000 in the 1983 budget.

Anselmo tried to postpone a vote by out maneuvering McCauley. Said Anselmo:

"I don't know what positions you are trying to cut. Therefore, to vote on this motion we are merely like puppets voting blindly. I want to know what positions will be cut. What affect it will have on the system of education we are trying so hard to maintain. God almighty, isn't there any common sense among the School Committee members that we have to follow blindly the dictates of the mayor?"

ANSELMO

When Anselmo was through, McCauley responded:

"It's a very simple situation. If you vote for it, we're going to take it out of administration and put it into education that's what you have been yapping about for the past three months since I've been up here. So this is a good chance to put up or shut up, as far as your vote goes, Mr. Anselmo."

The vote was 4-3 with Mary Collins, Joan Picard and Nicholas Vernici on McCauley's winning side. And Christopher Kennedy and John Sullivan with Anselmo.

EQUAL RIGHTS DEPT: Rep. Michael

Morrissey has filed legislation for constituent Rence Eley, wife of Governor's Councillor Peter Eley. It would replace "et ux" (and wife) with the wife's name on legal documents such as property deeds. The bill was scheduled for a hearing yesterday (Wednesday) before the Judicial Committee. Morrissey says use of the "et ux" term is from old common law. He supports the legislation. "What's fair," says he, "is fair."

MORRISSEY

SPEAKING of Eley, a reception for him will be today (Thursday) at Quincy Adams Academy, Adams St., from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Gov. Edward J. King will be among those attending.

CHELSEA Mayor Joel Pressman, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, will hold a reception for delegates to the state convention tonight (Thursday) from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

There are 66 Quincy delegates who will be voting to endorse candidates at the May 22 convention in Springfield.

Tougher Discipline Policy For City Schools

By JOHN NOONAN

School Committee vice-chairman Mary P. Collins, persisted, and, as a result, a new discipline policy for public school students is now in effect.

For several months Collins has advocated that the School Committee adopt a more stringent policy to deal with recalcitrant and wayward public school students who consistently violate school regulations.

On one occasion when the discipline policy was up for discussion before the school committee, Mrs. Collins chided School Supt. Lawrence P. Creedon for "bucking" her on adopting a new policy.

Last Tuesday, Mrs. Collins called once again for a vote on the policy, and, this time she prevailed, even though she was not presiding as vice-chairman.

The new policy provides that an expulsion hearing be held by the full School Committee in cases where students have been charged with four flagrant consecutive violations of school regulations during a school year.

The new policy was adopted unanimously by the school board members.

In calling for the policy adoption Mrs. Collins listed these reasons:

- "It has already had a positive effect number of suspensions this year. Students are wary of suspensions because they know about the policy, and those who cannot be helped are dropping out rather than continue and accrue suspensions.

- "With severe cutbacks in staff, all staff, we cannot afford to deal with students who cannot or will not be helped. I feel confident that by the time a student reaches the fourth suspension, all reasonable efforts to help him or her have been done.

- "The threat of court challenges do not deter me. For every argument one way, there is an equal or stronger argument to indicate that the courts would support firm discipline in public schools.

- "With such firmness, we could indeed be looking at the demise of public education. To take a positive and forward-looking approach, we must insist on good discipline in our schools.

- "Finally, I will not accept the administration's determination to undermine this policy. The tools to process students to the expulsion point may well exist and have existed for years in Quincy, but the simple truth is that the thrust of the main office has been retention of students at all costs, and that no student has been brought before the Quincy School Committee for many years.

"Without direct intervention of the school committee I have every reason to believe that past practice would have continued and that with all the other difficulties we are encountering in the schools, we would have continued to tolerate students with as many as 12 or 13 suspensions, and all that that represents, each and every year."

Mrs. Collins said that there has been 267 fewer suspensions in the school system this year compared to a year ago.

Dr. Creedon, however, maintained that his office was not soft on disciplining students. He cited statistics which indicated that 68 students were sent to the existing disciplining body, the City-wide Board of Review, and that 19 of those students were expelled from school last year.

Boston Trip Ruled Out By School Committee

The School Committee turned down a request by the senior class at Quincy High School to hold its annual reception at a Boston hotel.

Committee Vice Chairman Dr. Nathaniel S. Hunting noted that existing rules state all school social functions must be under supervision by school officials and must be held in the city.

A petition signed by more than 300 members of the Class of 1931 claimed that the school gym was too small to hold the expected 600 people who annually attended the reception.

Mayor Thomas J. McGrath agreed the gym was a little on the stuffy side and he suggested that the affair be held at the state armory on Hancock St. instead.

SAFE IN EARTHQUAKE

Six Quincy residents, one of them the secretary to the American legation in Managua, were reported safe in the earthquake zone where hundreds died in Nicaragua.

They included Marine Lt. William R. Hughes, son of former City Councillor William P. Hughes of Furnace Ave., West Quincy, and his wife and two children, Jean J. and Lenore J.

Also Marine Cpl. William Ferrigno, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ferrigno of Bunker Hill Ave., West Quincy, and Willard Beaulac of 156 Elm Ave., Wollaston, the legation secretary.

HOUGHS NECK IMPROVEMENTS

Residents of Houghs Neck submitted a list of 14 needed improvements to city officials, including Mayor Thomas J. McGrath and City Councillors Alfred N. Labrecque, Charles J. Herbert and Laurence J. Curtin.

Chief among the demands was a playground with a building for lockers, showers and toilets, which Councillor Labrecque called too costly for the city.

Other demands included a solution to mosquito problems at Manet Lake and a five cent trolley fare from Samoset Ave. to the Quincy Yacht Club.

$500,000 Going Into State Budget For Flu Vaccine

A half million dollars for flu vaccine will be added to the proposed state budget, according to Sen. Paul D. Harold, (D-Quincy).

Harold said that Chester Atkins, (D-Concord) Senate Chairman of Ways and Means, notified him Tuesday of the addition for "such an important and worthwhile program for the elderly."

Harold had requested the funding to make up for the $12,000 Quincy could no longer afford to pay for the vaccines.

Cutbacks in the distribution of flu vaccine by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health to the city of Quincy have come under strong protests by Quincy officials.

The Quincy Council on Aging voted last week to ask City Health Commissioner Robert P. McKeogh, to attend the April meeting to map plans to secure the needed vaccine.

This week Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro wrote a strong letter of protest to Dr. Nicholas J. Fiumara, Director of the State Health Department Division of Communicable and Venereal Diseases.

DeCristofaro wrote:

"It was very disturbing to learn that the State no longer intends to distribute influenza vaccine to the city of Quincy.

"This program is vital to the health and well-being of our community, particularly to the many senior citizens in our city. I hope you will find your way clear to reverse this decision.

"It is estimated that approximately four thousand doses will be needed this year in Quincy and our Health Department does not have the funds for the program.

"Once again I urge that you reconsider your decision on this matter."

It is estimated that the total cost of the vaccine is $12,000.

The Council on Aging in past years has cooperated with the Quincy Health Department and more recently with the Planning and Development Department in securing adequate supplies of vaccine for the city's senior citizen population.

DeCristofaro joins with Dr. McKeogh, State Senator Paul Harold, Rep. Thomas Brownell, Rep. Robert Cerasoli, and Rep. Michael Morrissey in protesting the lack of vaccine for Quincy.

In his protest Harold said: "I can appreciate the budget constraints but I would like to point out most emphatically that the individuals benefitted by this program are, by definition 'high risk'.

"They are in the main, senior citizens, whose limited financial resources are well known to us all."

Dr. McKeogh said that because of the city Health Department budget limitations he will not be able to purchase supplies of vaccine this year.

The city sponsors flu clinics during September well in advance of the usual flu season.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Bergen Celebrates 90th Birthday

Mrs. Mary Ellen Bergen of Quincy recently celebrated her 90th birthday at a buffet and dance at Montello's, Quincy Point.

Some 110 relatives and friends were on hand for the celebration for Mrs. Bergen who received a letter of congratulations from Mayor Francis McCauley.

Among the special guests was Dr. Leon Jacobs of Quincy.

Mrs. Bergen, the former Mary Ellen Savage, was born March 17, 1892 at her home on West Cedar St., Boston.

At the age of 16, she assumed the duties of caring for her three brothers after the death of her mother.

She married the late Mr. Charles Bergen and they had six children: the late Mr. John Bergen, the late Mrs. Henry Bergen, Frances Irene Arnold of South Boston, Mary Evelyn Burns of South Boston, Eleanor Woodward of Quincy, and the late Mrs. Lillian Geribo.

After living in Boston, she moved to Quincy where she has lived for the past 16 years.

She has 16 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

Investing In an IRA The American Way

A view of the 78 persons who filled the bank's lobby for the unique presentation. Moderating the program was 1st American Bank President Robert G. Lee.

Attorney Dixon Matthews speaks to the appreciative audience. The lobby of 1st American Bank's Granite Street, Quincy office was filled to overflowing for the Monday evening program.

1st American Bank's recent IRA Clinic was a big hit with South Shore residents.

An overflow crowd of some 78 persons filled the lobby of our Granite Street, Quincy office for the free evening workshop. For them, it was an opportunity to learn from the experts about the new Individual Retirement Accounts, and how they could best take advantage of these new tax shelters.

Our audience was appreciative, and praise was near unanimous. Typical were the comments of a Quincy woman who told us: "The program was very informative. I'm glad I took the time to attend. Thank you for your public service."

In fact, the program was received with so much enthusiasm that we have scheduled a second free IRA Clinic to satisfy consumer demand.

You can plan now to attend this next program, on Monday, April 12, at 7:00 P.M. at our Stoughton office, 438 Washington Street, Route 138. All you need to do is call us to make your reservation.

There's plenty of consumer confusion about IRA accounts. Here's your chance to learn about the tax advantages now available for every wage earner. Make your reservation today.

1st American Bank is proud to present this series of consumer public service to the communities we serve. It's part of what Banking, the American Way is all about.

QJC Tuitions Increased $100 And $200

Effective September, 1982 the tuitions at Quincy Junior College will be increased for all students as a result of a vote of the Quincy School Committee last week.

The rates will be increased by $200 and $100. Annual tuition in the arts and science division will be $1,150 while that of the career and technical division will be $1,850.

The tuition will be the same for both residents and non residents.

This marks the second time in two years that the rates have been increased at the city-owned junior college.

Tuition was almost doubled last year when the college was divorced from the school department budget and made self-supporting. No drastic drop in student enrollment occurred despite the rate hike.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon told the committee that even with the new tuition increases some $200,000 in additional funds will be needed to make ends meet.

Last year the total combined appropriated gross budget for QJC was $2,684,851.

Quincy High School lists 270 students on the second-quarter honor roll. They are:

Chmielinski Honored As Red Cross 'Outstanding Neighbor'

Superior Court Justice Henry H. Chmielinski, Jr., a former Quincy attorney, was honored as the "Outstanding Neighbor of the Year" Friday night by the South Shore Chapter, American Red Cross.

The award was presented at the chapter's fourth annual "Second Century Ball" at Lantana, Randolph. Some 375 people attended.

Regional chairman John Corcoran said that Judge Chmielinski was chosen because his years of service in the Massachusetts judicial system closely reflect the ideals of the American Red Cross — those ideals which call for upholding the quality of human life.

Regional manager Louis Dumas of Quincy announced that the continued support of those in attendance has assured that Red Cross is ready in the community.

Robert J. Quinn of Braintree acknowledged the contribution to the Red Cross made by Mayor Francis McCauley. He commended Mrs. Helen Shea of Quincy, ball chairman, for her efforts.

7 Teachers Resign

The Quincy School Committee approved the resignations of seven teachers last Tuesday. The teachers and the dates they started: Sandra Backman, Sept. 1969; Kathleen Breslin, Sept. 1971; Marc Heyman, Sept. 1970; Thomas Kennedy, Sept. 1970; Lorin Lavidor, Sept. 1972; Katherine LeTourneau, Sept. 1972 and Joyce Wells, Oct. 1973.

Four resignations, Backman, Heyman, Kennedy and Wells, were due to reductions in personnel caused by budget cuts and school closings.

Gas Station Hold Up

Forrest M. Davis, 69, Retired Milk Route Driver

A funeral Mass for Forrest M. Davis, 69, of Quincy, a retired milk route driver, will be held today (Thursday) at 11 a.m. in Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

Mr. Davis died Monday in Lahey Clinic Medical Center, Burlington, after a short illness. He had lived in Quincy for 40 years.

Born in Magnolia, he worked for many years as a wholesale route driver for Whiting Milk Company before his retirement 10 years ago.

Mr. Davis was a member of Teamsters Union Local 380, and North Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus.

He is survived by his wife, Rosemary (Davis) Davis; two sons, Frederick F. Davis of Holden and Robert B. Davis of Simsbury, Conn.; a daughter, Elizabeth Trasavage of Sudbury; a brother, Clarence O. Davis of Magnolia; a sister, Mildred Donaldson of Wrentham; and seven grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by Keohane Funeral Home, 333 Hancock St., North Quincy. Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery.

Cemetery Managers To Meet

The Board of Managers of Burial Places will meet tonight (Thursday), at 7:30 p.m. at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery, announces Howard L. Gunnison Jr., Chairman.

A funeral Mass for Dr. T. Vincent Corsini, 83, of Quincy, a retired physician who was a staff member at Quincy City Hospital for more than 50 years, was held yesterday (Wednesday) at St. John's Church, Quincy.

Dr. Corsini died Sunday in New England Deaconess Hospital, Boston, after a brief illness.

He had lived in Quincy for 56 years, and also maintained a residence in Plymouth for 40 years.

Born in Middleboro, he was educated in Plymouth schools and was graduated from Plymouth High School in 1918.

Dr. Corsini was graduated from Boston University in 1922, and from B.U. Medical School in 1925.

He did his internship in New Britain, Conn.

A World War I Army veteran, he served as a former president of the Quincy City Hospital medical staff. For several years, he was chief of surgery at the hospital.

Dr. Corsini was also on the staff of Carney Hospital, Dorchester, and Jordan Hospital, Plymouth.

He was a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, Norfolk South Medical Society, Massachusetts Medical Society, Sons of Italy, Quincy Lodge 1295; Knights of Columbus, Quincy Council 96; Quincy Neighborhood Club, Wollaston Golf Club of Milton; and L'Eco Club.

He is survived by his wife, Lena L. (Borgatti) Corsini of Quincy; three children, Marie L. Petrell of Plymouth, T. Vincent Corsini Jr., of Framingham, and Russell W. Corsini of Braintree; 14 grandchildren and one great grandson.

Funeral arrangements were by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., South Quincy. Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Donations in his memory may be made to the American Heart Association, 375 West Gate Drive, Brockton, 02401, or to the National Kidney Foundation of Massachusetts, 18 Oliver St., Boston.

Globe Assistant Editor U.N. Council Speaker

Steven Erlanger will discuss "A Look at Eastern Europe" at a meeting of the United Nations Council of the South Shore Thursday, April 15.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall of Church of the Presidents, Quincy Square.

The meeting is the fourth in the series sponsored by the council this season. All who are interested are welcome.

Admission is free. Erlanger is assistant national and foreign editor of The Boston Globe.

He spoke to the council in 1979, when he had visited Iran. Last summer, he spent nine weeks in Eastern Europe visiting the countries on the periphery of Poland. Erlanger will discuss the effect of what is happening in Poland on the rest of the Eastern Block, Romania, Yugoslavia, and East Germany.

At the conclusion of his talk, there will be time for questions.

Before the meeting, there will be a catered dinner at 6:30 p.m. For reservations and information on the cost, call Mrs. Viola Ellis, 773-5019, Edith Coulman, 472-4960 or Mrs. Eleanor Bertrand, 479-4793.

There are a limited number of dinner tickets at reduced rates for students.

A RAMP that will provide the handicapped, elderly and infirmed with access to our Lady of Good Counsel Church Merry mount, was dedicated Sunday in memory of James Gibbons, one of two Quincy firefighters killed in Boston fire. From left, are Mr. Gibbons' widow, Mrs. Marie Gibbons; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Foley; and Rev. Peter Martocchio, church pastor. The ramp, erected last fall, was the first at any Catholic Church in Quincy.

Lenten Series Concludes At Squantum Church

The Lenten series at the First Church of Squantum Wednesday evenings concluded last night after a turkey dinner sponsored by the young people of the church.

Theme of the evenings has been "The People of Jesus: The First Thirteen Centuries of the Christian Church."

In his talk last night, church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin considered the elements of genuine Christianity evident in the Church of Medieval and Renaissance times.

He contrasted the joyful self-denial of Francis of Assisi with the joyously sensuous luxury of the Renaissance of the following centuries, and showed how church life in those periods led logically to the Protestant Reformation.

Discussed were Francis of Assisi, Sister Clare, Peter Waldo and the Waldensians, John Wycliffe and the Lollards, John Huss and the Hussites as well as figures of the secular Renaissance.

The evening program next week will be Thursday, instead of Wednesday, at 7:30 p.m. The congregation will gather for its traditional Maundy Thursday observance of the Lord's Supper April 8.

Palm Sunday Breakfast At Squantum Church

Young people of the First Church of Squantum will sponsor a breakfast Palm Sunday 8:45 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. before the morning service.

The menu will include juice, omelets made to order, hash browned potatoes, toast and beverage.

For reservations, which should be made in advance, call the church office at 328-6649.

The Palm Sunday service begins at 10:15 a.m. Proceeds from the breakfast will be used to help send young people of the church to Christian camps this summer.

The sermon next Sunday is entitled "With Open Arms".

Red Cross To Hold 'Disaster Health Workshop'

Nurses Association for six contact hours (CEU's).

For further information, or to register for the course, please contact the Red Cross office at 471-5440.

A "Disaster Health Workshop" will be conducted by the South Shore Chapter of the American Red Cross April 6 and 8 from 6:30 - 9:30 p.m. at the Red Cross office, 1245 Hancock St., Quincy. Fee is $10 per person.

Course instructor Margaret McLean said the course objectives are:

To prepare nurses to give the immediate emergency assistance necessary to meet health needs during a disaster.

To promote understanding of the Red Cross and government responsibilities in disasters.

To present and explore the different assignments that are performed by health services in disaster relief.

The Red Cross "Disaster Health Workshop" has been approved by the Massachusetts

Organ Recital

At Bethany Congregational

An Organ Recital "Evensong" will be given by Dana M. Robinson on Palm Sunday, April 4, at 5 p.m. in the Sanctuary of Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Square.

Robinson has studied organ and conducting at Boston University and at the Westminster Choir College in Princeton, N.J.

He has had extensive organ and piano forte performances in the New York, New Jersey and Boston areas.

The Music Committee is sponsoring the recital. Donations will benefit the Music Scholarship and the Ramp Fund.

Refreshments will be served in the Allen Parlor of the Parish House.

Blood Collection

At Point Congregational

The Quincy Donor Center, at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St., Quincy, will be collecting blood Monday, April 5, between 1 and 7 p.m.

'Mother Jones' Play At Quincy Method Center

Little Flagg Theatre, Roxbury,

Lee A. Welky, D.M.D.

DO YOU GET MANY CAVITIES?

Some people almost never get cavities, even if they're careless about their teeth. Other people never stop running to the dentist with dental problems. Why?

There are many things which contribute to tooth decay. Some factors, such as heredity, we can't control. But there are things we can do to minimize our tooth decay problems.

1. Diet - The frequency of sweets rather than the amount determines the danger to teeth. Eat sweets as infrequently as possible, preferably with meals.
2. Proper toothbrushing is very important. Regular use of dental floss is just as vital, to clean between the teeth where the brush can't reach.
3. Fluoride toothpastes and fluoride in the diet make the teeth far more resistant to tooth decay. This is especially important for children.
4. Regular dental checkups - When cavities are caught early, fillings are smaller. Smaller fillings are stronger and last longer.

City To Stop Home Sewer Cleaning Service

The Public Works Department is discontinuing on April 1 the practice of cleaning out sewer lines on private property in an effort to trim a growing deficit in the Sewer Division.

Commissioner Paul Anderson said the deficit was $25,000 on Feb. 1 when he took over the department and he attributed a large part of it to overtime paid to clean clogged private lines.

He said he was trying to determine the frequency of such private calls. Each one, he said, costs the city time and a half overtime for a worker who gets a minimum of four hours.

The service was not funded in the budget for fiscal 1982, he said, but apparently due to a large number of complaints the service was never halted. It will not be in the 1983 budget, he said.

Discontinuance of the service means that Quincy residents with clogged sewer lines on their property will have to hire private cleaners to open them.

Catching Key To Raiders Success This Season

By TOM SULLIVAN

Catching will again be the key to the North Quincy baseball team's success this spring.

A year ago, after Bobby Biagini (now in the Red Sox system) had graduated, catching was the Raiders' weak point when the season began.

North had a horrendous first half of the season with a 1-8 record, but when the catching straightened out with experience, the Raiders went 6-2 the rest of the year to finish at 7-10.

"Catching definitely is the key again this season," said Coach Charlie Bunker. "If we can find a good defensive catcher, we could do all right despite the fact we have just three veteran players. Our pitching looks adequate and defensively I think we will be strong. And we have a few boys who can hit the ball.

"I have 37 sophomores out and several will stay with the varsity. It is the finest group of sophomores I have ever had and if I put an all-sophomore team on the field it would be competitive."

John Kozlowski, who started the first few games last year, is a much improved catcher and looks like the No. 1 receiver. He is being pushed by Ken Wright, up from the junior varsity, and two promising sophomores, Bob McElaney and Mike Gill.

Jim Kelly, who pitched two varsity games last year and pitched well for the jayvees; Bill Gray, another good pitching prospect, and Kevin White are battling for the first base job. All were jayvees a year ago.

Former jayvees Dwayne Wilcoxon and Dave DiCarlo are the second base candidates, Bob O'Brien, one of the three veterans, will be back at shortstop with sophomore Steve Hogan backing him up; two more ex-jayvees, Steve Sacchetti and John Purland are vying for the third base job and two more good looking sophomores, Brian Lowe and Scott Messina, are other infield hopefuls.

Ray Mallory is the only veteran outfielder and also going for outfield spots are Garry Brown and Joe Doherty, up from the jayvees, and sophs Chris Bunker, the coach's son, and Jack Bolster.

Veteran right-hander Paul Earle is the No. 1 pitcher, backed up by Kelly and Gray. Gray is a southpaw.

The Raiders will open at Brookline on April 14 and will host Brockton at Adams Field on the 16th.

Bunker has a new junior varsity coach, Leo Donovan, successful soccer coach for many years at Atlantic Junior High, who formerly coached baseball at South Shore Vo-Tech in Hanover.

QJC Has Good Nucleus Of Veterans

By PETE ZOIA

Dave Burke, the only baseball coach Quincy Junior College has had, is beginning his 14th year with the Jaguars with a good nucleus of returnees from last year's team which compiled an outstanding 10-1 season.

QJC has always boasted strong pitching and this season is no exception.

Jack Connolly, last year's number one hurler, heads the mound corps, backed up by Bruce Tobin and Gary DiNardo of Quincy, who have had much experience from high school and Legion ball. Bob Brill, a former star for the Quincy Mariners, rounds out this staff.

Former Quincy standout Steve Picot is the top catching hopeful and newcomer Tom Canavan, who will fill in at other positions because of his hitting prowess, will back him up.

Burke has a number of good infield prospects and Brian Condon, who missed nearly the entire 1981 season due to a leg injury, is back at first base. He is one of the Jaguars' best hitters.

Newcomers Mark Baker and Fran McEachern are the second base candidates and Tom Dunsome of South Boston will handle the shortstop chores backed up by DiNardo when he isn't pitching.

At third base Russ Cunningham of Quincy appears set.

John Durane of Quincy could help out at first base.

QJC has three fine outfielders in veteran John Newcomb, Brian Tobin and Steve Conley.

QJC opens next Tuesday, April 6, at Bristol Community College in Fall River. Next Thursday the Jaguars will meet North Quincy High in a practice game.

On Tuesday, April 13, QJC will host Bridgewater State Junior Varsity and April 15 will be home to Wentworth. All home games will be played at O'Rourke Field at 3:30.

'Run For Your Life' Road Race April 25

A five-mile "Run For Your Life" road race will be held at noon Sunday, April 25, starting at the gate at Long Island Hospital and finishing at Atlantic Junior High School.

The race is sponsored by the Run For Your Life Committee and all runners must be registered with the NEAAU.

Registration will be held at 10 a.m. at Atlantic Junior High and buses will leave for Long Island. Registration will end at 10:45 a.m.

A trophy will go to the winner and awards to the first three men and three women finishers in the following categories: 18 and under, 19 to 29, 30 to 39, 40 to 49, 50 to 59 and 60 and over.

There will be a $5 pre-registration fee and a $6 fee the day of the race.

Proceeds will be used to continue the "Run For Your Life" scholarship and to purchase cardiac related equipment.

Applications should be mailed to Run For Your Life, c/o Richard H. Meade, 31 Greene Street, Quincy 02170. Checks should be made payable to Run For Your Life.

MARIANNE GORMAN, (left) a seventh grader at St. Mary's School, won two gold medals in the preliminary category of the recent Mass. Open Figure Skating Competition and the Springfield N.E. Inter-Club competition, and Karen Cashman, right, a fifth grader at Mass. Fields School, won two silver medals in the pre-junior category and a bronze medal in the team competition. Both will appear in the 43rd annual Commonwealth Figure Skating Club show April 24 and 25 in Randolph.

8 Teams In Girls Tourney

The Quincy Recreation Department opened its first basketball tournament for elementary age girls with eight teams competing in first round action this last week at Atlantic Junior High School.

The teams are made up of participants from the various recreation centers located throughout the city.

This tournament is a single elimination with four teams advancing to the semi-finals.

In the most exciting game Snug Harbor edged Squantum, 13-12, with a basket off a jump ball with only two second left to play. Sara Harrington and Diane Walsh led a hustling Squantum team with four points each while Sheila D'Antona and Susan Rusher chipped in two apiece. All Snug Harbor points were scored by Jill Bonner, Missy Burkhead, Kathy Short, Cara Faulkner and Donna Dean were a fine support unit who gave Bonner the ball when she had the hot hand.

In the second game Atherton Hough got 13 points from Maureen Lyons and demonstrated a strong defense in defeating Beechwood Knoll, 28-5. Beechwood played well in its first tournament appearance but fell victim to an early Atherton Hough lead that was too much to overcome. Sheila Sullivan, Elaine Joseph and Kathy Gralton split the scoring for Beechwood while Judy McDonald, Shannon Canty and Kathy Duffy all contributed with solid all-around play.

The third game was not decided until the second half when Merrymount pulled away from a two-point deficit to defeat Parker, 19-9. Parker saw Eileen Campbell with five points and Diane Souliopoulos and Lisa Johnson with two each. Karen Cavanaugh and Kristin Phipps also played well without scoring. On the Merrymount side Yoland Phedger has 12 points, Paula Tolson and Nancy Laitinen had two each and Rachel DeAngelis had one. Lori Sullivan, Jennifer Dixon and Susan Lynch played outstanding games.

The final game of the evening was probably the best played contest of the tournament. Montclair defeated Wollaston 34-

18. Nancy Flukes led all scorers with 16 points followed by her Montclair teammates, Stephanie Osgood with eight, Beth Bunker six, Lee Fitzgerald two, Karrie Pistorino two, Chris Ferrara, Debbie Early, Sheila Comeau and Stacey Welch demonstrated good team play and hustling defense.

Barbara Kvanes had 14 big points and had with Robin Crooks four but the well coached Wollaston team came up short. Mary Feeney, Stephanie Tobin, Jessica McKeon, Michelle Ventresca, Bethany Walsh, and Barbara White all played well for Wollaston, which demonstrated excellent team play despite the lack of scoring.

Coaches are recreation Leaders from the various centers. They are: Marie Ridge, Snug Harbor; Marjorie Christiani, Atherton Hough; Kathy Golden, Squantum; Lois Ceriani, Beechwood Knoll; Michelle Saltzman, Parker; Susan Ranahan and Stacy Lynch, Merrymount; Greg Donovan and Cynthia McKay, Wollaston, and Sara Lee Cobban, Montclair.

Walsh Boxing Winner

Tommy Walsh, 11, of North Quincy, a student at Sacred Heart School, recently defeated Israel Conception of Providence, in the 85-pound class, at the third annual Andre McCoy Boxing Tournament in New Bedford.

Tommy boxes under the South Shore YMCA banner. He is the son of Janice and Thomas Walsh.

North Quincy Road Race May 5

The North Quincy High School junior class will hold a 5-mile road race on May 2, starting and ending at North Quincy High School. The road race is being held to support the junior prom.

The class is asking Quincy business firms to sponsor the race by contributing to the cost of T-shirts and numbers, and also donating goods to be used as awards.

Those interested in helping to sponsor the race are asked to write race director Michael Magrath, 46 Albion Road, Wollaston 02170.

Sue Keith On Curry Team

Junior Sue Keith of Quincy averaged 4.4 points a game this season for the Curry College women's basketball team.

Although Curry had only a 7-9 record, Coach Donna Brickley had reason to be pleased.

A year ago there were not enough women interested in basketball to field a team. In the off-season Brickley did some recruiting and the team was competitive.

Curry was invited to play in the Massachusetts Amateur Inter-collegiate Athletics for Women (MAIAW) tournament and lost to top-seeded Brandeis, 60-47. Curry was deeded eighth.

Ewen, Beattie Goals Win For Fore River

Jimmy Ewen and Alex Beattie scored the goals as the Fore River Soccer Club of Quincy defeated Victoria Mills, 2-1, in Thornton, R.I., to win the Massachusetts State Soccer League championship.

In three previous games, the Shipbuilders and the Rhode Islanders had battled to ties.

The Millers scored first but Ewen came back to kick the ball clean through the net to tie the score and Beattie booted home Sonny Foley rebound for the winner before the first half ended.

Capt. Paddy Cahill and Goalie Jock Davidson starred in the second half as Fore River preserved its slim lead. Cahill was knocked out during a furious scrimmage but resumed play after treatment.

The Fore River lineup included Davidson, goal; McManus, Farquhar, backs; Cahill, Arrowsmith, Lennon, halfbacks; Ritchie, Ewen, Blair, Beattie, Foley, forwards.

INDEPENDENTS WIN

Al Pierce, Hobie Robinson and Bob Meyer scored overtime baskets to lead the Quincy Independents to a 38-35 victory over the Quincy Wanderers in a game that was billed for the city championship.

Ralph "Bibba" Christenson sank the last second basket in regulation time for the Independents to send the contest in the extra five minutes session.

Curt Cedarstrom was high for the game with 14 points for the Wanderers and Robinson led the Independents with 10 points.

The Independents lineup included Robinson, Schlier, forwards; Meyer, center; Christenson, Pierce, guards.

The Wanderers lineup included Jones, Cedarstrom, forwards; Levangie, center; O'Brien, Hughes, guards.

GARCIA DEBUTS

Frankie Garcia (Gacicia), Quincy's whirlwind bantamweight fighter, made his debut as a main eventer in Lewiston, Maine, with a 12-round decision over Harry Roberts of Boston.

Garcia, using a sharp left jab to good effect, won eight rounds on the Associated Press card as he staggered Roberts four times in the third, fifth, eighth and 12th rounds with hard right crosses.

Roberts was a last minute substitute for Gene Bianco, also of Boston, who, it was reported, "evidently heard of Frankie's hitting prowess and rare boxing ability and developed a case of cold feet."

YMCA FIVE BOWS

Freddie Comparato's 12 points were not enough as the Quincy YMCA basketball team lost to Brockton, 41-30, in a game that decided the Two-State YMCA League title at Brockton.

The Quincy lineup included Curtis, Greenhagh, Reid, forwards; O'Connell, center; Comparato, Kramer, Fisher, guards.

STONE BRAE SCHEDULE

President Ernest B. Neal announced the season's schedule for the Stoney Brae Golf Club in Wollaston, including the State Open, which was slated for July 16 and 17.

Neal said a new golf ball will be required in all tournaments.

CHAMPS DEFEATED

Capt. Art Olson threw in 16 points to lead Wollaston Methodist to a 49-37 victory over defending champion Bethany Congregational in the opener of their three-game series for the Church League title.

ONE-ARMED OUTFIELDER

Orella (Tallow) Ottina, an outfield candidate for the Quincy High School baseball team, rapped out some nice base hits in practice despite the fact that he had only one arm.

PENALTY KICK TIES

A last minute penalty kick by Frank Cosgrove lifted the Carsons of Quincy into a 1-1 tie with the Stoughton Town Team in a soccer exhibition game in Stoughton.

10 TEAMS IN SHORE LEAGUE

Ten teams were said to be likely candidates for the South Shore Baseball League including West Quincy, Squantum AC, Atlantic AA, Weymouth Pals, Braintree White Sox, Neponset Wanderers and Bayside Collegians.

CHAMPS HONORED

Mayor Thomas J. McGrath and League President Percy N. Lane were on hand as members of the Blessed Sacrament Lycum honored the champion Houghs Neck hockey team with a dinner at the Quincy Yacht Club.

SPORTS BITS '31

Gordon Hathaway, Quincy middleweight, dropped a three-round decision to Haywood Store in the 160-pound semi-finals at Boston Arena . . . Tommy Maskillson of Quincy starred at second base with a triple and a stolen base for Dartmouth as the Indians whipped Virginia, 11-2, at Charlottesville, Va. . . Mike Plant, captain of the Quincy High School golf team, was named caddy-master at the Stoney Brae Golf Club for the 1931 season . . . Harry F. Arion was elected commodore of the Wollaston Yacht Club.

This will be the second summer that Mark has been enrolled at the camp.

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

LIGHT UP THE TARGET - YOU!

Of the many variables which combine to cause an accident on the highway, one is visibility of the "target". The less visible your car is, the higher its chances of being struck.

According to recent tests at the University of California, the colors blue and yellow were judged the safest if you want your car to be seen on the highway. Blue shows up best during daylight and fog, and yellow is best at night. The worst color from the visibility standpoint is gray. It seems to blend into the background and appears to be much farther away than it is.

Luminous tape is also a major visibility factor at night. Its reflective ability triples the distance that your car can be seen. And here's the visibility tip for the day. Why not paint the inside of your car's trunk with luminous paint? In case of a breakdown at night, your raised trunk lid will glow as a warning to other motorists.

2 Residents In 'Peter Pan'

Two Quincy residents, Ian Marshall and Michael Costa, are among the cast of The Company Theatre's production of "Peter Pan" to be presented Friday to Sunday at 8 p.m. at South Junior High School, Weymouth.

Ian, a sixth grader at Thayer Academy, Braintree, plays "Sparky", one of the "lost boys of Neverland."

Michael will appear as one of Captain Hook's pirates. A junior at North Quincy High School, he will also be lighting director for the show.

Becky Herzberg, 12, of Hingham, who has been numerous community theatre productions since she was eight, will play the title role.

Captain Hook will be played by Timothy Kilburn, 19, of Weymouth.

Zoe Bradford and Jordie Saucerman of Houghs Neck are directors of "Peter Pan". They founded The Company Theatre in 1979 to provide a creative outlet for South Shore youths.

PETER PAN, to be presented this week—end by The Company Theatre, will have among its cast Ian Marshall, right, of Quincy. At left is Becky Herzberg of Hingham as Peter Pan.

"Peter Pan" has proved to be one of the most elaborate musicals the company has produced.

"Flying" Peter and the three English children, Wendy, John and Michael are played by Cassandra Sullivan of Hingham, John King and Melissa Fielding of Weymouth, proved to be a special problem.

The Weymouth Naval Air Station assisted by having custom made parachute belts fitted to the children.

Tickets will be available at the door.

For more information, call Mrs. Mary Santry at 337-4225.

BRYAN GALLIGAN of Quincy will appear on WBZ-TV's "Community Auditions" program Sunday. Bryan, who previously won on such a show in Rockland, is involved with the Beechwood Knoll Community Center's play, "Annie in OZ," to be presented in April at the Wollaston Theatre. He is also a Quincy Sun News Carrier.

DeCristofaro Opposes Quincy Bay Discharges

The disposal of harmful discharges into Quincy Bay was opposed this week by Ward 2 Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro.

The Ward 2 councillor wrote City Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh of his opposition:

"Please be assured that I share your feelings in opposition to the treatment and/or disposal of sewage sludge, effluent or other harmful discharges in or around Quincy Bay."

DeCristofaro said he has also written letters detailing his opposition to local state legislators and MDC officials.

He continued:

"Like you, I share the concern for improving Quincy Bay's present pollution problem, and hope that active opposition to this MDC proposal will stem further deterioration of our aquatic environment."

Car Stolen

Linda Kerrigan, 266 Central Ave., Scituate, reported her 1971 Chevy Belair 4-door sedan stolen from the Quincy Parkingway.

IN HIS WALK through North Quincy this week Mayor Francis X. McCauley met with home owners, residents, taxpayers, and business leaders to get the feel of the city pulse. Crime and school closings ranked high on the minds of many citizens. Business leaders pledged their support in furthering the city interests in attracting more business. From left at one meeting are John Murphy, Murphy Tool and Die Co.; Peter Kelly, Kelly's Grub & Pub where the meeting was held, Brendan Gallagher, Gallagher Flooring Co.; Mayor McCauley; Ward Councillor Joanne Condon, and Joseph Doran, Doran & Horrigan Insurance Co.

Final Approval Of School Budget Postponed To April 7

By JOHN NOONAN
The School Committee, granted an extension of 30 days by a new state law, put off adoption of a fiscal year 1983 school department budget until its regular meeting April 7.

The committee was under the gun of Mayor Francis X. McCauley to trim some $3 million from the projected budget for 1983 before submitting a final figure by April 1.

Last week the state legislature enacted a law allowing towns and cities another 30 days to submit final budgets.

The School Committee with Mayor McCauley presiding, decided to take the extra time to review the comments and recommendations of teachers, pupils, and taxpayers voiced at a public hearing on the proposed 1983 budget held in Quincy High School last week.

Last month School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Crendon told the committee that it may be possible to save $350,000 this year in the energy, electricity, and personnel accounts because of school closings and personnel lay-offs. McCauley said this $350,000 saving could be transferred and applied to the 1983 budget request making the total to be trimmed

Crendon estimates the total budget for next year will be $24,250,000, a reduction of 10 percent from last year because of Proposition 2½.

Following another lengthy hearing last week on budget cuts the committee, after a stormy session, voted 4 to 3 to cut two top administration posts from the Learning Management team. The annual salary for each position averages $37,500.

McCauley and School committeeman Frank Anselmo became embroiled in another verbal donnybrook prior to the vote. McCauley had proposed the cuts and Anselmo tried parliamentary maneuvers to avert a vote.

Anselmo urged his colleagues to show some courage and not be robots to McCauley by voting blindly on the issue which revolved around a philosophy of school administration versus school programs.

McCauley stood firm and admonished Anselmo to stop "his yapping and put up or shut up."

"You have continually disrupted the school committee since I've been here the past three months, and I've about had it with you" the mayor added.

When the vote was taken McCauley won. Voting with the Mayor were Mary Collins, Joan Picard, and Nicholas Verenis. Opposed were Anselmo, Christopher Kennedy, and John Sullivan.

For Downtown Lots

City To Ask For Validated Parking Bids

By TOM HENSAW

The city is about to start drafting specifications for bids to operate validated parking in city-owned lots in downtown Quincy.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday that the city has received two proposals for the operation of such parking areas and the specifications will be drawn from them.

They differ, he said, only in that one proposal suggests that the company pick up the tab for up front costs while the other would have the city pay for equipment such as gates.

"Basically, the net cost of the areas to the city is now $40,000 a year," said McCauley. "We are looking at a plan to run them at a profit and get out the meters."

The mayor said he probably could institute validated parking administratively unless an appropriation were needed, but, he added, he would confer with the City Council before acting.

Meanwhile, an unexpected plethora of old parking tickets is going to cost the city another $20,000.

The City Council appropriated that amount Monday night to enable City Clerk John Gillis to pay for the processing of the tickets and the postage to send notices to the malefactors.

Gillis told the Council that the city figured there were 80,000 old tickets dating back to 1978 out there, but there turned out to be 119,000.

The $20,000 plays for the extra 39,000 tickets.

Gillis noted quickly that the money will be returned to the city with considerable extra when the fines for the tickets are collected.

Near Blizzard Interrupts Spring

The city's snow removal equipment was taken out of moth balls early Tuesday morning as highway work crews got ready to battle a freak April near-blizzard that threatened to dump at least six, possibly nine, inches of snow on the South Shore.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley, who took to the road with Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson in the early afternoon, said plows were quickly restored to the department's trucks and put on the road soon after the first wind-driven snow began to fall.

The mayor said the big concern Tuesday afternoon was for Squantum and Houghs Neck where the high tide was expected shortly after 10 p.m., backed by a strong northeast wind.

An ambulance and a police cruiser were stationed in Squantum and Houghs Neck in case travel to those remote peninsulas were to be interrupted.

John Brown of the School Department said the Quincy

Vocational Technical School on Coddington St. was to remain open all Tuesday night to act as a shelter for any persons who should become displaced or stranded by the storm.

The main roads were passable in the early evening but some streets, like Gannett St. in Adams Shore and Pond St. in Quincy Point, were blocked by fallen trees. Traffic on Quincy Shore Drive was also slowed by fallen trees.

Police and Civil Defense reported few emergency calls. A number of nurses were transported by police cruiser to their jobs at City Hospital.

At 5 p.m., Mayor McCauley reported everything under control, "but we are watching coastal flooding closely," he added.

City Hall closed at noon and city workers were sent home. Many downtown Quincy stores also closed their doors. Schools were shut down early to permit youngsters to get home.

now picking up that part of the tab. But it's not a windfall for the city treasury.

Acting Auditor William Grindlay explained that most of the money is already spent, including a $600,000 appropriation passed that very night to pay medical insurance for city employees.

"Of course," said Grindlay, "it can be considered a savings to the city."

Easter Parade, Anyone?

CINNAMON, a retriever owned by Bob McNair of Wollaston, tried on a variety of Easter hats in search of the perfect look despite this week's snowstorm.

A BASIC HAT, perched slightly back on the head, is also a debonair look on Cinnamon.

Council Unanimously Backs 1 A.M. Bar Closings

Related Story Page 9

The move to roll back 2 a.m. liquor licenses in the city to 1 a.m. was still alive this week despite a 2-2 License Board stalemate that effectively preserved the 2 a.m. closing time.

City Councillor Joanne Condon announced Monday night that she has an agreement from Board Chairman John Gillis to allow reconsideration of the vote and meet on it Wednesday, April 21, at 7 p.m.

But Tuesday morning, Police Chief Francis X. Finn, whose vote to preserve the 2 a.m. closing time is the key to reconsideration, refused to move for it despite proddings by Gillis.

Since two weeks is needed to advertise another hearing, the April 21 date apparently is ruled out.

Condon, an outspoken opponent of 2 a.m. closing, introduced a resolution at Monday night's meeting placing the Council on record in favor of the 1 a.m. closing. It passed 9-0. Then she introduced a home rule petition to the state legislature asking permission for the City Council itself to place limitations on the hours in which alcoholic beverages can be served.

"Said limitation which shall be adopted by the City Council shall require the closing of such establishments at 1 a.m.," said the petition, closing any possible escape hatch.

She also introduced letters from Fire Chief Edward F. Barry and Building Inspector Allan F. MacDonald, the two members of the License Board who favored the 1 a.m. closing, reiterating their support.

MacDonald suggested that the issue be placed on the ballot in the next city election in 1983 and "let the citizens of this city speak."

Also included in Condon's pro-1 a.m. package was a letter from Augustine J. Goslin of Walker St., North Quincy, to Dr. Robert P. McKeogh, the License Board member who did not vote to break the 2-2 tie.

Goslin noted that Dr. McKeogh had delivered the Goslin's son, Peter, who was stabbed to death at about 2:15 a.m. Dec. 27 in a fight outside the Beachcomber, a 2 a.m. bar on Quincy Shore Drive.

"I hope that this will help you decide between the desires of disreputable commerce and the desires of the people of Quincy for a more peaceful existence," said Goslin.

Dr. McKeogh said Tuesday that he was still considering his position on the issue.

1 A.M. Roll Back Unfair Says California Owner

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The owner of a downtown Quincy establishment with a 2 a.m. closing concedes that there are "problems at certain places" in the city.

But, says Carl Miranda of California, to deal with the problems by rolling back all closing hours to 1 a.m. would be "extremely punitive" and "unfair."

"Everyone has to take responsibility for their own actions," says Miranda who feels that the trouble spots should be punished, but not all of the city's other late night businesses.

Miranda, who says he has over one and a half million dollars invested in downtown Quincy, feels he would definitely be hurt by an hours roll back.

More than half of his 72 employees would have to be let go, he says.

"It's hard to get anyone (customers) in early," says Miranda. "You could throw a bowling ball down the middle of the place and not hit anyone at 10 p.m."

"Lifestyles change. People watch TV until 11 p.m. and then go out."

"We get a lot of hospital employees who get off (work) at 11 p.m."

If the hours are rolled back, Miranda says "people will bypass Quincy and go to Boston."

"The whole thing carried out of proportion," says Miranda, "there are more critical issues, and this is front page news."

Miranda, who had a recent death in the family attributed to a drunk driver, feels the issue got started around Christmas when a family was killed in a car accident with a teen-aged driver who had allegedly been drinking.

"Emotions are running high as it is," says Miranda, "and someone is taking advantage of the issue."

Miranda says that Registry of Motor Vehicle statistics from last year show that there markedly fewer traffic fatalities from 2 to 3

Council Slashes Last Year's Budget

For 40 seconds Monday night, Quincy technically did not have a budget for the current fiscal year.

The City Council voted to rescind the $63,650,972 budget for fiscal 1981-82 that it passed June 15, 1981, and then passed a $62,249,757 budget in its place.

The new budget deletes $1,401,215 from the Retirement Fund Account in recognition of the fact that junior college and city hospital enterprise accounts are

Board Prohibits Liquor Licenses At Wollaston Facility

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

No one-day all alcoholic licenses will be issued for use at the Wollaston Recreation Facility for about a year, according to a City License Board ruling Tuesday.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh made the motion which specifies there will be no consideration for such requests until the facility has held its beer and wine license for at least one year. The license was granted Feb. 16.

The matter came up when the North Quincy Stop Bowling League requested a one day all alcoholic license for its annual bowling banquet May 1, 7 p.m. to midnight at the facility.

"There may be a problem down the line with groups requesting all alcoholic licenses Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays," said Fire Chief Edward Barry.

"We're trying to say to find another location," said Police Chief Francis Finn. "They (Wollaston Recreation) have to prove themselves.

"We had almost a full council chamber down here, (when the facility's license was considered).

"People were upset with what the serving of alcohol (at the facility) would do to their quality of life.

"I'd like to see them prove themselves before we start issuing all alcoholic licenses."

Dr. McKeogh added, "It's no reflection on your group."

The request was withdrawn without prejudice.

Library Gets $80,000 Boost

The City Council Monday night appropriated $80,000 to keep the Thomas Crane Public Library operating for the rest of the fiscal year.

Director Warren Watson told the Council that the original budget line for the library was $98,000 less than was needed to take the department through to the end of the year.

"We hoped for further attrition among the staff," he said, "but we lost only one position so there was very little saving."

The library staff was reduced by 34 positions in the 1981-82 budget, leaving only 39 employees.

Council Passes Condo Conversion Bill

The City Council has passed a condominium conversion ordinance and asked the state to approve it over the pleas of landlords for more time to present new information on the issue.

The Ordinance Committee held a hearing on the subject prior to the meeting but the landlords' attorney, Walter L. Sullivan of Scituate, had to leave to attend a town meeting before making his presentation.

Richard Cahill, Wollaston realtor, asked for a postponement of a week or two so the Council could hear Sullivan.

"We paid our attorney to be here," he said. "He had new information to shed on the situation."

Cahill did not say what that new information was.

Councillor Stephen J. McGrath, who headed the committee of landlords, tenants and councillors who drew up the ordinance, asked for and got a speedy vote on the ordinance, which was first suggested in December, 1980.

The Council already had passed a home rule petition asking the legislature for permission to have a condo regulation ordinance but Sen. Paul D. Harold suggested that it should be more specific in order to pass.

So the Council added its proposed ordinance to the petition and passed the new measure by a 9-0 vote to be forwarded to the legislature.

Councillor James A. Sheets warned, however, that if the legislature were to pass the new petition-ordinance then it would also take an act of the legislature to make the simplest amendment later on.

"That might not be in the best interests of the tenants or the landlords down the road," he said. "I would have no problem waiting two weeks if any councillors were to look at it again."

Virginia Moriarty, an aide to Rep. Michael W. Morrissey, told the Council that there will be a hearing April 14 at 10 a.m. in the State House on general legislation granting all communities in the state permission to have condo ordinances so the first petition is not really dead.

"There is a slim chance that it will get to the legislature," she said. "The chairman of the committee is not keen on petitions that are not spelled out."

Stedman Beckwith, chairman of the Condominium Conversion Committee of the South Shore Board of Realtors, also asked for a week's postponement of the vote.

He suggested that, since new building is not exempted from its provisions the ordinance might have a stifling effect on new rental apartment construction in the city.

Roger Lyons of the Quincy Apartment House Owners Association, said he felt the issue should be put on hold until the presentation by the landlords' attorney can be taken under advisement.

"If not," he said, "I feel the City Council would be remiss."

Councillor Leo J. Kelly noted that many requests for changes in the proposed ordinance had been made by the landlords.

"Every time we turn around new concessions are asked," he said. "You can go on forever with this if every week someone comes in with new changes."

Threatened With Razor

Edward Blesedell of Quincy reported to police Sunday morning that two black males threatened with a razor in the parking lot of the 7-11 store on Copeland St., West Quincy, and escaped with his watch and wallet.

McCauley Considers Plan To Check Sick Leaves

Mayor Francis X. McCauley is considering hiring a nurse for the city to monitor the health and well-being of city employees who call in sick.

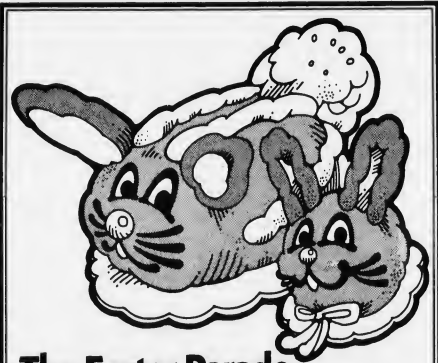

"There is no indication of any widespread abuse of the sick leave program," said McCauley. "It was suggested by a department head that this might be a good idea and I'm following it up."

"We are running a tight ship now in regard to personnel. One or two people out sick can cripple a whole department. In some, it means spending for overtime.

"We're not going to hound people who are legitimately sick but we want to check to make sure."

McCauley said the city has a policy of 18 sick days per year, a policy he called "liberal."

Your IRA Deserves the Difference!

All IRA's are basically the same: Any working person may own an IRA (individual retirement account) with its tax-saving provision that allows you to exclude up to $2000 yearly from federal taxable income. (Up to $4000 for working couples; up to $2250 if your non-working spouse has an IRA.)

In addition, all interest earned by your IRA account is exempt from all taxes until retirement (There are penalties for earlier withdrawal.)

THE DIFFERENCE

Quincy Cooperative Bank offers you an IRA account with a choice of variable or fixed interest rates — and the difference:

As little as $10 opens an IRA account at Quincy Cooperative, all interest in your account will be compounded continuously, and there is no fee.

Visit a friendly office of Quincy Cooperative in Braintree, Cohasset, Hanover or Quincy and find out how easy it is to set up your very own IRA — with the difference. Or call us at 479-6600.

Council Turns Down Finn, Barry Pay Hikes

Quietly and without fanfare, the City Council Monday night denied $3,000 pay raises to Police Chief Francis X. Finn and Fire Chief Edward F. Barry.

When the raise orders were brought out of committee, Councillor James A. Sheets moved that they be filed and the Council confirmed the motion by a voice vote.

There was no doubt on the raises, which raised a storm of controversy two weeks before when it was disclosed that, with fringe benefits, Barry makes $51,000 and Finn $49,000 a year.

The raise is based on the fact that the men under them received 7 per cent raises in December and the salaries of the chiefs are tied to the wages of their men.

"I don't think the real problem is from bars," he says. "drinks are $2.50 to $3 at California."

"To get drunk would cost a lot of money."

"People usually have two to three drinks. They're more there to socialize and for entertainment."

"Problem drinkers don't come to my establishment. A real alcoholic wouldn't spend that money."

Miranda advocates preventive measures for dealing with customers who may be inclined to consume too much alcohol.

He began a training program late last year for his employees.

The course covers such things as how liquor gets into the system, and how to "tactfully shut someone off".

He also advocates police details, and having a breathalyzer at the door of liquor establishments.

Miranda says six or seven owners of other establishments with 2 a.m. closings feel as he does, and are opposed to the hours rollback.

"I bought the block (where California is located) to protect my investment," says Miranda. "It's a rather large investment. I'd hate to lose it."

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in Quincy the correct answers to the week's live questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

Tough Being A Teenager

Growing up as a teenager these days isn't very easy.

There are more roadblocks thrown in their way to sidetrack and detour them into trouble. It's a wonder more of them don't make it into a normal, happy adulthood.

If it isn't drugs being pushed at them at every turn, it's filthy movies at theaters and some pretty raw ones on television. And if they aren't filthy, they're violent. Or stupid.

Kids who want to make something of their lives are today's squares in the eyes of the oddballs who seem to be gaining ground. Years ago, bright students were the leaders. Now the freaks are taking over. Or seem to be, any way.

If you have a teenage son or daughter who has survived it all so far, you're fortunate. So is your son or daughter.

For the borderline category — kids with too much free time on their hands and nothing worthwhile to do with it — comes a message from one of our readers. She's Mrs. Robert Peterson of Prout St., South Quincy. She sends the following and says to credit it to a "juvenile court judge in an Eastern state". It goes like this:

Always we hear the plaintive cry of the teenager:

What can we do? Where can we go? The answer is clear: Go home. Hang the storm windows, paint the woodwork, rake the leaves, mow the lawn, wash the car, learn to cook, scrub the floors, repair the sink, build a boat, get a job.

Help the minister, the priest, or rabbi. Help the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, visit the sick, assist the poor, study your lessons, and when you're through, and not too tired, read a book.

Your parents do not owe you entertainment. Your city or village does not owe you recreational facilities. The world does not owe you a living.

You owe the world something. You owe the world your time and your energy and your talents so that no one will be at war, in poverty, or sick, or lonely again.

In plain simple words: Grow up! Quit being a crybaby. Get out of your dream world and develop a backbone, not a wishbone, and start acting like a man or a lady. You're supposed to be mature enough to accept some of the responsibility your parents have carried for years. They have nursed, protected, helped, appealed, begged, excused, tolerated and denied themselves needed comfort so that you could have every benefit. You have no right to expect them to bow to your every whim and fancy. In Heaven's name, grow up and go home!

Credited to a "juvenile court judge in an Eastern state."

New State Shoplifting Law In Effect

Quincy police reports a new statewide shop lifting law (Chapter 266 of the Acts of 1982) which became effective March 12.

Under the new law police may arrest suspected shoplifters based on the observation of store employees or manager. Arrests can be made for:

- Taking possession
- Concealing upon his or her person
- Altering or transferring a price tag or label
- Transferring to a different container
- Recording a value less than the actual retail value of merchandise displayed or stored in the place of business.

Special forms have been distributed to Quincy police. These forms are signed by the merchant, manager or employee of the store, and the arresting officer.

Notation is to be made on the form if the person detained refuses to identify himself or herself. A description of the individual is also made on the form.

The law states that a police officer may arrest (without a warrant) any person he has probable cause for believing has committed the offense of shoplifting as defined in the law.

The statement which may constitute probable cause must come from the merchant, his employee or agent. Statements from other customers are not, in and of themselves, alone, probable cause under this law.

Fines for first offense are not more than $250. A second offense fine is not less than $100 and not more than $500. A third offense or more could mean a fine of not more than $500 or jail for not more than 2 years or both jail and fine.

A retail mercantile establishment is any place where goods are regularly sold at retail including stores, gas stations, etc. The law does not apply to larceny from a customer within the establishment.

SOME 50 friends held a surprise birthday and pre-retirement party for Anthony Delmonico of Gannett Rd., Adams Shore, the Park Department's artistic stone mason who turned 66 and plans to retire at the end of June.

Delmonico is the father of Jeanne Reardon, the City Council's clerk of committees. She, her husband, Bill, and their two sons live on Chickatabot Rd., Merrymount, where the party was held.

Tony is the founder and director of the Broad Meadows Division of the Koch Club now in its 20th year. He and his wife, Gerry, have spent countless hours providing bowling, basketball and baseball programs for hundreds and hundreds of boys and girls of the area for those two decades.

And, besides all that, he's a real nice guy.

EVER SEE ANYONE with a nice tan and a worried look? George Page, general foreman of the City Park Dept. is back from a two weeks vacation in Winter Haven, Fla. The weather was beautiful. But while he was there, George watched his beloved Red Sox in action a half dozen times or more and never saw them win one exhibition game. That's why he's worried.

Meeting On Health Care April 13 At City Hall

The Quincy League of Women Voters will hold a meeting on health care costs and financing Tuesday, April 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the second floor conference room, new City Hall.

The meeting is open to the public.

Among the topics to be discussed are rising health care costs, how they can be controlled, and whether or not past systems of planning, financing and regulations should be revised.

The first President to ride in an automobile was Theodore Roosevelt.

Council Clears Way To Print 1981-82 Tax Bills

The City Council Monday night appropriated $27,065 to print tax bills for the second half of the 1981-82 billing period, despite the fact that the tax rate for the fiscal years has not yet been set.

The first half bills were dispatched on the basis of the tax bills for 1980-81.

Chief Assessor Elmer Fagerlund said the bills for the second half of 1981-82 will go out "hopefully in the next short weeks ahead."

Mayor Francis X. McCauley, who refuses to estimate dates anymore, said his administration "hopes to put all the numbers together by the end of the week."

Then the rate goes to the state for approval.

Setting the 1981-82 rate was held up by delays in reevaluation but recently the state has given some cities and towns, including Quincy, permission to use old values for one more year.

The Council Monday night passed three financial orders totaling $152,000 to clear up money matters pending before the Council and pave the way for a tax rate.

Kathleen Kroll Speaker At Woman To Woman Day

Columnist Kathleen Kroll will be the keynote speaker at the sixth annual Woman to Woman Day Saturday, April 24, at the Lincoln Hancock Community School, Water St., South Quincy.

The event, which will begin with registration at 8:45 a.m., is sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, Women's Center, Quincy Junior College, and the Quincy Cooperative Bank.

Among the six workshops during the day will be "Discrimination-American as Apple Pie" and "Choosing and Using Legal Services".

A guide to types of legal help will be presented by Susan P. Wechsler, South Shore attorney.

Miss Wechsler has been a practicing attorney since 1978 in both Maine and Massachusetts.

She has also served in the Attorney General's and Norfolk County District Attorney's offices.

She will conduct the workshop by discussing why and how to choose a lawyer, and describing the different areas of substantive law: small claims, landlord/tenant problems, etc.

A question and answer period will follow.

Women who have felt they were legitimately overlooked for promotion or lost out on pension rights or any of the other economic necessities of life will have an opportunity to discuss their concerns at the morning workshop on discrimination.

Betty Gittes, president of the Women's Commission in Exile and attorney in the Boston law firm of Shaevell, Shaevell, and Gittes, and Pat Jerabek, economist and board member of W.C.I.E., will examine past cases of economic discrimination, and current problems and possibilities of dealing with them legally.

According to both women, the 1980's will be a crucial period in which women must participate more fully in the economic decisions affecting their lives.

Other workshops will be "Life Change: entry or re-entry into the job market", "Managing the Bucks", "Checking out the Situation", and "Parenting".

Sandwiches will be available at a nominal fee to benefit the Quincy Crisis Center or participants can bring their own lunches.

The day will end with a social, 3:30 to 5:30 p.m., at the Neighborhood Club, sponsored by Quincy Cooperative Bank.

City Council Votes Down Hillside School

The City Council, flying in the face of popular opinion, voted 6-0 to eliminate the proposed Hillside School from a construction program, thus killing the School Committee's two-school plan.

Councillor David S. McIntosh made the motion that no school be built on the Hillside site and that a large school be constructed at a location on Furnace Brook Parkway.

Councillor Carl W. Anderson seconded the motion and they were joined by Councillors David J. Crowley, Frank E. MacDonald, Alfred G. Helfrich and Amelio Della Chiesa. Councillor Edna B. Austin was not of town.

Atty. Paul K. Duffey, a member of the School Committee, said a petition campaign by 10 taxpayers may be put together to obtain a court order forcing the Council to approve construction of the school.

WOLLASTON MAN ACQUITTED

George D. O'Brien Sr. of Hillside Ave., Wollaston, was acquitted of complicity in the $681,700 armored car robbery in Danvers on March 25, 1952, by a jury that took an hour and 29 minutes to reach a verdict.

In an unprecedented move, Judge George C. Sweeney announced that he personally did not agree with the decision and he polled each of the 12 jurors asking if they had been intimidated. Each answered, "No, sir."

Judge Sweeney explained that Loring C. Briggs of Rutland, the original jury foreman, had been excused from service after he reported his wife was near collapse after receiving a threatening telephone call.

METER EXTENSION PROTESTED

Owners of downtown Quincy theaters registered their opposition to a proposed ordinance before the City Council that would extend the effective time of parking meters in the city from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. on all week nights.

"It will ruin my business," said Leonard Goldberg, one of the owners of the Adams Theater on School St.

"It will mean that theater patrons not only have to drop in the first coin but they will also have to leave the theater every hour and drop in another."

POLICE RESCUE

Patrolmen George Denneen and Archibald Thompson in the police boat Alert rescued Airmen Richard L. Green of 33 Sharon Rd., Atlantic, and Joseph E. Forti of Medford from the choppy waters of Quincy Bay.

They had lost an oar while rowing on the bay near the deactivated Squantum Naval Air Station and there were no small boats at the base to go out after them.

Atlantic Group Urges License Board To Vote On Drinking Hours

The Atlantic Neighborhood Association asked that the Licensing Board stop its "delaying tactics and deliberate avoidance of responsibility" and take a stand on a one hour roll-back of drinking hours.

Last week the Licensing Board was stalemated by a 2 to 2 vote with one member Dr. Robert McKeogh voting present on the question of rolling back the drinking hours from 2 to 1 a.m. in some 12 lounges in the city.

Thomas J. Nutley, President of the Association, stated that the one hour roll-back would not represent a hardship to the lounge owners.

The earlier closing time, similar to adjacent communities, would go a long way towards eliminating Quincy as the place to get "smashed".

Kindergarten Registration April 13

Registration for kindergarten for the school year 1982-83 will be held Tuesday April 13, from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. at all public elementary schools in Quincy for all children who will be five years of age in the calendar year of 1982.

Parents must present a birth certificate at the time of registration and evidence of immunization for D.P.T., polio, measles, mumps and rubella to comply with State Law, Chapter 590. A child may be admitted to kindergarten if in the opinion of a doctor he is not in a condition to be immunized and issues a certificate indicating this fact.

Appointments will be made on registration day for vision and hearing screening assessments and parent questionnaire as required by State Law, Chapter 76B.

Children who will be five years of age on or before Dec. 31, 1982 will be eligible for kindergarten.

Dr. McKeogh Hopes To Take 1 A.M. Stand Next Week

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh said Tuesday that he hopes to be able to take a stand on the 2 a.m. closing issue by next week.

The License Board was deadlocked on the issue 2 to 2 last week when Dr. McKeogh, the fifth board member, voted present on a motion to roll back the hours of drinking establishments to 1 a.m.

Earlier in the meeting he had been denied a two week continuance to give the matter more consideration.
"I originally thought it (the roll back) would be great," said Dr. McKeogh. "Tuesday, but I had some questions."

"Everyone else on the board seems to have divine guidance," said Dr. McKeogh. "I want to have concrete facts, not just feelings."

Dr. McKeogh said he is requesting a literature computer search from the Upjohn Company and hopes to have it by this week-end.

He is interested in the effects a roll back from 2 to 1 a.m. would have on drunkenness, drunkenness and driving, automobile accidents involving alcohol, automobile fatalities involving alcohol, and cirrhosis of the liver.

Dr. McKeogh, who has come under fire for not taking a stand on the issue, said he has received three to four calls against him, and one in support.

"I'm not reluctant to take a stand," said Dr. McKeogh. "I just had some questions."

"I don't think my job is to reflect the community."

"My job is as a scientist to dig out facts, and to vote on them."

Once the License Board votes to reconsider the issues, a two week notice is required before there is a public hearing.

3 Councillors Seek County Clerk's Post

Former Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia is running for clerk of courts of Norfolk County.

The 49-year-old city councillor from West Quincy announced Monday night that his workers will be out "in full force" over the weekend seeking signatures on his nomination papers.

The $38,000-a-year post will be open when the incumbent, John Concannon of Braintree, is named a judge. Four other candidates are already in the race, including:

City Councillors John J. Lydon Jr. and Leo J. Kelly; Robert Bloom, assistant clerk of Quincy District Court; and Nicholas Barbadoro, assistant Norfolk County clerk.

Robert O. Flynn of Canton, assistant clerk at the Stoughton District Court and a former football coach at Boston College High School, also announced his candidacy at the same time as LaRaia.

"I have always been interested in county government," said LaRaia, who ran unsuccessfully for county treasurer in 1972. He got 13,029 votes to 17,249 for James M. Collins of Milton.

The clerk's job would permit LaRaia to remain on the City Council, if he won, but he said if the council post interfered with the performance of his county duties he would resign.

"It has to be a fulltime job," he said.

LaRaia conceded that having three candidates for the same post on the Council might cause some strained relations but, he added, "it would not be the same as a city race."

LaRaia, who is not a lawyer, said he sees the essential quality of the job as an administrative one. He is general manager of a prosthetics company.

"There are enough people in the office with legal backgrounds to complement the position," he said.

Dental Corner by

Lee A. Welky, D.M.D.

THAT FIRST DENTAL VISIT

Many parents want to know when to bring their child to the dentist for the first time. Many fear their child will be upset by the experience. Unfortunately, this attitude often means that the dentist first sees the child when a toothache occurs.

The best time to bring the child to the dentist is before problems arise. This way, the first visit can be a pleasant experience.

It is important that the parent present the dental visit to the child in a positive way. Don't mention pain; don't offer a reward for good behavior.

Most dentists agree that the child should be seen by a dentist at about age three. At this point the child's set of first teeth is complete. Usually, there hasn't been a chance for many cavities to form. Also, the child hasn't yet heard any scary stories from his peers.

YELLOW PAGES

Making a change in your Yellow Pages ad could make a big difference in the business you do this year. For example, you can:

- Make your business stand out more with a bigger ad.
- Attract more customers by listing all the goods and services you offer.
- List all your convenient branch locations.

If you want to update your existing ad—or if you'd like to place a new one—just call your local telephone business office before the following South Suburban Boston Yellow Pages deadlines (the sooner you call us, the easier for everyone):

Bold type listings and display ads May 21

United Memorial Congregational

The United Church of Christ at Memorial Congregational Church, 136 Sagamore St., North Quincy, will hold a Maundy Thursday service tonight at 7:30 p.m.

A Tenebrae service will be held in which the congregation will celebrate in joy mingled with sorrow, the Last Supper and the Lord's sacrifice of himself.

Special music will include prelude, "Andante Religioso", by R.G. Hailing; anthem, "God So Loved the World", Stainer; and solo by Edward DeLong, "Christ Be With Me", Chopin.

Eastern Morning services will be:

7 a.m. Early Worship on the church lawn followed, by an Egg Hunt for youngsters.

7:30 a.m., Communion Breakfast.

10:30 a.m., Resurrection Celebration. Scripture, Mark 16:1-8. Theme, "The Joy of Being Alive." Rev. Curtis Penney will preach. Special Music will include: Prelude, "Easter Dawn" A.

Claussmann; Call to Worship, "Our Blessed Savior Seven Times Spoke", Pachelbel; "Alleluia! Christ is Risen!" Gordon Young; Anthems "Easter Morning" R. Kountz; Soloist - Dawn Graham, "Alleluia. Sing to Jesus." Trumpet Accompaniment by Todd Thayer. Benediction from the Halleluia Chorus, J.F. Handel. Postlude, "Easter Triumph", Kern.

Rev. Arthur Curtis is minister. Rev. Curtis Penney, associate minister; and Mrs. Marie Mildram, organist-choir director.

Bethany Church

The traditional Maundy Thursday service will be held tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts.

The first portion of the service is the celebration of Holy Communion commemorating the institution of the sacrament during the Last Supper in the Upper Room.

The Rev. Elden D. J. Zuern will give the meditation. The Rev. J. William Arnold will conduct the communion liturgy.

Deacons serving communion will be: William Greene, Robert Lockwood, Edwin Roberts, George Roberts and Clayton Simpson.

Following the Last Supper, the events leading to Christ's arrest, trial and crucifixion will be portrayed in the fourth century office of Tenebrae. These are recalled by the readings of selected Gospel passages.

Tenebrae Readers will be: Russell Hodgkins, Jean Ann Maclean, Sarah MacLeod, Kinya Mikami, Kenneth Rickson, Richard Sprague, Alfred Toy, Howard Willard, Sr.

As each reading is completed, candles and lights will be extinguished one by one in the chancel and nave until everything is in darkness, symbolic of the flight of Christ's followers who deserted him in his hour of trial.

The Chancel Choir, under the direction of Dana M. Robinson, will sing the anthem "Go to Dark Gethsemane" by Noble.

On Good Friday, there will be services in remembrance of the death and burial of Jesus at 12:15 p.m.

Church, Weymouth Landing. Anyone in need of physical, emotional and/or spiritual healing, is invited.

p.m. in the Chapel, and at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary.

Both services, 45 minutes in length, will be identical except for the special music.

At the noon service, Jean E. Buttison will sing the composition by Lillenas, "The Calvary Road". At the evening service, the chancel choir will present the anthem, "God So Loved the World" by Stainer.

The Good Friday devotional service is somber in tone and includes portions of "The Order for the Burial of the Dead", the litany "Confessions at the Tomb" and the responsive reading of Psalm 22.

Both ministers will participate in leading the worship. Pastor Arnold will give the meditation, "A Great Kindness in Death." The cross will be draped in black and a crown of thorns plant will beat the altar.

All three services are open to the community.

Two Easter Sunday Services will be held.

An outdoor sunrise service will take place at 7 a.m. at the point at the home of Mr. & Mrs. William Lipp, 7 Edwards Lane, Germantown.

Young people will participate in leading the worship.

A light breakfast will follow the worship. In case of inclement weather, the service will be held in Bethany Chapel.

At 10 a.m. in the main sanctuary, the Resurrection of Jesus will be celebrated. Included will be a brass quartet, lilies, the reading of portions of the Easter story from the Gospel of Matthew and a responsive "Act of Joyful Praise and Adoration".

The Chancel Choir, with Dana M. Robinson at the organ, will sing the anthem "Come, Ye Faithful" by Titcomb and "Hallelujah" from Handel's Messiah as the closing choral praise.

The combined children's choir will sing under the direction of Marsha Archer and Sandra Jones.

The Rev. Zuern will assist in leading the worship. Pastor Arnold will preach the sermon based on Matthew 28:1-9 "The Dawn of a New Day".

The sanctuary will be decorated with over 150 lilies which will be delivered later to sick and confined members and friends of the church.

No Church School classes will be held so that children may attend the Easter service with their families. The nursery will be open and staffed for babies and pre-school children.

Lutheran Church Of The Good Shepherd

Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, 308 West Squantum St., North Quincy, will hold a special service of Holy Communion Maundy Thursday (tonight) at 7:30 p.m.

Fr. Joseph McDermott, chaplain at Walpole State Prison, will conduct an "Eucharistic Healing Service" Thursday, April 15, at 7:30 p.m. at Sacred Heart

St. John The Baptist Church School Street, Quincy, Mass. HOLY WEEK SCHEDULE

Dear Friends:

May you and your loved ones experience personally and together all the happiness of Easter, that truly wonderful day when Jesus Christ made possible for us a new life that will never end.

Be strengthened, be encouraged by Christ's words, "I am with you always." He understands your needs, your problems. Place them in his hands, through prayer.

Open your heart to others in Christ's new brotherly kindness and understanding and His love will reach more people through you. Attend and participate in these Holy Week Services and receive Holy Communion each time, and may the strength you derive from celebrating Christ's Paschal mystery fill your heart and your home with lasting peace.

Passover

Quincy Jews Begin Celebration

By LESTER H. GLASSER

Quincy Jewry will celebrate the Passover holidays starting Wednesday, April 7, and continuing for eight days through April 15.

Orthodox and Conservative Jews celebrate the eight days while Reform Jews celebrate only seven days.

Jack Klaver, president of Beth Israel Synagogue on Grafton St., announced that Passover services will be held on Wednesday and Thursday evenings; and Thursday and Friday mornings.

Services on the concluding days will be held Tuesday and Wednesday evenings and Wednesday and Thursday mornings with Yizkor (memorial prayers) on Thursday morning.

Rabbi Jacob Mann will conduct all the services.

Passover services will be held at Temple Beth El, Hancock St., conducted by Rabbi David J. Jacobs and Cantor Morris Semigran. Dr. Herbert Hodess is president of the Congregation.

Leo Lofchie and Abe Greenspan, co-presidents of Congregation Adas Shalom, 435 Adams St., announced that there will be no Passover services on the first two days of the holiday.

Services on the last two days, April 14 and 15, start at 9 a.m., with Yizkor prayers on the second day.

Rabbi Allan Press and Cantor David Grossman will officiate.

Congregation Adas Shalom will hold a Family Seder at the temple on the second night of Passover, Thursday, April 8 at 6:15 p.m. Rabbi Press and Cantor Grossman will officiate.

Pesach (or Passover) is a festival of spring and change.

Everything in the house is scrubbed and polished as the Festival approaches. Carpets are cleaned, floors are scrubbed, windows are cleaned, curtains are changed.

Just before the holiday, all year-round kitchen utensils and dishes are put away to be replaced by those specially reserved for Pesach.

The most wonderful meal of the year is the dinner on Passover. It is called the Seder, which means order of service. The following is the order of the service:

Recite the Kiddush (blessing of the wine) after which all drink the first of four prescribed cups of wine.

Wash hands omitting the customary prayer. Eat the celery, dipping in salt water and saying the prescribed blessing.

Break the middle of matzo, putting half away for the afikoman, which is hidden and a reward is given to the child who finds it.

Then the leader of the services reads the Haggadah (the story of Passover).

The custom of narrating the historic events of Bondage and Liberation of which Passover is the commemoration, was ordained in the Scriptural Commandment: "And thou shalt tell thy son, saying: It is because of that which the Lord did for me when I came forth of Egypt." (Exodus 13:8).

The youngest son or daughter at the table asks the following questions:

Why is this night different from all other nights?

On all other nights, we eat leavened or unleavened bread. Why on this night do we eat only unleavened bread?

On all other nights, we eat all kinds of herbs. Why, on this night, do we eat especially bitter herbs?

On all other nights, we do not dip the herbs in any condiment. Why on this night do we dip them in salt water and haroseth?

On all other nights, we may sit at the table either erect or leaning; on this night we recline.

The narrative begins and the person conducting the Seder replies as follows:

Why do we eat only Matzah tonight? When Pharaoh let our forefathers go from Egypt, they were forced to flee in great haste. They had no time to bake their bread, they could not wait for the yeast to rise. So the sun beating down on the dough as they carried it along baked it into a flat unleavened bread called Matzah.

Why do we eat bitter herbs tonight? Because our fathers were slaves in Egypt and their lives were made bitter.

Why do we dip the herbs twice tonight? We dip the bitter herbs into the sweet haroseth as a sign of hope. Our fathers were able to withstand the bitterness of slavery, because it was sweetened by the hope of freedom.

Why do we recline at the table? Because reclining at the table was a sign of a free man in olden times and, since our fathers were freed on this night, we recline at the table.

The leader and all at the table read the story of Passover in the Haggadah. When the first part is completed, the hostess starts serving the dinner.

The first course is hard boiled eggs served with salt water, for the tears and hope have always been the lot of the Jewish people. Chicken soup and Matzo balls; turkey, chicken with all the trimmings follow.

With the regular dessert a small piece of matzo is served. Four cups of wine are served to all the celebrants with a special cut on the table for Elijah. The Cup of Elijah should be the most beautiful wine goblet in the home.

The welcoming cup, filled with wine, is given a place of honor, should Elijah come on the night of Passover. At the conclusion of the Seder, the door is opened to welcome Elijah.

The following is the final benediction of the Seder:

The Passover service is now completed. With songs of praise we have lifted up the cup, symbolizing the divine promises of salvation, and we have called upon the name of God.

Let us again, lift our soul to God in faith and hope. May he, who broke Paraaah's yoke, forever shatter all fetters of oppression and hasten the day when swords shall at last be broken, and wars ended. Soon may He cause the glad tidings of redemption to be heard in all lands so that mankind freed from violence and from wrong and united in an eternal confidence of brotherhood — may celebrate the universal Passover in the name of our God of Freedom.

Seven weeks after Passover comes the Festival of the First Fruits or the Feast of Weeks (Shavuoth).

Shavuoth is believed to be the day when the Ten Commandments were given to Israel, the beginning of the law not only for the Jews but for many nations which have learned from them. This holiday is observed chiefly in the synagogue and the school.

'Stress' Topic For Women/South

"Stress: A Challenge to Health and Productivity — Let's Overcome It!" is the program for the dinner meeting of Women/South to be held at 6:30 p.m. April 20, at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Informal networking begins at 5:30 p.m.

Rev. L. H. Martin, of Rev. Littman

Seminars, is a practicing psychotherapist and writer.

Women/South is a professional and business women's organization which meets monthly. Membership renewals are due at this time. Prospective members may contact Adrienne Dorfman, executive director of Wayland.

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

ACCIDENTAL POISONING

It is estimated that in the coming year, 500,000 children will accidentally ingest poisonous or potentially poisonous substances. Ninety percent of all cases involve children under 5 years of age. Substances that most frequently cause such harm are medicines and household preparations, including cleaning fluids, insect sprays, lighter fluid, and some furniture polishes as well as turpentine, kerosene, paints, and solvents and products containing lye and acids. Aspirin is still the leading item involved in childhood poisonings.

And don't depend on your ability to watch the toddler as an effective poison preventative. It is shocking that 95% of poisonings of children under five occur while they are under the supervision of parents or other responsible adults. Be aware of the hazards and keep them out of the reach of children.

It's Spring Home Improvement And Gardening Time!

Spring into home improvement, indoors and out

Turning old into new to meet housing needs

When it comes to housing, Americans are marching to the beat of a different drummer than in the past. Gone are the days of being a throw-away society. Increasing emphasis is being placed on preserving, restoring and remodeling America's existing housing stock.

The cause for this conservation explosion stems from realization that our country faces a serious housing shortage.

Economic conditions have created a radical decline in the number of new houses being built, the median price for a new home is over $70,000 and the mortgage financing available is at the highest rates ever seen in this country. Simultaneously, the formation of households in America is on the rise.

To combat this growing shortage Americans are taking the offensive. They're turning to repair and remodeling.

Residential renewal

According to the National Home Improvement Council (NHIC), $21.6 billion was spent for upkeep and improvement of residential properties during the first six months of 1981.

In cities and towns throughout America, people are combining creativity and ingenuity to turn existing housing inventory into the modern homes of tomorrow.

Uninhibited thinking is resulting in the renewal of neighborhoods, the transformation of abandoned manufacturing sites and the continuation of the American tradition of home ownership.

Repairs vary

While some individuals are turning unconventional structures such as unoccupied manufacturing lofts, churches and factories into housing units, the mainstay of the population is either fixing up the home they already own or, if a first time buyer, looking for a home which is undervalued because it needs repair.

Armed with caulking guns, weather stripping, hammers and nails, these troops are doing many simple repairs on their own. Major work, however, is best left to a reputable contractor, notes NHIC executive vice president John Hammon.

"Be careful not to overestimate your capabilities," warns Hammon, "or the results could be disappointing."

Existing structures

As America awakens to the overwhelming benefits and cost-effectiveness of what they and responsible home improvement contractors can accomplish together, more and more of our existing housing stock will return to fruitful use.

The National Home Improvement Council, which is the largest trade association representing all segments of the home improvement industry, endorses the movement toward utilizing America's existing housing resources.

"The drumbeat heard today is announcing the rebirth of America's existing housing stock," states NHIC's Hammon, "a rebirth which will afford more individuals and families home ownership than ever before."

Counter tiling: a great do-it-yourself project

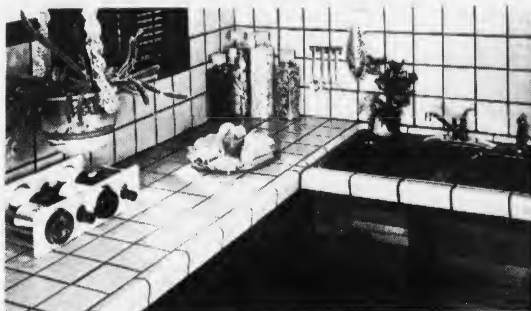

By LIS KING

A ceramic counter is a small home improvement, but it makes a big difference. Invariably, it adds the kind of glamour that lifts a common kitchen into a class by itself. And it's glamour that's fuss-free and lasts!

For ceramic tile takes such abuse as hot pots and toasters in stride, never needs waxing, and cleans with plain soap and water.

Affordable project

As if these attributes weren't enough, a ceramic tile

CERAMIC TILE COUNTERTOPS make beautiful sense. Hot pots won't burn them, they are truly wash-and-wear, and you can install them yourself. Here, tile with a hand-crafted look is used in a country kitchen, proving emphatically that today's ceramic tile has banished yesterday's clinical image.

counter is also a very affordable project. Especially if you're a do-it-yourselfer. If you do your own tiling, you can certainly do the counters of the average kitchen for under $100.

But can you install ceramic tile yourself? You bet, says the Tile Council of America. Thanks to such product innovations as quick-set adhesives, special trim pieces and pre-mixed grout, anybody who's reasonably handy can achieve professional results.

Do-it-yourselfers probably have most of the tiling tools already... such as a straight edge, tape rule, carpenter's level, square, carborundum stone, scraper, sponge and cleaning rags.

The special tools needed are a tile cutter, a notched trowel, a rubber trowel or squeegee, and tile nippers.

Four-step process

Tiling is a simple four-step process. The adhesive is spread with the notched trowel, the tile is set, after 24 hours or so grout is applied, and the tiles are cleaned and polished.

Cutting tiles is also easy. Mark where to cut, place the tile in position in the tile cutter, score with cutter, and break off.

Handy tools

The tile nippers are used to shape cuts to fit around pipes and such. Little bits are nipped off at a time, and edges smoothed with carborundum stone.

Ceramic tile can be installed over most materials usually found on a countertop, including plastic laminates, ceramic tile and, of course, the plywood support for a new counter. Whether the surface is new or old, it must be absolutely clean and smooth.

Trim it neatly

Before you tile, decide how you'll treat the countertop edge. Ceramic trim pieces that match the counter tiles give a neat, professional result as well as easier care and longer wear than any other type of trim.

Handling the sink is a puzzle to many do-it-yourselfers. But it needn't be... not if you let good old common sense prevail.

In a new installation, leave the sink till the top is tiled. In existing countertop installations, the sink has to come out.

Today, most sinks are self-rimmed and lift out without a hassle. But, if the sink proves stubborn, call in your friendly plumber.

Cut to fit

The tiles are cut to fit around the sink opening, and the sink (or the metal rim that attaches to the counter) rests on top of the cut tiles, covering the raw edges.

Lay out tiles loose to arrive at the best-looking installation and the least amount of cut tiles. Work from the front to the back, so any cut tiles fall where they're least noticeable.

Cut fuel bills by adding replacement or storm windows

Even as you enjoy this season's mild temperatures, now is the time to "think winter" if your old windows are drafty. Summer is the best time to protect against costly and uncomfortable winter heat loss by installing replacement windows or storm sash. The choice depends on the condition of your windows.

If the old windows are loose and warped and cannot be sealed effectively, replacement windows are the ideal solution; if they are in relatively good condition, and can be repaired and caulked efficiently, storm sash will provide good results.

This type of home improvement alone can reduce energy loss through windows by as much as 40 percent, to say nothing of improving appearance and virtually eliminating maintenance.

Aluminum frame replacement and storm windows remain the most popular kind because they are easy to care for, and come in styles and colors to blend with any style architecture or fit any shape or size window opening.

You can retain a colonial look by selecting new windows with removable grids that fit over the large pane of glass, or you can change the style completely by replacing old up-and-down wood windows or steel casements with modern aluminum horizontal sliders, picture windows, single-hung units (those with one moving section), or a combination of styles. There are also new aluminum casements which fit snugly.

These windows are lightweight and easy to handle, and the metal won't shrink, swell or rot.

Thermalized aluminum windows are the most efficient kind of replacements because they reduce heat conduction through the entire window. They insulate as well as wood or vinyl frames while providing the low-maintenance advantages of aluminum.

Superior weatherstripping and a "thermal break" are used in all component parts of the window, along with double or triple glazing (two or three sheets of glass separated by dead air spaces). Savings in energy can soon help offset their initial expense.

If your budget won't allow you to replace windows throughout the house at once, buy them for rooms where you spend the most time this year and gradually add them to other rooms later. They come completely preassembled with aluminum frame, glass, weatherstripping and trim, and can be installed quickly by a qualified technician.

As with good replacement windows, storm windows also help keep the cold outside in winter and your air conditioning at more efficient levels in summer.

A storm window provides a second window over the original glass, and almost all of them have aluminum frames and self-storing screens.

Most efficient is the multiple track, maintenance-free window which comes in standard and custom sizes to fit any size or shape opening.

The frames can be ordered in mill or anodized finishes or in baked on enamel-coated finishes in several different colors.

Installed over single glazed windows, which have been properly caulked and sealed, these aluminum storm units create double-glazed windows, over double-glazed thermalized windows they form a triple glazed unit which gives maximum protection for particularly cold areas, and further reduces fuel use.

Whichever type you choose, look for neat strong joints in the frames, thick weatherstripping and heavy glass.

Also, check the window's U-value. This rating indicates the ability of the window's various components to insulate and, the lower the figure, the greater its ability to prevent heating or cooling loss.

Also, be sure the window bears the AAMA (Architectural Aluminum Manufacturers Association) Certification label. It tells you that the window has passed tough tests approved by the American National Standards Institute.

Although aluminum replacement or storm windows can be installed any time of year, don't wait for the first snowflakes to order them, because suppliers are finding it difficult to keep up with the demand.

For more information, write for the free booklet, "A Homeowner's Guide to Choosing Windows," to the Aluminum Window Information Bureau, Dept. M-5, 250 57th Street, New York, NY 10019.

All reroofing jobs are not the same

All roofs have to be re-roofed sooner or later but all reroofing jobs are not the same.

If the old roof surface is relatively smooth and the deck is in good condition, a tear-off may not be necessary. Asphalt shingles, in most cases, can be applied directly over the old roofing.

A professional roofing contractor should be able to tell whether you can avoid the cost and inconvenience of a tear-off.

Include lawn in spring shape-up

As cold, slumbering months of winter draw to a close, it's time to initiate a spring health and nutrition program—not only for the body, but also for the lawn.

While lethargic muscles and bones signal the desire to shape up for summer fun, the lawn's plants cry for revitalization as well. Maybe homeowners have yet to hear what those roots are saying, but just as the body begs for food and exercise, so does the lawn.

Rather than let grass plants suffer from lack of attention, lawn care experts at Vigoro®, manufacturers of the most complete line of home lawn and garden products, suggest that homeowners concentrate on supplying their grass with the essentials as early as April.

Begin with an active workout. While the body needs a rigorous exercise program to tone muscles and build endurance, the lawn needs a vigorous raking to stimulate its roots.

At the same time, routine raking will rid clippings and old leaves which crowd the environment, making it difficult for the lawn grasses to gain proper nourishment.

Implement a nutritious diet plan. When developing a shopping list of balanced foods for the family, remember the lawn also requires a proper diet to regain important nutrients that are consumed in the lawn's early growing periods.

Don't overfeed

Plant food, such as Vigoro®, should be applied in April to help ensure a thick, green lawn and again in early September to aid root development for the following spring.

Just as people can over-eat good food, a lawn can be over-fertilized, too. For this reason, Vigoro® has developed a time-release fertilizer which eliminates the concern for over-feeding by slowly providing nutrition for up to three months.

Lawns also need generous amounts of water to activate the plant food process by releasing nitrogen, the most important nutritive, to stimulate growth and greening.

Water regularly

Vigoro® experts caution that a light sprinkling, like a starvation diet, can be hazardous because water evaporates quickly and encourages the roots to stay near soil level in search of more.

Instead, the lawn should be watered weekly for approximately three hours or until the soil is wet to a depth of six inches. As joggers need proper running shoes, lawns need the most effective sprinkling systems.

A rotating sprinkler or a flat, perforated hose works best to provide deep-reaching moisture.

While grass plants grow long and healthy from a proper maintenance program, they will also require weekly cutting. However, just as no person should lose too much weight, lawns should not be cut so short that more grass is cut off than what is left. Two inches is the minimum amount that a lawn should be mowed to avoid a burnt-looking color.

Early spring is also the time to repair unsightly bare spots that result from hard use during the previous summer or snow pile-up over the winter. Rake the affected area to loosen the soil, reseed, add plant food, then water generously.

Lawns take time

Since trim, fit bodies and lush, green lawns require time to develop, an early care and attention plan may be the key to a physically fit summer.

YOUR HOME: COLOR IT ELEGANT!

A properly color-coordinated home can communicate a sense of elegance.

Experts say that the choices ought to be limited to three basic colors; for the roof, the siding and the trim.

Vinyl siding, for example, comes in a variety of colors that improve the curb appeal of any home.

LOST IN SPACE? LOUVER DOORS CREATE FEEL OF LARGER AREA

Got a problem with doors in narrow halls and small foyers? Consider sliding or folding wood louver doors where floor space doesn't permit the use of conventional swing out doors.

Wood louver doors are ideal space savers. The sliding style is especially useful in cramped quarters because it requires no floor space to open and close.

Winning perennial planting based on careful planning

Every successful perennial garden is based on a careful plan that gives a sense of order. Gardeners should never skimp on the planning stage or they will end up with a messy jumble of flowers growing randomly.

When designing a plan, consider such factors as the size and shape of the lawn, paths and walkways, shrub borders, hedges, trees, statues, and background fences and walls. According to Ortho's book "All About Perennials," there are five basic factors to consider when designing a perennial garden:

- Decide which area of the garden will be viewed most often.
- Consider the shape and topography of your yard and what plants or trees you want to keep.
- Determine whether you want a formal or informal design.
- Decide if you want beds or borders.
- Select your plants.

The first step is to consider the shape and topography of your yard. This will help you decide if you want to have a formal or informal garden. If your yard is irregular with slopes and hills or you would like to keep existing plants and trees, your best bet is an informal design. If your yard is flat and has little vegetation, you can go either way.

An informal garden tends to have more curved lines, such as lawn areas, patios, and walkways. Formal gardens

When a bulb is not a bulb

Any plant that stores its life cycle in an underground package has come to be called a bulb. However, not all are true bulbs, according to the new Ortho book "All About Bulbs." Some are corms, tubers, tuberous roots and rhizomes.

The lily and tulip are examples of true bulbs. Corms include the gladiolus, freesia and the crocus. Gloriosa and ranunculus are tubers and so, of course, is the potato.

Tuberous roots, which look like tubers but which actually develop from root tissue, are responsible for the dahlia, begonia and alstromeria. The iris and canna are rhizomes, sometimes known as root-stock.

are symmetrical. A formal garden is usually rectangular and is often designed around a focal point, such as a geometrically shaped pool or a fountain.

Once you have decided on the location of the garden and whether you want an informal or formal design, you must decide if you want to plant beds or borders or both. A bed is a cultivated area usually surrounded by grass lawn, while a border bounds a space in your garden, it's time for the fun—choosing your perennials. In choosing your plants ask yourself what kind of color scheme you want. Do you want an assortment of plants and flower forms or flowers that are similar in appearance?

In designing your garden, there are several specific characteristics of perennials that you need to know in order to make the best choices. Aside from their growing requirements it's important that you know the plant's color, height, spread, form, texture, and bloom season.

You might want to check a good source book on perennials, such as Ortho's book "All About Perennials," that includes a guide to over 100 of the most dependable and widely available perennials.

The advantages of having beds: They are accessible from all sides and therefore are easy to maintain; they get more sunlight and air circulation and can be viewed from all sides.

The great advantage of borders, however, is that they allow more space for your yard. Borders are also ideal for softening edges of buildings, fences, walkways, and lawns.

If you decide on a perennial border, you may want to consider two other aspects of design—background and edging. Backgrounds should be stone or brick walls or natural wood fences. Shrubs also make attractive backgrounds. For edging, try a row of bricks or fieldstones.

Once you've gone through the previous steps in design-

Perennials are very effective when planted in groups. Preparing a rough sketch of your garden will be helpful so you can indicate exactly where each group will be planted.

Free your home of bees

Wasps and hornets love to make themselves at home under the eaves of a house. There the nest is protected and grips securely to the wood.

But, it poses a serious danger to householders. Hunter Douglas Inc., innovator of do-it-yourself building supplies, suggests that an effective way to deter bees is to cover the area with aluminum soffit panels.

In addition to resolving the pest problem, aluminum soffit fits require far less upkeep than painted wood surfaces which are prone to constant peeling.

Do-it-yourself soffit installations can save nearly 60 percent and is an easy weekend project with long-lasting results.

Simple repairs, maintenance keep iron railing looking new

A wrought iron railing adds elegant style to a patio or outdoor steps. However, constant exposure to changing seasons, particularly the ice and snow of winter, may require its maintenance or repairs in the spring.

Paint often blisters, exposing the railing's raw metal surface to conditions that cause it to rust. Also, the cement base of the railing may crack or deteriorate.

Repairs are easy

Extreme cold can even cause parts of the railing to crack or chip. But there is no reason to despair.

Follow instructions

Mix fast-setting anchor cement with water, following package instructions. Using a pointed trowel, pack the anchor cement into the void around the railing. Smooth the surface with a putty knife and, in 15 minutes, the repair will be set.

• Blistered and rusted surfaces must be thoroughly cleaned prior to repainting. Remove loose paint using a metal handle scraper. For hard-to-reach surfaces, such as the underside of a railing, try a scraper and pry bar or a stiff blade putty knife.

Final touches

Next, sand all rusted areas thoroughly to remove old scale and rust. A flexible sanding block will conform to the shape of the railing, facilitating an even, complete job.

Begin with the coarse or medium side of the sanding block, then go over the surface with the fine side of the block.

Brush the sanded surface with a wire brush, and wipe with a tack cloth to ensure a clean surface before painting.

Cover the surface with several coats of rust-preventative paint. These paints, which generally contain rust-stopping primers, can be applied with a sprayer or brush.

Snap a spray can handle onto an aerosol can to guarantee even spray applications.

A paint wand is ideal for applying paint from a can to the narrow rail surfaces. Between coats, lightly wipe the surface with steel wool to promote adhesion.

• Fix cracks or chips in the railing with a tube of instant aluminum. Clear away loose paint, metal chips or rust as described above. Apply the aluminum to the area to be repaired.

Smooth with a screwdriver or stiff blade putty knife. When hardened, sand the repair to eliminate surface irregularities, coat with a metal primer and cover with several layers of paint.

Your railing will now look as good as new.

Schools Donate $350,000 To Fill City's Loan Needs

The School Department has given $350,000 back to the city to pay temporary loan interest and the city has promised to return that sum to the schools in the next fiscal year.

It came about like this, as explained by Acting City Auditor William Grindlay:

Due to a reduction in energy costs, the School Department came up with a surplus of $350,000.

"They'd like to use it for next year's purposes," said Grindlay, "but by law an appropriation made this year can only be spent this year."

The city government, however, needed all the money it can get this year to pay the high cost of borrowing money to keep the city running while a tax rate is being set.

The School committee agreed to provide money for that this year and, said Grindlay, Mayor Francis X. McCauley will take that into consideration when he allocates money to the schools next year.

Grindlay said the $350,000 will not be sufficient to pay the cost of all the temporary borrowing this year.

"We will probably be in the neighborhood of $800,000 short in temporary loan interest," he said, "which will have to be raised in next year's tax levy."

And the borrowing is still going on.

"We just had a borrowing last week that cost us $90,000," said Treasurer Robert E. Foy III.

That led City Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia to declaim about the "horrendous" amount of interest the city has been paying for its temporary loans.

"We spend hours upon hours discussing how we are going to cut hundreds and thousands of dollars and yet in a little corner called temporary interest millions of dollars are spent," he said.

"The biggest thing we can do to cut it," said Foy, "is get the real estate tax bills out on time. We're moving toward that now."

License Board Briefs

The City License Board took the following action Tuesday morning at City Hall:

- Granted a one-day all alcoholic license to the Houghs Neck Community Council for a dance Saturday, May 15, 8 p.m. to midnight at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall.

- Denied a request from Lauri & Denices Variety, 87-89 Copeland St., for two video machines. City Clerk John Gillis said the request was denied because of traffic and other problems in the area.

- Granted Hadar Hadar a common victualer license for a popcorn stand at the Boston Harbor Marina Flea Market.

- Continued for two weeks a request from Donald L. Evans for a Motor II license for Wollaston Motors, 60 Beale St. The area behind the establishment is to be cleared of junk cars, vans and parts.

- Granted a one day all alcoholic license to the Sacred Heart School Parents for a dance Saturday, April 17, 8 p.m. to midnight at the school hall.

- Continued to April 27 a hearing on a police officer being injured while responding to a call at Quincy Pizza and Dairy Bar, Inc., 130-132 Washington St., Quincy Point. According to Police Chief Francis Finn who read the police report aloud, a police officer was injured and no attempt was made by the establishment owners to call for assistance.

- Tabled a request from the Italian American Food Center, Inc., 260 Centre St., West Quincy, for a retail package goods store - wine and malt beverages license. Motions by Fire Chief Edward Barry to grant the license, and to continue the request for one week, failed to receive seconds and died. The board has until April 22 to act on the request, or the applicant can appeal to the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission.

Dimples Armstrong Speaker At S. S. Coalition Meeting

Dimples Armstrong will be the guest at a special program of the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights Wednesday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting will be held at Quincy Centre United Methodist Church, 6 Fort St., South Quincy.

Miss Armstrong was recently appointed by Connecticut Gov. William O'Neill to serve on the Governor's Task Force on Racial Harmony.

A teacher in the Danbury, Conn. public schools for 12 years, she has served on Connecticut Education Association commissions and committees, including public relations, minority affairs, and human relations.

In her talk, Miss Armstrong will concentrate on ways to implement on the South Shore methods of dealing with racial violence.

Miss Armstrong is chairperson of the National Education Association Committee which produced: "Violence, The Ku Klux Klan, and the Struggle for Equality", a professional instruction kit for dealing with these issues in the classroom.

Also on the program will be a short documentary film on the Klan. Time will be set aside for discussion.

The program is open to the public. Concerned area residents are invited to attend.

For additional information, call the coalition office at 472-3396.

Needs Utility Infielder Veterans Boost Mosher's Hopes At Quincy

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy baseball coach Bud Mosher has a good nucleus of veterans as the Presidents strive to rebound from a disappointing 3-15 season.

Mosher, who needs two victories to reach the 100 mark, feels his most important goal is to find a good utility infielder.

"Most of my infielders will also be pitching and I will need a good utility man to fill in for them," said the veteran coach. "I won't be carrying many players this season and versatility will be one of our most important ingredients."

Paul Quigley, who batted .318 a year ago, is the number one catcher with junior Frank Reynolds, out for the first time, backing him up.

Bob Mudge, up from the junior varsity, will be the first baseman, veteran Bob Ready will be at second, and John Balzano, who looks like a good hitter and will also pitch, will beat shortstop, and Jim DiPietro, up from the jayvees and another promising pitcher, will be the third baseman.

Mosher has two fine outfielders in veterans Jim Bandera (he batted .302 last year) in left and Steve Spencer in center.

Right field is up for grabs with Mark Righini leading the pack and sophomore Mike Notarangelo, who had an outstanding season this winter wrestling, also looking good. He is also a fine left-handed pitcher.

Danny Sullivan, Willie Cullen, Joe Conte, Andy Eames and Bill Harris are other good prospects.

Eames, Conte and Harris are good looking pitchers and will play other sports.

"Harris definitely will be playing somewhere because of his hitting,"

Mosher said.

Quincy scrimmaged Hanover and North Quincy and last Saturday had practice games with Reading and Holy Family at Harwich in its annual visit to the Cape.

Mosher has a new assistant in Bob Sylvia, the Presidents' highly successful hockey coach for 17 years, who played baseball at Boston University. He has coached baseball on the youth league level.

The Presidents open at Brockton next Monday and will host Waltham Wednesday at Adams Field.

"We are really starting off with the iron, as they look like the best teams in the Suburban League," Mosher said.

Due to Prop. 2½, Quincy will not be playing any outside games this spring, confining its activities to the league.

ROBBIE CRAIG, a sophomore from Quincy, won his second varsity letter in hockey at West Point, helping Army compile a 24-11 record this season. The 24 wins are the most ever recorded in a season. Craig, a former Quincy High star, ranked fifth in team scoring with 45 points on 15 goals and 30 assists. During his first two seasons he has accounted for 32 goals and 55 assists. His best effort this year was in a 12-3 win over Upsala when he scored two goals and had three assists. In two other games he scored two goals.

Elementary, Junior High Boys Tourney Underway

The Quincy Recreation Dept. All-City basketball tournament for elementary and junior high school boys is underway.

Teams in both divisions are made up of participants from recreation centers throughout the city who took part in the season-ending tournament as an adjunct to the winter recreation program. Team members are not allowed to be members of a school varsity basketball team.

In elementary action Merry-mount Center defeated Sterling, 26-12, receiving balanced scoring from four starters. Danny McLoughlin and Mark Malloy had seven points apiece and Kevin Middendorf and Danny McCluskey, six each. Robbie Neal and Greg Bowlin had four each for Sterling, while Scott Campbell and Mike Noonan had two each. Oscar Jara also played well for Sterling.

The Beechwood Knoll-Central game started as a nip and tuck affair with Beechwood leading by a point at halftime. However, Beechwood exploded in the second half to win easily, 31-11.

Central's Mark DiMattio had all 11 points for his team, while Anthony Rugnetta handled the ball well and Howie Condon played good defense. For Beechwood Kevin Dury had nine points, Joe Mulvey eight, Nathan James eight, Dan Steel six and Jack Green played a fine game.

In the third elementary game Montclair rolled by Squantum, 31-18, Chris Higgins and Matt McNamara scoring eight points each, Joe McCarthy six, Bill McDougall four and Tim Baker two. Dave Lawless had 11 points for Squantum, nine in the first half. Paul McCormack had four and Sean McDonough three.

In the only junior high game Point breezed by Atherton Hough, 44-14, with Don Parry scoring 14 points, Dave Britt 11, Jeff Burn 10, Dennis Cronin six, John Scolaro four and Keith McCray one. For Atherton Hough Tom Elsmore and Kevin Serusa had six points each and Jim Fay two.

Kevin Hourihan had 15, John Landers 13, and Steve Higgins 11 to pace Montclair. Jim Austin and Marty MacLaughlin each had 12 for Snug, while Steve Spencer had six and Carl Freeman had eight and Dale Adams rounded the scoring with three points. Montclair also received help from Peter McGillicuddy, five points; Bill Baker, 6; Don Baker, 4; John Connolly, 2, and Bill Bilton with 2. All coaches are recreation leaders from the various centers and are Montclair, Jerry Pratt; Squantum, Dean Colletti; Point, John DiNardo, and Snug Harbor, Gary DiNardo.

Boys' Senior Division In Tourney Playoffs

After 12 weeks of play, teams in the Senior Division of the Quincy Recreation Department Boy's Senior High Basketball League moved into playoffs to determine the City Champion.

The championship rounds are single elimination format and feature the top four teams from the Winter league. Montclair and Point finished with 5-1 records while Squantum was 4-2 and rounding out the playoffs were Snug Harbor at 3-3. Beechwood, Wollaston and Atlantic had good seasons, but fell short of qualifying for tournament play. All team members are participants from their local recreation centers and cannot be members of a school varsity basketball team.

In the first round of play Squantum, behind Mike Guidice's 26 points, upset Quincy Point, 56-46, to move to the city championship. Squantum's Pat McDonough had 21 points to round out the tough Guidice-McDonough combination. Jamie Perez had four while Paul Quigley had five for Squantum. On the Point side, Chuck Jaehnig led his team with 15, followed closely by Steve Goguen, 13, and Chris McCray with 12. Robert Burns had points to finish off the scoring.

Montclair jumped to an early lead and never looked back in defeating Snug Harbor, 64-46.

Ballfield Requests Double In 10 Years

The decrease of approximately 6,000 school children between 1971 and 1981 has not lessened the request for the use of municipal park facilities according to Executive Secretary Richard J. Koch.

The number of permits issued in 1971 represented 1350 separate dates for the use of athletic fields with 2630 individual dates required in 1981 by junior baseball and girls softball leagues as well as adult softball programs for both men and women.

Reason for the continual rise in the use of fields is the increased interest in softball by the thirty to fifty year old men, intramural neighborhood softball activities for adults and a greater participation of girls and women in the competitive sphere of athletics especially in the game of softball.

The Quincy Youth Soccer Program has also created a demand for additional field use with 700 boys and girls participating in the newest of athletic activities sponsored with private funds.

Lauren Apollo Helps Spark U. Of N.H. To Eastern Title

The U. of New Hampshire women's hockey team recently closed out an 18-1-1 season with its third successive Eastern championship and one of the Wildcats' key performers was freshman defenseman Lauren Apollo of North Quincy.

Lauren, a softball and basketball standout at North Quincy High who began playing hockey eight years ago with the Quincy Comettes, a Quincy Youth Hockey Association team, adapted early to collegiate hockey and quickly developed into a major defensive threat for UNH.

One of the most aggressive of the Wildcat brood, the 5-foot-10 defensive star rolled up a team-high 16 penalties this season worth more than 30 minutes in the penalty box.

Offensively she made a solid contribution as a rookie with 15 points on five goals and 10 assists.

Her pass in the EAIAW championship final against Providence set up teammate Kip Porter's tie-breaking goal.

With the score tied at 4-4, Apollo crossed off to Porter who scored the goal with 1:32 remaining in the game. UNH's Cindy McKay iced the 6-4 title win with an open net goal.

Considered the best in women's collegiate hockey, UNH improved its five-year record to 90-1-2. The only loss was to arch-rival Providence, which featured another former Quincy Comette, Mary Ellen Riordan. The Lady Friars upset UNH, 4-2, ending a 74-game win streak.

Apollo moved from the Quincy Comettes to the North River Penguins where she played with UNH teammate McKay.

Change April 20 In Pool User Fees

The Quincy Recreation Department announced that a change in pool user fees at the Lincoln Hancock Community School will take effect Tuesday, April 20.

The annual fees are for instructional and recreational swim programs sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department for five evenings and Sunday during the school year, and seven days a week during July and August.

The pool is open only to Quincy residents. There are a variety of membership plans for all ages and family groups.

Youth membership for age 6 to 18 is $10 per year.

The adult membership for those age 19 to 59 is $20 per year. A family membership for two adults and family members under age 19 is $20 for a half year and $35 for the year.

Memberships for pool participation can be obtained in the lower lobby of the Lincoln Hancock Community School according to the following schedule: Monday, 6 to 8 p.m., and Tuesday through Friday, 6 to 9 p.m.

YMCA Course Aids Aching Back Sufferers

A six-week program sponsored by the South Shore YMCA beginning April 13 will not guarantee a cure but offers some relief to "Oh, my aching back" sufferers.

According to Alexander Melley, director of the national program featured at Y's across the country, "eight out of 10 people suffer from disabling backaches during some time in their life."

The program has offered some relief to 88 per cent of those who complete the course. The course will be held at Trinity Church, Weymouth, from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. for a six week period beginning April 13 on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Contact Paul Harvey, South Shore YMCA, 79 Coddington St., Quincy (479-8500) for further details.

Susan Keith Curry Outfielder

Junior Susan Keith of Quincy, who batted .375 last spring, is the number one outfielder on the Curry College women's varsity softball team, which this season is playing 20 games, twice the number it played in 1981.

Second-year coach Donna Brickley is optimistic because of the number of key veterans and an excellent group of freshmen.

Denneen's 5-Hitter Blanks Braintree

Southpaw George Denneen pitched a five-hitter and struck out 10 as the North Quincy High School baseball team opened the season with a 6-0 victory over Braintree in frigid weather.

The Raiders got all the runs they needed in the second inning when Denneen singled, Don Bulger forced him at second, Jay Woodworth walked and Bob McQuinn drove in two runs with a wind-whipped double.

Singles by Eddie Densmore and Joe Crowley, two stolen bases and an infield out by Bob Coolidge produced two more runs in the sixth as Denneen continued to mow down the Braintree hitters.

Coaches Hal Forrest of North Quincy and John Crowell of Braintree agreed to waive the new rule that required the players to bring their gloves to the bench at the close of each inning.

The North Quincy lineup included: Densmore ss, Crowley cf, Mullin 3b, Coolidge 1b, Denneen p, Kelly rf, Bulger 2b, F. White 2b, Woodworth lf, McQuinn c.

INDEPENDENTS NIP KOCHS

Joe Wetzler won his personal scoring duel with Pete Houston but his Koch All Stars bowed to the North Quincy Independents, 76-71, before one of the largest crowds to watch a semi-pro basketball game in North Quincy.

Wetzler, who set a new Northeastern University scoring mark during the past season, had 25 points while Houston, who was named the most valuable player in the Tech Tourney, chipped in 21.

The Independents lineup included Armstrong, Walsh, Joe Crowley, Hubbard, Stevenson, forwards; Houston, J. Crowley, centers; Fleming, Ruggles, Edmonston, Elkhill, guards.

The Koch All Stars lineup included Clark, Player, Taglieri, forwards; Wetzler, center; Higgins, Cedrone, Rockwell, guards.

QUINCY LOSES

The Newton High School baseball team collected only four hits but used a two-run fifth inning to defeat Quincy, 4-3, in the season's opener for both teams at Claflin Field, Newton.

The Quincy lineup included:

Chiavaroli, Ruggles rf, Adams rf, Oriola 3b, Lodner 3b, Lopez cf, Weinstein, Gosselin 2b, Collins lf, Colclough, Tobin 1b, Furtado 1b, Morrison p, McNaught, Tenore.

VAULT POLES DELAYED

Coach Dave Meany's hopes to add the pole vault event to the repertoire of his North Quincy High School track team were dashed by a delay in the delivery of the vault poles.

"I ordered the poles in February," he said, "but they haven't arrived so I guess we'll have to forget about the pole vault this season. We'll be all right in the javelin and discus though."

All three events had been absent from the North Quincy track program for several years and it had proved costly in the South Shore Interscholastic Meet where Rockland cleaned up in the javelin and discus.

MONTCLAIR WOMEN WIN

The Montclair Women's Bowling League won the fourth annual tournament at Lakeview Alleys, East Weymouth, by defeating the Furnace Brook Women's League, 7-5, and 3718-3558 in pinfall.

The Montclair teams included Gladys Post, Rita Boland, Lon Rossow, Ruth MacDougall, Dot Lyons, Camille Horkun, Norma Post, Marion Andrews, Ann Hatfield, Hazel Haley, Pearl Kearns, Hilda Gildea, Ann Pennington, Mary Deneen, Ruth Paige.

The Furnace Brook teams included Audrey Martin, Margaret Faherty, Jane Jeffrey, Maris Corayer, May McGregor, Alice Mahar, Evelyn Sullivan, Mary Curran, Eileen Hoag, Evelyn Brownell, Marj Jackson, Mary Settimo, Peg Wood, Lynn Maki, Eleanor Cronin.

MARATHONERS HONORED

Veikko Karvonen and Erkki Puolakka, the Finnish marathon champions who were in Boston to compete in the famed Boston AA Marathon, were honored by the Quincy Finnish community at T. Y. Veli Hall on Arthur St., West Quincy.

A special guest was Carl Linder of Quincy, who won the event in 1919.

SPORTS BITS '84

Billy Goodman, Jackie Jensen and Jimmy Pearsall starred as the Boston Red Sox lost their American League opener to the Philadelphia Athletics Terry Farrell scored the only goal as the Quincy Shipbuilders edged Peabody, 1-0, for their first win in the Boston District Soccer League Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics was the only unanimous choice to the National Basketball Association all star team The North Quincy Independents, who had averaged 82 points a game, were eliminated from the Charlestown Boys Club tournament by the Somerville Varsity Club, 50-24, as scoring star Pete Houston was held to 10 points.

Hough, Montclair In Championship Finals

Atherton, Hough and Montclair have advanced to the City Championship finals of the elementary girls basketball championship sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department.

In two well-played games Atherton Hough defeated Snug Harbor, 27-19, while Montclair held off Merrymount, 30-16. All teams are made up of participants in the Recreation Department winter gym programs conducted around the city.

In the Atherton Hough win, Maureen Lyons led her team with eight points, with Karen Craig and Gayle Morrell following with four points, Wendy Sterling five, Katie Hardy three, and Krisa Concannon rounded out the balanced attack with one point. Patti Morrell and Debbie Hall also played solid defensive games. On the Snug Harbor side of the ledger, Sue Colleen had 10 to top her team followed by Jill Bonner, Kim Zup, and Corina Dunn with two each. Caroline Kennedy, Darlene Kester, Sherry Richards, Donna Dean and Missy Bunkhead all played hustling team defense despite falling behind early in the game.

The Merrymount-Montclair

game saw Nancy Laitinen lead all scorers with 10 points but it was not enough to offset eight different scorers on the Montclair team. Merrymount's Lori Sullivan had four and Rachael DeAngelis had two to round out the scoring.

Susan Lynch, Dawn Gauthier, and Melissa Zannis all contributed with solid team play while Kerri Haddigan and Paula Tokon played fine defense. Nancy Flukes led Montclair with eight points and fine floor leadership while Stephanie Osgood had six, Lee Fitzgerald and Stacey Welch had four and Chris Ferrara, Melissa Miles, Karrie Pistorino, and Debbie Early had two each. Early's came on a quick moving fast break to open the game.

All teams are coached by recreation leaders from the various centers. They are Montclair, Sara Lee Cobban; Merrymount, Stacey Lynch and Sue Rananhan; Snug Harbor, Marie Ridge and Paul Medice; and Atherton Hough Marjorie Christiani.

Atherton Hough and Montclair were scheduled to meet for the crown at 6:30 p.m. last night (Wednesday) at the North Quincy High School gym.

Quincy Track Club Registration Scheduled

The Quincy Track Club will hold registration for the spring and summer programs on Saturday, April 17, and April 24, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Registration fee is $10 per child and $20 for a family membership. Members will receive a copy of the club rules, a 1981 financial report, schedule, bumper sticker, membership card, raffle tickets and a T-shirt.

The program is open to Quincy boys and girls ages 6 to 18. For more information call 328-8188.

The QTC closed out its short indoor season with an excellent showing in the recent third annual New England TAC Junior Olympics at Taunton High School.

Paul McLellan stood out for Quincy with wins in the 11-12 300 and shot put.

Other gold medalists included Karen Cashman, 9-10 hurdles; Teresa Giannandrea, 11-12 50; Mark Lunnin, 13-14 50; Brian Barrett, 11-12 1000; Patty Feeney, 11-12 1000; Georgia Traficante, 15-16 high jump, and Dorothy Ann Bonner, 11-12 shot put.

4 Quincy Players Help U-Mass. Boston To Hockey Title

The University of Mass/Boston hockey team, in only its second year of varsity competition, won the ECAC Division 3 championship this winter, defeating defending champion Bentley, 4-1, in the title game and finishing with a 24-3 record.

Four Quincy players were outstanding for the Beacons and played prominent roles in the success of Coach Joe Mallen's team.

Topping the Quincy players was sophomore forward Don Perdios, who was voted the Most Valuable Player in the ECAC playoffs after having a hat trick in the championship victory.

"Don is probably our fastest skater," said Mallen. "He started off slowly but soon became adjusted to our style of play and ended the season on a high note." Perdios scored 30 points with 17 goals and 13 assists.

Sophomore forward Dan

Guard JoAnn Runge and forward Chris Choukas of North Quincy and guard, Nancy MacDonald and center Mary

Cronin, a former North Quincy star, is a hard-nosed player who likes to dig the puck out of the corners.

"Dan always gives 100 per cent and is an excellent back checker," Mallen said.

Cronin, a transfer from Curry, had nine points on five goals and four assists.

Senior forward and Captain Dennis Doherty plays with great desire and is leader to his teammates on and off the ice.

Doherty was out of several games this year with strained knee ligaments and a separated shoulder but was there when the team needed him.

He scored the winning goal in an overtime win over Bentley (5-4) which secured the No. 1 seed for the playoffs.

Another North Quincy graduate, Doherty had five goals and nine assists for 14 points.

Bob Brennan, junior defenseman and a former Quincy High player, played a year ago but didn't join the club until midway through this season.

"Bob is very smart with the puck and tough to beat on a one-on-one situation," Mallen said. In his first game back as a regular this season he scored the winning goal in a come-from-behind 5-4 win over Amherst with 16 seconds left in the game. He had five points on two goals and three assists.

U-Mass Boston, which has merged with Boston State College, hopes to move up to Division 2 next year. Brennan, Perdios and Cronin could be joined by other Quincy players next year. The Beacons had virtually an all-Greater Boston squad this year.

Friday Deadline For Christmas Parade Theme Contest

Friday is the deadline for the public to suggest themes for the 1982 Christmas Parade.

The parade is recognized as one of the largest Christmas parades on the East Coast. It draws upwards of 275,000 viewers each year.

George F. White, general chairman, said that... "Each year it is becoming more difficult to pick a 'parade theme' without repetition and I assume it is expected after 20 years of activity."

"Perhaps one of the parade viewers would suggest a theme that has not been thought of."

As pointed out by the Christmas Festival Committee, the theme must offer float participants great flexibility in coming up with ideas with floats designed in keeping the parade theme.

This is a pre-requisite if any organization or club wishes to be eligible for the cash awards. Grand prize is $1,000.

"We had voted to ask the general public for their thoughts which will be added to some suggestions by past float participating clubs and organizations," stated White.

Anyone who would like to suggest a theme, can mail a suggestion to Mrs. Frances Flynn, 79 Freeman St., Wollaston, 02170.

The individual suggesting the theme chosen will receive an appreciation award from the Christmas Festival Committee. White added... "This early theme deadline is required to enable the committee to notify potential float participants as early as possible.

The Quincy Festival Committee's next meeting will be Wednesday, April 21, at 7:30 p.m. at Civil Defense Headquarters, 55 Sea St., Quincy.

WEEK OF: APRIL 8
AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Plans for family event receive lukewarm reception and may be put on the shelf for a while. Changes in company policy affect you positively though not immediately.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Friction eases in domestic environment and you're in the limelight through the weekend. Pooling ideas bring profitable results. Career-wise, don't try second guessing anyone - especially superiors.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
By Wednesday, a leadership role can be yours for the asking. Surprise expenses such as repair bills cut into your spending plans. New friend appears to be bringing you good luck.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Week finds you doing what you love most... and what you like least. Rocky financial road becomes smoother. Time spent with alluring relative lifts his spirits and your own.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Business and pleasure blend unusually well. A weekend social event, for example, may offer introduction to promising professional contact. Information on property items may not be wholly reliable.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Ingenuous Canceneans are especially inventive and creative, and there's a home-making angle involved. Don't hide secrets from friends because you're afraid to hurt them. Openness is best policy.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Go after top advice before investing or moving any funds; if considering a major purchase, seek second opinion. With loved ones, be forthright and, most of all, be yourself.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
New opportunity for career advancement or diversification spotlighted this week. Delay or cancellation of event leaves you with time to pursue a new and unusual pastime.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Friends easily coo you into spending more than you should; be especially thrifty through weekend. Work pressures ease as of Monday and housemates become more sociable.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
Thursday-Friday are deceptive: changes at work don't signal what you think they do; true feelings of loved one are unveiled. Weekend offers nice chance to get away on your own.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Whether at home or away, focus is on togetherness. Bring a friend out of his shell, escape to a hideaway for two, or host an intimate and elegant party.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
In love, recent uncertainty is cleared up and you're ready for a celebration. Problem is, there's just no time. Rearranged plans and unexpected guests keep you hopping all week long.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You have a surplus of energy; act spontaneously, thrive on nearly any challenge. A more cautious approach than you're used to means steady gains in romance and finance through '82. Contact with outstanding personalities in your field leads to major assignment early in 1983.

BORN THIS WEEK
April 8th, actor John Gavin; 9th, actress Michael Learned; 10th, actor Max Von Sydow; 11th, actor Joel Grey; 12th, actress Ann Miller; 13th, actor Howard Keel; 14th, actress Julie Christie.

To The Quincy School Committee: To err is human... to reconsider...divine!

Parents, teachers, and administrators agree: Our kids have taken more than their share of budget cuts in Quincy! Haphazard, panicky cutting of programs and teachers will destroy what's left of quality education. Only after local aid figures are known, and the City Council determines a budget, should a school committee vote for admittedly destructive budget cuts. We urge you to reconsider your votes. Show educational leadership! Fight for what you say you believe in!

Don't close the door on Quincy's Kids!

City Could Receive State Aid Windfall

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy could receive some $5.7 million in additional state aid under a new distribution formula recommended Monday to the state legislature by Gov. Edward J. King.

This would be about $3.7 million more than the sum counted on by Mayor Francis X. McCauley when he first began to draft the city budget for fiscal 1983 — but the mayor urged caution.

"For one thing," he said, "we don't know if the legislature will pass it and, for another, our estimates of what we will need in state aid have increased considerably since we started work on the budget."

King's proposed new formula is based on the special needs of cities and towns faced with reductions in their tax levies during the second year of Proposition 2½.

It seeks to replace two-thirds of the communities' revenue loss.

Since Quincy is faced with the loss of $8.5 million in its tax levy for 1983, the city would receive $5,696,554 under the King formula.

When McCauley began preparing the budget, he figured to cut $3 million from the schools and $3.5 million from the general government side, leaving $2 million to be made up with increased state aid.

"But we are not going to get $3.5 million out of general government," he said.

"Whatever savings were made by cutting department budgets are offset by increases in Blue Cross-Blue Shield premiums, debt service and pensions.

"Debt service, for instance, is up $1.6 million and, in all, we may be talking about closer to $3 million in increases in those three categories."

If King's distribution formula passes the legislature and the city has some extra money to play around with, said McCauley, it might go to pay for capital improvements rather than rehiring city workers.

"Next year we are faced with a further $7,250,000 cutting the tax levy," he said. "Do you hire people back for one year and then lay them off again?"

McCauley Sees End To School Closings

By TOM HENSHAW

It's been 100 days now since Francis X. McCauley was inaugurated mayor of Quincy, traditionally a time to stop and take a long look back at the accomplishments and failures of the new administration.

Looking back, McCauley sees only a time of accomplishment.

It's been a difficult 100 days, particularly for the School Department, which has borne the brunt of Proposition 2½ cutbacks. But, says, McCauley, "we've just about run the course on the school system. I don't see us closing any more schools in the near future."

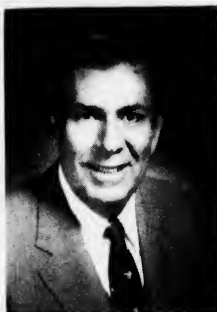

"While they have been strained, I think my relations with at least the majority of the members of the School Committee have been excellent and I'd like to thank them for the job that they have done," said the mayor.

McCauley made several points on the accomplishments and hopes of his administration in an interview with The Quincy Sun on his first 100 days in office.

• His biggest accomplishment is passage of a school reorganization plan, which will be accompanied by a reduction of nearly $3 million in the school budget. He feels the School Committee will finalize the cut at its next meeting.

• The least enjoyable part of the job is dealing with city workers at a time when there is no money to hire new ones or even enough to retain old employees at their posts. "It's difficult trying to make decisions based on what's right for the city rather than the personalities involved," he says.

Here is the text of The Sun's interview with McCauley on his first 100 days.

SUN - Is the job pretty much what you thought it would be? No surprises?

McCAULEY - It's pretty much what I expected. Being on the Council for eight years I had a pretty good idea of the routine that the mayor would have. The budget immediately coming in. Revaluation that was in process while I was a councillor. Proposition 2½, phase two. It was pretty much the way I expected it. I think it's worked very smoothly, the first three months.

SUN - Any surprises to you?

McCAULEY - No, not really. No big surprises.

SUN - Is the job harder than you thought or easier than you thought?

McCAULEY - It really hasn't been as difficult as I might have expected. One of the reasons is we have good people working for us, people who have been held over, the career people, and my people, who have been working very well together. I'm sure there will be some difficult days as we go along. This kind of a job is not going to be all peaches and cream but so far it's gone along pretty well.

SUN - What do you feel you've accomplished so far?

McCAULEY - When I gave my inaugural address, I mentioned that I would like to get a school reorganization plan by the last meeting in February. We did accomplish that. We have a plan that will be reorganizing the schools into the middle school concept. The second half of the school proposal was to bring in a school budget with a reduction of $3 million, less the $350,000 surplus. I feel that when the School Committee meets again we will be finalizing a budget that will meet my requirements.

In the area of labor relations, I feel we have a definite improvement. We brought on David Grunebaum, a professional labor negotiator. He is in the process of cleaning up the backlog of labor disputes that were left over from

Storm Costs City $36,750

Mayor Francis X. McCauley had "the highest praise" for volunteer Civil Defense workers and Highway Department crews who helped the city to pull through the near-blizzard that struck last week.

The snowfall that ranged up to a foot in some places made it the worst April storm in 141 years, since an estimated 18 inches piled up on the South Shore April 11, 1841.

Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson estimated that the storm, which had all the elements of a blizzard except frigid cold, cost the city some $36,750 for snow removal.

"If it wasn't a blizzard technically, it could have fooled me," said McCauley, who spent a good deal of the day and night of Tuesday, April 6, on the road with Anderson.

Anderson said $20,450 was spent for city labor and $16,300 for hired equipment, much of which had already been converted to summer work and had to be hastily reconverted to handle snow.

McCauley said the expense of the storm will be included in the budget for fiscal 1983 if there is no surplus in this year's budget to absorb the unexpected cost.

Meanwhile, McCauley lavished praise on Civil Defense and Highway Department workers, many of whom went on duty before noon Tuesday and remained until 6 p.m. Wednesday.

City Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro also congratulated Civil Defense workers for the "splendid work that was done during the recent snow storm."

Brighter Lighting First

MDC Taking Steps To Make QSD Safer

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Six high intensity solar lights should be installed by the end of the week in the vicinity of the Beachcomber on Quincy Shore Drive as one of several steps by the MDC to make the roadway safer.

MDC Commissioner Terrance Geoghegan told the License Board Tuesday that the commission also recommends new curb cuts and a safer entrance to the Beachcomber, and abolition or limitation of beach side parking across from the establishment.

"The Beachcomber has far more problems than any establishment in the MDC Old Colony District," said Geoghegan who referred to the establishment as a "killer bar". "I take umbrage to calling the Beachcomber a 'killer bar'" said an angry Atty. Richard Barry who represented the establishment and contended that Geoghegan did not have statistics to back up his remark.

"I'm quoting someone else who said that," replied Geoghegan.

"but we would not be here unless there were problems."

Geoghegan said the high intensity lights would have been installed by last Friday had it not been for the near blizzard.

The difference in lighting should bring to drivers' attention that there should be a difference in their driving, explained Geoghegan.

The new curb cuts were recommended because the present entrance is "unsafe, at too steep an angle," said Geoghegan.

He also recommended that the establishment's parking lot be paved, lit, and cleared after closing hour.

Geoghegan said he did not recommend paid MDC details at the establishment because his men did not want to accept them.

"I don't want them to have to be babysitters or crossing guards," said Geoghegan.

He also did not recommend traffic signals because he said people would not stop at them.

"People will do what they want to do," said Geoghegan, "you're dealing with a human problem.

"You have to be careful that things that you do are capable of success."

Geoghegan said the MDC would not close the Beachcomber, though it had the power to do so.

Ward 5 Councillor Stephen McGrath said that area residents would oppose cars from the Beachcomber being re-routed into the side streets.

McGrath also suggested that the MDC look into more signalization, and having an MDC detail on the premises if the commission's recommendations were not sufficient.

Rep. Michael Morrissey said that he and Rep. Thomas Brownell have introduced legislation which would provide money to help the MDC alleviate the problems.

After the meeting, Police Chief Francis Finn said that he agreed with the MDC's recommendations.

"I think they'll help — absolutely," he said.

Board To Reconsider Hours Rollback April 20

The City License Board will vote next Tuesday on reconsideration of the roll back of liquor establishment's closing hours from 2 to 1 a.m., according to City Clerk John Gillis.

Two week notice would have to be given before a public hearing could be held.

Gillis said that a motion to reconsider would have to come from Police Chief Francis Finn, who voted against the rollback, or Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh, who voted "present."

"Or I'll step down as chairman and make the motion," said Gillis.

Dr. McKeogh said that he voted "present" because he did not have solid information on the effects of a rollback of closing hours.

He said he hopes to have the information by next week's meeting.

Wollaston Beach Cleanup Urged By Morrissey

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has urged the MDC to begin an immediate cleanup of trash on Wollaston Beach.

"The good weather has shown that winter has taken a severe toll on the beach," said Morrissey in a letter to MDC Commissioner Terrance Geoghegan.

"The parking lot and the beach itself are strewn with bottles, cans and trash refuse. I have received numerous calls from area residents concerning the current condition of the beach area."

"It poses a health and safety hazard to both young and old. A little preventive maintenance at this time will eliminate the possibility of serious cuts and injuries during the summer months."

Morrissey noted that MDC manpower for the summer is not expected to increase until mid or late May, but he added that good weather can be expected to bring more people to the beach.

"Area residents have been patient and understanding with the MDC during the winter months as far as cleanup of the beach area, but the beach has become extremely cluttered and unsightly," he said.

Telephone Problems At City Hall

No. It wasn't Proposition 2½. It was a glitch, as the space age electronics people say, or a gremlin, if you're a World War II flyer.

Whatever it was, it knocked most of the telephone line to City Hall out of operation for about two and a half hours Monday morning.

Persons calling the City Hall number, 773-1380, got a recording informing them that the telephone had been disconnected. But, said operator Sally Westcott, if the caller got switched to the secondary number, 773-1381, the call went through all right. Volume of calls was down considerably.

The problems, which started about 8:30 a.m. when City Hall opened, cleared up by 10:30 a.m. or 11 a.m. and the telephone company was still looking for the cause.

"We paid the bill," said Peter Kenney, the mayor's executive secretary, anticipating the first question. "We paid the bill."

Quincy Sq. Jewelry Store Held Up

Police are seeking a gunman who robbed the Phase II Jewelry Store, 1361 Hancock St., Quincy Sq. of an estimated $2,000 in jewelry and $50 in cash early Monday.

The man, who showed a gun, had been in the shop earlier posing as a customer to apparently case the store before the holdup.

The bandit was described as a black male, in his mid 20's, wearing jeans and blue baracuta jacket and carrying a yellow bag. He fled on foot towards Granite St.

Report Cards Delayed To April 26

Because of the disruption caused by last week's storm, report cards for the third marking period, Grade 7 through Grade 11, Quincy Public Schools, will not be issued until after the spring vacation.

The report cards will be issued Monday, April 26 instead of the original date of April 16.

Point Woman Slashed By Razor

A man entered a home on Edison Park, Quincy Point, early Monday morning, slashed Mary Holbrook on the arm and leg with a razor and fled.

Mrs. Holbrook told police the man screamed at her: "I'm the one who has been calling you and I hate you!"

She said she had never seen the man before but she had been receiving suspicious phone calls. She declined treatment, police said.

ANTHONY SICILIANO (left) chief of Civil Defense, points out a trouble spot for Mayor Francis X. McCauley during last week's near-blizzard that struck Quincy.

"The city of Quincy is most fortunate to have men and women who will take the time from their own homes and businesses to help others," he said.

Civil Defense workers provided transportation for some 1,000 persons, including six dialysis patients, who needed emergency medical care or had difficulty getting to work in critical jobs.

Many of the 1,000 were doctors and nurses -- some of them carried in the backs of trucks -- who were transported to City Hospital, said Civil Defense Chief Anthony Siciliano.

In addition to the 15 Civil Defense vehicles, nine other four-wheel drive trucks and cars, were pressed into service when their owners dropped by CD headquarters at 55 Sea St. to volunteer.

"Thank God for the volunteers," said Siciliano. "They really bailed us out."

Siciliano began calling in his men at 8 a.m. Tuesday when the storm was about two hours old and many of them were still on the job more than 24 hours later.

The critical area in the city was the Willows in Houghs Neck where water surged over the sea wall at high tide shortly after 10 p.m. Tuesday.

On the basis of what had been learned during the Blizzard of 1978, eight divers in wet suits and several boats were placed on standby in the Willows but they did not have to be used.

One family living on Babcock St., Houghs Neck, had to be evacuated to a relative's home on Southern Artery.

The Fire Department ordered the Willows streets closed as the water rose and Palmer St. leading to Germantown also was shut down for a time by stalled cars, including an MBTA bus.

Quincy Vocational Technical School was opened all night to care for displaced or stranded persons but it was not needed. Six persons took refuge in CD headquarters on Sea St.

One of the refugees was an 82-year-old woman who was upset by the storm.

The only real emergencies, said Siciliano, were the six dialysis patients who were transported to Boston hospitals to be hooked up to kidney machines.

Civil Defense has a list of 22 such patients in Quincy.

In all, almost 200 persons worked around the clock for Civil Defense.

On An Elephant 'Sandy Revere' To Ride For Validated Parking

Last year at this time, Sandy Rounseville, proprietor of Beacon Fabrics, rode down Hancock St. on a horse shouting, "The meter maids are coming! The meter maids are coming!"

This year, slipping once again into his role as Sandy Revere, he plans to ride down Hancock St. shouting, "The meters are going! The meters are going!" And this time he'll be riding an elephant.

Rounseville, the colorful longtime critic of downtown Quincy's parking problems, plans his ride for Saturday, April 17, starting at Beacon Fabrics at high noon and arriving at City Hall sometime later.

There, he will present to the mayor -- if he happens to be there -- a petition demanding validated parking in Quincy Square signed by some 100 businessmen who support the idea.

He expects some of the businessmen to follow him down Hancock St. -- presumably at a safe distance -- on horseback.

Rounseville said he is renting the 6,000-pound, nine-foot tall elephant from an elephant rental agency in Washington, D.C. Where else, during a Republican administration?

The elephant will carry a sign urging prospective shoppers to "Park for Peanuts in Quincy; Businessmen Pay!"

To emphasize the point, Rounseville will scatter bags of peanuts as his trusty steed lumbers along.

"I'm buying the peanuts in Plains, Ga.," he said.

$600 Theft

Steven Bennett, who lives in the Faxon Commons apartment complex in Quincy Point, reported to police that thieves broke into his 1982 Datsun Sunday by smashing a window and stole a stereo, 35 tapes and a Panasonic Walkman with a total value of $600.

Buick Stolen

John R. Lehtonen of Liberty St., South Quincy, reported to police that his 1976 Buick Regal was stolen from his driveway sometime Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Flute Stolen

A $300 flute belonging to Donna Becker of Parker St., Quincy Center, was reported stolen from the lobby of the Lincoln Hancock Community School Friday night.

the request of counsel for theatre owner Anthony Delpidio.

The revocation is being considered after incidents resulting from the showing of a Led Zeppelin movie March 20.

According to the police report, the incident included youths blocking Chestnut St., fights and knife assaults inside and outside the Strand, and one arrest for assault and battery with a broken beer bottle.

Bank Holdup Thwarted

Three white males attempted to hold up the First American Bank for Savings at 77 Granite St. shortly before 5 p.m. Tuesday and fled in a stolen car, apparently empty handed.

Police said no weapons were displayed in the robbery attempt and the car, a tan Volvo reported stolen earlier in Boston, was last seen heading up Granite St. toward West Quincy.

Standing Up For Youth

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In regards to the letter written by Mrs. Robert Peterson of South Quincy, printed in your April 8th edition, I would like to stand up for the youths' so called "cry".

What did your generation do for fun? Or did you have fun?

I know that visiting the sick, helping the poor, and assisting our clergy is important and very necessary, but enjoyment is a vital part of growing up also. If there is nothing positive for us to do, what is the alternative?

I consider myself an active member of my community. I help out in local campaigns, I teach figure skating at a local M.D.C. rink, and I try to be as charitable as I can. Don't get me wrong, I'm not looking for self-praise or glory. I'm just proving that we should have a little enjoyment also. I enjoy doing the things forementioned, it's just I enjoy fun also.

I'm only fourteen so, I can't get a job, and besides unemployment is at a height now, and according to Newsweek magazine teens are the hardest hit.

I work hard trying to keep my grade average up to its present A-. So when the weekend comes I look forward to relaxing and enjoying myself. Maybe I'm selfish, but I think we deserve a break.

Thank you for allowing me to defend myself and many other responsible young people of our community.

'The Ambiguous 7' Movie

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Yul Brenner starred in a motion picture titled the Magnificent 7. The city of Quincy should make a motion picture titled the Ambiguous 7 starring Picard, Collins, and Kennedy, with a supporting cast of Verenis, Anselmo, Sullivan, and McCauley. The producer is Mr. Creedon and his 7½ administrators with their charts, graphs, visual aids, and percentiles.

In the Magnificent 7, they fought to save the town from extinction, at the hands of the bad guy's. The Ambiguous 7 gave up the town (Quincy Schools) by indecision and refusing to listen to the inhabitants of the town. They did all this on the 1st and 3rd

Wednesday of every month under the direction of Robert Rules.

As long as the producer has unlimited resources (Fiscal Autonomy) to cultivate his crop he turns out a fine harvest. But when resources begin to dry up and he must apply his knowledge and skill to keep the crop growing, he throws in the towel and cries FOUL PLAY. In effect he has chosen to abandon the townspeople at a most difficult time. Before leaving with his 7½ administrators and all they can carry (money) he crowds the young people of the town into small scattered areas, to enhance the eventual death of the crop.

State Election: Ho Hum!

Locally, the state election is shaping up like a big yawn.

It's beginning to look like bargain day at Paragon Park. Lots of free rides.

At this writing, Sen. Paul Harold has no official opposition. Neither do Reps. Thomas Brownell, Robert Cerasoli and Michael Morrissey.

Cerasoli had a challenge there for a while in Gregory Brooks, formerly of Quincy and now living in the Weymouth part of Cerasoli's district. Brooks, a purchasing agent for the National Park Service is bowing out of contention because, he says, he could be in violation of the Hatch Act which prohibits federal employees from running partisan elections.

Brooks, an unsuccessful candidate for the Quincy City Council last year in a non-partisan election is a Republican.

Cerasoli, however, could have some opposition yet. Weymouth seldom lets that race go by without putting a challenger in. And, Joseph Cortese who lost to Ted DeCristofaro in the battle for the Ward 2 City Council seat last year, has hinted he may run against Cerasoli.

Deadline for filing nomination papers is April 27 — only 12 days away.

Congressman Brian Donnelly, Governor's Councillor Peter Eeley and Dist. Atty. William Delahunt also have no known opposition at this time.

About the only local race for the Norfolk County clerk of courts post being vacated by John Concannon to accept a judgeship.

There are six hats already in that ring, three of them worn by Quincy city councillors. The six: Nicholas Barbadoro of Quincy, assistant Norfolk county clerk; City Councillors John Lydon, Leo Kelly and Joseph LaRaia, Robert Bloom, assistant clerk at Quincy District Court and Robert Flynn of Canton, assistant clerk at Stoughton District Court.

Former City Councillor Dennis Harrington's name is also being mentioned as a potential candidate.

Ordinarily, a Democratic candidate running out of Quincy would have an advantage as Thomas Hughes proved when he defeated incumbent Paul Gay for the Register of Probate post a few years back.

But with four Quincy candidates in the ring, they are going to slice up the big Quincy vote and someone else could slip in for the nomination. But without that contest, the local political front this year would be Dullsville, U.S.A.

But there is fund-raising activity on the political front.

THE COMMITTEE to Elect Robert Cerasoli will hold a champagne buffet for the state representative Monday, April 19, from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. at Mr. Kelly's Restaurant on Summer St.,

Quincy Point.

For tickets or information, contact Dolores McCray, 7 Lawrence St., Quincy 02169, or call 773-5924. Donations of $50 requested.

AND The Committee to Re-elect Jim Sheets will hold a cocktail reception tonight (Thursday) from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the National Fire Protection Association building on Batterymarch Park, off Willard St., West Quincy. Tickets for the reception honoring the city councillor from Ward 4 are $50 subscription.

SENATOR Paul Harold was honored by two of his alma maters recently. He was awarded the Distinguished Community Service Award by the Quincy Harvard Club. And, named to Pi Sigma Alpha, the Political Science Honor Society at U-Mass. Amherst. Harold earned his bachelor's degree in Government at U-Mass and his Master of Public Administration degree from Harvard's Kennedy School of Government.

HAROLD

YOU MIGHT SAY Anne Marie Brabazon of Alrick Rd. is following in her mom's footsteps in the interest department. A freshman at Bentley College, she is one of two from that class recently elected to serve as sophomore class representative for the Student Government Association. Her mother, Louise, is secretary to the Quincy City Council, and former secretary to Mayor McIntyre.

KEITH WESTERMAN, former reporter for The Quincy Sun, Hingham Journal and Patriot Ledger, is now a press officer for Gov. Edward King. Westerman was press representative for former City Councillor Daniel Raymond in his unsuccessful bid for mayor.

Westerman, whose parents, Frederick and Margaret, live in Quincy, will also be hosting a political talk show on WUMB-FM. The U-Mass Boston radio station will soon begin broadcasting in the Quincy-South Shore area.

POLITICAL ADDRESS: There seems to be something about the house at 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy that attracts the politically oriented. Richard Koch, Sr. who still lives there was the local coordinator for John F. Kennedy when the latter ran for senator. His son, Richard, Jr. who grew up there is now a City Councillor at-large. And you might be surprised to know that Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon lived there before the Koch family did.

Earth Day Clean-Up By Girl Scouts April 19

Quincy Girl Scouts will celebrate the Third Annual Earth Day, Monday, April 19 by cleaning up trash in various areas throughout the city.

The sites include Beechwood Knoll, Black's Creek and Cemetery, Sailor's Pond, North Quincy Beach and Hummock.

Merrymount Park, Faxon Park, O'Rourke Park, St. John's School Yard and Cemetery, Great Hill Ball Park, LaBrique Field, Sea St., Manet Ave., Edgewater Drive, and Macy St. Park.

The city will provide trash bags and pick up trash collected.

The scouts also participated in a poster contest on the theme "A Girl Scout Uses Resources Wisely". Posters will be judged and ribbons awarded to first, second, and third place winners.

Earth Day Clean-up is an annual project of the Quincy Girl Scouts thanks to the continued support of The Quincy Sun and the Recreation Department.

During the construction of the Hoover Dam, concrete had to be poured continually for two years.

No Pedestrian Access For S. Quincy MBTA

City Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro says he has been assured by the MBTA that there will be no pedestrian access to the Quincy Adams station from Independence Ave. in South Quincy.

He said MBTA Gen. Mgr. James F. O'Leary told him "the authority intends to maintain its commitments to the residents of Quincy with respect to this issue."

DeCristofaro noted that the MBTA is in the process of creating a task force among Quincy and Braintree officials to address the issues facing the station, which is still in the building stage.

McCauley Looks At His First 100 Days In Office

previous years. We had some of those approved by the City Council at the last meeting. He is now sitting down with the unions because our contracts are now coming up as of July 1. I think we've improved the labor relations.

Another item I'm very pleased with is the Department of Revenue allowing us to use the old valuations for one more year. This will allow us to set our tax rate a little more quickly than we expected and, because of the reduction in the tax levy under Proposition 2½, it will reduce people's taxes. It gives us the opportunity to implement revaluation in a more orderly fashion.

We also have had three business concerns come in for industrial revenue bonds. It was about $11,300,000. The Ledger, 200 Newport Ave., and Dickinson Advertising. These are all approved. This will encourage business expansion and hopefully will create some new jobs.

We have started a drive on delinquent property taxes, and we've collected close to a half a million dollars to date. The Law Department is pursuing some large taxpayers and we are hopeful we will be bringing a lot more back taxes into the city over the next two months.

We also have a number of things in the process right now.

Arthur Foley, my administrative assistant, is working on two areas -- the validated parking proposal for our downtown parking area and automation of the internal operations of the city. I'm looking forward to doing something definite in both these areas within the next few months.

Paul Anderson, the public works commissioner, is working on the sewer use plan. The matter is before the City Council and we're hopeful they're not going to slow us down with any more requests like environmental impact studies.

I met with Jim Lydon last week and I should have a report on the Burgin Parkway Extension sometime by the middle of May. They are now reviewing the proposal in the context that we have eliminated the Cross Town Connector. We're hopeful they're not going to slow us down with any more requests like environmental impact studies.

We have received a number of bids on five of the abandoned schools. I expect to have some recommendations from the committee by the end of this week. I think we have proposals on Gridley Bryant, Quincy, Cranch and Adams. We did not receive any proposals on the Great Hill School. We are getting bids now to tear that building down and we also will be looking into tearing down the Hunting School. It is my understanding that the neighborhood would like to see houselots created up there.

We are asking Meredith and Grow, representing the owners of the Sears building if they would try to be aggressive and get somebody into that building. Since the Connector is not going through, the uncertainty is now gone by and we're hopeful they will try to aggressively market that building.

SUN - Your relations with the School Committee have been rather strained over the past few weeks. The word "dictator" has been thrown around. How do you feel about that?

McCAULEY - The chairman of the School Committee has to provide some leadership over there. The School Committee has a narrow range of responsibility. They run the school system whereas, as mayor, I have to look at the entire picture. Proposition 2½ requires us to reduce the property tax levy by some $8.5 million. We also have the companion problem of declining enrollment. We have some 4,224 seats that will be vacant by September. I think the record will show I've worked a lot more closely with the School Committee than any mayor in recent history. Naturally my broad interests are going to be in conflict with from time to time the narrower range of responsibility of the School Department. Some School Committee members feel that I have asked more from them than they feel they can give but I just think it's necessary. I think the School Committee will, as they promised, approve a budget in the range that I originally suggested. For the first time in history a School Committee surplus of some $350,000 is going back to the schools so we have a net cut of $2,650,000. In prior years, School Department surpluses have gone to the general fund to offset deficits in other departments. I think that's a step forward. Hopefully we can do that every year. It recognizes the efficient operation of the department. So while they have been strained I think my relationship with at least the majority of the members of the School Committee has been excellent and I'd like to thank them for the job that they have done.

SUN - Knowing what you know now, is there anything that you would have done differently?

McCAULEY - Not really, right now. Things are going along pretty well. We've targeted some things to do. Some of them have been done. Others we're in the middle of. As I look back at this particular point, there's nothing I can see that I would have done differently.

SUN - The city is faced with another $7 million cut in the tax levy next year. Do you look to that with as much trepidation as you did this year? Or do you feel more comfortable with the prospect?

McCAULEY - As we go along, Proposition 2½ gets more difficult. In fiscal '84, we will have to reduce the levy by $7,260,000. It's going to be a very difficult year. The key will be what happens this year in the area of state aid, not only increased state aid but whether or not they change the formula to help out cities like Quincy. There's no question that unless there are favorable changes in local aid distribution, it's going to be very difficult in 1984. We've just about run the course on the school system. We have closed 12 schools in three years and I don't see us closing any more in the near future. I'm hoping that the state aid situation will be clarified because we're getting to the point right now, not only in the schools but in other city budgets, where we're getting to rock bottom.

SUN - What have you found to be the most enjoyable part of the job?

McCAULEY - It's the variety of work. There's never a dull moment up here. You meet an awful lot of interesting people. You are dealing with a lot of different problems. I've been a councillor for a number of years and I got out on the social end of it in the evenings. I'm doing that a lot more now that I'm the mayor and I enjoy those functions. It's the variety of the job. You can't get bored. There's always something new coming up.

SUN - On the other hand, what's the least enjoyable?

McCAULEY - One of the problems that I see now are personnel problems. Trying to make decisions that are in the best interest of the city and the people that are working for the city gets to be a particular problem. Dealing with employees. I think we've had good relations. Our labor relations are coming back.

SUN - The question wasn't about problems, it was about the least enjoyable aspects of the job.

McCAULEY - That particular area can sometimes be difficult, trying to make decisions based on what's right for the city rather than personalities involved. People realize Proposition 2½ does not allow you to create a lot of jobs but occasionally people do come in looking to be helped and we sometimes just can't do it."

School Committee OKs Salary Hikes For Some Teachers

The School Committee approved salary increases for 56 individual teachers and school employees, effective in September. It was estimated the increases would cost the city $7,250 a year.

Committee Vice Chairman Hesp E. Sutherland emphasized that the pay hikes were simply adjustments to correct salary discrepancies and not intended as cost of living raises.

Most of the increases were in the $100 a year range with elementary teachers going from $1,600 to $1,700, high and junior high teachers from $2,400 to $2,500 and assistant principals to $2,200.

Frank E. MacDonald, chairman of the salary committee of the Quincy Teachers Association, called it "a step in the right direction" and added he hoped the committee would study further advances.

MacDonald pointed out that the per capita cost of instruction in Quincy of $69.08 per pupil was well below the average for 38 cities of $82.53 and the state average of $75.11.

SECOND OFFICER JOINS

The departure of Patrolman Thomas J. Scanlan for Fort Devens as the second Quincy police officer to leave for active duty was recorded by Lt. Anthony Caperci in the daily journal like this: "Officer Scanlan did not report for duty. He's in the Army now!"

Sgt. Charles Ferrazzi, the first Quincy policeman to join the armed forces, was in training as an aviation mechanic in the Army Air Corps at Keesler Field in Mississippi.

EMPLOYEES' UNION FORMED

Frank E. MacDonald, a teacher at North Quincy High School, was elected president of the Quincy City Employees Council, which was expected eventually to include all city workers.

"A suitable motto for the organization would be: Render faithful service and receive just compensation," said MacDonald.

PSSB To Observe 35th Anniversary At Neighborhood Club Dinner

The Quincy-based Protestant Social Service Bureau will observe 35 years of service to families on the South Shore Thursday, April 29, at 6:30 p.m. with a dinner-meeting at the Neighborhood Club.

The Rev. Ed Moyer of Randolph, president of the agency, said life member plaques will be presented to persons who have made substantial contributions to the endowment fund.

Other awards will be given to members of the "TOP Team", a group of volunteers who assist in the Bureau's thrift shop, office and the emergency food service.

Two volunteers will be named Man and Woman of the Year for outstanding service.

During the dinner-meeting a videotape of PSSB's programs and services, produced by the Rev. William Turpie, former minister of the First Baptist Church of Hingham, will be shown.

The tape was first aired on Channel 25 Easter Sunday.

Serving on the planning committee for the dinner-meeting are Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, Mrs. Marjorie Bowker, Mrs. Peniel Sullivan, Mary Lou Glaman and Executive Director Robert F. Taylor.

The Rev. Elden D. J. Zuern, associate minister of Bethany Congregational Church in Quincy, will be the master of ceremonies.

Squantum Seniors Club To Celebrate 10th Anniversary

The Squantum Senior Citizens Club will celebrate its 10th anniversary Tuesday, April 20, in Maryhall, Star of the Sea Church. There will be a social hour at 5:30 p.m., followed by a catered buffet at 6:15 p.m.

Entertainment will be provided by Bucky and his Buckeroos who will lead square dancing.

Tickets for the event, which is limited to 120 persons, are available from the club's treasurer, Ralph Dougherty, or from any board members.

The club was formed Jan. 11, 1972 through the efforts of a group of Squantum residents who foresaw the need to provide a meaningful outlet for social activities for those who had attained age 60 or more.

Those who established the club include: Ethel Lawless, Erling and Margaret Holmberg, Mae Lauwers, Rene Johnson, Gordon Campbell, Timothy Abbott, Melba Sprague, Thelma Perry, Sigrid Anderson, Edith MacDonald, Mary Ellis, John and Viola Danielson, George Rollins, Gladys Chandler, Robert LeBlanc, Sarah Graham, Doris Longmire and others.

The clergy of both churches in Squantum gave their full support and co-operation to the organizing group and continue to do so.

Also assisting in various ways were former City Councillor Vincent Smythe of Squantum and Marion Andrews, Director of Senior Citizen activities for the city of Quincy.

The club meets at 7:30 p.m. the third Tuesday of the month at Maryhall. These meetings are devoted to social ability and good fellowship.

Over the years, the club has engaged professional performers including talented performers from the membership to provide entertainment.

The club also promotes one-day trips as well as longer trips to interesting sites around the country.

In addition, the club sponsors weekly bowling sessions where scores are of no consequence but where exercise and fun are paramount.

Officers and board members are: Joseph Orint, president; Doris Basely, vice president; Frances Cosgrove, secretary; Ralph Dougherty, treasurer; Margaret Holmberg and Mae Lauwers, board members.

ANALYSIS OF THE DRUNK DRIVER

New data has been added to the growing evidence that most persons arrested for drunken driving are basically problem people and not the occasional drinker who was unlucky enough to get caught.

An Oregon study of more than 1,000 convicted drunk drivers showed that many had a long history of personal problems, only one of which was drunken driving. The average blood alcohol level at the time of arrest was 0.21 percent - a level rarely attained among social drinkers, most of whom would be under the table at that level.

Other findings: One in four had a criminal record; three in eight had a previous charge of drunkenness in public, not associated with driving; they had, as a group, three times as many previous traffic violations as the typical driver; one in four was driving with a suspended license or none at all.

FIND OUT HOW 65,000 OF YOUR NEIGHBORS FOUND MORE PEACE AND QUIET.

The Massport Noise Abatement Office recently learned something important.

Using computer generated "contours," we compared annual noise levels for 1980 with those for 1976.

We discovered the number of people experiencing loud airport noise had been reduced by 65,000.

That kind of noise relief didn't happen by accident. It happened by design.

In 1976, Massport designed an active noise abatement program for Logan Airport. The airlines co-operated, F.A.A. co-operated, and so did the community.

See for yourself what co-operation has done to reduce airport noise in Boston. Write for our new Noise Report.

The problem of airport noise is far from solved. But we do have progress to report, and you'll find relief in it.

TOOTH SPLINTING

Q: What is tooth splinting? What can it do for me?

A: That old saying - In unity there is strength - applies to teeth, too. Teeth must be strong to withstand biting forces (sometimes over 100 pounds) that are applied millions of times over a lifetime.

Unfortunately, gum disease can weaken the bone supporting the teeth, loosening them so that they can no longer bite properly. Sometimes the bone is normal but, because some teeth have been lost, those remaining must support the full biting force previously borne by the full complement of teeth.

Loose teeth which otherwise would be lost can be saved by tying (splinting) them together. They can be made much firmer together than they are alone, particularly if the teeth splinted extend around the curve of the dental arch.

Regardless of the particular method used, splinting teeth is a valuable tool in extending the life of weak teeth.

Dollars Spent At Home Keep Bouncing Back...

When you spend a dollar in the "big city"... or order from somebody's catalog . . . that dollar is gone forever.

But...when you spend it in our home town... it keeps on bouncing around the whole community...and finally a good share of it comes back to you.

For example: Let's say you buy a dress at a local dress shop. The dress shop uses your money to buy a new air-conditioner. The heating man in turn buys a new television set.

The t-v dealer buys some insurance. The insurance man spends it at a local food store, and the grocer spends it for food products, many of which are raised on nearby farms.

You're a farmer...so part of your dollar comes bouncing back.

Keep part of the dollars you spend . . . SHOP AT HOME!

Way Up Presents A Passion Play

Thirty-five young people from The Way Up and their adult chaperones traveled to Westfield on Good Friday to present their larger-than-life puppet Passion Play.

The Way Up is a specialized Christian youth ministry based in Quincy. It serves young people from throughout the South Shore. Supported by Protestant churches, groups and individuals on the South Shore, its executive director is the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, also pastor of the First Church of Squantum.

The Passion Play was performed Good Friday evening in Second Congregational Church in Westfield, sponsored by the Westfield Clergy Association. The sponsoring group represents seven Protestant churches in the Westfield area.

The First United Methodist Church provided the group with lunch on Friday. After that, at the expense of the United Methodist Church and the Church of the Atonement (Protestant Episcopal), the entire group was bussed to the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield.

The Episcopalians gave the group dinner that night at their church.

After the performance, which was attended by over 200 people, the group from The Way Up went out for pizza with young people from the Protestant youth groups of Westfield.

Easter Service Held At Squantum Church

Members and friends of the First Church of Squantum celebrated Christ's resurrection from the dead Sunday with an Easter service.

The service began with an instrumental prelude of Easter hymns in a medley played by Ann Lombardi on trumpet and Susan Scott on French horn.

James E. Sumner played "Largo in F Sharp Minor" by Francesco Veracini on violin.

The women's early morning visit to the tomb was reenacted by Genevieve Tood, Valerie Gorill and Diane Lindblad with Tom McKim and Mark Burgess as the angels.

The Junior Choir sang "This is the Day" by Natalie Sleeth. Mary Ruth Scott directed and Krista Olson played the triangle.

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, explained the meaning of Easter to the children with the help of Blythe Bumpus, Bonnie MacRitchie, Lori Ogilvie, Kim Olson, Krista Olson, Karin Reister, Kristen Reister, Melissa Stamos, James Sumner, Matthew Sumner and Amanda Young. Jimbo McKim played the part of Jesus.

The hymns sung included "Christ the Lord is Risen Today", "Christ Arose", "Jesus Christ is Risen Today", "Come, Ye Faithful, Raise the Strain" and a special benediction sung to the tune of "Edelweiss".

Dr. Langevin preached on the topic, "The Gladness of Easter" taking as his text, "Then the disciples were glad when they saw the Lord." (John 20:20b) Greeters for the morning were Barbara and Don Frazer. The service next Sunday will begin at 10:15 a.m. The sermon will be "Experience at Emmaus".

State Budget

The House Committee on Ways and Means is putting its final touches on the House version of the state budget. Extensive debate is expected to center around the local aid formula. The Governor has recommended a formula that would return almost $5 million in additional local aid to Quincy. The Ways and Means Committee is still working on a formula, but it is my position that any formula must reflect the communities' loss under Proposition 2½. The City of Quincy has faced severe losses and the local aid will be extremely welcome to help alleviate the impact on city programs, such as education and other essential services.

The Committee on Housing and Urban Development will be dealing with the many pieces of legislation pertaining to condominium conversion, including one of the city's home rule petitions.

If you would like to comment on any of these matters, please call me at home 328-4900 or in the State House 722-2470.

American Heritage Variety Show At Masonic Temple Sunday

The American Heritage Variety Show will be presented by the Union Congregational Church of Weymouth and Braintree for the benefit of the Quincy Masonic Temple Sunday, at 4 p.m. at the Masonic Temple, 1170 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The large cast includes singers, dancers, comedians and musicians.

They presented the same show entitled "A Journey Thru America", on March 4-6 at the East Junior High School in Weymouth. Theme of the show is based on various events and songs about American Heritage and History. It is a good show and one of the biggest that has ever been presented at the Temple.

The public is invited. Tickets are available at the door.

The greatest defense against rising costs

ENERGY CONSERVATION is still the best safeguard against rising heating and cooling costs. And wood windows with factory-applied weatherstripping and double-pane insulating glass provide extra assistance in guarding against excessive heat loss and heat gain.

factory-applied weatherstripping to reduce air leakage and assure a snug fit.

Many wood windows are also available with a low-maintenance exterior factory finish or cladding that virtually eliminates the need for periodic painting.

Since windows can serve as passive solar collectors, their location is vital. Windows should be placed where they can take advantage of the seasonal positions of the sun.

In cold climates, for instance, the largest glass areas should face south. This will allow the window to trap indoors the warmth of the winter sun.

During the summer when the sun is high, use roof overhangs, leaf-bearing trees or awnings to shade windows and reduce heat gain.

In warmer climates, locate largest window areas facing north. This will reduce excessive summer solar heat gain.

Operating windows on the east and west sides of the home allow you to take advantage of cool breezes and lessen the dependence on air conditioning.

By providing adequate natural light, windows also reduce the need for artificial lighting during the day

Change look and feel of room with coordinated wallcoverings

The recession, inflation and fluctuating interest rates mean that an increasing number of Americans who have hopes of moving to a new home or adding onto their present one are not doing so.

Consequently, architects, designers and home furnishings experts report a renewed interest in redecorating.

The Wallcovering Information Bureau suggests you take a fresh look at your own home. How do you feel about its decor? Does it reflect your personality as you are now, or as you were several years ago?

Are the home furnishings dramatic and exciting, or tired? Is your home a place you truly enjoy? Do you feel proud when guests ask for a tour?

If you can't give an affirmative "yes" to these questions, then consider redecorating with wallcoverings.

Significant element

Wallcoverings are the single most important element in changing the entire look or feeling of a room. The reason is simple: wallcoverings cover more visible surface than any other item in a decorating scheme.

"Though wallcoverings were once most strongly associated with the kitchen and bath, they are now in every room of the home, including walls near stairways and ceilings," the Wallcovering Information Bureau reports. "Wallcoverings are even being used to cover furniture such as bureaus, trunks and screens."

In addition to lending ambience and warmth to a room, wallcoverings are good value and a sound investment. They are stain-resistant, washable (some are even scrubable), and long-lasting.

WARMTH, CHARM AND STYLE — This little girl's room in a converted attic has only a few pieces of simple furniture. Yet, it's warm and cozy with the use of coordinated wallcoverings, the single most important element in changing the entire look and feeling of this room. The teal blue and white wallcoverings are shown in two scales for different areas of the room. Repeating the pattern again in the fabric in the room enhances the rich, luxurious ambience.

Nationwide interest

There is currently such a strong nationwide interest in this decorating medium that the Smithsonian Institution's Cooper-Hewitt Museum in New York recently held a major exhibit of wallcoverings.

And, when the Wallcovering Information Bureau recently sponsored a Wallcovering Idea Showcase, in which four apartments in a Manhattan townhouse were decorated using wallcoverings as the focal point, the Showcase drew national attention from editors of home furnishings and women's interest magazines and interior designers.

When you're ready to go shopping for wallcovering, remember:

- Bring sketches and measurements of the space to be covered.

- If possible, take swatches of the fabric and rug already in that room.

- Bold patterns and colors work best in rooms where you spend little time or for surprise, pick-me-up effects.

- It's helpful to see a swatch of the wallcovering in your room, and some stores will lend you a sample cutting or the sample book to take home overnight. Try to envision how it will look in the room, in both natural and artificial light.

- If you're interested in a mylar wallcovering and you're a novice at hanging, let a professional do the job. A professional paperhanger can ensure that your walls are in perfect condition for this type of material.

Booklet available

If you'd like a copy of the booklet "All you Need to Know about Wallcoverings," write to The Wallcovering Information Bureau, Dept. S80, 66 Morris Avenue, Springfield, NJ 07081.

The spring brings— time for home repairs

With the melting of the winter's snow comes the realization that the home repairs that weren't done last spring or fall can't be put off any longer. And, now there is winter damage that must be corrected.

To assist the homeowner in making a thorough and efficient "spring home check," Insta-Foam, manufacturer of Great Stuff, a multi-purpose urethane foam sealant, has developed this checklist of priority areas that should be evaluated for repair each spring.

• Roof: Ceiling or wall cracks or wetness will indicate damage. Check for missing or broken shingles, the areas where the chimney meets the roof, roof vents and skylights.

• Doors and windows: Check your heating bills. Heat leaks in winter will become air conditioning leaks in summer. Use foam insulation around all entrances with air leaks.

• Window sills: Wetness or peeling paint indicate a poorly fitting window. Without repair, wood will rot.

• Gutters and downspouts: Remove leaves and other debris that may have settled in during the fall and winter. This will prevent water from accumulating on the roof.

• Screens: Don't feel guilty if you didn't check for holes when you put them away for the winter. There's still time for repairs.

• Air conditioning system: Clean filters of window units, and add Freon if necessary. Central cooling systems should be professionally maintained. An efficient air conditioner will save you money and electricity during the summer months.

• Outdoor taps: Pipes, utility meters and lawn hose bibbs should be checked for cracks which allow insect and rodent intrusion. Using a sealant around these areas will prevent this.

• Minimum siding: Sealing any cracks or open areas at the bottom edge of siding—and where the foundation meets the frame—will keep moisture and dust out.

By completing these basic "insta-fix-ups" early in the year, there'll still be plenty of time for lounging in the hammock with a tall lemonade.

One of the most important elements of a well-built window is the sash and frame.

Since wood is a natural insulator it will not conduct heat as easily as a non-thermal metal sash and frame. In fact, comparative tests show that wood insulates 400 times more effectively than steel and 1,770 times better than aluminum.

(1) First, remove interior trim carefully and save for re-use. Then, remove old door, strike plate, hinges, weatherstripping and threshold. Make sure the door sill is shimmed to floor level. (2) Now, remove the remodeling unit from its carton. First, remove the retaining screw at strike location. Slide the aluminum threshold section into the slot of gray vinyl threshold. Now, slip the pre-hung remodeling unit into the opening, making sure it is centered. Now, square the hinge jamb to ensure vertical installation and secure with nails. Install screws through hinge and strike jambs into existing wood studs. Install lockset, strike plate and deadbolt. (3) From outside, cut weatherstrip stops to exact length and nail to wood jambs. Caulk at threshold and weatherstrips as directed. Adjust door bottom sweep, and replace interior trim. Your new Benchmark door system is ready for painting.

Wood mouldings improve room's look

One of the most satisfying home improvements is a do-it-yourself project that, when finished, looks as though it were handled by an accomplished professional.

Few remodeling jobs are as easy to accomplish for the do-it-yourselfer as the application of wood mouldings. When applied to walls, wood moulding adds richness, depth, accent and color to give an ordinary room a more elegant and graceful appearance.

The right tools, proper planning and knowledge of a few basic woodworking techniques are all that's needed. For most moulding work, you'll need a miter box for cutting accurate 45 and 90 degree angles, says the Wood Moulding and Millwork Producers.

Other tools include a fine-toothed saw, hammer, nail set, tape measure, finishing nails, glue, sandpaper and wood filler. Sometimes a coping saw is required so joints fit together tightly.

Once you determine where the moulding is to be used, estimate how much you'll need. Mouldings are available at local home centers or building supply stores in lengths of three to 16 feet.

Make a list of the lengths you'll need. Then round off the measurements to the next largest foot to allow for cutting and trimming.

Whenever possible, try to use short pieces. It's been estimated that over half of the interior trim in a home consists of lengths under eight feet.

There are more than 350 standard wood moulding profiles, though not all patterns are always available. In most cases, says WMMP, a substitute pattern is easy to find.

For more information, send 40 cents for the booklet, "How to Work With Wood Mouldings" to WMMP, P.O. Box 25278, Dept. HP, Portland, OR 97225.

Make sure to compare terms of home improvement loans

Although home improvement loans are readily available from banks, finance companies and some contractors, shop around for the best rates.

The price you pay for financing a loan and the terms offered may vary greatly, says the Lenders Council of the National Home Improvement Council.

A bank passbook loan, for example, may be the cheapest type of loan available. When you borrow against the money in your savings account, the bank will usually finance a loan at a net interest cost of about two percent or so.

The only drawback with this type of loan is that the savings must remain in the account as collateral until the loan is paid off.

Another possibility to investigate is your life insurance policy. Your insurance policy may be set up in such a way that you can borrow, at low interest, an amount equal to its built-up cash value. It's certainly worth investigating.

An FHA home improvement loan also is a good bet for those who qualify, says NHIC's Lenders Council.

Springtime clean-up for a fire-safe home

Each year more than three million fires occur in the United States. Fire prevention experts say the majority of these fires are caused by carelessness in the home.

This spring, why not have the entire family participate in a "hot spot hunt"—correcting the fire hazards in your home—as a unique kind of spring cleaning. It's a simple and fun way to make your home fire-safe and it may even result in saving a life.

Here's how it works. Designate a room in the house to each member of the family and have them point out and correct all the fire hazards.

For example:

- Have a child remove from the attic old newspapers, clothing and books which easily catch fire.

- Have Mom check that the electrical cords on the kitchen appliances are not frayed or warm from overuse.

- Have Dad check that all paints, kerosene and other flammables are stored in tightly-sealed metal cans away from the furnace in the basement. Gasoline should always be stored outdoors.

- Some other important "hot spots" to check are:

- That only the proper size fuses are being used in the fuse box.

- The fire escapes are kept clear of all objects.

- All the windows should open and close with ease.

Select contractor carefully

Many homeowners find themselves confused when it comes to choosing a contractor to do that remodeling project they've been dreaming of for so long.

"When you consider the homeowner is talking about tampering with what may well be his most valuable possession, it's understandable that he may have some fear of choosing the wrong contractor," says John Hammon, executive vice president of the National Home Improvement Council (NHIC).

Media stories of home improvement horrors scare some homeowners right out of remodeling projects, and leave others with a worried feeling about the work for which they've just signed.

Take your time

"However, it needn't be that way," says the Council executive. "Homeowners who take the time to carefully select their contractor rarely suffer headline making episodes."

In many areas of the country, individuals can check with the National Home Improvement Council, which has more than 50 chapters across the nation.

NHIC's members are pledged to a strict Code of Ethics, and in many areas have a cooperative Consumer Care program with the Better Business Bureau. Many of these chapters are listed in local telephone directories and will send callers a list of contractor members.

What to look for

If there isn't an NHIC chapter in your area, the trade association suggests following the steps listed below when choosing a contractor.

- Employ a contractor with an established place of business, preferably in your locality.

- Check for adequate financial references.

- Get references of satisfied customers and check on them personally by phone. If your city has a Better Business Bureau, check to see if there is an adverse file on the contractor. In lieu of a BBB, check with your local Chamber of Commerce.

- Observe carefully how precisely he "sizes up" your proposed project, take note of his suggestions and discuss them thoroughly with him. Don't be rushed and avoid snap judgments, either pro or con.

- Be certain to have a written agreement on plans and specifications (the materials to be used).

- Have a thorough understanding as to the quality of the materials and workmanship required.

- Get bids from more than one contractor. But keep in mind, the lowest bid is not necessarily the best bargain.

OPERATING COSTS HIT THE ROOF

The cost of operating a home has increased approximately 150 percent in the last 10 years, report housing experts.

Although the advancing costs of maintenance and repairs is the number one culprit; hikes in insurance, real estate tax and utilities are nearly as high.

Conduct home energy audit in the name of conservation

Five years ago, the average homeowner spent about $1,000 a year for electricity, gas and fuel oil, according to Business Week magazine. In many parts of the country last year, notes the publication, that bill rose to $3,000.

The staggering high cost of energy is forcing many homeowners into a sober appraisal of energy conservation.

Sometimes, modest alterations that pay for themselves in two or three years can trim heating and cooling costs by as much as 25 to 30 percent, says the National Home Improvement Council (NHIC).

The first step NHIC recommends is to conduct an attic to basement search to determine those areas subject to higher than average energy loss.

Check the walls, attic floor and basement for adequate insulation. Inspect the windows and doors for excessive air infiltration—a cold draft whenever you come close to a window or door. This is caused by inadequate or poorly applied weatherstripping.

It's also a good idea to check the heating and cooling system to make sure it is operating at the peak of efficiency.

Since most heat escapes through the roof and exterior walls, or through the glass in windows, well-insulated attics and walls together with tightly weatherstripped windows, are energy-saving essentials.

Floors over unheated spaces such as basements or crawl spaces should also be insulated to proper levels, according to NHIC.

Generally accepted standards call for R-30 insulation in the attic, R-19 for floors and R-13 for walls.

When shopping for insulation, advises the Council, be wary of those who talk in terms of inches.

Ask about "R-values," which are a measure of a material's ability to retard heat flow. The higher the R-value, the more efficient the insulation.

If it turns out that you need work done to bring your home up to modern energy conservation standards, hire a qualified contractor you can depend on.

NHIC suggests that you select a professional with an established place of business, one who is financially stable and is willing to supply a list of references. Check with your local NHIC chapter or contact the Better Business Bureau.

For fire safety, start at the top

Fire protection for your home isn't limited to insurance premiums. It could be in the form of fire resistant roofing.

Today's asphalt shingles, for example, are manufactured to meet the fire resistance standard of Underwriters Laboratories.

Shingles bearing the UL Class C or the higher Class A label have been tested against fire exposure and will not ignite easily, contribute to the spread of flame, or emit burning brands that could start new fires.

STRIKE IT SAFE—Using striking and struck tools safely means striking squarely so the shock may be absorbed evenly by the entire tool, according to the Hand Tools Institute. Glancing blows can cause shearing which can be dangerous. Safety goggles should be worn whenever using striking or struck tools.

Knowing basics helps every hand tool user

As form relates to function, hand tools are designed for specific uses if a project is to be done safely and efficiently, according to the Hand Tools Institute (HTI), a trade association of American and Canadian manufacturers of quality hand tools.

A basic knowledge of a striking and struck tool's design is helpful in using it properly.

The faces of striking and struck tools are designed to direct the force of a blow to the center or body of the tool where it can be absorbed.

Off-center blows send the shock along the sides of a tool where there is insufficient backup material. Rather than cushioning the blow, the effect is shearing, which can be dangerous.

Struck tools for cutting have edges designed for maximum cut and durability by means of the angle and thickness of the cutting edge.

Malfunctioning tools

Many failures and possible injury are caused by a dull cutting edge because the tool can no longer function as it was intended.

Next to the common nail hammer, perhaps the most widely used type is the ball peen hammer which, by its design, underlines the importance of selecting the right tool for a specific job.

The ball peen hammer has a rounded, slightly crowned striking face with bevelled edges and a round, ball-shaped peen on the opposite end of the head.

Ball peen hammers of the proper size are designed for striking chisels and punches, and for riveting, shaping and straightening unhardened metal.

When used for striking a struck tool, the ball peen's face should have a diameter at least 3/4 inches larger than the face of the struck tool.

Safety tips

Using the ball peen hammer safely means always striking squarely with the hammer's striking face parallel to the struck surface. Glancing blows should be avoided to minimize chipping the hammer's face.

Never strike with the side or cheek of the hammer.

According to HTI, the most important safety rule for all striking and struck tools is the use of safety goggles.

Transform the bathroom into something new and luxurious

No longer is the necessary room just for what's necessary.

With the trend toward physical fitness shaping up, many health-conscious homeowners are turning their bathrooms into spas and retreats, often by outfitting them with exercise equipment, saunas and whirlpool baths.

According to experts at the National Association of Remodelers, today's bathrooms are fast becoming a popular home improvement as consumers look for something to differentiate their homes from others.

Already this year, Americans have spent in upwards of $2 billion remodeling and modernizing bathrooms—nearly twice the amount spent in 1975.

Once the most neglected room of the house, homeowners now want the private rooms of the house to look as good as the public areas. For their own comfort, they're adding oversized tubs, steam showers and water softeners.

To aid homeowners opting for a plush flush and beautiful bath, the Water Quality Association offers these helpful hints:

- Make good use of space.

Recessed medicine chests and dividers with cabinets can provide extra storage plus give you room to groom. Don't overlook space above the door or mirror for extra shelving.

- Select easy-care materials. Sprucing up the bathroom doesn't have to mean more clean-up chores in store. To save time and money, install a water softener.

Removing hardness minerals from the water can actually cut cleaning time in half because softened water eliminates formation of sticky soap curd that adheres to or leaves "rings" on porcelain and appliances.

- Coordinate the entire look.

Select flooring, cabinets and fixtures that are similar in style and color. Don't shy away from basic white; it's less likely to look dated when other colors have gone out of style.

- Be creative with lighting. Replace old light fixtures with track lighting or lamps that complement the room. Don't discount natural lighting. Adding stained or textured glass can provide privacy and at the same time, lighten up the room.

Much more can go on in the bathroom these days than just bathing as more homeowners enjoy the comforts of softened water, luxury appliances and an entire new environment.

ENERGY USE TRIMMED BY HOMEOWNERS

American homeowners are making excellent progress in their efforts to conserve energy. According to the U.S. Department of Energy, the average home has trimmed its energy use to the equivalent of 995 gallons of oil currently from 1,146 gallons in 1974.

If made more energy efficient, the department says, private housing could save 50 percent more energy.

Today's energy crunch revives the porch idea

By LIS KING

Yesterday's sun porch may well become the energy-efficient room addition you've been seeking. For, if the exposure is right, a glass-walled porch becomes a natural solar "collector," and its proclivity for greenery and casual furniture makes it the ideal, year-round "everything room" for the entire family.

But, it takes planning to convert an open porch into an inviting indoor space, so here, from the Tile Council of America, are some tips and tactics.

• The energy efficiency aspect works well only if the porch faces the quadrant from southwest to southwest. And, naturally the sun must have free passage into the new room.

Deciduous trees that provide summer shade are usually fine, but make sure that their branches don't obstruct too much winter sun.

• The best porch rooms feature floors that provide good thermal storage, and one excellent combination is concrete and ceramic tile.

• The heavy quarry tile types and pavers are great choices for such floors. They will store the sun's heat during the day and release it gradually to keep the room warm after the sun has gone. During the summer months these floors can also collect the night breezes to help cool the room.

• Ceramic tile's good looks and easy care suit this room, which is likely to become one of the most active in the house. Tile in nature hues goes especially well with glass-walled rooms that seem to bring in the outdoors.

Un glazed quarry tiles and pavers now come in colors from sand to sepia, but remember that dark colors absorb heat better.

• You may be able to get more heat than you need for your porch room out of this project. It all depends on your location, the amount of thermal mass, etc.

If you have heat to spare, use it in adjoining rooms. Doors and/or registers will circulate the air.

• If the porch room's back wall is exposed to the sun and you want to soak up extra heat, make it a thermal storage area, too.

A concrete block wall will do the trick, but that isn't very pretty, of course. So dress it up with good-looking ceramic tile. A brick-shaped tile in a neutral color should flatter most jobs.

• There are other ways to add extra thermal mass to your new porch room. Masonry planters wrapping around the porch's window walls look as well as they function. Tile them to match the floor.

A long tile-topped counter, using black, water-filled drums as bases, is excellent for thermal storage. Water-filled drums or tubes may also be ranked along the back wall to store heat, but in a conventional porch room they are both too bulky and unsightly.

• You can have a ceramic tile floor even if you're working with a wood-floor base. But, remember, tile shouldn't be installed over a springy floor.

Nail down loose flooring and, if that doesn't do the trick, cover it with exterior-grade plywood (at least 3/4" thick) before tiling.

• If your porch has a wood base, check it well before you start any new construction. After all, you want solid underpinnings.

• If you find rot or termites, boards must be replaced. Use new lumber that is treated to resist decay. Installing a sheet-metal termite shield at the same time is a good idea. • In climates with freezing winter temperatures, consider installing a masonry foundation around the porch's perimeter. Many wooden porches are built with a 2-inch or more slope away from the house to drain off rainwater, so jack up the edge.

• The best-looking porch rooms play up their close-to-nature roles. Lots of greenery is a must. Rattan and wicker furniture comes naturally, but today's slight-scaled modular seating would be perfect for a long, narrow porch, too.

Allow space for a table for informal meals, homework, bill-paying and you name it. Think of stringing up a hammock for summer lying and snow gazing. Add pillows and a comforter to the hammock. Now you've got a guest room, too!

To learn more about putting tile to work on enclosed porches and in rooms throughout the house, send $1.00 to Tile Council of America, P.O. Box 2222, Department MS, Princeton, NJ 08540.

Conserving energy

Rural homeowners and farmers are now eligible for loans of about $500 each to finance home improvements designed to reduce energy consumption. The loans are repayable over five years.

Agriculture Secretary Bergland estimates that energy savings from such improvements as adding insulation will repay a large part of the cost.

Heat loss through and around windows can be significant even in a home with adequate insulation.

But well-built wood windows with factory-applied weatherstripping and double-pane insulating glass help limit fuel waste from air infiltration and from heat loss through the glass area.

Raiderettes Hope To Match Winter Track Success

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy girls' spring track team, hoping to duplicate the success of the cross country and winter track teams, which had fantastic seasons, opened Tuesday against Weymouth South, rated by North coach Lou Tozzi as the best in the strong Suburban League.

The Raiderettes will be idle until Tuesday, April 27, when they host Brockton, another league power.

North's cross country team last fall won the Eastern Mass. title and finished second in the all-state meet and the winter track team, unbeaten in the league, won the State Class A crown.

Last spring the North girls were unbeaten in the league and finished second to powerhouse Falmouth in the Eastern Mass. meet, the all-state meet and the New England meet.

"We expect to do well again but need a major contribution from our younger people, as we have little depth," said Tozzi. "We have a small squad and we lost quite a few people from the winter team."

The jumpers are led by senior Kara Crehan, last year's New England champion in the high jump with a leap of 5-8 and the state Class A champ this winter.

"She has been bothered by injuries but we expect a strong season from her," Tozzi said. "She is terrific in pressure situations."

Senior Deirdre Donovan is the top long jumper, setting the school record of 16-9½ last season and finishing sixth in the Eastern Mass. meet.

Chris Francis, Lauren O'Rourke and Kristin Howard all starred for Central Junior High last year and are fine prospects.

"There is a serious lack of depth in the jumps," Tozzi said.

Senior Nancy McCarthy is the outstanding sprinter and last year ran on the 440 relay team that set the school record. Donovan, who was second in the EMass 440 last spring and third in the state meet 300 this winter, is moving down to run the dash. She is also an excellent relay runner.

Junior Diane Flynn, Howard and Junior Linda Welby round out the sprinters.

In the hurdles sophomore Marie McGurl has great potential and O'Rourke, Welby and junior veteran Janet Zdankowski look good.

As usual, the Raiderettes will be very strong in the middle distance runs.

Leading the pack is senior Mary Kate Kennedy, North's most versatile performer, who won the EMass 440 last year and was fourth in the all-state meet. According to Tozzi she can go in any race from the 220 to the mile.

Senior Karen Lindenfelzer is a great competitor who was a member of the record-breaking 440 relay team. "On any other team she'd be No. 1," said Tozzi. "She is very underrated."

They are backed up by junior Mary Gannon, a talented veteran, and junior Lisa Reynolds, a much improved veteran. Other middle distance hopefuls are juniors Andrea Gelsomini, Cindy Olsen and Monika Reilly and sophomores Lynn Cahill, Lori Coleman, Mary Fitzgerald, Nancy Linehan, Susan McGrail, Alice Reilly and Donna Stein.

North also will be extremely strong once again in the distance runs headed by three outstanding veterans.

Junior Sheila Barrett has placed in every Eastern Mass. meet she's run in (cross country, indoors and outdoors) and has tremendous talent. She was an all-scholastic in the two-mile this winter.

Junior Linda Kennedy gives North a tremendous 1-2 punch with Barrett and Tozzi feels they are the best on the South Shore. Linda has run an 11:19 two-mile and a 5:12 mile.

Senior Nancy McCarthy, an all-scholastic this winter in the 1000-yard, won the state Class A title in that event. She has run a 2:16.2 half mile and Tozzi hopes to move her up to the mile this spring and feels she can be even better at that distance. She won the EMass half mile last year and holds the league record.

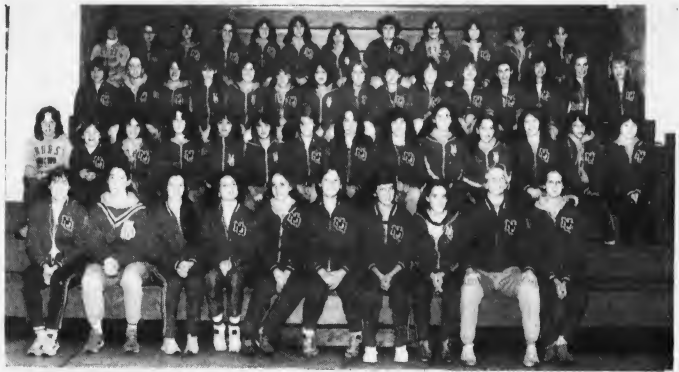

Regina Nagle is a tough two-miler who placed in the EMass cross-country meet. Other distance runners are sophomore Tracey Corrigan, the city junior high mile champ at Central, juniors Chris Comeau, Terry Jones and Nancy Wildes and sophomores Kelly Coutts, Eileen Morris, Bernadette Murphy and Liz Toland.

In the weight events North has the incomparable Michelle Millane, one of the best in New England, who is strong in all throws (shot put, javelin and discus) but specializes in the discus. She is the New England champion and threw 135-5 last season.

Lindenfelzer is also good with the discus but after that North has little experience. Sophomore Eileen Crehan is the best with the javelin and there are four newcomers, senior Catherine Doherty, junior Sue Orrock and sophomores Chris Donovan and Ruth Shionis.

"We are working hard in practice trying to develop a positive attitude among our younger people," said Tozzi. "We are trying to avoid mental errors and to maintain pride because of our recent successes. Sooner or later we are going to need some new faces to step into the level of competition and make a real sacrifice or we will disappoint a lot of people."

Tozzi paid tribute to his assistant coaches, Bart Petracca, the boys' head coach; Paul "Doc" Doherty, Chris Morton and Mike Burke. "They do a tremendous job and are responsible in a large part for our success," he said.

Quincy Girls Softball Team Lacks Veterans

The Quincy girls' softball team had only a 6-8 record last season and Coach Barbara Webster has only three returning starters to build around.

The Quincy girls played at Waltham yesterday (Wednesday), will host Weymouth North Friday at 3:30 at Faxon Field and Tuesday will be home to Weymouth South at 10:30 a.m.

Miss Webster has some fine first-year starters, including pitchers Kim Moccia and Mary Travers, both of whom have been impressive in practice.

The only returning starters are First basemen Janet Witham, who hit .380 last spring and was used at several positions; Michelle Derbes, who hit .360 as last year's right fielder who will play center this season, and Lori Prescott, who is back at shortstop and who is expected to have a fine season both offensively and defensively.

Other newcomers are catcher Susan Dacey, left fielder Cathy Duggan, right fielder Cheryl Garmody, third baseman Eileen Sullivan, second baseman Sue Morrison and shortstop Karen Connors.

"We are young and there will be some weaknesses," said Webster, who has had some outstanding teams at Quincy. "But we should be strong in the pitching department and if we come through offensively, we could do all right."

Koch Club Boys Baseball, Girls Softball Registrations Starts Saturday

The Koch Club boys' baseball and girls' softball leagues, are completing plans for their 32nd season at four locations — North Quincy, Broad Meadows, Montclair and West Quincy.

The West Quincy District will conduct registrations Saturday, April 17 from 10 a.m. to noon at the O'Rourke Playground on Quarry Street.

Boys and girls, eight years old but not 14 years as of Jan. 1, 1982 are eligible for the West Quincy District.

The North Quincy group, senior of the four districts will distribute applications during the week of April 26 with boys reporting to Cavanagh Stadium, Birch St., and girls to Atlantic Junior High School Field on Hollis Ave. Registrations may be returned from Monday, April 26 through Thursday, April 29 between 6 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Boys, 5 years to 11 years of age, are invited to join for the baseball activity and girls, 7 through 13 years, are welcome to participate in the softball leagues.

The Montclair District will conduct its registration program from Monday, April 26 to Thursday, April 29 between 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. at Bishop Playground, Holbrook Rd., Montclair (opposite the Montclair School). The baseball and softball leagues will begin playing on May 3 at 6 p.m. at the Bishop Playground site.

Boys, 5 to 10 years, are eligible for the baseball leagues and girls, 7 to 13 years, are welcome to join the girls softball program.

The Broad Meadows District will distribute applications for registrations on Tuesday and Thursday, April 27 and 29 at Broad Meadows Junior High School Field, 50 Calvin Rd., Adams Shore between 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. The program will begin on May 4 and will be held every Tuesday and Thursday evening at 6 p.m. at the Broad Meadows Field at the rear of the school.

Richard J. Koch, executive director of the organization, states that the 32-year-old group will continue its policy of no tryouts and every boy and girl who registers in the baseball and softball leagues will be assigned to a team and actively participate in the program.

During the past three decades, over 75,000 children have been involved in Koch Club sponsored recreation programs including baseball, basketball, bowling and softball leagues in Quincy.

Goodhue Pitches Quincy To Win

Righthander Joe Goodhue toyed with the Thayer Academy batters, scattering three hits and striking out 13, as the Quincy High School baseball team opened the season with an 11-3 victory.

Catcher John Haslett with a pair of two base hits and first baseman Walt McKinnon with a bases-loaded double were the batting stars for Quincy, which tagged Thayer pitching for 13 hits.

Coach Bill Sullivan's Presidents clinched the win with three runs in the fifth inning as Haslett doubled, Glenn Fleischer reached on an error and Tony Pollara and Marty Daley singled.

Goodhue, who was in control all the way, might have racked up a well-deserved shutout had it not been for a pair of Quincy errors that followed Jim Clapp's double which produced three runs for Thayer.

The Quincy lineup included: Fleischer lf, Pollara rf, Larue rf, McKinnon 1b, Daley cf, Costa 1b, Libertine 3b, Mathieson ss, Josephine 3b, Haslett c, Goodhue p.

RAIDERS SHELLED

Coach Hal Forrest's veteran North Quincy High School baseball team collected nine hits, including a homer run by Bob Driscoll, but left 14 men stranded on base in a 7-3 loss to Milton.

Jim White of the Raiders also yielded nine hits to Milton but they included triples by Fred Bortolotti and Roger MacMillan and their teammates cleaned the bases of all three runners.

The North Quincy lineup included: McCue 3b, Conroy 2b, Wallace lf, Frazier ss, Cahill 1b, C. White ph, Driscoll rf, Leavitt cf, Gallagher c, J. White p.

AUSTIN DROPS OUT

Francis (Bud) Austin, 18, of Quincy matched the veteran Clarence DeMar stride for stride for the first 20 miles of the Boston Marathon before stomach cramps forced him to drop out at Boston College.

Austin, the youngest of the 145 entries, was congratulated and told to keep trying by Joe Smith, the milkman from Medford who won the 26 mile, 385 yard road race in two hours, 26 minutes, 51 seconds.

BROOKSIDES BECOME COALERS

The South Quincy Brooksidians, who finished fourth in the South Shore League in 1941 and then won the title in the playoffs, announced that they will continue to play under the new name Coalers.

Manager Aldo Feroli, having secured a new sponsor, J. Everett Robbie, was seeking new pitching talent to augment holdovers Tony Settino, Joe (Rab) Slattery and Don Clay.

SHIPBUILDERS PREPARE

Manager Jeppie Saunders was looking forward to strengthening his Fore River Shipbuilders with former minor league baseball players who were working at the yard as the New England League season neared.

Pitchers Johnny Fallon and Charley Letourneau were to be joined by Johnny Wedemeyer on the mound, but Saunders had lost the services of his field manager, Bootus Chapman, who retired from baseball.

ROBINSON NAMED PRESIDENT

Hobie Robinson was re-elected president and the West Quincy Mohawks were chosen to replace the St. Ann's team as managers met to lay plans for the 1942 Park League season.

The six teams signed up for the season included the Mohawks, the champion Italian Mutual Society, the runnerup Wollaston Eagles, Houghs Neck, the Quincy Comets and the Atlantic Redskins.

TENNIS STARS RETURN

Three stars of the great 1941 Quincy High School tennis team, Dick Maloney, Bill Fitzgerald and Irving Risi, all juniors, were returning for another season under Coach Almon Deane.

FERNANDEZ SHINES

Nanny Fernandez, the rookie third baseman of the Boston Braves, had a homer, a double and two singles as the Braves beat the Chicago Cubs, 8-3. Fernandez was leading the National League hitters with .371.

QUINCY FIGHTERS SIGN

Johnny Seeman of Quincy signed to fight Sal Cesario of the North End and Eddie Ellis of Quincy was down to meet Bill Tordiglione, also of the North End, on the Goodwin AC boxing card at Boston Arena.

NORTH GOLFERS WIN

Capt. George Berard finished with a low 79 but Coach Jack Donahue's North Quincy High School golf team went down to defeat at the hands of Needham by a score of 6½ to 3½.

SPORTS BITS '42

Returning veterans Harold Merrill, Cookie Pena and Al MacMillan led the St. John's CYO Juniors in the first practice of the season at Faxon Park ... The Boston Red Sox sold pitcher Herb Hash to the Minneapolis Millers of the American Association ... Ralph Chiminiello, a member of the famous Quincy bowling family, was elected president of the Quincy Professional Men's Bowling League.

YMCA Girls Gym Teams Compete In N.Y. Meet

The South Shore YMCA girls' Class II and Class III gymnastics teams took part in the regional championships last weekend in Huesonot, N.Y.

Forty-two Y teams represented by 428 gymnasts took part, including six from the South Shore Y ages 10-16.

Competing for the Class II team were Julie Killian, Patricia Novak and Diane Rafferty. Competing for the Class III team were Nicole Manton, Jennifer Rafferty and Michele Healey.

The Class II members performed their best routines of the season with Novak scoring 16.3 on vault and 12.1 on uneven, Killion totaling 14.45 on floor exercise and 13.3 on uneven and Diane Rafferty scoring 15.5 on vault and 13.65 on floor exercise.

In Class III Healey scored 8.4 points in compulsory vaulting, taking fourth place. She also won a silver medal with second in the optional uneven bars with a 6.3 and Manton took sixth place with a strong optional balance beam routine.

The South Shore teams will compete in the Eastern States championships early next month to complete their seasons.

St. John's Junior Girls Complete Undefeated Season

The St. John's Junior girls' basketball team recently completed an undefeated season by retaining its championship it the YMCA South Shore Church League.

After dominating the Quincy Division, St. John's conquered

Weymouth Baptist, St. Francis and Sacred Heart of the Braintree-Weymouth Division in the playoffs. The team held three teams scoreless from the field while amassing a season average of 24 to six.

The team comprised Marilyn Burke, Tina Calabro and three sets of sisters, Teresa and Virginia Duggan, Alanna and Siobhan Sheils and Alyse and Laurie Zaccheo.

St. John's was coached by Jim Duggan and Kathy Duggan, Quincy High three-sport athlete, who also coached the Quincy Division to victory in the mid-season All-Star game.

Ralph Hood Named Harbormaster

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has named Ralph Hood of 18 Eaton Rd., Adams Shore, a retired police officer and a member of the Quincy Yacht Club, to a one year term as harbormaster.

The post used to pay $1,500 a year but now pays nothing except a gasoline allowance for the use of a boat.

Stanton Wins By TKO

Tony Stanton, 13-year-old boxer representing the Quincy YMCA, scored a first round TKO over D. Hudson of Salem in the Lowell Silver Mittens Tournament.

He advanced to the tournament semifinals in the 70-78 pound class.

Kevin Midderdorm scored eight points and Kevin Molloy six. Dan McLoughlin scored five and Timmy Roche and Darren McCluskey two each. For Snug Harbor Jay Dennett had eight points, Joe Dunn four, Eddie Flavin two and Tom Dean one. Sean Thompson played a fine defense as did Tim Deane.

Atherton Hough squeezed by Point, 18-17, as Kyle Robertson had seven points, Chuck Hughes six, John Menz four and Joe Devlin, who played fine defense, one. Frank Calabro had 12 points for Point and Tim Brillo scored the other five.

Beechwood Knoll defeated Montclair, 22-17, as it received an outstanding defensive performance from Paul Murphy and some fine ball control from Nathan James. Robert McDonnell had six points, Jack Green and Kevin Duffy four each, James and Joe Mulvey three apiece and Dan MacDonald two. Chris Higgins was the floor leader for Montclair. Tim Baker controlled the ball and Bill McDougall played excellent defense. Matt McNamara has seven points, Joe McCarthy five and Baker one.

In the final game of the quarterfinal round Atlantic exploded on its home court to outclass Wollaston, 45-10. Mike Ainsley scored 12 points, Ted Severson 10, Lance Panaro seven, Ernie Light six, Eddie Barresi and Jim Fennessy four each and Henry Seto and Bill Warren two apiece. Jim DeCarli and Dan Biagini had four each for Wollaston and Mike Kelly had two.

In an earlier game Snug Harbor had overcome a one-point halftime deficit to top Parker, 23-18. Dennett had 10 points, Deane Charlie Holmes, Flavin, Dennis Keefe, Joe Scieszko and Dunn two each and James Bennett one. For Parker Bob Silver had eight points, Eddie Donahue four and Joey Leber, Scott Collins and Paul Mannan two each.

NQHS Football Boosters Seeking Members Of Teams

The North Quincy High School Football Boosters are trying to reach all of the former Raider players from the first team in 1932 to the present as the club starts plans to commemorate the 50th anniversary of North football.

The club would like to hear from all the former players in order to get a booklet together and, if the players wish, a reunion will be arranged.

Any one who played under Jack Donahue (1932-1960), Carl Leone (1961-1968), Ralph Frazier (1969-1974) or Dave Burke (1975 to the present) is asked to call Joe Gelsomini at 328-4411 or write to him at 75 Webster St., North Quincy 02171, as soon as possible.

Mark Scanlan paced Atlantic with 15 points, Chris Rossi had nine, Robert Bradley eight, Eric Roukey three and Pat O'Sullivan four. Roukey and Bradley did a fine job on the boards and John Doherty and O'Sullivan played solid defense. For Squantum Peter Bauchamp had 14 points, Ted Shonis eight and Bob Salton and David Datona four each. Datona also played hustling defense. Squantum was hampered by foul problems.

● Softball

North Girls Eye Better Record

The North Quincy girls' softball team, hoping to improve on last year's 7-10 record, opened its season yesterday (Wednesday) against Brookline and Friday will play at Brockton at 3:30. The Raiderettes will be at Weymouth South Tuesday morning at 10:30 and next Thursday will be home to Waltham at 10:30 at Artery Field. Lou Ioanilli's Raiderettes played better than their record indicated last season, but lost several one and two-run decisions. North has some outstanding veterans, including junior Sue Ayles, who hit .400 last spring playing in right field. Another is senior All-Star second basemen, Laurie Barba the Raiderettes' excellent leadoff batter.

Third baseman Lisa Julian had a fine season in 1981 as a sophomore, with a .400 batting average. Other starters include Chris Choukas and Mary Holleran, who will share the first base duties; Patti McKinnon at shortstop and center fielder Debbie Kiley.

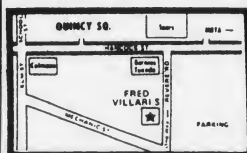

Karen Boutlier will see action at second base, Lisa Tenaglia and Cheryl Murphy are promising catchers, Maureen Berry will see action at third base and Karen Merrigan will play in the outfield.

Boutlier, a junior, and Elva Reed, a senior, will do most of the pitching. Both saw some service a year ago.

"We'll have a lot of speed, our hitting should be all right and we have some good bunters, but our defense is a question mark," said Ioanilli. —TOM SULLIVAN

Max Orenberg, 71, Attorney For 40 Years

A funeral service for Max Orenberg, 71, of West Quincy, a practicing attorney for 40 years, was held Monday in Levine Chapel, 470 Harvard St., Brookline.

Mr. Orenberg died April 8 at Quincy City Hospital.

Born in Boston, he was also an insurance broker and a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association.

Mr. Orenberg was a graduate of Boston English High School, Boston University, and Boston University Law School, Class of 1933.

He is survived by his wife, Viola (Vanello) Orenberg; a daughter, Linda Botton of Harrison, N.H.; two sons, James Orenberg of Portola Valley, Calif., and Peter Orenberg of Quincy; a brother, Philip Orenberg of Newton; and two grandchildren.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Ira F. Murdock, 83, Pioneer In Developing Plastics

Private funeral services were held for Ira Francis (Frank) Murdock, 83, of Squantum, a pioneer in developing the use of plastics and formica.

Mr. Murdock died April 6, in Quincy City Hospital after a long illness.

As a sales agent in New England for the Formica Company of Cincinnati for more than 40 years, he helped develop and promote the use of plastics, particularly in the decorating business.

Among his accomplishments was his steel-framed house built 45 years ago in Squantum.

The first split level design in New England, it was designed by architect Gunnar Peterson of Falmouth who also designed the Nautilus Hotel in Woods Hole and the hotel's Dine Restaurant.

Mr. Murdock's wife, Mary (Parker), said the house was called "modernistic" then.

Born in Taunton, he was graduated from Taunton High School and Lowell Institute (now Lowell University).

He also took night courses at Harvard and MIT.

Treasurer of the Quincy Rotary Club, he was also first vice president of the Quincy YMCA and sang with the Wollaston Glee Club for 30 years.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by two sons, David S. Murdock of Brewster and John P. Murdock of Winchester; a stepson, Thomas P. Lewis of White Plains, N.Y.; two sisters, Mrs. Marcus Clark of Carmel, Calif., and Mrs. Henry Purslow of Holbrook; three grandchildren, three step-grandchildren and a great grandson.

Lillian Jones, 89 Photographer's Widow

Funeral services were held yesterday (Wednesday) at the Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., for Lillian (Anderson) Jones, widow of the famed Boston Herald Traveler photographer, Leslie R. Jones.

Mrs. Jones died Sunday in City Hospital at the age of 89.

A native of Boston, she worked for 25 years at the Fanny Farmer Candy Store in Cambridge and clerked for the Dougmore and Ducan Co., Boston, moving to Quincy 14 years ago.

She was a member of the First Parish Church, whose minister, the Rev. Keith Munson officiated at her funeral.

Mrs. Jones leaves a daughter, Lillian W. Cullen of Quincy, 15 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren.

Burial was in Forest Hills Cemetery, Boston.

E. Joseph (Slum) Salvati, 65, Former Football Star

Funeral Mass will be celebrated tomorrow (Friday) at 10 a.m. in St. John's Church for E. Joseph (Slum) Salvati, former star lineman for the Quincy Manets professional football team.

Salvati, who also was a basketball player and a semi-pro football official of note, died Monday in Long Island Hospital, Boston, at 65 after a long illness.

A lifelong resident of Quincy, he was for many years a burner at the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard.

Visiting hours were scheduled for yesterday (Wednesday) from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. and today (Thursday) from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St.

Mr. Salvati leaves his wife, the former Eleanor Bonvic, and three sons, Joseph Salvati, Robert Salvati and James Salvati, all of Quincy.

Also two sisters, Frances Salvati and Mary Margiotti; and four brothers, Bernardino Salvati, Victor Salvati, Nello Salvati, all of Quincy, and Theodore Salvati of Weymouth.

Burial will be in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Mary Jane Stukey, 91, Retired Hairdresser

A private funeral service for Mary Jane (McKeen) Stukey, 91, of Quincy, a hairdresser for more than 40 years, was held Saturday in Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Mrs. Stukey died April 8, in John Adams Nursing Home. She was a lifetime Quincy resident.

Mrs. Stukey was owner and operator of the M. Jane Beauty

Shop in West Somerville for 35 years before her retirement many years ago.

Wife of the late Mr. Burr Stukey, she is survived by two sons, Robert Mitchell of Gardner, Me., and Wesley G. Mitchell of Quincy; 12 grandchildren and many great grandchildren.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Fritjof Anderson, 76, Lumber Company Foreman

Funeral services for Fritjof "Fritz" Anderson, 76, of Quincy, a retired foreman for Quincy Lumber Company, will be held today (Thursday) at 11 a.m. at Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St.

Mr. Anderson died Monday at home after a brief illness.

He was a lifelong Quincy resident.

Mr. Anderson was employed at Quincy Lumber for 51 years before his retirement nine years ago.

He was also builder-operator of Sea Scent Cottages, Truro.

Mr. Anderson was a former member of Faith Lutheran Church.

He is survived by his wife of 39 years, Edith H. (Hazel) Anderson; a daughter, Carol A. Pesiri of Milton; four sisters, Ellen Misule of Harwich, Enid McLaughlin of Cotuit, Agnes Anderson of Plymouth and Rose DeYoung of Osterville; and two grandchildren.

Rev. James Kimmell, pastor of Faith Lutheran Church, will officiate at the service.

Visiting hours were scheduled for 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. yesterday (Wednesday) at the funeral home. Burial will be in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations may be made to Norfolk County Hospital, Braintree.

BSO Musical Marathon Set For Weekend

Four Quincy residents are committee members for the fundraising Musical Marathon '82 to be held by the Boston Symphony Orchestra and WCRB Friday to Sunday.

The local residents, members of the Council of Friends, South Shore 1, are Mrs. Norman L. Wilson, chairman; Mrs. Davenport Jackson, Jr., Mrs. Hugo Mujica, and Mrs. Leon Jacobs.

The 12th annual marathon is three days of continuous radio coverage on WCRB -102.5 FM including live interviews with BSO members and celebrity guests, and musical selections of historic Boston Symphony recordings requested in exchange for pledges.

A highlight of the marathon will be a live performance featuring the BSO, the Tanglewood Festival Chorus, and special guests under the direction of BSO music director Seiji Ozawa.

The broadcast will be hosted by Channel 5's Natalie Jacobson, Chet Curtis and Frank Avruich.

The musical marathon, which raised more than $225,000 last year, is the BSO's most important fund raising event of the year.

'Mood Magic' Course For S.S. Camera Club

The South Shore Camera Club's second education course series will be, "Mood Magic" on Tuesday, April 20 at 8 p.m.

The third education program will be, "Wildlife and Nature", May 18, at 8 p.m. The program is a demonstration of close-up photography on wildflowers using strobe lights and reflectors. There will be a small charge for the programs.

Reservations are being taken for the field trip to Mystic Seaport Sunday, April 25.

The group will meet in front of Filene's at the South Shore Plaza, and depart at 8:30 a.m.

Costs are admission to Mystic Seaport, lunch and gas.

For further information on the club and activities, call Ken Taft at 328-3866.

Quincy Newsmakers Show On Cable Ch. 3

Quincy Newsmakers, a new public affairs program produced by Quincy Community Television's staff and volunteers, will air next week on Quincy Cable-systems, Channel 3. The program's purpose is to inform the public about current issues and to spotlight people whose decisions affect the Quincy community. Eight programs are planned in this series which will tape through the end of May. The program will resume taping in the fall.

Regular panelists on the program include Ray McEachern of The Patriot Ledger, Henry Bosworth of The Quincy Sun and Herb Fontaine of radio station WJDA. Quincy Cable-systems' General Manager, David Keefe, hosts the show.

The most recent guest was City Council President John J. Lydon, who answered questions posed by the panelists on issues affecting Quincy. Among topics discussed were the issue of 1 a.m. bar closings, further budget cuts under proposition 2½, the styles of the four mayors under whom Mr. Lydon has served and Mr. Lydon's future political plans. Tom Henshaw of The Quincy Sun substituted for panelist Bosworth on this program.

Taped in Quincy Cable-systems' production studio, the show will air Monday, April 19 at 9 p.m. and will be repeated Tuesday, April 20 and Thursday, April 22 at 9 p.m. and also on Friday, April 23 at 4 p.m.

Other recent program guests were Senator Paul Tsongas and George Riley, President of the Community Television Advisory Board. These programs will be cablecast at future dates. Viewers are urged to write Quincy Newsmakers, c/o Quincy Cable-systems, 81 School St., Quincy, MA 02169 with their opinions and comments about the program. Letters will be read on the air when possible.

Quincy Cable-systems is a subsidiary of American Cable-systems Corporation, a Boston-based multiple systems operator of cable stations. American Cable-systems serves over 65,000 subscribers in five states (Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, New York and Massachusetts).

Diet Center Opens In Downtown Area

"How to Win at the Losing Game" is the motto of the Diet Center of Quincy which recently opened its doors at 1245 Hancock St., Suite 31.

The diet center program utilizes good nutrition and daily counseling for weight loss that is fast enough to motivate, but slow enough to be healthful.

Expected results in six weeks are a weight loss of 17 to 25 pounds for women, and 20 to 36 pounds for men.

Based on a natural approach to weight loss, the program employs no drugs or injections. It is designed so that dieters prepare basic foods which are easily obtained.

Located adjacent to the Quincy MBTA station, the Diet Center opens at 7 a.m. and can service dieters prior to their daily commute into Boston, as well as Quincy residents who do not use the "T".

Home economist Carolyn MacDonald, who has experienced success with the Diet Center program herself, will counsel dieters daily.

Mrs. MacDonald, who has had hospital dietary experience, explained why she thinks the Diet Center program works well.

All counselors have experienced weight problems, said Mrs. MacDonald, and they have learned to control it with this program.

Diet Center also believes people need more discipline than a once-a-week group meeting, continued Mrs. MacDonald. Each day, diets in the Diet Center program are weighed and counseled privately.

For more information, call Mrs. MacDonald at 770-3442.

Fund Raiser Saturday For Finnegan

A fund raising party with state auditor John J. Finnegan will be held Saturday, 8 p.m. to midnight at the Elks Hall, 1220 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

There will be a buffet and dancing. Tickets will be sold at the door.

State Dept. Of Education Getting Look At New Home

If you think you've been seeing a lot of strangers around Quincy Square these days, they won't be strangers for long.

The State Department of Education has been bringing busloads of its employees to Quincy to get a look at their new home.

The department is moving into the lower floors of office space in the new Quincy Center Plaza, sharing the building with the headquarters of the Stop and Shop Co.

Employees were given the option of visiting Quincy for three hour periods starting Tuesday and continuing through today (Thursday).

Board To Reconsider Food Center Request

A request from the Italian American Food Center, Inc., 260 Centre St., West Quincy, for a wine and beer license will be reconsidered at the April 20 License Board meeting.

The request was tabled at last week's meeting after motions by Fire Chief Edward Barry to grant the license and to continue the request for one week failed to receive seconds and died.

At this week's meeting, Building Inspector Allan MacDonald said that neighbors have told him they had no notice of the meeting.

Police Chief Francis Finn said that some people are very much opposed to granting of the license.

Atty. L. Paul Marini, representing the center, said that since the license request was first made last year, problems involving gangs have been cleared up.

Marini also said that Ward Councillor James Sheets no longer has objections to granting of the license.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh asked that Marini have Sheets put his opinion in writing, or attend next week's meeting.

$40 Million Luxury Condos Planned

The Ricciardi Co. has announced plans to build a $40 million luxury condominium project with 350 units of two bedrooms each on the site of the Duane Wrecking and Steel Yard on the Town River Bay.

Paul Ricciardi, head of the Ricciardi Co., said work will start on the three buildings that will house the units on 12 acres in the spring of 1983 and will continue for three to five years.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said the Duane Co. has agreed to pay some $249,000 in back property taxes before title to the land is closed.

McCauley's administrative aide, Arthur Foley, said the new development will mean $1 million in taxes annually to the city.

based on 2 1/2 per cent of $40 million.

The condo units will be in the $90,000 to $100,000 price range, said Ricciardi.

City Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro called the proposal "definitely an asset. It will make for a much better situation. I think the people of Ward 2 will be very happy about it."

Stephen Ricciardi of the Ricciardi Co. said he has talked with a number of neighbors in the Southern Artery-River St.-Mound St. area and "they want to see an improvement like this in the area."

The land is currently zoned Industrial A and Planning Director James Lydon said a change is being asked to Planned Unit Development, which would give the City Council and the Planning Department input.

DeCristofaro said the plan will be discussed by Quincy Point residents at a meeting of the Ward 2 Civic Association Tuesday, May 11, at 8 p.m. in the Fore River Clubhouse.

Lydon said the Ricciardi project fits the recommendations of a Coastal Zone Management survey which saw space for a minimum of 125 units and a maximum of 300 units on the site.

He said the project will require two hearings each by the Planning Board and the City Council, first to change the zoning and then to approve the plan under PUD.

Plans for the development also include tennis courts, a swimming pool, landscaped common areas and possibly a marina on the Town River Bay.

'Office A Zoo' Gillis To Step Down From Parking Post

By TOM HENSHAW

John Gillis plans to resign as parking clerk of Quincy on July 1.

The extra job of collecting fines and penalties for back parking tickets, some of them dating back to 1978, has turned City Clerk Gillis' office into a zoo.

"It's been one constant headache since we took on the job Jan. 1," Gillis told The Quincy Sun.

"All the energies of this office have been on parking tickets. Nothing else. We are going whacky with phone calls. The arguments, you can't believe.

"We go home at the end of the day fighting among ourselves.

"I fully intend to resign as parking clerk of Quincy as of July 1 as soon as we get this backlog of tickets out of the way."

Gillis said that when the city took over the task of collecting parking fines from the district court in January there was a backlog of 119,000 tickets outstanding.

Notices have been sent out to about 30 per cent of the backlog to pay the $2 fine plus $5 penalty or face the loss of their registrations.

About $50,000 has been collected thus far.

"That's only the tip of the iceberg," said Gillis. "You can't believe how scared these people are that they are going to lose their registrations."

"And this is going to go on until the middle of July."

Help, but not much, may be on the way.

The City Council Tuesday night had on its agenda a $2,000 appropriation to hire a junior clerk from April 26 through June 30 to help out with the tickets.

One of Gillis' problems is that he can sympathize with the plight of those who have received notices for tickets they have long forgotten -- or may not have received in the first place.

Sixty of them passed through his office in City Hall on Tuesday alone, arguing, pleading, cajoling over the little slips of paper that could cost them their auto registrations.

"It's unfair," he said. "It's like a kangaroo court. There is no appeal unless you want to go to Superior Court and that will cost you $50 just to start.

"There should be some form of appeal.

"I had a guy in here the other day who didn't move to Massachusetts until 1979 and he had a ticket for 1978. Kids make a game of taking tickets off cars and tearing them up.

"Who remembers a ticket he got three or four years ago or a ticket he didn't even know he got at all?"

During the interview, there was a commotion outside Gillis' office.

A man's anguished voice could be heard saying:

"How long is he going to be? I'm parked at another parking meter now?"

The man worked for the Brintree School Department. The ticket was dated at 11 a.m. on a Monday in October, 1980. He hadn't been out of Brintree at 11 a.m. Monday morning in 30 years.

"I want to see the duplicate ticket," he demanded.

Gillis opened one of the inch-thick books of computer paper on his desk -- which could easily have contained 119,000 names and numbers -- and showed the man where he got the ticket.

"Impossible," said the man.

"Get an affidavit from the Brintree School Department and we'll see what we can do," said Gillis tiredly.

McCauley Sees Approval Of $24,250,000 School Budget

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday he expects the School Committee to pass a below line budget of $24,250,000 for fiscal 1983.

The School Committee, of which McCauley is chairman, was scheduled to take up the controversial budget for the final time at its meeting yesterday (Wednesday).

At the last meeting, some members of the School Committee added two administrators' jobs to the budget, forcing the final figure over $24,250,000, or costing the jobs of three teachers.

At the time, McCauley threatened to veto a City Council order which, in effect, permitted the School Department to carry a $350,000 surplus over from 1982 to 1983.

"I was concerned at the time," said McCauley, "that there was an attempt to bust the budget. I'm satisfied now that that is not the case.

"If any member of the committee wants to retain the two administrators and the three teachers then they will have to recommend another place to cut.

"The thing that I am concerned about is keeping the integrity of the bottom line."

McCauley said he hopes to be able to present a complete city budget, including both schools and general government, to the City Council at its Monday, May 3, meeting.

A 2-Ton Plea For Validated Parking

By JOHN NOONAN

That dauntless dabbler in delightful delirium, Sandy Rounseville of Beacon Fabrics, scored some more points in his second annual Patriots Day tilt against downtown Quincy parking meters.

Last year, Rounseville, dressed as Paul Revere, rode a horse down Hancock St. shouting, "The meter maids are coming!" to focus attention on parking problems and tickets in the shopping district.

Last Saturday, dressed again like Paul Revere, but, this time astride a two-ton elephant named "Nellie", Rounseville elephant-walked along Hancock St. at high noon, from his place of business to the new City Hall Plaza where he was greeted by Mayor Francis X. McCauley.

Rounseville presented McCauley with a petition signed by some 100 businessmen requesting a policy of validated parking for Quincy Center.

The merchants claim the present system of parking meters and ticketing for minor violations is driving customers away from Quincy stores.

Rounseville and his fellow petitioners received a receptive ear from McCauley, who campaigned last fall on a promise to change the system, and possibly get rid of the meters.

McCauley told the crowd gathered in front of City Hall that he was aware of the parking meter problems and had, coincidentally, scheduled a meeting this week on the matter.

He said he plans to explore the feasibility of asking bids on a contract for the creation of a validated parking system.

McCauley said he did not know at this time whether the proposal would include both the Hancock and Ross parking areas or just one area for a pilot study.

He expressed hope that the proposal would also include opening of the parking area comfort station, another project near and dear to "Comfortman" Rounseville.

When Rounseville started down Hancock St., he was armed with a mock parking meter that registered "violation".

From his high perch of Nellie he shouted: "The meters are going! The meters are going!" and he threw bags of peanuts to motorists and spectators who gathered along the route.

Also in the line of march were a nattily attired Peanutman and the one man "Bogus National Band of Butte, Mont."

Library Drive For $25,000 Starts With $7,000 Gift

A drive to raise $25,000 for a book detection system at the library won't be kicked off until April 30 but already it has $7,000 in the till.

The $7,000 was discovered by City Councillor Patricia Toland, chairman of the Library Committee, in a community development block grant and was transferred to the library by Planning Director James Lydon.

Council approval of the transfer was expected Tuesday night.

The Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library began the fund-raising drive for a book detector after stories appeared in The Quincy Sun about the heavy loss of books through theft.

The drive will be formally kicked off Friday, April 30, at 7:30 p.m. with a wine and cheese party at the main library on Washington St. Mayor Francis X. McCauley will serve as honorary chairman.

"Book Bobby" is the code name for the drive, which will include the sale of library T-shirts and "Book Bobby" buttons.

Director Warren Watson said that any person or firm making a substantial special gift to the fund will be recognized at the opening ceremony and receive an embossed acknowledgement card.

T-shirts and buttons will be given for smaller gifts.

Stolen Car Fire On Houghs Neck Dike

A car that had been reported stolen was set on fire early Saturday morning on the dike in back of Mr. Donut's, Sea St., Houghs Neck.

Berit E. Rousayne, 63 Pleasantview St., Braintree reported his car, a Volvo (Mass. Reg. 449-070), had been stolen from the Viking Club, Braintree.

Board Votes To Reconsider Bar Closing Hours

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The question of whether or not to roll back the hours of Quincy liquor establishments from 2 to 1 a.m. is once again before the License Board.

On a 4 to 0 vote Tuesday, the board agreed to reconsider the issue and to hold a hearing Tuesday, May 11, at 7 p.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall.

Car Theft

James R. Nee of Appleton St., North Quincy, reported to police Tuesday morning that someone stole his 1978 black Chevrolet Caprice from a parking spot near Dee Dee's Lounge, Newport St., Wollaston.

The fifth board member, Police Chief Francis Finn, did not attend the meeting.

City Clerk John Gillis stepped down as board chairman to make the motion to reconsider.

The motion was seconded by Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh who holds the deciding vote on the issue.

McKeogh had voted "present" when the issue first came up

March 30.

Fire Chief Edward Barry and Building Inspector Allan MacDonald voted in favor of the hours roll back. Gillis and Finn were opposed.

At that time, McKeogh had said that he needed more information on which to base his decision.

He says he now has that information.

Tom Burgin: 'Mr. Quincy'

Being mayor these days isn't fun time for Francis McCauley with Proposition 2½ cutbacks, school closings and layoffs.

But things could be worse.

It was no picnic when Thomas Skudder Burgin became mayor in 1935 at age 33 — one of the city's youngest chief executives in its history.

The press used to call him "the boy mayor" in those days because of his youth. The country was in a genuine depression and World War II was coming on top of it. Things were tough.

As Burgin once recalled after nearly four decades of service to Quincy including five terms as mayor:

"At the peak of the depression right here in Quincy, we had over 10,000 people on our relief rolls and 1,800 on WPA projects. This was probably the most depressing period I ever experienced in the Mayor's office."

Four secretaries could hardly keep up with the sad task of handing the long lines of unemployed each desperately wanting to personally talk to the mayor seeking his help.

"A 14-hour day in the mayor's office was not unusual," he remembered. "And many nights I went home heart-sick over the tragic cases I had encountered."

When the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, the still young mayor had the awesome worries of a city with a strategic shipyard that could be a target, too. A year later, he left to join the Navy.

Well, the boy mayor is now Quincy's elder statesman and calls himself "the old gray mayor".

Well, he is gray. And is a lot older — in years. But he's still young at heart — where it really counts. And, he still loves his Quincy. And, Quincy still loves him.

Last week, the affection in which he is held was quite evident when current Mayor McCauley kind of pulled a sly one on the former mayor. A nice, sly one though.

It was Burgin's 80th birthday and he was lured to a surprise party at City Hall by McCauley on the pretext that McCauley was going to give a briefing on city finances to the four former chief executives. And, maybe ask them for a little advice.

So that explained the presence of former Mayors Arthur H. Tobin, Joseph J. LaRaia, Walter J. Hannon and James R. McIntyre.

After chatting there for a while, Burgin was then taken down to the second floor conference room where he was told there was a council on aging meeting.

He walked through the door to a chorus of "Happy Birthday" and applause from more than 100 well wishers including former and present officials and long-time friends. And there was a big birthday cake for him to cut.

"It's been a tremendous experience. I've loved every bit of it," said Burgin referring to his five terms as mayor (1935-42 and 1950-51) among his near four decades of public service to Quincy including the city council and state senate.

"People will remember him for the excellent job he did for the citizens of Quincy," said Tobin.

"We all envied him for his composure," said LaRaia. "He set good examples."

"I hope," said Hannon, "that God is as good to me as he was to Tom when I am 80 years old."

McIntyre had this tribute:

"He is Mr. Quincy. I served on the City Council with him. He was the elder statesman to us at that time. He wore many hats but his actions were always in the best interests of the city of Quincy."

McCauley who hosted the affair noted: "It was the first time that five former mayors and the mayor ever rode together in the same elevator."

Which prompted Tobin to muse: "Six mayors alone in one elevator made me a little nervous. I thought we might be violating the open meeting law."

Burgin recalled that, on his 40th birthday, in 1942, his daughter, Claire, now Mrs. James C. Allen of Baltimore, looked up at him and said, "Gee, Daddy, do you realize that you're half of 80?"

"This morning," he said, "I said to myself, 'Now, I am 80!'"

He also recalled that when he ran for the City Council for the first time in 1924, he asked his father, the late Clarence Burgin for his advice.

"He said, 'Go ahead'. 'If you win, it will be a great experience. If you lose, the licking will do you good.'"

He won that election, becoming Ward 1 councillor at age 22. And he won every other election for the next 40 years except one. That was in 1962 when he lost his bid for re-election to the state senate when the district swung from Republican to Democratic.

He is Quincy's only mayor ever to run for re-election unopposed. That was in 1940.

That was quite a tribute 42 years ago. So was the one last week.

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Which of the following did not represent Quincy in the U.S. Congress: Richard Wigglesworth? John McCormack? James M. Curley?

2. What is the name of the coach of the Quincy High School girls softball team?

3. Hoover Ave is located in what section of the city?

4. True or false: Stephen J. McGrath is the only lawyer on the Quincy City Council.

5. What Quincy landmark is located at 33 Washington St.?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. William Grindlay is the acting auditor of Quincy.

2. Elcott Rd. is located in the Adams Shore section of Quincy.

3. False. Gridley Bryant was one of the developers of the Granite Railway in West Quincy, not a school superintendent.

4. The Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd is located at 308 West Squantum St., Montclair.

5. The Lincoln Theater was once located in Quincy Point.

Burgin Suggests Study Of Mayor's Salary

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Several years ago I called attention to the mediocre salary being paid to the chief executive officer of our municipal government as compared with several subordinates in the various city departments. Today the same situation exists and it seems only right that an equitable solution to the problem be undertaken through a comprehensive review of the situation.

From an entirely practical point of view, does it make sense that the mayor be paid substantially less -- and in some cases only half the amount paid to others within the government that he has the responsibility of managing and directing in its entirety? Actually the mayor's salary is $25,000, annually.

With the general economic conditions as they are, I certainly am not recommending a salary increase for this office at the present time. It does seem, however, that even now some consideration might well be given to a comprehensive review of the existing situation that would provide an intelligent and carefully worked out solution to the problem. At a later date it could be presented to the then city council for its consideration. Many times a hastily made decision isn't always a wise one!

In no way am I criticizing those who are paid more than the mayor, many of whom are and have been good friends of mine for years. Their salaries, in most cases, are regulated either by ordinance or by union contracts mutually agreed upon by the mayor and city council. Somehow the mayor's salary has been overlooked through nobody's particular fault.

This letter is not a recommendation to increase Mayor McCauley's salary at the present time. In my opinion he is doing his best to give our city a good administration under the most trying and difficult circumstances. He knows, as I do, that an increase in salary for either the mayor or the members of the city council cannot be enacted to take effect during the term to which they have been elected.

Let us look to the future, however, and at least be fair-minded regarding proper compensation for the office of mayor!

Thomas S. Burgin

P.S. To add a bit of good natured humor, -- there is no subterfuge in this letter. I am not a candidate for mayor! That happened 47 years ago when the salary was $5,000, annually -- and I won, thanks to ever-so-many good friends.

Let's Fight For Our Children's Education

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Let's join together and fight for our children's education. During the weeks of April 19 and April 16, a parent, school committee member, teacher, or school department member will knock on doors asking for your signature on two petitions sponsored by the Quincy City-Wide parents' Council.

One petition asks the Governor and State Legislature to give additional money to the City of Quincy. The second petition requests that the Mayor and City Council give 50 per cent of this additional money to the schools. Please show your support for quality education by signing both petitions and urging your neighbors to do the same.

A Tribute To Edward Rowe Snow

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

SOS (Save Our Shores) and all others who have a deep interest in preserving our country's natural beauty and heritage have lost a long time true friend for our causes in the passing of the noted story teller of fable, fact and mystery, Edward Rowe Snow.

Mr. Snow was indeed inspiring to SOS and other organizations in spreading the knowledge of the value of Boston Harbor and very influential in protecting the waterways for future generations.

The tale of the Lady in Black will be remembered and retold many times and the harbor's fame will never be forgotten. Also, think of all the lives Mr. Snow touched in just the thirteen years of the existence of SOS when he taught us to always respect the sea.

Let's hope that we shall remember all the things he taught us about famous old Boston Harbor and the Islands and remember him with deep affection.

Quincy's Yesterdays

By Tom Henshaw

Hedges Hits Poor Primary Voter Turnout

Only 2,795 of Quincy's 41,000 registered voters turned out for the presidential primary election and Rep. Charles W. Hedges called it a "sitdown strike" by voters against the state's primary election system.

The election cost Quincy about $5,400, or $2 for each vote cast.

Hedges and Sen. Mason Sears of Dedham, running as a team for district delegates to the Republican national convention, defeated Charles W. Williams of Brockton and A. Wendell Clark of Quincy.

Despite the low vote, the results were slow in coming in, largely due to the fact that three new precincts -- 6 and 8 in Ward 6 and 8 in Ward 1 -- had just been created to handle voter growth.

In other contests on the primary ballot:

William R. Abbott, representing the young Republicans against the Old Guard, defeated Louis K. Badger for the state committee post in the First Norfolk District.

Arthur L. Morris topped J. Girard White for the job of representing the district on the Democratic State Committee.

The Massachusetts Republican delegation to the convention was planning to cast its 35 votes for Sen. Leverett Saltonstall on the first ballot and switch to Rep. Joseph W. Martin on the second.

FIRST ORDINATION

The Rev. Lawrence J. Smith, 27, of 80 Plymouth St., South Quincy, was ordained to the Roman Catholic priesthood in St. John's Church, the first ceremony of its kind in Quincy.

Ordinarily, Fr. Smith would have been ordained with his classmates at St. Augustine's Seminary in Toronto but his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, was ailing and he wanted her to be on hand.

Special permission was given by the church to hold the ceremony in Quincy.

TRANSFERS TO POINT

School Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard told the School Committee that graduates of the Hunting School in Adams Shore may soon be sent to Point Junior High School to relieve overcrowding at Central.

PORTRAIT RESTORED

An 89-year-old portrait of Charles Francis Adams, the U.S. minister to England during the Civil War, was restored by the Norfolk County Trust Co. and hung in the lobby of the bank. Adams was the first president of the bank when it was the Mt. Wollaston Bank in 1853.

Mrs. Mary L. Butler Celebrates 90th Birthday

Mrs. Mary L. Butler, one of the first residents of Oceanview Apartments, which was built in Quincy almost 11 years ago, recently celebrated her 90th birthday.

A family luncheon was held in the Garden Room of the Whiton House, Hingham, and a reception for relatives and friends took place at Oceanview.

Among those on hand for the festivities were Mrs. Butler's son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Butler of Clearwater, Fla., and her daughter, Evelyn Downey from Largo, Fla.

Family members assisted

Mrs. Butler's daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Walsh of Wollaston, another daughter, Rena Butler of Wollaston, formerly of Dover, Del., and her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Butler of Dorchester, with preparations for the celebration.

One daughter, Mrs. Jeanne Anderson was unable to attend.

Born in Newfoundland, Mrs. Butler came to the U.S. as a special child.

She was the daughter of the late Mr. Samuel P. Goss who did hand work on special shoes for Thayer McNeil of Boston.

A former Dorchester resident, she was for many years a member of the Dorchester Mothers' Club, VFW Auxiliary #498, and the Cooties.

Wife of the late Mr. James P. Butler, she is the grandmother of the late Karen M. Anderson.

She has 11 grandchildren, 18 great grandchildren and one great great grandchild.

Mrs. Butler received birthday greetings from President and Mrs. Ronald Reagan and Rep. Brian Donnelly.

'Woman To Woman Day April 24

"Is there life after raising a family?"
"Is a job change possible in such a tight economy?"

The answers to these and other questions will be explored at the sixth annual Woman to Woman Day Saturday, April 24, at the Lincoln Hancock School, Water St., South Quincy.

The event, which begins at 8:45 a.m., is sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, Women's Center, Quincy Junior College, and the Quincy Cooperative Bank.

There will be six workshops, as well as a keynote address at 12:30 p.m. by South Shore columnist Kathleen Kroll who will discuss "Women and The Media."

Mrs. Kroll recently won a first place award in the editorial category from the Mass Media Women Association.

Ann Petter will be the speaker at a workshop on "Life change; entry or re-entry into the job market."

A career development counselor for various firms, she was formerly Department of Manpower Statewide Coordinator for Displaced Homemakers in Massachusetts.

Tips on self-assessment, resumes and other topics will be given.

An afternoon program, "Checking out the Situation", will focus on those who are working, and need or want a change.

Speaker will be Pat Whelan, a research and training specialist for Polaroid Corporation.

She had a master's degree in counselling and 10 years experience as a career specialist.

Miss Whelan will discuss the job market, where the greatest opportunities are, and how to identify and highlight job skills.

Other workshops will be offered on parenting, financial services, economic discrimination, and legal services.

Sandwiches will be offered at a nominal fee to benefit the Quincy Crisis Center. Participants can also bring their own lunches.

Quincy Cooperative Bank will sponsor a social at the Quincy Neighborhood Club after the day's programs.

20 Nurses Aides Certified

Pins, certificates and red roses were presented to 20 nurses aides who were graduated at the Robbin House Convalescent Home, Quincy, after completing a comprehensive certified nurses aide program.

The program, under the direction of Mrs. Flora Reed, evening supervisor, included the following graduates: Elizabeth Burns, Barbara Carroll, Laraine Doherty, Marion Failla, Lucy Frangipane, Sally Turman, Grace Gianno, Jeanne Goss, Lisa Henrys, Eleanor Larsen, Suzanne Larsen, Diane Malvesti, Karla Marsden, Rozalind Marshall, Rosemarie Martineau, Kathleen McLaughlin, Geraldine Newman, Lillian Viens and Kelli Wynands.

Staff members who attended were Arthur Quilty, administrator; Mrs. Velma Finn, director of R.N., day supervisor; Ellie O'Neil, activities director who decorated the facility for the occasion; and Vernon Mullalley, food service supervisor, who served a buffet luncheon to staff, relatives and friends of the graduates.

Lecture On Lasting Love At Christian Science Church

"Finding the love that cannot be lost" will be the subject of a free lecture by Rose M. Henniker-Heaton of Boston Tuesday, April 27, at 8 p.m. at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 20 Greenleaf St., Quincy Center.

Mrs. Henniker-Heaton sees the human desire for lasting love as natural, but also affirms that love that cannot be lost, necessarily has a spiritual basis.

Turning to both the Old and New Testament for an illustration, Mrs. Henniker-Heaton finds in the story of Ruth an example of this love. In the New Testament she finds the deepest expression of love in the life, healing works and teachings of Christ Jesus. Telling of a present-day healing through the realization that God is Love, Mrs. Henniker-Heaton says, "No matter how far from the tenderness of divine Love we may have seemed to stray, there is always a way back."

Recalling some of her own experiences, she explains that the expression of love is vital to the healing practice of Christian Science... "Let what Christian Science can show you about divine Love lift your individual understanding and experience of love onto a safe basis. Then you will find, no matter what occurs, that which is essential is never lost."

Mrs. Henniker-Heaton has been a Christian Science practitioner - helping others through prayer - for many years. As a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship she has traveled to many parts of the United States, as well as overseas. She will be introduced by William B. Ellington, president of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Quincy. Every-one is welcome.

Second Easter Service At Squantum Church

A second Easter service was celebrated Sunday morning at the First Church of Squantum.

The sermon, given by church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, was "Experience at Emmaus." Earlier he had spoken to the children on "Just Walking Along."

The Chancel Choir sang "The Lord's Prayer" by B. Cecil Gates as the anthem.

Greeters were Dorothy Abbe and Grace Holmes. The Fellowship Hour was hosted by Gloria Cutler, Fred MacMillan and Isabelle Preston.

Next Sunday, a panel of lay people will present a sermon called "The Importance of Other People." The service will begin at 10:15 a.m.

Please come and join us at a free public lecture entitled

Dear Quincy School Committee:

Thanks, but no thanks!

You wanted to demonstrate your independence, to put back personnel into Quincy's decimated schools. That's great!

Your choices? Restore three classroom teachers, of art, music, and physical education. Or restore two highly-paid main office administrators, who don't directly deal with children. Obvious, right? Restore people who teach our children, the heart and sinews of the system! But, no. The vote was to restore the two administrators. Well, no thanks!

We care more about children than political powerplays. We ask people who disagree with The School Committee's actions to call them. Tell them you want teachers, not central office administrators!

Quincy Cancer Crusade April 27

Richard J. Koch, general chairman of the Quincy Cancer Crusade Committee announces that 1,258 residents have volunteered to canvass their neighbors Tuesday, April 27 in the annual Cancer Crusade house to house solicitation.

They will deliver materials and seek donations in the interest of Cancer Research Programs, Education and Patient and Community Service Activities.

Additional volunteers are needed to assist for assignment in areas where former crusaders due to illness are unable to complete their assignment.

All ward, precinct chairmen and volunteers are invited to attend an organizational meeting tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. at the Park and Recreation Board Meeting Hall, 100 Southern Artery, Merry Mount Park.

Koch said the following ward chairmen had again volunteered to assist in the house to house drive on April 27.

Ward 1, Richard J. Koch Jr.; Ward 2, Theodore DeCristofaro; Ward 3, Mrs. Janet Crowley; Ward 4, David J. Donaghue; Ward 5, Joseph E. Burke; Ward 6, Mrs. Linda Bowes.

Crusade volunteers visiting the homes will be identified by badges designating the American Cancer Society.

Cable TV To Cover Run For Life Road Race

Quincy's cable television system will cover the annual Run For Your Life 5-mile road race Sunday, April 25, with the showing on home screens scheduled for a later date.

The race, which is designed to raise money for scholarships and medical equipment, starts Sunday at 12 noon at the Long Island Hospital, finishing at the Atlantic Junior High School.

Some of the notable entries include Sen. Paul D. Harold, City Councilors Stephen McGrath and Richard J. Koch, Jr. and Peter Kenney, the mayor's executive secretary. They will run.

Walking entries include Mayor Francis X. McCauley and his administrative assistant, Arthur Foley.

As of Monday, there were more than 100 pre-registered runners, many more than last year, and applications were still available from Richard Meade, 31 Greene St., Wollaston, 773-5329.

Already $1,000 in contributions have been received, including:

$500 from Boston Gas Co. (in its fourth year as a primary sponsor); $100 from the Bryan VFW Post; $100 from the Quincy Savings Bank; $50 from the Hancock Bank; $50 from the South Shore Bank; $50 from the O'Connell Brothers; and $50 from Boston Harbor Marina Industries.

Trophies will be presented to the first three finishers in the race, male and female, as well as to the first three men and women in the following categories:

Age 18 and under; 19 to 29, 30 to 39, 40 to 49, 50 to 59 and 60 and over. T-shirts will be presented to all participants.

Science Fair At St. Joseph School

St. Joseph School students in grades five to eight will present a Science Fair Monday, April 26, and Wednesday, April 28, 2-4 and 7-9 p.m., in the school hall.

The fair is under the direction of Mary Reardon, science instructor at the school.

Students will present projects in the areas of earth science, space, life in the future, diseases, and drugs.

The Science Fair is open to all.

Local Students Eligible For Dennis Ryan Essay Contest

Students from social studies classes in high schools in Quincy and surrounding towns are invited to submit essays in the Dennis F. Ryan Essay Contest.

The contest has been established in memory of the recently deceased clerk of court, and is being conducted in conjunction with the observation of Law Day at Quincy Court May 4.

Essays should address the students' understanding of the meaning of Law Day, and the role the law plays in the community. A finalist from each high school will be recognized at Law Day ceremonies at the court and will receive a savings bond. Assistant Clerk/Magistrate

John Dalton of Quincy Court is coordinating the contest. In addition to Quincy, students are eligible from Braintree, Weymouth, Cohasset, Randolph, Milton, and Holbrook.

Dental Corner by

Lee A. Welky, D.M.D.

SOLVING THE PUZZLE

Q: I have a toothache - but which tooth is it?

A: The job of a dentist may seem fairly obvious. The patient has a painful tooth. The dentist finds the bad tooth, and treats it. Simple.

Unfortunately, there are so many nerves around the mouth that the pain impulse may get jumbled on its way to the brain. Often, the discomfort seems to come from an area some distance from its real source. This phenomenon is called referred pain, and occurs in many areas of the body. For instance, heart attack victims often feel pain first in their arm, neck or jaw.

Pain from a bad tooth can seem to arise in front or behind it, or even from the opposite jaw. The ache from a lower tooth may seem to come from the ear; a bad upper tooth can mimic sinus problems (and vice versa).

Sometimes the dentist must be a detective to find out what is really wrong and utilize special investigative tools such as X-rays.

16 Buildings To Be Razed For Burgin Parkway Extension

Bids are scheduled to be opened April 27 for the demolition of 16 buildings standing in the path of the proposed Burgin Parkway extension in South Quincy, announces Senator Paul Harold.

The contract for the work, expected to cost about $78,000, will involve razing the buildings in the path of the extension and filling in the cellar-holes with an estimated 10,000 cubic yards of fill.

Harold said the buildings are in the Penn St., Quincy St., Liberty

St., Water St., and Marr St. area. The project is 90 per cent reimbursable by federal funds.

After the bid openings and the contract award, work should begin this summer, with the target completion date set for Nov. 30, Harold said.

Benefit Dance Saturday For Frank Eddy

The Quincy Underwater Recovery Team and the Civil Defense Volunteers will hold a benefit dance for their ailing colleague, Frank Eddy, Saturday, April 24, from 7 p.m. to 12 midnight at the Fore River Clubhouse.

Eddy, father of three young children and a member of the Civil Defense Agency for more than 10 years, is paralyzed as a result of an automobile accident in 1981.

The committee in charge of the benefit includes Anthony Siciliano, deputy director of CD; John Blackadar, dive chief of the underwater team; James Walker, assistant dive chief; and Dave Clancy, president of the South Shore Neptunes.

Tickets may be obtained from the Civil Defense office, 472-6118, or at the door.

Mound St. Beach Cleanup May 8

A community cleanup of Mound Street Beach and Fore River Field areas will be held on Saturday, May 8, at 10 a.m. All volunteers will meet at the beach.

Roger Danner, Robert LaFleur and cub scouts from Troop 17, along with members of the Ward 2 Civic Association will take part.

There will be receptacles available. Those helping are asked to wear gloves because most of the debris is glass.

Granite Grange To Celebrate 60th Anniversary

The 60th anniversary of Granite City Grange #368 will be observed at a meeting Monday, April 26, at the Fore River Clubhouse, 14 Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

Dinner will be at 6:30 p.m., followed by entertainment at 8 p.m.

Guest speaker will be Mass. State Overseer Kenneth Skinner.

NEW HEADQUARTERS of Quincy Cooperative Bank retains the Colonial brick-style flavor of the old Quincy Motor Co. building on Quincy Ave., while adapting to functional use as a bank. Note the three-bay drive-through for speedy deposits and withdrawals at the right. (Susan DeGregorio/B. Hitt Photo)

Quincy Cooperative Bank Moves Into New Headquarters

The Quincy Cooperative Bank, which began 93 years ago in a rented hall, has moved into spacious new headquarters at 85 Quincy Ave., just south of downtown Quincy.

John R. Herbert, the bank's president, called the move a vote of confidence in the city of Quincy and the future of cooperative banking at a time of thin economy.

"We believe that Quincy Ave. south from Elm and School Sts. is one of the major areas of the city with true growth potential," said Herbert.

"We hope our investment in our new headquarters will be regarded as our conviction that this great growth potential for the area will be achieved."

The formal opening of the headquarters will be celebrated Friday, May 7, the 93rd anniversary of the banks founding, at 10 a.m. The bank is currently open for business.

The opening days will feature gifts, premiums and special awards with Saturday, May 8, reserved for local craftsmen who will demonstrate weaving, blacksmithing, chair-making and pottery.

The new headquarters is on the site of the former Quincy Motor Co. at Quincy Ave. and Water St. with the Colonial brick-style exterior and its distinctive rotunda designed by architect Joseph A. Donahue.

The bank's old headquarters at 1259 Hancock St., next to the Quincy Center MBTA station, will remain as the Quincy Square office. There are now six bank locations and about 20 employees will be added to the staff.

"There are those in banking who may wonder why we have embarked upon such an extensive development program at this time when thrift institution profitability is low to non-existent," said Herbert.

"We have faith in the future of banking, especially thrift banking, as we see our new headquarters as a means by which stable growth and superior customer service can be assured for years to come.

"Because of that same stability and growth we simply outgrew our main office in Quincy Square.

"We have always prided ourselves on customer service, but there were days when it became obvious that we needed better facilities to provide that service.

"We are sure that the new headquarters will provide the space and convenience for that service, now and in the future.

"The past few weeks have seen our assets go over the $150 million mark. Seven years ago our asset total was under $90 million. Such a steady growth, achieved without a merger, is the best evidence we have of the confidence the public has in this bank."

At the Water St. end of the building, Architect Donahue removed the auto service bays and replaced them with a triple drive-through banking facility.

At the other end of the building, part of the former repair area has been redesigned into a large banking lobby with arched windows.

The rotunda space, formerly the automobile showroom, has become the loan and mortgage service office.

The rotunda is historic in itself. When Ford Motor Company designed the building for George A. Daley Jr., the agency owner, it based the rotunda design on Ford headquarter's Dearborn, Mich., a design that had been used as the Ford theme building at an earlier world's fair.

Also historic, in a very human way, is the two-acre site of the new bank headquarters.

Many older residents of Quincy will remember the lot at the corner of Quincy Ave. and Water St. as the place where the circus raised its tents when it came to town in the late spring or early summer.

History, too, has been designed into the new bank. The new central door on Quincy Ave has been set off with polished granite columns from the former home of one of Quincy's most distinguished granitemen, Jonathan S. Swingle. A New England cupola, with its weathervane in the form of an old Quincy stone sloop, enhances the peaked roof over the lobby area.

General contractor for the reconstruction was Clark & Smith of Quincy.

Quincy Cooperative Bank customers will find that the new headquarters has been designed for convenient, personal service. In addition to the three-bay drive-through for speedy deposits and withdrawals, there is an easy-access, 95-car parking plaza next to the main banking lobby.

In the lobby, reached from both the Quincy Ave. entrance and the parking plaza, there are customer service desks beside the fan-paned windows, and there are teller stations along the opposite wall.

The rotunda area and the safe deposit rooms have access from the main lobby and the Quincy Ave. door. The safe deposit vault is on street level.

With the opening of this new headquarters, Quincy Cooperative

Bank has six offices. Three are in Quincy: 85 Quincy Ave., 1259 Hancock St., and the limited services office at 1000 Southern Artery.

The others are in Braintree at Tedeschi's Plaza, 280 Grove St.; in Cohasset at Tedeschi's Plaza on Route 3A, and in Hanover at the junction of Routes 53 and 139.

Newbury Liquor Transfer Continued One Week

The Quincy License Board voted Tuesday to continue for one week a request for transfer of the license for Newbury Liquor & Wine, Inc., 66 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

The matter was continued to allow the board to assess the condition of the building where the business is located.

Atty. William Hurley told the board the business, which will go by the same name, will be managed by Frederick J. Hamel.

Rev. Arthur Curtis, of neighboring Memorial Congregational Church of Atlantic, asked the board if the situation will improve with license transfer.

"The situation has not always been very good," said Rev. Curtis.

"Kids hang out and wait for people to come by and buy liquor for them."

Rev. Curtis said that he has picked up a barrel of beer cans from the front lawn of the church, and also complained of "radios blaring and people relieving themselves."

Hamel said that he will work hard to improve the situation. "I want the business to go," he said.

License Board Briefs

The Quincy License Board took the following action at Tuesday morning's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted a permit for one table video game to Mrs. Stacie R. Kelley of Roman Gardens, 653 Southern Artery. The board is to be notified if the location of the video game is changed.

- Postponed to next week, at the request of applicant Edmund J. Coletta, a hearing on a Motor II (used car) license for Coletta Bros. North Quincy, Inc., 260

Hancock St.

- Approved change of manager of SSB Realty Inc., 1776 Heritage Drive, from Andrew L. Carnegie to Robert Mahoney, 70 Sherman St.

- Continued for two weeks a request from Wollaston Motors, 60 Beale St., for a Motor II license. The location was formerly used by C. A. Cox with a Motor I (new car) license.

Applicant Donald Evans is to clean the lot, and to bring proof that legal non-conforming use of the license has not expired.

- Granted a one day all alcoholic license to the Committee to Elect Robert O. Flynn for Clerk of Courts for a political fundraiser May 8, 8 p.m. to midnight, at the Quincy Armory.

- Granted a request from Joseph A. Papaz of Econo Car Rental System of the South Shore, Inc., 459 Southern Artery, for a Motor II license.

No more than six cars are to be displayed at one time.

3rd Grade Added To Books Program

The South Shore Chapter of the National Conference of Christians and Jews has added another grade level to its "Books for Brotherhood" program.

Director Arline J. Rand told chapter members at their spring meeting that third graders have joined students through grade nine in the program designed to encourage reading about different cultures.

The meeting at the Neighborhood Club in Quincy was hosted by John R. Herbert, chapter chairman and president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank.

Quincy Rallies, 8-6

Quincy baseball coach Bud Mosher went after his 100th coaching victory Tuesday when the Presidents faced Weymouth North.

Quincy will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin today (Thursday) at 10:30 at Adams Field and Monday will be home to Newton North at 3:30.

The Presidents, after having two games postponed because of the weather, finally got under way last week. Trailing, 4-0, after five innings, Quincy exploded for six runs in the sixth inning and added two in the seventh to defeat Weymouth North, 8-6.

It was expected the Quincy coach would reach the 100-win plateau last season, needing only five, but the Presidents could win only three games.

"I'm very pleased," Mosher said after the opening day win. "The boys finally gave up thinking about the long ball and started going for singles."

Despite this, it was a two-run homer to deep right-center by Bob Mudge that gave Quincy a 6-4 lead.

With two outs and two on in the inning, Bob Ready walked to load the bases.

Jim Bandera drove in two runs with a single and Jim DiPietro doubled home two more to tie the score at 4-4. Then came Mudge's two-run homer.

Weymouth came back with a run in the bottom of the sixth but Quincy clinched it with two in the top of the seventh. Weymouth added one in the bottom half.

"(Billy) Harris looked really good," Mosher said of his starting pitcher. Harris, who threw only 47 pitches in the four innings he worked, told the coach he was losing it a little and Mark Rooney came on in the fifth and Andy Eames relieved in the sixth and retired the last five batters.

"I'm still not sure of our pitching situation," Mosher said. "But I was very pleased with the base running and we came up with some key plays in the infield. The key to our success this season will be our flexibility." —TOM SULLIVAN

North Drops Opener To Brockton, 13-7

North Quincy's inexperienced baseball team had the misfortune to open against a veteran Brockton team last week and was defeated, 13-7, in a Suburban League game.

The Raiders played Weymouth North Tuesday, will be at Waltham today (Thursday) at 10:30, will visit Weymouth South Monday at 3:30 and will be on the road again Wednesday at Newton North at 3:30.

"I started a lot of young kids and it was too bad we had to face a team with such experience and depth as Brockton," Coach Charlie Bunker said. "Brockton is loaded and has several players at every position. They have so many players to put in there that they will be just as strong no matter who plays."

North fell behind, 3-0, but tied it at 3-3. Brockton then went on to take an 8-3 lead and the Raiders fought back to make it 8-7, but the pitching then collapsed and the Boxers won going away.

Dwayne Wilcoxon had two hits and an RBI for North. Bob McElaney drove in a run with a hit and sophomore Steve Hogan was on base three times. He also threw a runner out at the plate.

Junior Bob O'Brien, one of the few North veterans, played a excellent game at shortstop. —Tom Sullivan

9 Top Winners In HN Marathon

Nine top winners received awards from the Houghs Neck Legion Post in the annual Patriot's Day marathon Sunday.

Eighty Houghs Neck runners, ages four to 43, took part.

Winners were Dennis Murphy and Francis Gregorio, men over 30 years; Linda Mortimer, women over 25 years; Randy Crombie, Bill Dalton and Bob Vecchione, men, 20-30; Carolyn Armstrong, women 15-25; Tom Elmore and Vin Servaes, men, 15-19.

John Duffy, athletic chairman, and Commander John Christensen conducted the event.

Morrisette Baseball Reunion May 21

Morrisette Legion Post will hold its second baseball reunion Friday night, May 21, at the post home at 54 Miller Street with all former players from the first team in 1945 to the present invited.

Happy hour will be from 6 to 7 o'clock and dinner at 7.

A year ago the post held its first reunion with more than 100 former players, including most of the 1945 team, present. Also present were the members of the 1975 team which went to the Legion World Series after winning the Zone 6 and Northeast Regional titles.

The committee includes Chairman Frank Osborne, coaches Ray Cattaneo, Connie Carlizzi and Bill Corcoran, Athletic Officer John Doucette, Comdr. Robert LaFleur, Past Comdrs. George Nicholson, Mario Chilardi and Larry Visco, former coaches Nick Malvesti and Bruno Carloni and Bob Osborne.

Reservations will close May 1 and no tickets will be sold at the door. Reservations can be made by calling Frank Osborne at 773-5436.

North Girls Pull Out Rare Track Tie

For three years the North Quincy girls' track teams have dominated the Suburban League and Weymouth South has always been right behind.

North Coach Lou Tozzi said his Raiderettes, unbeaten in league competition last spring, were facing the best in the league last week when they opened against Weymouth South.

Tozzi's prediction was borne out when North Quincy had to win the final event, the mile relay, to pull out a rare 59-59 tie in the opener for both teams.

Next Tuesday North will host another league power, Brockton, at 3:15 at Veterans' Memorial Stadium.

When Weymouth won the 440 relay last week, it took a 59-54 lead into the mile relay, the final event on the program. But the Raiderettes came through in 4:18.3 to get the tie.

The winning team comprised Mary Kate Kennedy, Nancy McCarthy, Mary Gannon and Lisa Reynolds.

Michelle Millane was a double winner for the Raiderettes, taking her specialty, the discus, with a toss of 130-2, and also winning the javelin at 113-9.

North's Deirdre Donovan won the 100 in 11.8, Mary Kate Kennedy was second in the 220, Karen Lindenfelzer won the 440 in 61.1, Nancy McCarthy won the half mile in 2:21.3, Sheila Barrett won the mile in 5:19, a school record; Linda Kennedy won the two-mile in 11:54.9, and Maria McGurl was third in the hurdles.

Kara Crehan won the high jump at 5 feet, ¼ inch with Georgia Traficante third, Mary Kate Kennedy was third in the long jump, Eileen Crehan was second in the javelin, Kathy McCarthy second in the shot put and Lindenfelzer third in the discus.

"Weymouth South is really strong and we trailed by as many as 17 points," said Tozzi. "I'm happy at the way the girls fought back and I feel good about getting a tie."

Saturday the Raiderettes won two events in the Boston College Relays.

North won the 1600-meter relay in 4:04.9, beating its nemesis, Falmouth, with Mary Kate Kennedy, Nancy McCarthy, Lindenfelzer and Donovan.

The Raiderettes also won the 3200-meter relay in 9:32.9, again beating Falmouth, with Mary Kate Kennedy, McCarthy, Barrett and Linda Kennedy.

Quincy Girls Track Team Off To Good Start

The Quincy girls' track team got off to a good start last week, defeating Waltham, 62-56, in a Suburban League meet.

John Franceschini's team will be at Weymouth North next Tuesday.

The Quincy girls took eight first places in their best start in some time, led by Jeannie Sandomato, who won the high jump and broke the school record in winning the low hurdles in 17.8.

Sophomore Beth Anderson won the shot put and was third in the discus and the hurdles.

The sprints are again Quincy's strong point with Darlene Marston, Susan Murray, Kris Picarski, Theresa Monroe, Lenore Salvaggio, Julia Hannon, Susan Beven and Nancy McDougall should give the opposition plenty of trouble.

Marston won the 100 against Waltham and Picarski won the 220.

"Darlene and Kris are league all-stars and should have tremendous seasons," Franceschini said.

The field events contain a fine blend of upper classmen and youth.

Seniors Lisa Zannis and Jacqui Irvine bring three years of varsity experience to lead the group which also comprises Cindy Morrell, Kathy Pratt, Beth Anderson, Janine Taglieri and Annmarie Trubiano.

At Waltham Quincy took four of five first places with Anderson winning the shot put, Murray the long jump, Zannis the javelin and Sandomato the high jump.

Senior Andrea Brown leads a young distance team with Denise Wright, Andrea Garofalo and Michelle Pitts giving the First Ladies good strength in the mile and two-mile.

Senior Chris Irvine tops a fine middle distance group that also includes Franny Brown, Paola Pietrantozzi, Ruth Gallagher, Tricia O'Toole, Corinne Caflesch, Nancy Martin, Maryellen Monahan, Diane Theoharous, Micky Dauphinee and Kathy Doherty.

"This year's team is the hardest working group I've had and it is the girls' hard work and dedication that will lead to its success," said Franceschini.

The assistant coaches are Jim Piccini and volunteer Joe Irvine.

Error-Prone North Falls To Quincy

Three North Quincy errors helped account for five Quincy runs in the first two innings and the Presidents went on to beat the Red Raiders, 6-4, behind the fine pitching of big Don Lundin.

Lundin set the Raiders down in order over the first three innings and allowed only three infield hits during the six innings he was on the mound. Paul Landstrom finished up.

Two errors and base hits by Al Halloran and Jack McDermott were good for two runs in the first. Joe Hughes and Don Babbitt walked and came home in the second on Jerry Panarelli's double. Panarelli scored on an error.

Lefty Bill (Swede) Ericson went the distance for North Quincy, allowing only six hits, but he walked four and his teammates committed five errors behind him.

Sid Cedrone, Paul McGuigan, Dick Worthley, George Johnson and Ed Bohannon had North's five hits off Lundin and Landstrom.

The Quincy lineup: Panarelli 2b, Pineau 2b, Gambino ss, Lints ss, Halloran rf, Sacchetti, McDermott c, Kennedy lf, Doyle lf, Hughes 3b, Salvaggi 3b, Babbitt 1b, Campbell 1b, Gosselin cf, Lundin p, Landstrom p.

MCALL SEES PLAYOFFS BERTH

George McCall, the volatile manager of Greer's who was named the top pilot in the South Shore League in 1947, said he sees his team making the playoffs for the third straight year with a boost in pitching.

McCall was looking to the return of southpaw Jim Hanabury, who lost most of the 1947 season with a knee injury. Lefty Art LaRue, Al Freiberg and John Lane to bolster his mound staff.

Sponsorship of the team, which was formerly the Fore River Sagamores, recently was taken over by Robert Greer, who turned out winning Clan MacGregor soccer teams in the 1930s.

WILSON WINS 14TH

Jackie Wilson, the southpaw welterweight from Quincy, extended his professional boxing record to 14 straight wins with a six-round split decision over Ceferino Bronco of Fall River at Boston Arena.

Wilson easily won the first three rounds and then was forced to defend himself against a ferocious body attack by Bronco, who was substituting for Billy Ketchell of Newark, N.J.

OCTATHLON RECORD SET

Capt. Alden Powers totaled 700 points, the highest in the history of the event, in winning the annual spring track and field octathlon at North Quincy High School.

Powers, who left runnersup Warren Holmberg and Gilbert Strobel far behind, won the 220-yard dash and the high jump in becoming the first man to score in every event since 1935.

COMMERCIALISM OUT

Walter A. Brown, head of the Boston AA, told the weekly luncheon meeting of the Quincy Rotary Club that, as far as he is concerned, the Boston Marathon will never submit to commercialization.

"We want the race to continue to be the greatest free show on earth," he said, noting that it had been proposed that the 26-mile, 385-yard race should end in one of the major league baseball parks.

CEDRONE ALL STAR

Sid Cedrone, the flashy forward from North Quincy High School, was named to the Boston Garden all-scholastic basketball team along with Andy Farrissey of Duxbury, John Powers of Mission and Dick Lionette of Everett.

FAIELLA OUTSTANDING

Lou Faiella, the amateur lightweight from Quincy, ran his winning streak to 13 fights by knocking out George Shanahan of Lowell in the first round of their scheduled three rounder in Lowell City Hall.

GOLFERS WIN

Coach Jack Donahue's North Quincy High School golf team, parked by Fordie Pitts and Ken Campbell, blanked Walpole, 9-0, in the Norfolk County League opener at Wollaston Golf Club.

BRITT SPEAKER

Jim Britt, who broadcasts the Boston Braves and Red Sox games on radio, was the headline speaker at "Lads 'n Dads" Night at Remicks, where the Ted Williams movie "Swing King" also was shown.

SPORTS BITS '48

Eero (Whitey) Ruuttila of South Quincy struck out 15 as his Wheaton, Ill., College baseball team walloped Concordia, 11-0... The School Committee gave North Quincy football coach Jack Donahue a raise from $500 to $700 a year for his coaching chores... Danny Litwiler pounded out three hits and drove in four runs as the Boston Braves trampled the Philadelphia Phillies, 10-4.

Quincy Team 3rd In National Gym Meet

The Somersault Center boys' gymnastics team of Quincy recently finished third in the National Boys' Invitational Championship meet in Philadelphia. Quincy finished behind the host Pennsylvania team and the Eastern Gymnastics Team from New York.

The Top 10 boys' teams in the country were invited and other entries were from New Mexico, Georgia, Michigan and the West Coast.

Representing Quincy were

Carlton Noble, John Hill, Mark Arnold and Gerry Haran. Their goal was to finish in the top five and the third place finish was a big plus.

In the 13-15 age group in the individual meet Noble stole the show as he finished second on pommel horse, fourth on rings, second on p-bars, fifth on high bar and finished second all-around with a 49.6 total. Haran placed fourth on pommel horse, first on high bar, eighth on rings, ninth on p-bars and was seventh all-around at 46.4.

In the 16-18 division Arnold and Hill competed against 90 other boys. Arnold was seventh on pommel horse and ninth on rings. Hill was 12th on pommel horse, 13th on rings and seventh in vaulting.

The Quincy team is now shooting for the USGF championship meets and is trying to better its rankings over last year.

Information regarding the Center can be obtained by calling 328-9405 after 3 p.m.

Mullen Runs 4th Boston Marathon

Quincy Police Lt. Frank Mullen ran his 17th marathon and fourth Boston Marathon Monday, finishing in three hours, 13 minutes.

"I was a little disappointed in my time, but the heat was terrific after a while," he said. "Many runners had to drop out because of the heat."

John Furey, a former Quincy High distance runner, finished 463rd in 2:39.05, a fine showing for him.

George Hitt of Milton, who has run numerous races in Quincy, had an excellent race, finished 95th in 2:26.37.

Atherton Hough Elementary Girls Tourney Champs

Atherton Hough Center received six second half points from Wendy Sterling and pulled away from Montclair Center to capture the Quincy Recreation Department's girls' elementary basketball championship, 17-8.

Atherton Hough combined excellent team defense with Maureen Lyons, Beth Rudolph, and Debbie Hall hustling in full court pressure that bothered the Montclair team all evening. Coach Marjorie Christiani utilized her entire squad to keep fresh players on the floor in all four quarters.

Keli Ryan, Renee Guara and the Morrell sisters, Patti and Gayle, all contributed to the strong team defense. Kerry Steel was hot hand in the first half with four points while Karen Craig and Julie McClocke dominated the offensive boards. Krisa Concannon, Kim Robertson, and Katie Hardy also came up with key steals and forced jump balls all evening long.

Cindy McInnis also played well on the Montclair side, it was a gallant start that saw it take an early lead on two Beth Bunker free throws and two hoops from Nancy Flukes so they were ahead at the half, 6-2. Debbie Early, Stephanie Osgood and Chris Ferrara showed fine all-around play that kept Atherton off the score boards. Coach Sara Lee Cobban used Melissa Miles and Cheryl Brandolini to keep up full court pressure in a substitute role. Atherton was forced to work for all its points. During the see-saw third period Sheila Comeau and Lee Fitzgerald showed some fine offensive moves but could not get the ball to drop. Stacey Welch chipped in with some key rebounds on both ends of the floor, while Karrie Pistorino demonstrated fine ball handling skills.

The tournament was a single elimination event and started with eight teams representing recreation centers from all areas of the city. It is conducted as an adjunct to the 25-week winter recreation program which concludes with the tournament games. Over 115 girls participated in this year's tournament.

Recreation Director Barry Welch presented members of the Montclair team with runner up certificates. Coach Cobban was assisted by Michelle Cuervels, a volunteer junior leader.

Welch then presented championship trophies to members of the Atherton Hough team.

Wollaston Legion Tryouts

Wollaston Legion will hold baseball tryouts Saturday at 9:15 a.m. at O'Rourke Field and Sunday at 1 p.m. at Merrymount Park.

Coaches Dick Travis and John Belcastro announce that all boys born after Aug. 1, 1963, are eligible to try out.

Bowling

Little Loop Leads In State Championships

After two days of competition in the Mass. Bowling Association state candlepin championships at the Crowell Bowl in Stow, the Quincy Bowling Little Loop junior team (13 years and under) and the seniors (14 to 16) are leading, the juniors with a 1438 total and the seniors with a 1577 score.

Brian Flanagan, Quincy's junior team captain, provided the tournament highlights. Bowling with a badly bruised finger on his right hand, the result of a baseball injury, he rolled a 317 to put a five-string 527 on the board to top all the junior singles entries. His first string 127 in the team competition is also a tournament high.

Saluti, Guerriero Tied In St. John's League

Bob Saluti has moved into a tie for first place with Dick Guerriero in St. John's Holy Name Bowling League with a 110.3 average.

The rest of the Top Ten: Lou Faiella, 107.5; Mike Panarelli, 106.9; Ed Linehan, 106.7; Jim Mastrantonio, 103.6; Dick DiRamo, 102.4; Tom Darcy, 99.6; Joe Matarazzo, 99.6, and Mike Guerriero, 97.4.

Saluti rolled the weekly high single of 138 and Mike Guerriero and Darcy had 124. Faiella had the high three of 348 and Saluti had 337.

Linehan's team had the high team single of 514 and Saluti's team rolled 502. Linehan's team also had the high three of 1501 and Dan Mastro's team had 1471.

Harley Jordan's team leads the league with a 46-26 record and total pinfall of 17,329, followed by Darcy, 42-30 (17,150); Dick Guerriero, 37-35 (17,472); Saluti, 34-38 (17,299); Linehan, 30-42 (17,253), and Mastro, 27-45 (17,517).

Lombardi Team Widens Koch Women League Lead

Three weeks of bowling remain in the Koch Club Woman's Bowling season and Barbara Lombardi and her teammates have strengthened their hold on first place with a 54-26 record.

They are followed by Linda Carpenter, 46-34, Edie Maher, 45-35, Debra Koch, 44-36, Denise Nolan, 40-40, Charlotte Joseph, 39-41, June Hillier, 34-46 and Jan Marnell, 18-62.

June Hillier has the high average of 102.1. Also in the top 10 are Debbie Koch, 100.3, Linda Bowes, 96.9, Maureen Robertson, 94.8, Edie Maher, 91.9, Shirley MacNeil, 91.7, Diane Johnston, 90.7, Pat Murphy, 90.7, Carol Johnson, 90.5 and Denise Nolan, 90.4.

June Hillier and Debra Koch the one, two leaders in scoring are also high in other categories with most spares 136 and 128 respectively and best total strikes 27 and 24.

Linda Bowes has the best solo high three string total of 336 while June Hillier and Lil Cincotta share the best single string honors with identical 136 marks.

Debra Koch's group has the league's high team single string of 593 while Jan Marnell's unit has the best team three string total of 1658.

The league will hold its 27th annual awards banquet and dance May 28, at 7 p.m. at the Squantum Yacht Club with members and guests invited to attend.

Officers of the League include: Maureen Robertson, president; Pat Murphy, secretary and Ellen McAdams, treasurer.

Women are welcome to join as members for the 1982-83 season and may visit any of the bowling sessions Thursday evenings at 8:30 p.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys.

Smith Paces Merchants

Doug Smith leads the South Shore Merchants Bowling League with a 120 average, followed by Ron Johnston, Jim Boyd and Mike Valenti at 119.

Rounding out the Top Ten are Bob Donahue, 118; Bob McDonough, 115; George Verlicco, 112; Ken Hanson, 112; Don Stetler, 111, and Tom Griffin, 111.

Verlicco rolled both the weekly high single of 143 and the high three of 395.

The standings: The Cornerstone, 57-27; Yellow Cab, 50-34; South Shore Music, 49-35; Copeland Package, 47-37; Giudici Builders, 46-38; South Shore Auto Spring, 40-44; Purity Supreme, 38-46; T-Shirt Factory, 38-46; Monte Carlo Associates, 37-47; South Shore Vending, 36-48; Matt's Villa, 36-38, and Wells Grille, 34-50.

SMOKING, MATCHES AND FIRE

Smoking and matches are the primary causes of house fires which kill thousands of persons each year and result in millions of dollars of property losses. The first line of defense is to avoid these fire hazards in the home. Here are a few:

Use large, deep ashtrays, and never smoke in bed or in a chair when drowsy.

Make sure matches, cigarettes, cigars, and pipe ashes are completely cold before throwing them out.

Never use a match or smoke near flammable liquids or in places such as attics or closets or near stacks of paper.

Be careful that burning cigar or cigarette and pipe embers do not fall into crevices of upholstered furniture where they can smolder without being detected.

Use safety matches and strike a match away from you. Remove one match from the box or folder at a time, and close it before striking.

QJC In 4-3 Opening Win

By PETE ZOIA

The Quincy Junior College baseball team, which started off with a 4-3 victory over Wentworth Institute last week, has an easy week this week, with only a practice game with North Quincy High scheduled for yesterday (Wednesday).

However, the Jaguars have a tough week coming up with five games next week. Dave Burke's team will host Blue Hills Technical Tuesday at 3:30 and Wentworth Thursday, both at 3:30 at O'Rourke Field. The Jaguars will be at Bridgewater State Friday at 3:30 and will play a doubleheader Saturday at Blue Hills starting at 10 a.m.

Outstanding pitching by starter Bruce Tobin and Bob Brill led QJC to its opening day victory. Tobin hurled four innings, giving up three hits and striking out six. Brill, who had been the designated hitter, gave up two hits in his three innings and also contributed a key single.

Brian Condon came through with two hits, including a triple. He missed almost the entire season last spring with a leg injury. Two former Quincy High stars, Gary DiNardo and Tom Canavan, had triples.

Catcher Steve Picot picked two runners off first and threw out one runner trying to steal. Mark Baker was outstanding at second base with several fine plays.

Wentworth scored twice in the fourth inning to take a 2-0 lead, but QJC bounced back in the bottom half with all four of its runs. Wentworth added its final run in the sixth.

"Considering the lack of preparation due to the bad weather conditions, I feel we did fairly well," said Burke, starting his 14th year as the Jaguars' only coach.

It appears QJC could have another winning season under Burke. The team combined 10 hits with some good pitching and solid defense.

• Executive League

O'Connell Brothers Power Adams, 9-1

The O'Connell brothers, Dennis and Bob, scored five goals between them (three for Dennis, two for Bob) to lead Adams Sports to a 9-1 romp over Beau's Place Monday night in the Executive Hockey League playoffs. Kevin Glynn had two goals and Paul O'Brien and Bill Hansen one each. Bob Murray had two assists and Bob and Dennis O'Connell and Hansen one each. Ken Gardiner scored for Beau's unassisted.

Al McKay and Ed Lenihan had two goals and two assists each to spark Luke's Lounge to an easy 8-1 victory over Dayce's Place. Don Costa had two goals and Kevin Sullivan and Dave Owings one each, and McKay assisted on each other's goals and Costa and Sullivan had assists. Dave Mullen scored for Dayce's with assists for Jack Valle and Frank McAuliffe.

Budget Rent-A-Car topped Washington Tap, 6-2, sparked by Ted Ahola's hat trick. Jim Horner had two goals and Charlie Watts one. Dave Towle, Colin Campbell, Ahola, Art Boyle, Steve Marini and Horner had assists. John Emmott and Tom Roberts scored for Washington with assists for Marty Tolson, Wayne Gauthier and Bernie Toland.

Adams, Luke's Washington and Dayce's Place are in the round robin playoff semifinals.

'Ladies First' Show At Neighborhood Club

Robin Lane will present Ladies First, a one-woman show on the lives of America's First Ladies, tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

The performance is being sponsored by the Quincy City Hospital Women's Auxiliary.

Ladies First, researched and written by Miss Lane, explores the lives of five of America's First Ladies: Jacqueline Kennedy, Eleanor Roosevelt, Mary Lincoln, Julia Tyler and Rachel Jackson.

Through the use of costumed accessories Miss Lane captures the spirit of each woman, revealing the woman behind the image of First Lady.

She presents the wives as thoughtful, caring human beings, whose lives were profoundly affected by their husbands' election. Miss Lane creates the illusion of becoming five individual women whose lives cover a time span of almost 200 years.

She is a descendant of Abigail Adams, who was the wife of John Adams, the second President, and mother of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President.

Dr. Luleen Anderson At Meet The Author Night

Dr. Luleen Anderson will discuss her book, "Sunday Came Early This Week", at a "meet the author night" Thursday, April 22, at 7:30 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

The free event, during National Library Week April 18 to 24, is sponsored by Friends of the Quincy Public Library.

Dr. Anderson's book is the story of a severely disturbed, brilliant adolescent girl and the therapist who saw her through her crisis.

She will also discuss the problems of adolescents who think that "self destruction" is their only way out.

The event also kicks off a fund raiser for Book Bobby, a security system in the libraries to prevent book theft.

Wollaston Glee Club Spring Concert April 25

The Wollaston Glee Club will present its Spring Concert Sunday, April 25, at 4 p.m. at Wollaston United Methodist Church's sanctuary, 40 Beale St.

Heritage Seniors Mini Sale Thursday

The Heritage Senior Citizens will hold a Mini Sale today (Thursday) from 10 a.m. until 2 by soprano Cynthia Miles, a soprano soloist at Parkway United Methodist Church, Milton.

Edward Munro will direct the club which will be accompanied by Donald Bradshaw.

p.m. at St. Chrysostom's Church, Wollaston. Clothing will also be on sale. A snack bar will be open.

Aerobics Class At Houghs Neck

Late sign-ups will be accepted until Wednesday, April 21, for a 12-week aerobics class which began this week at the Houghs Neck Community Center, 1193 Sea St.

The class is being held Mondays and Wednesdays, 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

For more information, or to register, call Patricia Ridlen at 471-8251.

Robert Gacicia Bridge Winner

Robert Gacicia, of 47 Water St., South Quincy, and Walter Fontaine, of Cranston, R.I., were among Master Point winners at the 1982 Spring North American Championships of the American Contract Bridge League at Niagara Falls, N.Y.

They won first in their section in a two-session Special Pairs, a game in which 64 players competed.

Cape Cod Trip Planned For Seniors

The Quincy Council on Aging is sponsoring a Cape Cod trip May 26 with a visit to the Heritage Plantation Museum. The trip will include a tour of the Sandwich Glass Museum and a luncheon at the Daniel Webster Inn.

Quincy residents, 60 years of age and over, are eligible to register at the Council on Aging office at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Tickets will be sold on a first come first serve basis. Price of the trip, including transportation to and from the Health Center, meal cost and two museum fees is $15.

For further information contact the Council on Aging office at 773-1380, ext. 243.

Antiques, Flea Market At Christ Church

An Antiques and Flea Market will be held Saturday, April 24, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Christ Church Parish Hall, 12 Quincy Ave., Quincy.

Items for sale will include antiques, dishes, jewelry, crocheted and knitted items, kitchen ware, books and odds and ends.

There will be a snack bar serving home-made soup, sandwiches, desserts and beverages.

2 Youths Perform Own Piano Works

Two Quincy youths participated recently in the second annual New England Pianoforte Teachers Association composers recital.

John Boland, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Boland of Merrymount, performed his composition "Variations in C Major".

Jennifer Mazzini, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mazzini, also of Merrymount, performed her composition "The Song of the Ramoow".

Participants were required to notate their pieces and submit copies in advance to NEPTA chairman Marjorie Burgess.

The recital was held at the studio of Carol Fieleke in Winchester. A total of 17 students from the state took part.

Both John and Jennifer were sponsored by their piano teacher, Mrs. Louise Grabowski of Merrymount.

WEEK OF: APRIL 22

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19

Outstanding week for acquiring and/or unloading collectibles. Nostalgia is a major trend. If shopping for clothes, you're drawn to old-fashioned — even quaint — styles. Take along a practical friend.

PISCES — February 20-March 20

Sharpening creative skills and redecorating are spotlighted. Tackle some of those chores you've been putting off, especially those related to bookkeeping, writing recommendations, long-distance correspondence.

ARIES — March 21-April 20

Watch habit of imposing your own high standards on others, especially on people you don't know very well. Negotiations become increasingly complex; you can't afford to take any short-cuts.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22

A trying domestic situation gets worse before it gets better. Moods of friends are as unpredictable as April showers. Mini financial success can be achieved by Wednesday.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21

Week finds you involved in research activities. Decorating plans may be postponed. Partnerships spotlighted in areas of friendship (Thursday-Saturday) and career (Monday-Wednesday).

CANCER — June 22-July 22

Straightforward approach wins points on the job, but harmless remarks may offend serious companions. A little more financial security is within reach — don't expect too much too soon, though.

LEO — July 23-August 22

Week spotlights family reunions with chance for patching up old quarrels. Be not obvious in career maneuvers. And don't be frivolous about matters of health, exercise, fitness.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22

Be less subtle in stating expectations of coworker or family member. Friend is ready to help once you give him the chance. Competitive events positively accented Sunday-Tuesday.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22

If asked to manage funds, check that all parties, including yourself, understand scope of your responsibilities. Good week to give yourself a spring look that is comfortable and elegant.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21

Visits to friends, or to their friends, are rewarding now. Higherups are enthusiastic about your work; keep them overjoyed. Civic responsibilities increase by Wednesday.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22

Easy to lock horns with companion, and you and mate are both in a stubborn mood. Surprise bulletins arrive in pairs. Awaited messages should reach you by Tuesday.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20

Humor gets you through a rough but ultimately successful work week. Favorite companion is attentive. Major agreements and documents should be reviewed for possible updating.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Gentle and sensitive and thorough. You love handling cash, you are fond of possessions. Little wonder, you're ruled by Venus, planet of money. Personal relationships are enhanced as you learn the art of compromise. You can land a key leadership role by late fall, early winter.

BORN THIS WEEK

April 22nd, actor Jack Nicholson; 23rd, actor Lee Majors; 24th, actress Barbra Streisand; 25th, singer Ella Fitzgerald; 26th, actress Carol Burnett; 27th, actor Jack Klugman; 28th, actress Ann-Margaret.

Harold's Account: How It Feels To Run The Boston Marathon

(Sen. Paul D. Harold has run for many things, up to and including state rep., the City Council and the State Senate. Monday he decided for the first time to run the big one — the Boston Marathon. He did finish, well behind winner Alberto Salazar, but more important were the things that happened to him along the way.)

By PAUL D. HAROLD

The Boston Marathon is one of Boston's greatest athletic competitions, but until you run it, you are not aware of the important role played by the spectators.

The spectators are the ones who line the 26.2-mile route offering runners everything from water to beer to sponges to oranges, but most importantly — encouragement, for the thousand of weekend joggers who decide to take on the "big one".

Quincy was well represented in the marathon, and I was among the 30 members of the Quincy Flyers Club that left the Quincy YMCA by bus at 8 a.m., under the leadership of Ron Tierney. Eight hours later, after just over four hours running, I staggered into the Prudential Center to complete my first marathon.

The ride to Hopkinton was somewhat paradoxical in spirit because there was both enthusiasm and something of the feeling that you were being taken to your execution. The greatest impression was the distance, with the realization that the only way home was to run it.

Since the town was sealed off to traffic at 9 a.m., we relied on two auxiliary policemen from Quincy with us, Mike Tesler and Bob Bianchi, to get us through the four road blocks into the center of town.

The atmosphere at the town common was very atypical for this tiny New England town, because for a few hours every year it was the focus for national and international attention. TV and radio broadcasting vans lined one side of the common, while the rest of the area was taken up with booths sponsored by town organizations selling food, programs, hats and buttons. Rep. Andy Card took advantage of the crowd to collect signatures for this race for Governor. None of the big name runners were to be seen, it was said they were given space to prepare at a nearby school.

As the time grew short for the race to begin, runners were lined up according to their numbers. Official entrants were given numbers according to their qualifying times, and were lined up in roped off areas, much as state delegations would be separated at a political convention.

As an unofficial entrant I went to the back of the pack and ran the first 10 miles with veteran marathoner, Lloyd Hill, principal at Quincy High School. Because of the huge crowd, it took us five minutes to get across the starting line once the race had begun.

From Hopkinton to Ashland the pack of runners had not yet cleared apart so there was still only a few inches between you and the runners in front and back. Most runners wanted to keep their pace down in the beginning so as to conserve strength for the Newton Hills.

Entering Framingham we were greeted by a band stationed on the roof of an auto agency.

The next town was Natick, but all everyone talked about was what to expect in Wellesley.

Wellesley was the halfway point, but it was also the place of the traditional Wellesley College welcome. An estimated five hundred girls lined up in rows so close that the only way you could get through was single file. Clapping, cheering and hooting the coeds picked up the pace of the whole race by about one-third.

Passing by Sen. David Locke's law office in Wellesley Center, we learned that Alberto Salazar had won the race, and here we were, numbering in the thousands, with thirteen miles to go.

At the Newton line, I got a boost of encouragement from the sidelines from Atty. Joseph Killion of Wollaston and his wife, Rosalie.

The only time I got a little worried in the whole race was just opposite the Newton-Wellesley Hospital, when a doctor came running along side to tell me it looked like I was dehydrating, since I had stopped sweating and there were salt stains on the back of my shirt. It proved to be a false alarm.

The run through Newton was greatly exaggerated, especially if you had trained on Quarry St. and Hospital Hill in Quincy.

Coming into Cleveland Circle I saw Councillor Stephen McGrath and Jerry Cavanaugh from the Quincy Planning Department, on the sidelines. However, I never caught sight of the Prudential tower, since I had to keep looking down so as not to trip in a pot hole or trolley track.

At the last hundred feet of the race, one of my campaign managers, Michael Linnane, jumped out to take a picture, but other than that I was so numb that I wasn't able to completely appreciate crossing the finish line, all I knew was that it was over.

From the finish, runners were funnelled into the underground garage for refreshments and medical treatment. The first person I bumped into was an earlier finisher, Quincy Atty. William O'Hare. I wandered over to the medical station to get a toe lanced and was somewhat frightened to see the rows of cots filled with people shaking and looking dazed.

As it turned out the two volunteers who helped from the podiatry group were from Quincy, Jeanne Giagrande and Norman Wortzman.

A colleague, Rep. Stephen Karol, gave me a ride to the State House to get cleaned up and changed. I had just put my head in the sink in the bathroom, when the door burst open and in rushed Governor King and Secretary of Administration and Finance David Bartley. They had heard I just got back from the marathon and wanted to congratulate me.

I think the Governor summed up the whole experience when he said "You've really accomplished something. Everyone who participates no matter what their finishing time, is a winner."

Italian Food Center Granted Package Goods Store License

A retail package goods store - wine and malt beverages license was granted to the Italian American Food Center, Inc., 260 Centre St., West Quincy, at Tuesday's License Board meeting.

The license is effective until Dec. 31, when it can be renewed if there have been no problems. Hours will be 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh, who advocated a three month probationary period, voted against the license.

Atty. L. Paul Marini, representing applicant Vincenzo Della Penna, told the board that he has spoken to 83 area residents and all but one favored the license. Marini said that person was a member of a temperance league.

The attorney also said he had 258 signatures of people favoring the license.

City Clerk John Gillis read a letter from Ward Councillor James Sheets who opposed the license because of local opposition.

Jackie Quirk, representing Cheers at the meeting, said that calls have been received from people concerned about teenage groups congregating.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald pointed out "the tremendous problem of liquor and drinking."

"The chief (Police Chief Francis Finn who was not at the meeting) says that the problem is with package goods stores," said MacDonald.

"Kids are going to get liquor," said Gillis, "it's like the tide. You can't stop them. 'This isn't going to increase consumption (of alcohol) one iota.'"

Dr. McKeogh asked that the license be granted for a shorter period.

"If there are any offenses, they can be called in and the license discontinued," said Fire Chief Edward Barry.

MacDonald cautioned the applicant to accept only Mass. Drivers licenses as proof of age.

The license request had been tabled at the April 6 meeting when motions by Barry to grant the license and to continue the request for one week failed to receive seconds and died.

Finn Admonishes Klein On Juvenile Crime Statement

Police Chief Francis X. Finn has castigated Andrew Klein, chief probation officer at the Quincy District Court, for some remarks he made on the juvenile crime picture in Quincy.

The State Department of Youth Services noted that the number of juvenile arrests have dropped since 1978 and Klein was quoted as saying, "We're running out of delinquents."

"Around here, a lot of it is because the Catholic Church has lost its clout on birth control," he went on. "Catholic families are a lot smaller than they used to be."

"Police with more limited manpower have to concentrate on more serious problems and are not hassling kids on street corners the way they used to."

"I do not like to believe that the police 'hassle' anyone," said Finn.

"The Quincy police has maintained a good relationship in most situations with the youths of our city and it usually is not necessary to make arrests of young people who congregate in groups."

"During the past five years, the Quincy Police Department has made frequent use of the district attorney's Juvenile Diversion Program which allows us to divert juveniles away from the court."

"In minor situations involving juveniles we try to work out a solution among parents, the youth and the community to the satisfaction of the victim and the best long-range interests of the youth."

"We do not believe every petty situation belongs before the court."

"Are we now being criticized by Mr. Klein for our innovative and humanistic response to juvenile crime by not taking every youth with a can of beer in his hand before the court?"

Finn said he also takes exception to Klein's remarks about the Roman Catholic Church and its clout.

"This kind of remark," he said, "serves only to clearly illustrate for the public his lack of experience and understanding and total insensitivity to the community he is purportedly sworn to serve."

Over $3,000 In Silver Stolen

Two thefts of silver were reported to Quincy police over the weekend.

Ida Silverman, 76, of Southern Artery said two chests of sterling silver, a service of 12, valued at $3,000 and a man's diamond ring of undetermined value were taken from her home.

Gustavus Robinson, 60, of Virginia Rd., Merrymount, reported that a chest of Botticelli silver of unspecified value was stolen from her home.

Both robberies were under investigation by Detective Peter Gallagher.

Committee Named To Study

Pay Hike, Longer Term For Mayor?

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has named a nine-member committee to study the mayor's office and "see how it shapes up compared to other cities around the state."

The study will include the size of the mayor's staff, the salary of the mayor and whether or not the city's chief executive should serve a four-year term.

Charles Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank, was named to chair the committee, which includes City Clerk John Gillis and a broad range of Quincy residents.

Other members include Mary Denneen of Merrymount, long active in the PTA; Arthur Chandler of Wollaston, president of the Quincy Citizens Association; Frank Kearns of Wollaston, a retired member of the Quincy Council on Aging.

Joseph McConville of Merrymount, personnel director of Boston Gear; Michael Regan, a Wollaston businessman; Matthew McDonnell of Merrymount, an attorney; and Patrick Conroy of Norfolk Downs, a U.S. government negotiator.

Arthur Foley, the mayor's administrative assistant, will serve as research assistant to the committee but McCauley pledged that he will not interfere in the committee's deliberations.

Committee expenses, such as postage and printing, will be handled through the mayor's budget.

McCauley indicated that his particular interest lay in whether or not the mayor of Quincy should serve a four-year term rather than the two years he serves now.

"Only two cities in the state, Newton and Boston, have four-year terms now," said McCauley, "but the trend around the country is toward four-year terms."

"Two years is really not enough time to accomplish anything in this office. A man should have a chance to do the job and get a track record before he is forced to run for reelection."

"I am only four months into this term and pretty soon it will be January and I'll have to think about running again. Can I do the job effectively and still run for reelection?"

Changing from a two-year term to a four-year term would require an amendment to the city charter with approval from the City Council, the voters of Quincy and possibly the State Legislature.

"It could possibly be on the ballot for the voters next November," said McCauley, "but this is something that had best be taken slowly."

The mayor agreed that the most sensitive item on the study committee's agenda will be the mayor's salary. It's $25,000 a year now and the school superintendent and the fire and police chiefs double that.

"The last salary study was done in 1972," said McCauley. "As a result the mayor's salary went from $10,000 to $25,000. We have got to look at this from time to time."

"But it's not a question of McCauley getting more money. It's a full examination of the mayor's job and the mayor's office."

"We have five people on the staff now. I'm curious as to what other cities do in that area. Does the mayor of Newton have 12 people

Wollaston Woman Nears $1.5M Award From MBTA

Mrs. Janet H. Cook, 88, of Wollaston has moved a step closer to collecting $1.5 million from the MBTA in what is believed to be the largest personal injury award ever recorded in Norfolk County.

The State Appeal Court rejected an appeal by the MBTA from the verdict in the case of Mrs. Cook, who lived at 18 Albion St., Wollaston, but is now confined to New England Sinai Hospital, Stoughton.

She has been paralyzed since a Christmas Eve fall in an MBTA bus in 1979 and two doctors testified that she will never regain the use of the limbs or bodily functions below the neck.

Her attorney, Stephen T. Keefe Jr. of Quincy, said Mrs. Cook is "terribly pleased to hear the outcome of the appeal." The MBTA has 20 days to appeal to the State Supreme Court.

When the original award was handed down in April, 1981, Keefe said it was the largest personal injury award he can recall in 30 years of practice in Norfolk County.

The accident occurred Dec. 24, 1979, after Mrs. Cook had boarded an MBTA bus driven by Paul Somontes of Deldorf St., Quincy Center.

Testifying from a stretcher at the trial, Mrs. Cook said she was walking to a seat when the bus started, then stopped, throwing her against the fare box and then into the stairwell.

She suffered a fractured cervical vertebrae and severe spinal cord damage.

The MBTA appealed on grounds that the judges should have given it a directed verdict based on the evidence and that the jurist erred in his instructions to the jury.

The appellate court turned down both arguments.

Mrs. Cook originally sought $4 million in damages, $2 million from the MBTA and $2 million from Somontes.

A widow, she has three children, Arthur S. Cook of Bay State Rd., North Quincy; Mrs. Janet Cochran of Norwell; and Mrs. Mary L. Peterson of Stoughton.

Keefe is associated in the case with Atty. Stephen M. Hillman of Randolph.

Bar Hours Rollback Could Do More Harm, Says McKeogh

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

One of the primary goals of medicine is to do no harm, according to Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh.

And that's one of the reasons that Dr. McKeogh, a member of the License Board, hasn't jumped on the bandwagon so far to roll back the hours of local liquor establishments from 2 to 1 a.m.

"Everyone wants the drunken driver off the road," says Dr. McKeogh, "it's an emotional issue."

"But I want to make sure that what we do will not make the situation worse."

The License Board was stalemated on the issue when Dr. McKeogh failed to break a 2 to 2 deadlock by voting "present" at the March 30, meeting.

He explained at the time that he needed more information on which to base his decision.

"My job is as a scientist to dig out facts and vote on them," he said.

Since that meeting, "I haven't been twiddling my thumbs" says the still undecided Dr. McKeogh who has studied information on similar problems across the country and the world.

Some information indicates that rolling back the closing hour might do even more harm, says Dr. McKeogh.

More non-drinkers would be exposed to drunken drivers who would leave drinking establishments at the earlier closing hour, explains Dr. McKeogh, and more fatalities could result.

"It's not a simple problem," says Dr. McKeogh, "I wasn't completely kidding when I suggested moving the closing hour to 3 a.m."

"Maybe there would be fewer deaths."

"The last hour before closing seems to be the problem," added Dr. McKeogh, "that's when people drink as fast as they can."

Dr. McKeogh said that according to information from Baxter Rice, director of California Beverage Control, traffic fatalities involving drinking figure into a bell-shaped curve.

If the closing hour is moved one hour earlier, the total fatalities remain the same, if not higher, according to the information.

Information from Robin Room of the California Alcohol Abuse Commission showed that another approach to the problem didn't have much better results, according to Dr. McKeogh.

According to Room's information, all bars and package stores in Finland were closed on Saturdays in an attempt to ease the high number of alcohol related problems on that day.

But while Saturday's problems were eased, the total number of problems all week remained the same, according to Room's report.

"It's not an open and shut case," says Dr. McKeogh, "at first, my reaction (to the hours rollback) was positive.

"Quincy has a high incidence of cirrhosis of the liver, and I'd like to approach that somehow."

"But I don't know if this is the way."

Dr. McKeogh said that he would like to see people that serve liquor by the drink form an association and agree on things such as training employees to deal with those who overindulge in liquor.

"But that would go against the profit motive," said Dr. McKeogh, "if sales go down, someone could be out of a job."

Dr. McKeogh did say that "bars have gotten the message. They're more conscious of when they should shut someone off."

The health commissioner has come under fire for his lack of a stand on the issue, including from fellow board member Allan MacDonald who felt that Dr. McKeogh had been in enough emergency rooms at hospitals to have formed an opinion.

"The emergency room is no fun," answers Dr. McKeogh, "but if rolling back the hours increases fatalities, where are you?"

"My concern is not to make things worse."

"No matter what we do, its important to get answers."

"We have to try and learn something out of it."

The matter will come up again before the board Tuesday, May 11, at 7 p.m.

9 Candidates For Court Clerk

Harold Faces Opposition In Senate Re-Election Bid

By TOM HENSHAW

Primary opposition has emerged for Sen. Paul D. Harold for the first time since he won the post four years ago and there will be at least a nine-candidate race for Norfolk County clerk of courts in next fall's elections.

Those developments surfaced as the deadline passed Tuesday for filing nomination papers with local election offices for all offices except statewide and Congress.

Kevin J. Tarmey of Quincy filed 13 sets of nomination papers to oppose Harold in the Democratic primary for the state senate. Harold himself filed 16 sets of papers for his reelection bid.

The list of candidates seeking to succeed Court Clerk John Concannon of Braintree, who is leaving to accept appointment as a judge includes:

Nicholas Barbadoro of Quincy, assistant clerk; John J. Lydon Jr. of Quincy, city councillor; Joseph J. LaRaia of Quincy, city councillor; Robert Bloom of Braintree, assistant clerk at Quincy District Court.

Robert O. Flynn of Canton, assistant clerk at Stoughton District Court; Elizabeth R. Laing of Braintree; Paula O'Brien Killion of Milton; Michael Joyce of Braintree; and Martha (Marti) Monell of Brookline, assistant Chief Probation Officer at Quincy court.

There will also be a race for county commissioner, where David C. Ahearn of Norwood will be seeking re-election.

His opposition the Democratic primary will come from Terence W. Lynn of Braintree, Stephen M. Diamond of Needham, and Joseph McLaughlin of Weymouth. McLaughlin is a former Quincy city planner.

Candidates filing for re-election without opposition in Quincy were:

William D. Delahunt of Quincy, district attorney.

Barry T. Hannon of Braintree, register of deeds.

Michael W. Morrissey of Quincy, state representative, First Norfolk.

Thomas F. Brownell of Quincy, state representative, Second Norfolk.

Robert A. Cerasoli of Quincy, state representative, Third Norfolk.

Peter Eleey of Quincy, governor's councillor.

The signatures on their papers filed in Quincy will be checked for certification and sent to the State Secretary's office, where the deadline for filing is May 25.

Only Quincy filings were available to The Quincy Sun at its Tuesday press deadline. Other candidates for county races, State senate and governor's councillor may have filed in other towns.

The deadline for filing in Quincy for statewide offices and for congress is Tuesday, May 4, at 5 p.m.

Gillis Gets Ticket Aid, But Still Plans Resignation

The City Purchasing Department has taken over a good portion of the task of processing parking tickets but John Gillis still insists that he plans to resign as parking clerk on July 1.

Gillis announced his impending resignation in The Quincy Sun last week as the normal work routine in his city clerk's office was all but brought to a standstill by the flood of parking tickets.

The story in the Sun impelled Purchasing Agent Robert Denvir to volunteer the time and efforts of some members of his staff to help take the load off of Gillis' people.

In addition, Gillis obtained the services of Sean Mulvaney, who was laid off in the election office more than a year ago, on a temporary basis to help out with tickets until June 1.

Gillis told the Sun that the cooperative effort with the Purchasing Department is working out well and that Denvir's people probably will be doing the bulk of the work by July 1.

"The question now is whether we have to bother making the change in title," said Mayor Francis X. McAuley. "Do we need to replace Gillis with Denvir as parking clerk? I'm not sure now."

Marine Gear Taken

Marco Pollara of Burgin Parkway, Quincy Center, reported to police Monday that thieves stole two brass propellers, a CB radio, a marine VHF radio, a depth finder and a CB antenna from his 1975 Buick while it was parked near his home.

But Gillis was adamant.

"I will resign," he said. "I expect Bob Denvir will take over. This office simply has too much work to do with the coming election."

Board Approves Newbury Liquor License Transfer

The Quincy License Board approved the transfer of the license for Newbury Liquor & Wine, Inc., 66 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, at Tuesday's meeting.

New manager Frederick J. Hamel said he plans to put in 40 to 60 hours a week at the business which will retain the same name.

"That may go a long way towards solving the problem of youths procuring alcohol," said Hamel's attorney, William Hurley.

At last week's meeting, Rev. Arthur Curtis of nearby Memorial Congregational Church of Atlantic told the board that youngsters hang around the area and ask adults to buy liquor for them.

"Parishioners have been asked, too," said Rev. Curtis this week.

In addition to working on the problem of youths congregating, Hamel said he intends to improve the structure's appearance inside and out.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald cautioned Hamel to accept only Mass. drivers licenses, and no duplicates, as proof of a customer's age.

License Board Briefs

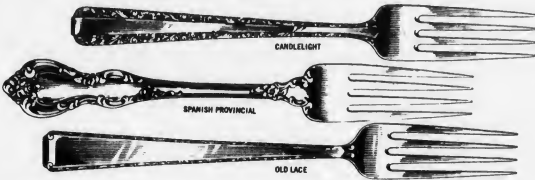

The Quincy License Board took the following action Tuesday morning at City Hall:

- Granted the First Church of Squantum a permit to conduct its 13th annual Flea Market Saturday, June 12, at 10 a.m. at 164 Bellevue Rd. (rain date is June 13). The group is to check with the Health Department about serving food.
- Granted one video game to the Quincy Oyster House, 1659 Hancock St. The board is to be notified if the location of the machine is changed.
- Granted a permit to DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended) to conduct a used book sale Saturday, May 8, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on McIntyre Mall.
- Continued for three weeks a hearing on gasoline storage at Quincy Auto Parts, 675 Southern Artery, previously listed as Standard Auto Gear. Fire Chief Edward Barry said his department is corresponding with the business in connection with the matter.

- Agreed to postpone, to May 4, at the request of the applicant, a hearing on the holder of gasoline and Motor II (used car) licenses at Ace & Auto Services, 310 Washington St.
- Allowed to be withdrawn without prejudice a request from Fitzbrook, Inc., 218-222 Willard St., for a permit to store 300 gallons of gasoline in tanks of cars, and auto and engine repair licenses. A special permit from the Zoning Board of Appeals is needed for such a business in that area.
- Continued for one week a request from Coletta Bros. North Quincy, Inc., 260 Hancock St., for a Motor II license for six cars.

License Hearing Continued

Injured Officer Says He Got No Help

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"If I thought someone failed to help a police officer in trouble, I'd have no qualms about having their license," said Fire Chief Edward Barry at Tuesday's City License Board meeting.

Barry's comment came during a hearing involving a Quincy police officer, Francis Barnes, who was injured while responding to a call at Quincy Pizza and Dairy Bar, Inc., 130-132 Washington St.

The matter was eventually continued to next week's meeting.

Barnes told the board that he suffered a broken ankle and broken leg after responding to a call Feb. 12, to "eject some drunken kids" from the restaurant.

The officer escorted one of the two suspects out through a back door and slipped on a "sheet of ice."

"I heard a snap and knew that my ankle was broken," said Barnes. "I lay there for quite a while. Then I realized if I stayed, I could get frostbite."

"I stood up, and slipped again. There was another snap, and I knew I had broken my leg."

Barnes said the suspect fled and he remained on the ground in "excruciating pain" and received no help from the store owners.

or does he have three?"

McCauley said the committee will also make some comparisons between the workings of the City Council in Quincy and elsewhere in the state. The information will be turned over to Council President John J. Lydon, Jr.

McCauley said he expects the committee to make its report and recommendations to him by the end of June.

Dental Corner

by

Lee A. Welky, D.M.D.

THE ORTHODONTIA DECISION

Q: Does my child need orthodontic treatment? When should it start?

A: Perhaps the biggest dental decision that can be made for a child is for orthodontic treatment (braces). Not only the unfortunate child with obvious buck teeth needs help. Other orthodontic conditions may be less obvious, and yet greatly in need of treatment.

Often the first sign of orthodontic problems is crowding of the lower front teeth at about age seven, which may indicate that the jaws don't have room for all the teeth. This can be checked with x-rays. Often, losing a baby tooth too early or too late causes orthodontic problems which won't become obvious until much later.

Some dentists feel that orthodontic treatment should begin when most of the baby teeth have been lost. Others begin treatment earlier. In any case, the child should be seen by a dentist as soon as possible, to evaluate the situation and allow time to plan treatment.

"There's no doubt in my mind that they knew I was out there," said Barnes who was eventually aided by a passerby who called for assistance.

Barnes also said that according to another officer, Francis Johnson, owners of the restaurant later "refused to cooperate and refused to be interviewed."

Atty. Sidney Milgram, representing owners Helen and Thomas Kitsilis, said that the original call to the police was not made by his clients.

He also said "they would not have ignored him (Barnes)."

"They were not aware there was a problem."

"They didn't hear a thing."

Milgram said that, according to his clients, the officer came, took one suspect into custody, and left with that person.

"They waited on their trade," said Milgram who added that the couple also worked in a back room during that time.

Mrs. Kitsilis did make a call about 10 minutes later, when she heard some noise, according to Milgram who added that his clients have some difficulty with the English language.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald said that if the back exit is a legal egress, it should've been clean and lit.

Milgram answered that his client alleges "there were no defective conditions or ice."

"The ice was several inches thick," said Barnes, who also said the area was dark.

The matter was continued to allow input from Officer Johnson who was not present at this week's meeting.

Squantum Women's Club Celebrates 70th Anniversary

The Squantum Women's Club recently celebrated its 70th anniversary at its annual Scholarship Fashion Show at the Cathy Pacific, North Quincy.

Chairman of the event was Mrs. Neal Cadogan assisted by Mrs. Gerald McGilvray.

Fashions were provided by Remicks of Quincy. Models were Joanne Condon, Mrs. Michael Mazrimas, Robin Jellison, Mrs. Thomas Collins, Mrs. William Kiely, and Mrs. Edward Flanagan. Commentator was Mrs. Hugo Mujica.

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation of gifts from the prize table, donated by local merchants and club members, to lucky winners.

Past presidents were introduced and included Mrs. Renee Johnson, Mrs. Philip O'Neil, Mrs. Hugo Mujica, Mrs. Gerald McGilvray, and Mrs. Robert Jellison.

Corsages made by Mrs. Frederick Josselyn were presented to each president.

Many letters were received from other past presidents who could not attend.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley and Mrs. Condon presented awards to newly re-elected president, Mrs. Robert Jellison for the many years of community service received from the Squantum Women's Club.

Mrs. William Moore, president of the North Quincy Catholic Women's Club, presented Mrs. Jellison with a bouquet of spring flowers.

The evening ended when a two-tiered cake baked and decorated by Mrs. Charles Todd, and served to all guests.

Proceeds from the evening go to the Scholarship Fund. Two scholarships are awarded each year to a boy and a girl from Squantum who attend North Quincy High.

Lorraine Kutz Engaged To Douglass Huff

Mrs. George Kutz of Squantum announces the engagement of her daughter, Lorraine, to Douglass Huff of Maryland.

Miss Kutz, a graduate of North Quincy High School, Boston State College, and Georgetown University, magna cum laude, is working as a registered intensive care nurse at Greater S.E. Community Hospital, Washington, D.C. She will be attending Catholic University graduate school in the fall.

Mr. Huff, a graduate of the University of Maryland and George Washington University, is a certified registered nurse anesthetist at Alexandria Hospital, Va. He is also attending law school at George Mason University.

After a July 31 wedding, the couple will make their home in the greater Washington area.

GREAT GATSBY BALL will be held Saturday, May 1, by the Junior Guild of Catholic Charities of Boston, Inc. From left, are committee members Mrs. Michael Flaherty, Mrs. James Pansullo, both of Wollaston; Mrs. Paul Murphy of Quincy, co-chairlady; and Mrs. John Shea, Milton.

Junior Guild Holding 'Great Gatsby Ball'

Mrs. Paul Murphy of Quincy is co-chairlady of "The Great Gatsby Ball" to be held Saturday, May 1, by the Junior Guild of Catholic Charities of Boston, Inc.

Also helping to plan the charity gala are Mrs. Michael Flaherty and Mrs. James Pansullo, both of Wollaston.

The ball will be held at Page's at Colonial, Lynnfield. Entertainment will be by Lester Lanin and his orchestra who played at the royal wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana.

The driveway of the Colonial will be lined with automobiles of the Gatsby era such as a 1935

Duesenberg Judkins Bodied Towncar and a 1934 Packard 12, Cylinder Dietrich Bodied Victoria.

Proceeds from the function will help support battered and abused children, the elderly throughout Boston's South End and West Roxbury, children in need and a food bank for the needy funded by the junior guild.

For information on the ball, call Mrs. Paul Murphy, 479-8286 or Mrs. John Shea of Milton, 333-0109.

Charity Ball At Viking Club

The Fourth Annual Charity Ball will be held at the Viking Club, 410 Quincy Ave., Braintree, Friday, May 7.

Hours will be 8 p.m. to midnight, with dancing to the music of Nils Lundin and his Charity Ball Orchestra. Dress is semi-formal.

There will be a champagne fountain, and hors d'oeuvres, plus coffee and pastry. Carl Larson is chairman.

Mrs. Melvin Monson is in charge of decorations, Mrs. Kenneth Trillcott, tickets which can be obtained by calling 471-1999.

Mr., Mrs. Christo

Hospital Director Thinks Opposition Report Incorrect

James Lowenhagen, director of Quincy City Hospital, thinks that a report opposing the building of a new, $99 million Quincy City Hospital is incorrect.

He also feels that the alternative suggested would cost twice as much to implement.

The report was by the Health Planning Council of Greater Boston which advises the state Public Health Council on proposals for hospital construction.

Comer Given Hire-Fire Authority By QHA

The Quincy Housing Authority has voted 4 - 1 to grant newly appointed Administrator John Comer the authority to hire, fire, and suspend all authority employees subject to the confirmation of the board.

Action taken by Comer must tion.

The state Department of Public Health will also make a recommendation.

In December, the hospital asked for permission to tear down its 88 year old building and replace it with a hospital with 11 more more beds.

Plans also included decreasing space for pediatric and obstetrical patients, and increasing rooms for surgery and critical care to accommodate the increasing local population of elderly.

Building a new hospital would cost patients too much, according to the council which recommended that the hospital be rebuilt over a number of years.

The council's findings were also disputed by Mayor Francis

McCauley.

The board of directors of the council will vote on the proposal May 5.

conform to the guidelines of the Economic Office of Community Development.

Carmine G. D'Olimpio voted against the move on the grounds it gave new authority to Comer which the previous administrator Clement O'Brien did not have.

Gillis For Mayor?

Never a dull moment in politics.

As soon as last week's Quincy Sun hit the streets with the disclosure that City Clerk John Gillis planned to resign from his parking ticket post, the rumor was off and flying.

"He's going to run for mayor next year and doesn't want to make any enemies," the know-it-alls quickly concluded. "You don't win friends or votes being parking clerk."

That brought a laugh and this response from Gillis:

"I'm running all right — running for my life." Gillis' office, as he said, has been like a zoo since he was given the extra job of collecting fines and penalties for back parking tickets — some of them going back to 1978.

He took over the monumental task in January of trying to catch up to a backlog of 119,000 delinquent parking tickets.

Some 30 per cent of the backlog representing about $50,000 has been collected so far.

What bothers Gillis the most is the lack of appeal for those who have received notices for tickets they may have forgotten long ago. Or tickets they may never have even seen.

Some youths, he noted, think it's great sport taking tickets off windshields and tearing them up. The motorist then doesn't even know his car was ever tagged.

Then, months or a couple years later, a computer catches up to him. Pay up or lose your registration, bud.

"It's unfair," says Gillis. "It's like a kangaroo court. . . There is no appeal unless you want to go to Superior Court and that will cost you $50 just to start."

He would like to see legislation establishing some form of appeal on old tickets.

He's definitely not stepping down as parking clerk to get ready for a run for mayor next year.

But . . . according to sources close to him, Gillis has been approached to become a candidate. And he has been offered financial support. The offers, ironically, came before he decided to resign from his parking post. And they came from not the run-of-the-mill political circles.

This is not the first time Gillis has been approached. He has said "no" a couple of times before. Right now he has no intention of running. But, in politics, you never know — for sure.

INCIDENTALLY, any of you who have been tagged at expired meters or otherwise might be interested in knowing that it can happen to anyone. Gillis got one himself recently.

A TESTIMONIAL dinner will be held Wednesday, May 19, at the Chateau de Ville in Randolph for retired Superior Court Judge Henry H. Chmielinski.

CHMIELINSKI

For tickets call Atty. Paul Hunt, 471-0800; Atty. Stephen Keefe 479-9700; Atty. Joseph Cippola 479-4120; Dr. David Rafkin 472-3466; Roger Whitcomb 471-1650; Atty. Nate Sherman 479-5510; Atty. George Tull 472-4150; or Arthur Gacia.

The dinner was planned before Chmielinski, former Quincy attorney, decided to run for Plymouth County district attorney.

SANDY ROUNSEVILLE, who as Comfortman has led a campaign for validated parking and to reopen the comfort station in the Hancock parking area, says if it all comes about he doesn't want anyone making a big fuss over his efforts. "Except," he muses, "maybe the city could name the comfort station after me."

Adams Building Nominated For National Historic Register

Application has been made to include the Adams Building at the corner of Hancock and Temple Sts. in Quincy Center on the National Register of Historic Places.

The designation will enable the owners of the building, Adams Building Realty Trust, to restore the exterior and receive a one time income tax credit of 25 per cent.

Robert Luongo of the Quincy Planning Department said plans are underway to restore the century-old building and add a fourth floor on the back which will be unseen from Hancock St.

The building is already in the Quincy Historic District, which means that any restoration work to its exterior is rigidly controlled.

Luongo said the Massachusetts Historical Commission has recommended the building for the National Register and architect Paul Donnelly of Boston is already at work on restoration.

The Adams building was built in two phases, the first between 1880 and 1885 on Hancock St. and the second in 1889-1890 rounding the corner into Temple St.

It was remodeled and modernized in 1963 at a cost of $250,000.

Many prominent people have maintained offices in the building including John Quincy Adams II, who was once the owner; and Col. Francis W. Parker, first superintendent of schools in Quincy.

Currently a number of retail shops are located on the ground floor and offices are on the second and third floors.

According to the application for national registry, "the top floor is not fit for occupancy. The building, due to its overall poor condition, does not have a high occupancy rate."

City Fire Hydrants Being Tested

Chief Edward F. Barry announces the Quincy Fire Department started its annual hydrant testing program Monday. The project will be directed by Deputy Chief Thomas Andrew and Firefighter Robert Mood of the Training Division.

Hours of testing will be 9:30 a.m.

to 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in all sections of the city.

During the testing of hydrants, residents may experience some discoloration in their water, Barry said. The water is not harmful to drink or use, but should be checked before using for washing. Persons experiencing discoloration of water are requested to flush systems by opening cold water faucets for a few minutes then wait approximately one hour. If the water does not clear repeat the flushing procedure.

The Fire Department estimates the hydrant testing program will take approximately four weeks.

The hearing capacity of the average person starts to decline around age 20.

Postal Inspectors Continue To Thwart Work-At-Home Swindlers

Consumer complaints about work-at-home swindles increased significantly over the last year, partly in response to Postal Inspection Service investigations that put 3,500 such promoters out of business, according to Thomas Keohane, acting manager of the Quincy Post Office.

Keohane made the announcement in connection with Consumer Protection Week, April 25 - May 1.

"One of the most daring of these swindlers recently went to federal prison in the Midwest," Keohane said, "after he was convicted of mail fraud in the sale of a book entitled, 'How to Make Money at Home.'"

Bruce Reusch of Milford, Ohio, placed advertising in national tabloids, such as "The Star," the "Globe" and the "National Enquirer" offering work-at-home stuffing envelopes. "He promised that earnings of $400 to $700 weekly could be realized," Keohane said, "but the only record of any earnings involved was the $235,000 Reusch's United Publishing Company took in."

Keohane said during a search of the company's records, postal inspectors found Reusch was using the stolen letterhead of the Postal Inspector-in-Charge at Cincinnati, Ohio, to ward off complaints.

A San Francisco, California operator — Lawrence Phillips — also used national advertising to take at least $300,000 from 25,000 people who paid a $12 fee for his envelope stuffing scheme. Phillips suggested that those who responded to his ad similarly solicit their own "home workers." Six others who took his advice were, like Phillips, the subject of a "mail stop order."

Phillips repeatedly promised to stop claiming buyers could earn between $180 and $500 a week by stuffing envelopes for his Phillips Envelope Company, but it wasn't until a federal judge issued a temporary restraining order that his business collapsed.

"What we continue to see," Keohane said, "is the claim that there is a market for doing a particular type of work in your home where, in fact, there is none, or that the promoter will buy the finished product when, in fact, the promoter will not."

Keohane said the elderly or those who cannot leave their homes because of some illness or injury are at the top of the list of victims.

A brochure prepared by the Postal Service outlining the pitfalls of work-at-home promotions is available in post offices.

Mayor Sets Strict Rules For Workers At City Hall

Mayor Thomas J. McGrath, in office for four months, ruled that it is contrary to Civil Service regulations for clerks at City Hall to work overtime.

He also directed that all city departments be open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily and until 12 noon on Saturday with workers getting an hour off for lunch, arranged so that offices will be staffed all the time.

"Absences from work will be allowed only for sickness or bereavement," he said.

"The rule in business offices is that the people shall be punctual at their work and this rule I propose shall be followed hereafter in City Hall."

McGrath also ruled out the practice of city employees entertaining personal visitors while at work.

"Except the public has business with the department, it has no right to use our time in frivolous visits," he said.

SCHOOLBOYS IN OFFICE

Paul Reardon, a senior at Quincy High School, was sworn in as the schoolboy mayor of Quincy as the city observed Boys and Girls Loyalty Week.

Charles Gabriel, Hobart Robinson and Gerald Smith were chosen councillors at large.

Ward councillors named included Theodore Darrah in Ward 1, Harold Slate in Ward 2, Mary Donovan in Ward 3, Orville Devine in Ward 4, Frederick Sargent in Ward 5, and Donald B. Moore in Ward 6.

PARKING PROTESTED

Wollaston Realtor W.W. Willson called an ordinance restricting parking on streets leading to Quincy Shore Boulevard "a blot on the name of the city," a special privilege accorded no other residents.

"I don't believe it is right for these streets to be restricted to such a degree that they are private highways for the benefit of people living on them and to the disadvantage of others," he said.

WORKERS REINSTATED

Three foremen, James Donovan, Daniel O'Connell and Patrick J. Tymon, fired by former Mayor Perley E. Barbour in 1925, were returned to their jobs under court order.

Damages due them from the city, based on their pay scale of $8 a day, could be in the $6,000 to $12,000 range.

Sam Gray of 31 Harrington Ave., Quincy Point, who gave up a job as manager of Melville's Market when he lost his sight a year ago, opened a cigar and newspaper store in a bus near City Hall.

Donnelly Wins State Legion Award

The State Department of the American Legion has presented its annual legislative award to Cong. Brian J. Donnelly for his sponsorship of several important bills concerning veterans.

The award was presented by State Cmdr. Henry R. Troville who thanked Donnelly for his efforts "on behalf of veterans, their widows and orphans."

Donnelly was one of the first congressmen to call on the Veterans Administration to treat Vietnam veterans who were exposed to the dangerous herbicide known as "agent orange".

He also sponsored a guaranteed pension for veterans of World War I and played a key role in keeping readjustment counselling centers open for Vietnam veterans.

Salvation Army Fund Raising Campaign Underway

Captain Gerald Stephens, commanding officer of the Quincy Temple Corps of the Salvation Army, announces a Supplemental Spring Fund-Raiser, is now underway.

Mrs. Scott Newell, chairman of the Quincy Salvation Army Advisory Board, has named the following to chair the functions of the appeal:

General Fundraising Chairman, Mrs. I. Wesley Watson; public relations, Mrs. William S.

English; industrial gifts, Marvin (Bud) Watts; phone-a-thon, Charles Simpson; and business contributions, Charles Sullivan.

Captain Stephens emphasized the need to raise $15,000 to meet the increased needs of Salvation Army programs due to current economic circumstances. There will be a solicitation of individuals, businesses, and corporations in the Quincy area, and a city-wide phone-a-thon conducted during the week of April 26-30.

Residents are urged to respond favorably when called by a volunteer during the evening hours this week. Anyone who wishes to participate in the appeal is invited to call Captain Stephens at the Salvation Army headquarters, 472-2345, or to mail in a contribution, marked "Spring Fundraiser", to the Salvation Army, 6 Baxter St., Quincy, Mass. 02169.

Houghs Neck Church To Honor Ministers

A "Service of Thanksgiving for the ministries of Peter V. and M. Alicia Corea" will be celebrated by members and friends of Houghs Neck Congregational Church, Sunday at 10 a.m.

The occasion recognized the 35th and 33rd anniversary of their respective ordinations to the Christian Ministry, as well as their 35th year of serving the Houghs Neck Church.

The Coreas came to Houghs Neck right out of seminary and have had a long and effective pastorate.

Active in community and civic affairs, the Coreas have worked with youth, established a scholarship fund in the church, reached out to the elderly, involved themselves with social action issues, and nurtured and sustained the spiritual life of the church.

This special service, led by members of the church, will be followed by a reception in Fellowship Hall.

All church members and friends are invited to be present to express their thanks to the Coreas and their gratitude to God for the love and concern that has characterized their ministries.

The planning committee includes Robert and Carol Johnston, Joan M. Kirby, Edwina Robinson, Harold and Dorothy Sparks, and Carol Lee Griffin.

MAYOR AND MRS. Francis McCauley were welcomed to St. Catherine's Greek Orthodox Church, Beale St., Wollaston, where they attended Good Friday services. The Eastern Orthodox Holy Week Services were held one week later than the Western Holy Week Services. From second left, are School Committee member Nicholas Verenis, president James Serementes and Vice president Frank Shinopoulos. (John Leahy)

Annual Men's Prayer Breakfast

The Protestant Social Service Bureau will sponsor the Annual Men's Prayer Breakfast Sunday at 7 a.m. at Valle's Steak House, Braintree.

Speaker will be Dr. Harold John Ockenga, Ph.D., Pastor Emeritus of Boston's historic Park Street Church. Dr. Ockenga is currently president of Gordon Divinity School, South Hamilton.

Featured soloist will be Kevin Dolittle, a dramatic tenor. Dolittle is a music major at Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston.

Rummage Sale Saturday At Memorial Congregational

Memorial Congregational Church of Atlantic will sponsor its annual Rummage Sale Saturday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the church hall, 65 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

The sale will include furniture and hardware, men's, women's and children's clothing, dishes, books, records, jewelry, kitchen-ware, household and other items, toys and sporting goods.

Articles for the sale may be left at the Parish Hall through Friday, 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Those unable to bring articles to the church may call the church office for pick up at 328-5240, mornings.

There will be a snack bar and pizza bar.

Christian Life Experiences At Squantum Church

A panel of lay people reflecting on experiences in the Christian life replaced the sermon Sunday morning at the First Church of Squantum.

Speaking were Grace Holmes, Tom McKim, Bonnie Adams, Helen Miller, Susan Scott, Mark Burgess, Mary Ruth Scott, and Steven Williams.

Earlier in the service, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, spoke to the children about "Doing Your Best."

The Chancel Choir sang "Because You Are God's Chosen Ones" by G. Alan Smith for the anthem.

Greeters were Barbara and Carl Anderson and their daughter Marsha. The fellowship hour was hosted by Genevieve Todd, Barbara Frazer and Helen Miller.

The service next Sunday will begin at 10:15 a.m.

Q. I HAVE VERY HIGH CEILINGS IN MY HOME, IS THERE ANYTHING I CAN DO TO MAKE THEM LOOK LOWER?

A. There are many ways to achieve the look of a lower ceiling, painting the ceiling a darker color than the walls is one way, also the use of a wide border at the ceiling line on the walls will visually lower your ceiling.

Quincy Savings Holds Open House For Mass. Education Dept.

A series of informal coffee hours and luncheon get-togethers at Quincy Savings Bank attracted some 150 employees of the Massachusetts Department of Education recently. The get-togethers were part of a local effort to acquaint the department's staff and employees with Quincy where they will be relocated May 1.

The open house was organized and hosted by Lillian Neville, manager of the bank's sales department.

Joining her at the meeting were James L. Chicino, assistant vice president and Charles A. Pearce, president.

John W. Kearney, director of regional services for the Department of Education, expressed his appreciation for the hospitality and information Quincy Savings Bank provided to those attending.

Car Burned

Joseph Pearson of Gilson Rd., Wollaston, reported his 1980 blue Chevrolet Chevette stolen Sunday from the State Street South parking lot. The car was later found burned in Weymouth.

$2 Library Theft

A thief broke into the main branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library early Tuesday morning by breaking a small window on the Spear St. side and stole $2 from a desk drawer.

Council Plans Welcome For Mass. Education Dept.

The City Council will officially welcome the State Department of Education to Quincy at its meeting Monday, May 3, it was announced by Councillor Leo J. Kelly.

Kelly, as chairman of the Council's Downtown Development Committee, played a role in bringing the department, with its 500 workers, to Quincy occupying three floors of the new Quincy Center Plaza.

Education Commissioner John Lawson and Associate Commissioners Michael Daley and William Crowley have been invited to be present to receive a framed copy of the Council's welcome resolve.

Lolita McCray Resigns From Housing Board

Mrs. Lolita (Harris) McCray has resigned from the Quincy Housing Authority. Mrs. McCray was recently married and is moving to New York.

Her position on the QHA is appointed by the Governor.

Members of the QHA were high in their praise of Mrs. McCray, the first black woman named to the local Authority.

QHA Administrative Secretary Resigns

Muriel Chandler resigned her position as administrative secretary of the Quincy Housing Authority citing health reasons.

John Comer, QHA administrator, said the authority accepted the resignation with sincere regrets. Mrs. Chandler served as secretary to former Mayor Arthur Tobin.

PRE-ACCIDENT ORACLE

What can parents tell about their teenage child if he has failed in grade school, smokes cigarettes, works full time, or has a police record? Answer: It's likely that he'll be involved in a traffic accident before he becomes 21.

These are the conclusions of a study by the National Safety Council entitled "Pre-Driving Identification of Young Drivers with a High Risk of Accidents." The study revealed that young drivers who will become involved in traffic accidents can be readily identified ahead of time by one or more of the following indicators:

They experience academic difficulty in grade school, failing one or more grades before grade eight. They were regular cigarette smokers at or before age 16. They had worked full-time at or before age 17. Or they had been charged with a criminal offense.

New Graduation Requirements Adopted By School Committee

Beginning with the class of 1985, students graduating from Quincy public high schools will be required to obtain a total of 100 credits instead of the present 70.

The School Committee adopted the new graduation requirement as a result of the reorganization plan setting up a new middle school system. Under this plan students will begin accumulating the necessary credits in the ninth grade level rather than the present 10th grade of high school.

There will be no Junior High Schools under the reorganization. Grades will run from 1-8 and 8 through 12.

QHA Names Housing Facilities For O'Brien, Arthur Drohan

The Quincy Housing Authority has unanimously voted to name two of its housing facilities as a tribute to Clement O'Brien and Arthur Drohan.

The Oceanview complex will be named after O'Brien, longtime executive administrator, who recently retired. A resolution calling for the name change stated that O'Brien is known in housing circles throughout the state as "Mr. Housing".

The new Copeland St. facility will be named for Drohan, former city councillor and longtime West Quincy businessman. The resolution adopting the facility name noted that Drohan has been held in high esteem by the people of Quincy.

Committee Approves $24.2 Million Budget

By a vote of 5 - 1, the Quincy School Committee adopted the Fiscal Year 1983 budget amounting to $24,250,000.

Voting in favor were Mayor Francis McCauley who as committee chairman, Mary Collins, vice-chairman, Christopher Kennedy, Frank Anselmo and Nicholas Verenis.

Opposed was John Sullivan. Joan Picard was absent.

McCauley said the budget will now go to the Quincy City Council to be acted upon when the Council takes up the general government budget May 3. McCauley said he was not able to tell at this time how much money will become available in state aid to help in reducing the cost of the city budgets.

The School Committee also voted to restore three teachers in music, physical education, and arts. This brings to a total of 30 teachers and six security guards who will be reinstated effective in September after being laid off earlier.

No Action Seen By Board On County Hospital Charges

The Norfolk County Advisory Board was scheduled to meet last night (Wednesday) but Quincy's designee Arthur Foley said no action was expected to be taken on John Barmack, administrator of the county hospital in Braintree.

Barmack was accused last week by County Treasurer James M. Collins of mismanagement after it was discovered that some $175,000 worth of invoices had been redated in order that bills could be paid in a different fiscal year.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley, who is the only Quincy representative authorized to vote on the advisory board, was ready to postpone a scheduled speech before the Wollaston Park Association to be present.

But Foley, who is McCauley's designee at board meetings, said the board might decide to investigate the Barmack matter but it is not authorized to vote on dismissal.

Kelly Requests Aid In Marsh Fire Hazard

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly has asked Fire Chief Edward F. Barry to take some positive action to alleviate the potential dangers from fire in the elephant grass in the Houghs Neck-Broad Meadows marshes.

"The communities have experienced numerous fires in these areas in the past and I am very much concerned for the safety of the homes that are in close proximity to the grass," said Kelly.

He requested action "prior to the hot and dry season of summer."

Cynthia Smith At Keesler AFB

Airman Cynthia L. Smith, daughter of Robert C. Smith of 49 Dayton St., and Phyllis A. Wallin of 177 Whitwell St., both Quincy, has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training.

She will now receive specialized instruction in the air operations field. She is a 1980 graduate of Weymouth South High School.

Chris Papile Wins Scholarship

Christopher J. Papile, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Papile, 12 Harkins St., Quincy Point, a freshman at Worcester Polytechnic Institute, has won a Kodak scholarship to further his education.

The three year scholarship will cover 75 per cent of his tuition for the remaining three years as an undergraduate student at WPI.

Sets New Record

Petracca Wins 'Run For Your Life'

Bart Petracca, North Quincy High boys' track coach and former North Quincy and Cornell University star, won the fourth annual Run For Your Life road race Sunday and set a new record of 24:06. The previous record was 24:07.

Dottie Irvine, a former Quincy High standout, won the women's division for the second year in a row in 32:47.

The five-mile race from Long Island Hospital to Atlantic Junior High raised more than $1000 to benefit cardiac programs at Long Island Hospital and provide two nursing scholarships at Quincy Junior College.

Don Welsh of Dorchester was the second men's finisher and Mike Morrissey of Arlington was third.

In the women's division Jean Morrissey, wife of the men's third finisher, was second and Pat Connolly of Quincy third.

The top finishers in other divisions:

Men 18 and under: 1. John Flynn of Quincy; 2. Jim Kennedy, Quincy; and 3. Garth Petracca, younger brother of Bart.

Women 18 and under: 1. Natalia Clifton, Boston; 2. her sister, Bronia Clifton, Boston; 3. Dawn Baxter, North Weymouth.

Men 19 to 29: 1. Robert Masure, Boston; 2. Jim Kennedy, Dorchester; 3. Owen Sullivan, Quincy.

Women 19-29: 1. Cathy Walsh, Weymouth; 2. Jane O'Hara, Quincy; 3. Fran Manekis, Dorchester.

Men 30-39: 1. Bill Jennings, Bridgewater; 2. Bob Tilly, Canton; 3. David Duffy.

Women 30-39: 1. Kathy McPeck, Weymouth; 2. Ann Pomposelli, Wollaston; 3. Claire Connolly, Weymouth.

Men 40-49: 1. Ken Williams, E. Braintree; 2. Fred White, Pembroke; 3. Sandy Rounseville, Quincy.

Women 40-49: 1. Loretta Parrotta, Holbrook; 2. Ann Wilcox, Pembroke; 3. Gail Connolly, Braintree.

Men 50-59: 1. Don McFay, Quincy; 2. Thomas Flatley, Milton; 3. Frank Hurley, Wollaston.

Women 50-59: 1. Lois Murphy, Quincy.

Tryouts Sunday

The Morrisette Legion baseball team will hold tryouts Sunday, at 1 p.m. at O'Rourke Field, Quarry St., West Quincy.

Any Quincy resident who was born on or after Aug. 1, 1963 regardless of the school he attends is eligible to try out.

In the event of rain, tryouts are held every Saturday and Sunday in May at 1 p.m. at O'Rourke Field. Zone 6 teams this year consist of Quincy, Weymouth, Hingham, Norwell, Brockton and Morrisette.

League competition will begin on June 9 with each team playing a 22 game schedule.

BARBARA CONDON of Quincy, left, and Kris Doran of Braintree were among the 260 runners in the Run For Your Life road race.

SANDY ROUNSEVILLE, proprietor of Beacon Fabrics, heads for third place finish in the men's 40-49 division in his role as Comfortman.

Sen. Paul Harold, who finished 65th; Peter Kenney, executive secretary to the mayor, 68th; Councillor Steve McGrath, 124th; Councillor Richard Koch Jr., 186th, and Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia, 246th.

Mayor Frank McCauley walked the distance in 59 minutes accompanied by his administrative assistant, Arthur Foley.

A total of 260 runners started and all finished.

Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon was the race chairman and she and Paul Harvey of the YMCA distributed trophies and other awards. The primary sponsor was Boston Gas Co., the fourth year it has sponsored the race.

The food was donated by Hendrie's, Burger King, Durgin Park Restaurant, Montilio's, Mug 'n' Muffin, Dutch Treat Donut Shop and Stop and Shop.

BART PETRACCA, the men's winner in the annual Run For Your Life road race in record time, shown with Dottie Irvine, right, the women's winner, and Pat Connolly, the third women's finisher. All are from Quincy.

Bankers Softball League Underway

The South Shore Bankers Softball League has opened its ninth season.

The eight-team league comprised of local banks and Data Services Co., will play a 21-game schedule followed by playoffs on Wednesday and Thursday evenings at Kincaide Park.

On opening night defending champion State Street Bank crushed Quincy Savings, 17-7. Lee Watkins and ageless Bill Sims were standouts for the winners. John Green and Dave Scollins hit home runs for the losers.

Quincy Co-Operative, behind Bob Foy's fine pitching and Jerry Christian's three hits, topped Bay Bank, 8-4.

South Shore Bank exploded for 10 runs in the fifth inning to topple South Weymouth for the first time in recent history, 17-12. Kevin Schwede and Warren Troup stood out for Rick Porter's improved club.

Hancock Bank welcomed Data Services into the league by topping the newcomers, 7-4. Hancock newcomer Joe Silva led the winning attack while Frank Fiske pitched an outstanding game.

Two former Hancock players, Bob Gava and Ed Kelly played well for Data Services.

Coast Baseball Tryouts Saturday

Quincy's entry in the South Shore Coast Baseball League will hold tryouts Saturday morning at 9 a.m. at Montclair Field.

Steps Down At North Burke: 'It Wasn't An Easy Decision'

By TOM SULLIVAN

There will be a noticeable void on the schoolboy football scene next fall.

Dave Burke, head coach at his alma mater, North Quincy, the past seven years and a Quincy assistant for 11 years before that, has announced he will step down after being connected with football as a player and coach for 40 years.

Burke made the announcement, which came as a surprise to most people, last week after meeting with his players and assistant coaches.

"It was not an easy decision and it is something I've been thinking about for some time," Burke said. "It certainly wasn't made on the spur of the moment."

"The toughest part is leaving the kids behind. I met with them a couple of weeks ago and told them of my decision. I can honestly say that in seven years, I've had wonderful players who listened intently and did what they were told. I have extremely loyal players and some tremendous assistant coaches who were also very loyal. I'll miss them all."

"I feel no pressure from North Quincy fans nor school officials. I just felt it was time to take a break after being connected with the game so long."

In his seven years at North, Burke had a 40-27-1 record and he brought the single wing and unbalanced line back to schoolboy football. He was an innovative coach who threw multiple offenses against the opposition.

Burke, who took over from Ralph Frazier in 1975 and became the Raider's fourth coach, guided North to the Div. I Super Bowl his first season. North bowed to Woburn, 20-7.

It was an overtime win over Quincy that put North in the bowl and that season place kicker Ed McElaney won four games for the Raiders with field goals.

Dave was an all-scholastic halfback at North Quincy under Jack Donahue, playing in 1943, 44 and 45. In the 1944 Quincy game Burke threw a long pass to Paul Clem, who went to Quincy's five and on the next play Scotty Whitelaw, now the ECAC commissioner, scored to give North a 6-0 victory.

The following year North kicked off to open the game, the ball went into the end zone and, while the

DAVE BURKE

Quincy players stood around, Burke dashed downfield and fell on the ball for the game's only touchdown and a 7-0 win.

Dave went on to become an outstanding quarterback at Bowdoin College under the famed Adam Walsh.

He began his coaching career in 1950 at the Canterbury School in Milford, Conn., and then moved to Peekskill Military Academy in New York. Before moving to Quincy, he was offensive coordinator at Browne and Nichols for 11 years.

He coached the sophomores at Quincy and turned out several undefeated teams.

He leaves as a winner, his teams having had winning records the last two years. He had a 4-3 record against Quincy, winning in 1975, 1976, 1980 and 1981, while losing three in a row in 1977, '78 and '79.

"I really hate to see him go," Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone said. "He let me know about three weeks ago and I tried my best to talk him out of it. He and I had an excellent relationship."

Burke leaves with the admiration of all his colleagues.

"I hate to see him leave," said Ted Sadowski, a North assistant for 26 years who has worked under every North coach (Donahue, Leone, Frazier and Burke). "I worked under some excellent coaches, but none had a better knowledge of the game than Dave. He was a great offensive coach and he came up with many different plays that confounded the other teams. He had a wonderful way with the boys and he is a real gentleman."

"He worked under some very adverse conditions. Last year, due to Prop 2½, we had to split up our sophomore and junior varsity schedules so that one team would play one week and the other the following week. As a result, next season's seniors and juniors played only half a schedule last fall."

"He is just an exceptional man and a very low key guy," said assistant Ken McPhee, himself a former Raider star who coached with Burke during his seven years at North. "He was an extremely bright coach and I'm glad he went out a winner. I'm extremely sorry to see him leave and school football will be poorer without him."

No one will miss him more than Quincy coach Tom Fitzgerald, who has coached against Dave the past four years on Thanksgiving.

He had a 2-2 record against Burke, winning his first two games against North in 1978 and '79 and losing the last two.

"Dave and I go back a long way, having played together for two years at North (Fitz was an all-scholastic center) in 1943 and 1944. I was one of his assistant at North for three years and he was just a great coach and a great guy. We used to think up various plays and had a lot of fun with them. He would ask me to come up with something new and the plays usually worked."

"Prop 2½ made things tough for all of us coaches and Dave also had to combat double sessions his first few seasons at North. He did a tremendous job and I looked forward to matching wits with him on Thanksgiving. I'm going to miss him next fall."

Armand Colombo, highly successful coach at Brockton High, once said, "I hate to play North Quincy, they throw so many offenses against you, it is difficult to defend them. Dave Burke does an excellent job of throwing the defense off stride."

It won't seem the same next season with Dave Burke, an outstanding individual, looking on from the stands.

Dave will remain as a math teacher at North and also will stay on as Quincy Junior College's only baseball coach. He is now in his 14th year as the Jaguar's coach.

"Baseball is one of my great loves and I enjoy coaching the junior college team," he said.

O'Brien, Bennett Spark Quincy 5-2 Win At Brockton

Artie O'Brien pitched a six hitter and struck out 13 and Capt. George Bennett stroked a homer as the Quincy High School baseball team downed Brockton, 5-2, at Eldon Keith Field, Brockton.

Quincy sewed up the game with four runs in the third inning on three singles, a pair of walks and doubles by Riley and Cameron. The Presidents had only seven hits in the game.

The Quincy lineup included: Cameron cf, Whittum cf, Grogan 2b, Ross 1b, Bennett c, O'Brien p, Sadlier ss, Gizzerelli rf, Riley 3b, Connors lf, Greenhalgh lf.

PLATNER STARS

Nelford Platner won the 220-yard dash in 25.6 and finished second in the broad jump and third in 100-yard dash as the Quincy High School track team overhwhelmed Rindge Tech, 59-13, at Paffman's Oval.

The local boys won seven of the eight events, losing only the 880-yard run to Cook of Rindge after the Presidents' Baltzer had led for most of the race.

Other winners and their times and distances included: 100, Amyth, 10.6; 440, Wood, 56.8; Mile, Shultz, 5:01; High Jumper, Call, Coulson, Crofts, Pendergast, 5-foot-1; Broad jump, Foy, 19-foot-7.5; Shot put, Crocker, 35-foot-7.5.

MACGREGORS DROPPED

Clan MacGregor of Quincy was eliminated from Grand Clan Cup competition when it lost its semi-final game to Clan Robertson, 2-1, at the Walpole St. grounds in Boston.

Capt. Doherty gave the Quincy team a 1-0 lead with a header early in the second period but Singer tied it quickly for the Robertsons and then booted the winning goal.

The MacGregor lineup included: Forsyth g, Lyons rb, J. Milne 1b, Rae rh, Page ch, Russell lh, Hart rf, W. Milne rf, Christie cf, Doherty lf, Kay lof.

TRADESMEN LOSE

The Quincy Industrial School baseball team banged out 11 hits, including doubles by Guidici and McLod, but it was not enough as Weymouth prevailed, 7-5, in the rain at Merrymount Park.

The Quincy lineup included: Guidici 3b, Petite 1b, Trubiano 2b, Lubarsky ss, McAlpine lf, Sprague lf, McLod cf, Duffy c, Thisurbo rf, Harron rf, Hack p.

MANETS WIN OPENER

The defending champion Manets raised the 1926 pennant to the top of the flagpole and then proceeded to wallop the Wildcats 13-9 in the opening game of the new Quincy Junior Baseball League season.

In the second game, O'Brien of the West Quincy Pirates shut out the Orioles for seven innings, then won 5-1 with the help of four spectacular catches by Kegan in left field.

O'BRIEN FANS 15

Southpaw Artie O'Brien struck out 15 Weymouth batters and allowed only two singles as his Quincy High School baseball team tripped the Maroons 2-0, at Merrymount Park.

CENTRAL WINS

The Central Junior High School relay team of Wind, Messenger, Marland and Blake won the final event of the meet to lift the Central trackmen to a 30-29 victory over the Quincy High School second team.

RALLY WINS FOR ATLANTIC

The Atlantic AA rallied for six runs in the eighth inning on three singles, three walks and an error to take a 9-5 victory from the Forest Hills AA at the Ward Six Playground.

ROLLER WINNERS

Dorothy Blake and Dorothy Roberts won first and second place respectively in the Boys and Girls Loyalty Week roller skating competition on Woodward Ave.

OPEN WITH HAVANA

Manager Peterson of the Fore River team in the Boston Two League said he plans to open the exhibition season with games against the Havana Red Sox and the Philadelphia Giants, two of the best Negro teams.

SPORTS BITS '27

Charlie Murphy of Quincy collected three hits and scored the winning run to lead the Boston College freshmen to a 3-2 10-inning victory over Burdett. . . . Hally pitched a one-hitter as the Atlantic TT turned back the Quincy Point Tigers 4-2 on the Ward 2 Playground. . . . Hoxie of Stoney Brae turned in a low gross of 82 but his golf team bowed to Blue Hills, 77-46, at Canton. . . . Christ Church marched to its 10th straight victory in the Episcopal Choir League with a 3-2 victory over St. Chrysostom's behind the pitching of Vanner. . . . Acting Capt. Ossie Chapman was set to lead the first Quincy YMCA track team in many years. . . . Campbell accidentally headed the ball into his own goal as the Fore River Shamrocks lost to the Lusitania Recreation team, 2-1, to break a winning streak on the Boston and District Soccer League.

Mosher Gets 100th Win At Quincy

It was a long time coming, but Quincy baseball coach Bud Mosher finally got his 100th victory Monday when the Presidents overcame a 6-2 deficit and defeated Newton North, 10-6, in a Suburban League game at Adams Field.

Quincy, which improved its record to 2-3, will play at Brookline Friday and will host North Quincy at Adams Field next Tuesday at 3:30.

It appeared Mosher would get his 100th coaching victory last year when he needed five wins to make it. But the Presidents won only three games. This season Quincy started off with a win but lost three in a row before Monday's victory.

"It is nice to get that 100th win, but I thought I'd get it before this," said a happy Mosher.

Andy Eames was Quincy's big star Monday as he had a triple, double and single, drove in a run and scored one. He also gained his first varsity pitching win with 2 1/3 innings of fine relief. He had a save in Quincy's opening day win over Weymouth North.

"He did a fine job for us," Mosher said. "He pitched really well and hit the ball hard."

Jim Bandera went three-for-three to raise his average to .563. He leads the team in runs-batted-in and added another Monday. Paul Guigley had two hits as did Jim DiPietro, who had his second triple of the season.

John Balzano was Quincy's starting pitcher but weakened in the fifth when Newton took a 6-2 lead and was relieved by Eames. Quincy came back with five in the bottom of the fifth and added three in the sixth.

Quincy had lost its previous game to Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 4-2. Bob Ready had a two-run homer and Bandera again had three hits. DiPietro was the losing pitcher.

Earlier the Presidents had lost to unbeaten Brockton, 8-0, and to Weymouth South, 6-1.

Quincy Girls Defeat Rindge-Latin, 10-7

The Quincy girls' softball team, which had defeated Waltham in the opening game, bounced back from a loss to powerhouse Brockton to defeat Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 10-7, last Thursday.

The Quincy girls will host Brookline Friday at 4 o'clock and will play North Quincy Tuesday at 3:30 at Artery Field.

Laurie Prescott drove in four runs in the win over Cambridge and Mary Travers had three RBI. Karen Cullen went four-four-five and Michelle Derbes had three for five. Kim Moccia scattered 11 hits in gaining the victory.

Quincy was outslugged by Brockton, 13-9, in its previous game and in an earlier game everything went wrong as it was bombarded by Weymouth South, 22-0.

Debbie Kiley's seventh-inning home run tied the Weymouth North game, 4-4, and Sue Ayles followed with a two-run homer to clinch the victory.

Elva Raid pitched all the way for the Raiderettes, striking out five.

The Raiderettes will play at Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday and will host Quincy Tuesday at 3:30 at Artery Field.

Bombed By Weymouth S. Bunker Hopes To Patch Raiders Pitching

At the start of the season North Quincy baseball coach Charlie Bunker expected his pitching to be strong, but it has collapsed and Monday the Raiders were bombed by Weymouth South, 14-2, dropping their record to 1-3.

North will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at Adams Field and will face Quincy at the same field next Tuesday. Both games start at 3:30.

"We just haven't been getting any pitching and have given up an average of nearly 11 runs a game," Bunker said. "Jim Kelly has been bothered by a sore shoulder and the other boys just haven't been getting the job done."

Bunker's son, Chris, had three hits Monday and Bob O'Brien, one of the few veterans on the club, had two.

"We have an awfully young team and I am going with the youngsters to get them experience," Bunker said. "We have one of the finest groups of young players, both on the varsity and junior varsity, I've seen."

North's lone victory last week was one to remember as it overcame a 9-0 deficit with a remarkable comeback to give it a 12-9 decision over Weymouth North.

The Raiders scored three runs in the third and then exploded for nine runs in the fifth.

Weymouth pitcher John Walsh gave up four walks for a run in the fifth and four more runs came home on walks before North's Ray Mallory drove in two runs and O'Brien another to complete the turnaround.

Bill Gray picked up the victory in relief.

North was blanked by Waltham.

6-0, with Gray pitching well in relief and Garry Brown making an outstanding play in left field, throwing a runner out at the plate.

North's junior varsity, under first year coach Leo Donovan, dropped a 9-8 extra inning decision to Weymouth South Monday, evening its record at 2-2.

"John Comeau has pitched well in two games and is 1-1," Donovan said. "Mike Gill has been hitting well and was four-for-five against Weymouth South. Paul Ryan and Keith Smith have played well in the outfield."

North Girls Win State Relays

The North Quincy girls' track team added to its many championships last Saturday when it won the state relays (Class C) for the first time. The Raiderettes, who took four first places, won with 68 points.

Lou Tozzi's team won the two-mile with Lisa Reynolds, Regina Nagle, Nancy McCarthy and Mary Kate Kennedy. Another North team of Sheila Wildes, Eileen Morris, Eileen Crehan and Bernadette Murphy finished sixth.

The Raiderettes also won the mile with Nancy McCarthy, Karen Lindenfelzer, Deirdre Donovan and Mary Kate Kennedy. In the same event a North team of Sheila Barrett, Linda Kennedy, Nagle and Murphy was sixth.

North won the long jump with Donovan jumping 16-10 for a new school record and being joined by Mary Kate Kennedy and Kara Crehan.

The Raiderettes' other first was in the shot put with a total distance of 130-9. Michelle Millane, Caryn Smith and Kathy McCarthy made up this group.

North Quincy placed second in the high jump with Kara Crehan, Georgia Traficante and Lauren O'Rourke.

The Raiderettes were also second in the distance medley with Barrett, Linda Kennedy, Reynolds and Lindenfelzer, who ran a fine 2:20.8 half mile leg. North broke the old meet record but finished second to Winchester.

The North team was fifth in the spring medley with Karen McCarthy, Lisa Welby and Maria McGurl.

The Raiderettes face Brockton Tuesday, will be home to Brookline Friday at 3:15, will compete in the Falmouth Invitational Meet Saturday and will be at Weymouth South next Wednesday.

Also in the state relays Saturday, Bart Petracca's North Quincy boys placed in three events.

The Raiders placed second in the long jump with Rich Palma, Tom Kearny and Terry Stark.

They took third in the mile with Kearny, Stark, Jim Kennedy and Palma and took fourth in the 4x880 with Kennedy, Jeff Stricker, Paul Seagraber and Rich O'Brien.

QJC, North Encouraged By Scrimmage

By PETE ZOIA

The Quincy Junior College and North Quincy High baseball teams met in their annual scrimmage last week and both coaches saw some encouraging play.

"This get-together with Dave's (Burke) club always seems to be beneficial to both teams," said

North Quincy coach Charlie Bunker. "I was glad to see Mike Gill hit so well and the scrimmage proved that shortstop Bob O'Brien is headed for a good year."

Gill, a sophomore, had three hits and O'Brien smashed a long triple to right field.

Bunker was able to give his son, Chris, a stint on the mound and was pleased with his performance along with that of Paul Earle. Earle helped his own cause with a triple and Bunker had a single.

"We look forward to meeting Charlie's squad each spring," QJC Coach Burke said. "I agree that it helps both teams. Our catching looks solid with Steve Picot and the infield play of Tom Canavan, Gary DiNardo and Brian Condon shows great promise."

The Jaguar coach used three pitchers and all were in mid-season form.

Bruce Tobin started, followed by DiNardo and Bob Brill and all three gave notice that QJC again has an exceptional pitching staff.

QJC has its work cut out for it this week with five games. It played Blue Hills Technical Tuesday, hosts Wentworth today (Thursday) at O'Rourke Field, goes to Bridgewater State Friday and will play a doubleheader Saturday beginning at 10 a.m. at Blue Hills.

Atlantic Has 2 Teams In City Tourney Finals

Atlantic Center will be represented by two of the final four teams in the Quincy Recreation Dept. city basketball championships for elementary and junior high age boys.

Atlantic earned the two finals by defeating Beechwood Knoll, 35-29, in elementary action and topping Montclair, 37-22, in junior high play.

Atlantic will face Merrymount for the elementary title and will meet Central for the junior high crown.

Atlantic's elementary team was led by Ted Stevenson's 17 points, while Mike Ainsley has 12 points, Jim Fennessey four and Lance Panaro the other two. Dan MacDonald was high for Beechwood with 14 points, 10 in the second half. Kevin Duffy had four points, Joe Mulvey three and Bob McDonald, Paul Murphy and Jack Green two each.

Fennessey hit two clutch free throws with 40 seconds left to put Atlantic up by three and give his club some breathing room.

Atlantic coach Paul Gregoli praised Ernie Light for his defensive performance, while Beechwood coach Jack Kelly had good words for Mulvey and Duffy.

In the other elementary semifinal Merrymount defeated Atherton Hough, 16-12, as a second half rally was not enough to overtake the winners.

Mark Malloy had eight points and Kevin Middendorf and John Henry four each to spark Merrymount, while Kyle Robertson had six points and Chuck Hughes, Joe Devlin and Dana Gagne two each for Atherton Hough.

Chris Rossi had 10 points to spark Atlantic over Montclair in the junior high division. Eric Roukey and Pat O'Sullivan had six each, Mark Scanlan and Robert Bradley five each and Tony Losordo four. Montclair, which had been to the city finals the past four years, was led by Greg McNamara with seven points. Jay Osgood and John Ennis had four each, Mark Bilton three and Mike Kubera and Brian Morris two apiece.

Central topped Beechwood Knoll, 40-31, to gain the finals for the fourth straight year. George Burke had 11 points, Kevin Nichols and Jim Sturgeon nine each, Ted McCarthy six, John Cristiani four and Frank Nolan two. For Beechwood Brian Webb had 13 points, Mike Murphy and Dan Kelly six each and Mike Sullivan five. Jim Phelan played good defense despite early foul trouble.

Somersault Gym Team Wins Meet

The girls' gymnastic team from the Somersault Center in Quincy defeated the Academy Camp in a compulsory meet last weekend in Stoughton.

In Class IV, Sally Donovan was the top ribbon winner in the 10 and under class as she won in floor exercise and balance beam, placed third in vaulting and fourth on bars and finished third all-around.

Amy Johnson placed third on floor exercise, fifth in vaulting on bars and beam and placed sixth all-around.

Katie Doyle placed second on bars and fourth in vaulting and on beam. Dana Guilloy, who has learned all her compulsories, placed sixth in vaulting and on beam and Allison Lawrence took second in vaulting, third on bars, sixth on floor exercise and fifth all-around.

In the over 10 class Carolyn Janik placed third in vaulting and sixth on bars and Marianna Janik placed third in vaulting and on beam, fifth on floor exercise, sixth on bars and fourth all-around.

The Class III girls tried their luck on compulsory routines for the first time and did well.

Marilyn DeBesse placed third in vaulting and fourth on bars. Donna Mattaliano placed sixth on beam, Kristi McArdle took first on beam and fifth in vaulting. Sue Sullivan took second on bars and sixth in vaulting and Kathy Johnson placed second in vaulting with an excellent score of 7.1.

The Quincy teams will host the Gym Hut on May 8 at the center located at 23 Farrington Street, North Quincy with the public invited. Further information can be had by calling 328-9405.

87 Participate In Central Science Fair

Eighty-seven seventh, eighth and ninth grade students displayed science projects in Central Junior High School's third floor Science Rooms recently.

Many community leaders including school teachers, retired teachers, Eastern Nazarene College faculty and Conservation Chairperson, Clara Yeomans evaluated the projects.

The students received help by communicating their ideas to an expert in their field of study.

Michelle Proude received first prize in the ninth grade competition division for her project, "Are Some People More Observant Than Others?"

Mark Hall won second place for "Bacteria Mutations and Immunities."

Patrick Marcham won third place for his project "How Does Lactic Acid Build-up Vary in Male Students?"

All three students represented Central at the State Regional Science Fair at Bridgewater State College.

Michelle will also represent Central at the (Boston Globe) State Science Fair at MIT April 20, May 1 and 2.

Seventh and eighth graders did not compete. But, the faculty and experts have identified the best projects in those grades and have made arrangements for them to compete in Thayer Academy's fifth Annual Regional Junior High Science Fair May 15.

Members of Central's Science Department who prepared and encouraged students include Robert Louis, Fred Crowther, Robert Schiess, Raymond Whitehouse, Thomas Donnelly and William McWeeny.

Assisting the department members were principal Vincent R. Moscardelli, and head counselor, Mary Catherine Iannoni.

Taleb Grotto Band Concert Sunday

Taleb Grotto of Quincy will hold a band concert Sunday 3 to 5 p.m. at North Quincy High School, Hancock St.

Tickets can be obtained at the door.

The prize winning concert and marching band was originally formed in 1923 as a seven piece orchestra, and augmented into a concert band in 1924.

Members of the band have included musicians who have played with John Phillip Souza's band and Edwin Franko Goldman's band.

The 60 members of the band donate their time to the organization which sponsors cerebral palsy chapters nationally.

The band has been under the leadership of Walter M. Smith Jr., for the past 42 years, and the management of Alfred R. Favor for the past 25 years.

YMCA Swim Club To Present Water Show

The South Shore YMCA's synchronized swim club's annual water show, "As Time Goes By", will be presented next Tuesday and Wednesday, May 4 and 5, at 7:45 p.m. in the Y pool.

The adult women's group, the Mermaids, and the girls' group, the Nagettes, have been practicing their complicated swim routines to music. Sometimes referred to as "dancing in the water", synchronized swimming requires great skill and precision.

The International Olympic Committee is including synchronized swimming in the 1984 summer Olympic Games.

WEEK OF: APRIL 29

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
While friends enjoy prosperity, you must tighten your own purse strings. Upcoming travel plans need additional discussion, organization. Missing objects begin to turn up after the weekend.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Love and friendship cycles accented, but resist any urge to splurge. Money burns holes through all your pockets. Spend less time on fussy details, more time organizing priorities.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
Lucky streak continues through Monday, helping you survive some near catastrophes in the area of personal relationships. Friday's cancellation is offset by cheerful financial news.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Eliminate household hazards and dress for variable weather conditions. More objectivity makes it easier to mediate feud between favorite people. Community event sees you in the limelight.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Noteworthy period for bargain hunters, especially for those who collect curios or art objects. Family fitness or health scheme gains unanimous support — with some friendly persuasion from you.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Housemate may be cool or coy, but don't press. Financial news brightening favored by Wednesday. Entertaining on a budget and making gifts from scratch are what you do best now.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Ambition is strong but a sense of direction is important. Plan tactics methodically and do not act on impulse. Financial entanglement means a halt to recent spending sprees.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Relationships are at up tempo and new acquaintances are charming and amusing. Ideas are met with enthusiasm, but you must be ready, willing and able to carry them out.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Accent is on the past. You may learn something about an ancestor, or perhaps a friend from yesteryear steps into the present. Hunches are especially strong through the weekend.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
There's more — much more — than meets the eye in any task you volunteer for this week. Making professional contacts is favored Friday-Saturday. Collect outstanding debts by Wednesday.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
You're very much in charge of household affairs as important domestic scheme takes off. If asked to do any favors this week, check for possible conflicts of interest.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Friction among relatives tires you by the weekend, but life offers touches of glamor as of Sunday. Writers and salespeople especially excel at their work during this week.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Your appearance is important, loyalty is important, luxuries are important. You weigh pros and cons, then stick to your opinion — steadfastly. More flexibility combined with more means that you achieve a career or academic goal ahead of schedule this year.

BORN THIS WEEK
April 29th, conductor Zubin Mehta; 30th, singer Willie Nelson; May 1st, singer Judy Collins; 2nd, singer Engelbert Humperdinck; 3rd, singer Pete Seeger; 4th, actress Audrey Hepburn; 5th, singer Tammy Wynett.

Officers Elected

Quincy Savings Reports Strong Performance In 1981

Quincy Savings Bank President Charles A. Pearce told trustees and corporators at the recent annual meeting, that the bank "made remarkable progress in 1981, under less than ideal conditions."

As evidence of that progress, Pearce cited the bank's operating income of $1,006,294 which he termed "extraordinary in light of the severe pressure on bank earnings experienced by thrift institutions last year." He said that within the industry, Quincy Savings Bank continues to be among the leaders in both earnings and net worth.

Feature speakers were Paul R. Bechet, partner and John P. Conroy, bank tax partner, both of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., who discussed "how best to plan for opportunities as the bank goes forward," and important new tax considerations.

Carroll P. Griffith, Jr., senior vice president and chief financial officer of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, spoke about economic issues of the day.

Victoria A. Medici, Thomas J. Kazanowski and Ann C. White were elected assistant treasurers and Lillian Neville was named sales manager.

Medici, previously assistant operations officer, is a graduate of Massasoit Community College and joined the bank in 1972. Kazanowski, a Braintree resident, is a 1974 graduate of Stonehill College and manager of the bank's Hanover office. White is manager of the bank's Savings Bank Life Insurance department, which increased its sales by almost 50 per cent last year. Neville joined the bank in 1979 and heads up an expanding retail sales department.

With assets of more than $300 million and nine offices throughout Norfolk and Plymouth County, Quincy Savings Bank is a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Hancock Group Net Income Up 26.4%

Hancock Group, Inc., Quincy-based parent company of Hancock Bank, had a 26.4 percent increase in net income for the first quarter ending March 31 compared to the first quarter of 1981.

Net income after security transactions for the quarter were $616,111 or $2.20 per share compared to $487,443 or $1.74 per share for the same quarter one year ago.

President William E. Kelley said that deposits and assets likewise enjoyed healthy increases. Deposits were $138,651,745 as of March 31, 1982 compared to $122,775,297 on March 31, 1981.

Total assets reached $162,950,468 against $141,160,075 one year ago.

Net income before security transactions was $616,169 or $2.20 per share for this first quarter compared to $485,595 or $1.73 per share for the first quarter last year. Hancock Bank operates 16 offices throughout Norfolk County extending from South Weymouth to Plainville.

The bank's 17th office will open around May 1st in the North River Shopping Plaza, Pembroke, its first branch in Plymouth County.

Timothy Hult Mass CPA Fellow

Timothy A. Hult of Quincy has been elected a fellow of the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants, Inc.

He is employed with Alexander Grant & Co., Boston.

Born in Illinois, Hult attended Suffolk University and received his BS degree in 1973.

George H. Thompson Re-elected Weymouth Savings President

GEORGE H. THOMPSON

At the 148th annual meeting of the corporation of the Weymouth Savings Bank held recently, George H. Thompson was elected president and chief executive officer.

Dorothy G. Delano of Braintree and Norman J. Reilly of South Weymouth were elected vice presidents.

H. Winslow Bettinson of Braintree was elected clerk of the corporation.

Re-elected for a three-year term as trustees were Thomas K. Brydson, Frank Lagrotteria, and Kenneth F. Parry, all of Weymouth; Ronald A. Downing of Waltham; Dorothy G. Delano and Vincent Pattavina of Braintree.

Thompson reported that the records show in 1981 that Weymouth Savings Bank was one of the fastest growing savings banks in Massachusetts with new deposits showing a 10.46% increase.

He also reported that in 1981, Weymouth Savings Bank was one of the highest earning savings banks in Massachusetts based on recent statewide surveys compiled by the Mutual Savings Central Fund, Inc.

The bank had an 18% increase in earnings over the previous fiscal year. Assets now exceed $104 million and over $8 million was paid in dividends to depositors during the year.

Two new corporators were elected — Howard A. Grey of Pembroke, vice president and treasurer of Electro Switch Corp. and Roger A. Sealund of Marshfield, building contractor and treasurer of Sealund Realty Corp.

Thompson announced that the bank has obtained approval for a new branch office in Marshfield and expect to have it open during 1982.

In spite of the adverse economic conditions and the problems that many banks had during the past year, the Weymouth Savings Bank had another outstanding and successful year.

Interest Disclosure Okayed For Welfare

The State Taxation Department may now disclose to the Welfare Department the amount of interest that aid recipients are receiving on their bank accounts, Sen. Paul D. Harold reports.

Previously, the commissioner of Taxation was permitted to tell the commissioner of Welfare whether the recipient had received any interest but not how much. A new law changes that.

"It was a bit silly to allow the taxation commissioner to reveal that somebody received interest but be barred from saying how much," said Harold. "This change eliminates that absurdity."

Local Aid Formula

The House and Senate are attempting to agree on a formula that would take into account a community's loss under Proposition 2½ over the last two years. A budget resolution is currently being drafted that would firm up the formula. Under the proposed formula, the City of Quincy would receive just over $7 million because of the severe impact Proposition 2½ has taken on the Community.

While the new formula has a good chance of passage, there is some dissension among legislators who represent communities who received large amounts of local aid last year and whose communities will not suffer substantial losses this year.

The Budget debate is expected to begin Wednesday of this week. Also, committees must take action on legislation by this Wednesday, the reporting out deadline.

Future Undecided Strand Theater Being Sold

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

One of Quincy's two remaining movie theaters, The Strand, is in the process of being sold to Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co. for an undisclosed figure.

City Clerk John Gillis said at Tuesday's License Board meeting that a scheduled hearing on the Strand would not be held because of the impending sale.

The hearing was to show cause why owner Anthony Delpidio's license should not be revoked after incidents resulting from the showing of a Led Zeppelin movie at the Strand March 20.

"There's no sense having a hearing if it's being sold," said Gillis.

John McMurtry, senior vice president and secretary of Quincy Mutual, said he expects that papers will be passed for the transaction before the end of June.

When asked if the theater business would be continued, McMurtry said, "We're still working on the situation."

"We have a purchase and sale agreement, but we haven't made up our minds what we're going to do."

McMurtry said that the transaction has been in the works since the fall of 1981.

Bar Hours Rollback Reconsideration May 11

The controversial roll back of local liquor establishment closing hours from 2 to 1 a.m. will come up again before the License Board Tuesday, May 11, at 7 p.m. in City Hall's Council Chambers.

City Clerk John Gillis said Tuesday that one speaker from each side of the issue will be allowed to address the board.

The deciding vote appears to lie with Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh whose vote of "present" at the March 30 meeting stalemated the board on the issue.

Fire Chief Edward Barry and Building Inspector Allan MacDonald voted in favor of the roll back. City Clerk John Gillis and Police Chief Francis Finn were opposed.

In an interview in last week's Quincy Sun, Dr. McKeogh said that some information indicates that rolling back closing hours can do even more harm.

"My concern is not to make things worse," said Dr. McKeogh.

Finn Asks Authority To Curb False Burglar Alarms

The City Council took under advisement Monday night a request by Police Chief Francis X. Finn for authority to set up a system of fines for false burglar alarms.

"Something needs to be done because of the tremendous number of alarms we are receiving that are false," said Donald Hansen, a civilian coordinator in the Police Department.

"Roughly 97 per cent of the alarms we receive are false."

Hansen pointed out that the city of Newton has a system of $25 fines levied after the third false alarm, although many times the fine is not used but held as an incentive.

City Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro noted that "many, many times the alarm is not the fault of the business establishment or the homeowner," but the telephone company.

"Who makes the determination of who pays in that situation," he asked.

Hansen said that the city of Los Angeles realized an 80 per cent reduction in false alarms after implementation of a similar ordinance.

The police chief's request was sent to the Ordinance Committee.

Adams School Development Discussion Thursday

An open meeting will be held today (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. in the St. John's Lower Church Hall to discuss the proposed development of the abandoned Adams School building.

Among those present at the meeting will be the proposed developers, Adams Associates, which is made up of Kenneth F. Parry Associates, Development Concepts, and Quincy Square Development Corp.

Mayor Submits $65.9-M Figure

47 Layoffs Under New City Budget?

By TOM HENSHAW

City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath, chairman of the Council's Finance Committee, sees the possibility of 22 layoffs in the Fire Department as "the biggest problem" confronting his Committee when it takes up Mayor Francis X. McCauley's $65.9 million budget for 1983.

But, he conceded, there is little the Council can do about it.

"We will have to work closely with the mayor to allocate extra state aid, if any, to the places where it will do the most good," he said, indicating that top priority will be given to the Fire Department where the layoffs are expected in September if nothing is done.

As of Tuesday night, McGrath was undecided on when to start hearings on the $65.9 million budget, which is down $1.1 million from last year and represents a reduction in force of 32 city jobs.

"I'm trying to find times that don't conflict with other hearings and meetings," said McGrath. "We may have to wait for a couple of weeks before starting our hearings."

"All we can do is approve the budget or cut it and it is unlikely that we will find any place to cut, certainly not in the school section."

"I hope we can move quickly once we get started."

The Council has 45 days, or until June 15, to pass the budget and send it back to McCauley.

McCauley himself presented the budget to the Council Monday night.

There will be no firefighters or uniformed police officers among the 25 city employees to be laid off but, McCauley told the Council, there will be 22 firefighters laid off after Labor Day.

However, he said, they could be saved by additional state aid.

Maintenance of the budget figure of $65.9 million depends on the city receiving an additional $5.3 million in state aid. If state aid falls below that amount, he said, the budget will be cut further.

McCauley noted that Gov. Edward J. King has put forward a state aid formula under which Quincy would receive $5.7 million in additional state funds and the State Legislature has a formula that would return $7.8 million to the city.

The King figure of $5.7 million would almost exactly fill the bill to rescue the 22 firefighters since it would require some $400,000 to

Mayor Calls For 'City-Wide Cleanup'

Mayor Francis McCauley is asking residents to involve themselves in a "City-wide Clean-up".

"At this time of the year, we are all aware of the blight on areas of our city caused by debris made up of beer cans and bottles, fallen branches and logs, which were hidden by the winter snow," McCauley noted.

"Because of the reductions in the work force required by Proposition 2½, Quincy is faced with a shortage of people necessary to do a satisfactory clean up job."

He urged all residents to take a civic interest in their own immediate environment and to feel a sense of responsibility for cleaning up their own property and adjacent property, if it is unoccupied.

"I feel that everyone is anxious to have a clean environment," he said. "So, let us all help one another to really enjoy the advent of spring by cleaning up streets and fields, and providing a litter-free area."

McCauley Protests MBTA Quincy Pass Rate

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has asked the MBTA to review what he called the "totally unrealistic" prices that are charged for monthly passes at the Quincy Center station.

McCauley noted that when the MBTA fares went up last fall the pass rates also went up but when the fares went down last week the pass rates remained at the new high.

The mayor said in a letter to MBTA General Manager James O'Leary that he has received many telephoned complaints about the pass rates.

"The complaint of these callers," he said, "is that the pass rate from Quincy Center station is totally unrealistic when compared to the rate charged at Wollaston and North Quincy stations."

The Quincy pass rate went up from $27 to $36 when the fares were increased last year and never came down. The rate at Wollaston and North Quincy is only $22.

"When the fares went down," said McCauley, "the pass rates should have gone down proportionately."

Investigation Continues For Wollaston Blaze Cause

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"By the end of the week, we should come up with something," said Deputy Chief Carl Valenti of the Quincy Fire Department which is still seeking the cause of last Thursday's "suspicious" $500,000 fire in Wollaston.

The fire department is being aided in its investigation by the Massachusetts Fire Marshal's office and the Alcohol, Tobacco and Fire Arms Bureau.

Valenti said that the ATFA has had men at the scene digging through debris since Monday Morning and the work is expected to continue through the week.

"They have a lot of equipment, money and time which we don't have," said Valenti.

Valenti said total damage may exceed $500,000 from the fire which started in two separate locations - the basements of Robert's Hallmark Shop, 7 Beale St., and Mr. Frank's Hair Cutters, 653 Hancock St., both of which were destroyed.

The fire also destroyed Pizza Chef, 661 Hancock St., and Headstart Beauty Salon, 5 Beale St., and damaged other nearby buildings.

Valenti said that fire apparatus was on the scene until about 6 p.m. last Friday fighting small areas that were still burning.

The fire was reported about 12:40 a.m. Thursday.

Stephen Keefe Retires As AF Major General

By TOM HENSHAW

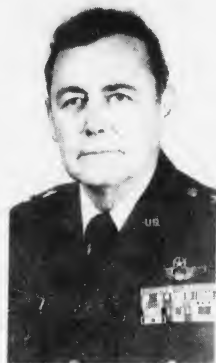

Atty. Stephen T. Keefe Jr., former assistant city solicitor, has retired as a major general after 40 years in the U.S. Air Force Reserve.

The retirement ceremony was held recently at McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., almost 40 years to the day from the time he enlisted on April 6, 1942.

Three times during his 40 years in the Air Force, Keefe was called to active duty, once in World War I, again during the Korean War and the last time during the Cuban missile crisis of 1962.

Keefe was the commander of one of the 24 troop carrier squadrons that were called up by President John F. Kennedy when it was discovered that the Soviet Union had missiles in Cuba.

"The call came Saturday night about 11 o'clock," he recalls. "There were 180 people in my squadron and 172 of them showed up at 9 o'clock Sunday morning. By 8 o'clock, we had 179.

Major Gen.
STEPHEN T. KEEFE JR.

"The only one who was missing was a fellow who was on his honeymoon in the Poconos and he showed up the next day."

The squadron stopped at Ft. Bragg, N.C., to load heavy equipment, then was deployed to Tampa, Fla., where it waited for a week until the crisis passed.

"I led the 18-ship formation that flew over Quincy on the way back," said Keefe. "We landed at Bedford and waiting to greet me was Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa and Red Lewis (Edward T. Lewis, the mayor's executive secretary who earlier was City Manager under Plan E). We had a party at the Officers Club."

One of Keefe's last official missions with the Air Force was participation in Operation Gallant Eagle, the ill-fated exercise in which several paratroopers were killed in California.

Keefe's flight took off from McGuire AFB at 1:30 a.m., joined another flight of troop-carrying C-41s from California on the West Coast, dropped equipment, refueled in the air and returned to McGuire at 2:15 p.m.

"We never touched the ground the whole time," said Keefe. "The operation was extremely well coordinated. It's a shame that those troopers were killed."

On hand for Keefe's retirement ceremony at McGuire AFB was his son, David Keefe, Capt., USAF Reserve.

Dental Corner
by
Lee A. Welky, D.M.D.
WHAT IS TMJ?
Q: I've been getting pains around my ears and throat, but the doctor can't find anything wrong. He suggested it might be a dental problem. How can that be?
A: Many problems can cause chronic facial pain. Lately, attention has been focused on problems surrounding the temporomandibular joint (TMJ) which controls opening of the mouth.
Problems in the TMJ area can affect anyone, but they are more common in women. There may be pain in front of the ear, or over the jaw or temple area. Chewing may be painful, and opening the mouth wide may be difficult or impossible. There may be clicking in the ear.
Usually, the problem is not in the joint itself, but in the muscles and ligaments surrounding it. Grinding of the teeth during sleep can be a triggering factor. A bad bite or emotional stress may also bring on the problem.
Treatment of pain in this area is becoming more effective. Medication can be used in the short run, but most treatment is aimed at eliminating the causes of pain. Oral appliances may be necessary, as well as dental treatment to eliminate a bad bite.

Special Program For Children Of Alcoholic Parents

The Alcohol Resource Center for Primary Prevention recently completed a seven session program for children of alcoholic parents.

The program, co-sponsored by the center and the Thomas Crane Public Library, was attended by 20 children ages 6 - 10 years from the South Shore.

It was designed to help children understand parental alcoholism, and deal with their own feelings regarding alcoholism in the family.

The program culminated with a puppet show performed by members of the Way Up under the direction of Rev. Gene Langevan. The Way Up is a Christian youth ministry serving youth on the South Shore.

The show "My Story by Willie", was followed by a children's liturgy and a presentation of gifts for the children by their parents.

Kathleen Flaherty, director of the Resource Center, coordinated the program and was assisted by Kathleen Sullivan, staff member. Rev. Tom Martin of Weymouth and five Boston College student interns.

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the chief probation officer at the Quincy District Court?

2. True or false: Henry H. Richardson was the architect who designed the Thomas Crane Public Library on Washington St.

3. Winthrop St. is located in what section of the city?

4. The man who immediately preceded Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon as superintendent of Quincy schools was: James N. Muir? Robert E. Pruitt? Paul Gossard?

5. What Quincy landmark is located at 95 Crescent St., West Quincy?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. John R. Herbert is the president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank.

2. False. The Abigail Adams Cairn in South Quincy marks the spot where Abigail Adams and her son, John Quincy Adams, watched the burning of Charlestown in the Battle of Bunker Hill.

3. James Stewart Square is located at the intersection of Liberty St. and Brooks Ave., South Quincy.

4. The total area of the city of Quincy is about 17 square miles.

5. The headquarters of the Quincy Oil Co. are located at 10 McGrath Highway.

New York's first subway line was opened to the public on February 26, 1870. It was operated by a rotary blower which propelled it like "a sailboat before the wind."

McCauley: 'Several Terms'

It should come as no great surprise, but Francis McCauley doesn't plan to be a one-term mayor.

Or two, for that matter.

He intends to be around City Hall for sometime.

McCauley was quite frank — no pun intended — as guest on the Quincy Newsmakers panel show videotaped for Quincy Cablestems' Ch. 3. (It is scheduled for showing tonight, Thursday, at 7 p.m.)

McCauley has made no secret of the fact that one of his favorite Quincy mayors was the late Amelio Della Chiesa who holds Quincy's mayoral longevity honors. He served 12 years — eight under Plan A and four under Plan E.

After noting that he himself DELLA CHIESA has enjoyed being mayor, McCauley was asked if he enjoyed it enough to want to serve 12 years like Della Chiesa did.

McCauley said he doesn't intend to be a one-term mayor and right now — just four months in office — he is a definite candidate for re-election.

"I plan to serve several terms," he said.

He wasn't saying, he said, that that meant 12 years. But he wasn't saying that it didn't. People can interpret it any way they want, he mused.

After "several terms" he said, the time would come for him to have completed his job and move out to make room for someone else.

ROSS

Incidentally, the late Charles Ross for whom the Ross Parkingway is named, served the longest as mayor under a single form of government. He was Plan A mayor for nine years.

McCauley has a long way to go to match either Della Chiesa or Ross, but he apparently plans to head in that direction.

FOR ANY OF YOU who wondered why Sam Mele didn't play in the Red Sox Oldtimers' game last Saturday at Fenway Park, it was because Sam was helping celebrate his mother's 90th birthday in Astoria, L.I.

More than 80 nephews, nieces and friends of Mrs. Anna Mele were on hand for the occasion. She is the sister of former league player and manager Tony Cuccinello, who was with the Boston Braves and

MELE

Al Cuccinello, a big league scout. "I would love to have played in the game, but my mother's birthday came first with me," Sam said.

CITY COUNCILLOR Leo Kelly was chatting with William Kelley, president of the Hancock Bank, out on Long Island prior to the start of the Run For Your Life Marathon. Kelley, who was running in the race, was waiting for his friend, developer Tom Flatley to show up. Flatley finally arrived and discovered he was supposed to pre-register with a $6 entry fee. He was in his running clothes and didn't have any money on him. Kelley was in his running clothes and didn't have any money on him either.

KELLY

So Kelly came to the rescue. He volunteered the $6 entry fee for the millionaire developer who didn't have a dime on him while the bank president, who didn't have a dime on him either, burst into laughter. Kelly and Flatley joined in.

Flatley sent Kelly a thank you note and quipped: "It's the first time in my life I've had a man from the political arena subsidize my race. For years I have been doing the same in helping people from your field."

Enclosed with the note was a gift certificate for a night out at Flatley's Upper Crust Restaurant.

Enclosed with the note was a gift certificate for a night out at Flatley's Upper Crust Restaurant.

SPEAKING OF THE Run For Your Life Road Race, you might say it was sort of a family affair for Joe Doran of Doran & Horrigan Insurance, North Quincy.

Joe ran in the race. So did his son, Paul and daughters Kris and Ann Doran and Barbara Murphy, his son-in-law, Kevin Murphy and the latter's parents, Police Lt. William and Lois Murphy. Lois, incidentally, was the winner in the 50-59 age category.

SENATOR Paul Harold was the keynote speaker at the George F. Bryan VFW Post Loyalty Day program Sunday on the steps of historic First United Parish Church. And, it brought back a fond memory for him. Nineteen years ago to the day, Harold gave his first public speech — on the same subject. It was during Loyalty Day ceremonies at Broad Meadows Junior High School in 1963 when he was president of the Student Council. On that day, Harold shared the stage with Lt. Gov. Frank Bellotti.

First Run In Boston Marathon

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I enjoyed your article on Senator Paul Harold finishing the Boston Marathon, as well as your piece on Quincy Police Lt. Frank Mullen completing his fourth run in that event.

You mention that John Furey, a former Quincy High distance runner, finished 463rd in 2:39.05.

As a note of general interest, this was John's first attempt at the BAA Marathon. At 19 years of age, he met the minimum age requirement.

John was the only runner from Quincy to finish in the top 500. He is on a partial scholarship for long distance running at Eastern Nazarene College and works at a local service station. After crossing the finish line, John jogged to Park Street station and took the subway home.

Reprimanded In Injured Police Officer Incident

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The owners of Quincy Pizza and Dairy Bar, Inc., 130-132 Washington St., were reprimanded and placed on probation for three months at Tuesday's License Board meeting.

The action was taken after Quincy Police Officer Francis Barnes reported to the board that he slipped on some ice and suffered a broken leg and broken arm while responding to a call at the restaurant Feb. 12.

Barnes said that he received no assistance from the owners after he was injured, and was eventually aided by a passerby.

He also said that according to another officer, Francis Johnson, owners of the restaurant later

"refused to cooperate and refused to be interviewed."

"There's no reason in the world they would not want to help a police officer who came to their aid," said Atty. Sidney Milgram who represented owners Helen and Thomas Kitisilis.

"They had no reason to believe the officer had a problem," said Milgram who maintained the owners didn't realize the officer had been injured while leaving out a back exit with a suspect.

Mrs. Kitisilis told the board that when she later heard some noise, she called the police with some assistance from a customer.

"I would be satisfied if she did make that call," said Barnes.

"There seems to be some confusion here," said Police Chief Francis Finn. "I honestly don't think these people acted in 100% good faith."

"And they were not cooperative when the officer went back for information."

"But it seems reasonable that they did make a call for assistance."

After making the motion to reprimand the owners Finn said, "if I had even the slightest reason to believe that they didn't make that call, I'd ask for revocation of their license."

"You'd get it, too," agreed fellow board member Allan MacDonald.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeough voted against the reprimand, saying he favored a six month license suspension.

Deegan Orders Rigid Traffic Enforcement

City Manager William J. Deegan Jr. instructed Police Chief Joseph F. Hughes to assign all available men to rigid enforcement of traffic rules following a barrage of criticism from city officials.

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin called attention to speeding around Quincy Square's rotary traffic pattern and yearned for the days when the famed Two Gun Baker rode herd on speeders on his motorcycle.

"I think we are getting a little too loose," said Burgin. "I think it is about time something is done."

City Councillor Alfred G. Helfrich protested speeding on Beale St. in Wollaston and Councillor Edna B. Austin noted that both private cars and buses were ignoring traffic signals in the Square.

RUTH GORDON PLAYS

A Metro Goldwyn Mayer photographer visited Quincy to make background pictures for a movie of Ruth Gordon's autobiographical play, "Years Ago," based on her youthful days in Wollaston.

Accompanied by Asst. City Clerk Donald P. Crane, he photographed Central Junior High School, the Wollaston Railroad station and the former home of Miss Gordon on Elmwood Ave., Wollaston.

It was reported that starlet Debbie Reynolds, who is to play the role of Miss Gordon in the movie, will be visiting Quincy in late July or early August to film some scenes.

ANTI-GAMBLING VOTE

The Quincy Council of Churches passed a series of resolutions sponsored by the Rev. Bedros Baharian, pastor of the Quincy Point Congregational Church, in opposition to gambling.

The few dissenting votes were led by the Rev. Joseph D. Parkman, pastor of the Atlantic Memorial Congregational Church, who protested that the resolutions did not go far enough.

"I feel that we are trying to stamp out only a small section of the gambling evil when what we should be concerned with are the much larger evils of organized gambling," he said.

WORK FORCE DOWN

Henry N. Hazard, general superintendent of the Fore River shipyard, told the Long Service Club that the work force will decline when the Export Liner Constitution is completed May 24.

But it should rise from the current 6,500 to 8,000 in January, 1952, he said, after work gets underway on five high speed cargo carriers for which the first keel is to be laid July 1.

$65.9 Million Budget

retain them.

But, the mayor cautioned, "I don't want to spend any additional state aid until I have it."

The 32 city jobs that will be eliminated in the 1983 budget include 25 layoffs and seven positions that will go by attrition. In addition there will be two reductions in grade.

Here is a rundown of layoffs and other job changes in the various city departments:

Police - Four traffic supervisors, one drug abuse coordinator, one research analyst, one senior clerk, one account clerk, one foreman in motor equipment repair, one cadet, one student intern and three chief telephone operators reduced to telephone operator.

Public works - One painter, two parttime custodians, one storekeeper in the water department, one plumber in the water department.

Park-Forestry - One park foreman, one work foreman stonemason, one building maintenance man, three laborers.

Health - One head clerk, one director of dental services, one dentist, one dental assistant, one head clerk.

Veterans Services - One clerk typist.

Purchasing - One printer.

Personnel - One senior clerk typist.

Assessor - One clerk typist.

Elections - One clerk typist.

City Clerk - One principal clerk reduced to clerk typist.

Cuts in the Police Department budget, which is pegged at $6,312,019, or 6.1 per cent less than last year, are explained like this:

Uniformed personnel - 205, up one from 1982, with 192 positions funded in the 1983 budget. Civilian personnel - 30, down five,

Traffic supervisors - 33, down 12 from 1982.

"While the total police budget shows a total of 268 positions, only 255 are funded in the budget. The additional funds necessary to maintain a complement of 268 positions will come from revenue sharing."

"It appears at this time that surplus revenue sharing funds from fiscal 1982 will be adequate to fund the 268 positions through fiscal 1983."

The Fire Department budget is set at $5,659,691, down 10.1 per cent from 1982. The budget is funded to reflect a total complement of 219 men.

"There are funds available with surplus 1982 revenue sharing to fund 241 men through Labor Day. After Labor Day layoffs will be necessary."

"No fire stations will be closed or pieces of equipment taken out of service."

Wollaston Break

Cheryl Walsh reported to police Sunday that someone forced entry through a rear basement door and ransacked the bedroom of her home on Fayette St., Wollaston. An undetermined amount of jewelry was stolen.

South Shore Bus Co., Inc., is going to have its bus route from Hull to the Quincy Center MBTA station.

The City Council Monday night reversed an earlier vote and granted South Shore Bus a permit to use the streets of

Council Okays Hull Bus Route

Quincy to transport some 250 passengers daily from Hull.

The vote was 7-1 with only one negative vote cast by Councilor Stephen J. McGrath, who expressed fears that were echoed by other councilors who managed to overcome them.

"If we vote yes," said McGrath, "the MBTA is not going to have service down there and South Shore Bus is going to have the thing pretty much sewn up and we will never see the T down there."

Councilor Leo J. Kelly said he felt the same way but he also noted that the town of Hull does not receive any direct MBTA service yet it still has to pay an assessment for T losses.

"It's unfair," he said. Kelly also noted that the withdrawal of Hull and other fringe towns from the MBTA district would place an extreme burden on the T which would have to be picked up somewhere else.

McGrath suggested that perhaps the Council could grant a temporary permit, say 60 days, but City Solicitor William Golden said such a vote would be improper.

"Then," he said, "the matter would be left for the State Department of Public Utilities to dispose of and its decision would supercede any City Council action."

Former State Rep. Carolyn Stouffer of Hingham spoke at length in favor of the permit.

"Hull commuters have had to endure far more than they should have to get decent transportation," she said. "This involved people in Hingham, too, in areas not serviced by the MBTA bus."

"The private bus line was doing very well but the recent action of the Quincy City Council is very distressing. To deny the bus the right to enter the Quincy station would be a disaster for the service."

"The people of Hull need your help. This is a time for neighbor to help neighbor."

Councilor Richard J. Koch said the MBTA carmen's union told him that management of the T had been asked if it intended to extend bus service to Hull.

"They did not get a negative answer and they did not get a positive answer," he said. "Based on that I have to support the permit."

Cancer Crusade At One Third Of Goal

The Quincy Cancer Crusade's house-to-house solicitation program has achieved about one third of its $13,000 goal, it was announced by General Chairman Richard J. Koch.

Some $4,300 has been received at the Hancock Bank since April 30.

Koch said that 400 of the 1,250 volunteers who have been soliciting their neighborhoods have completed their assignments and others are urged to do so as soon as possible.

Persons wishing to donate but have not been contacted may make their checks payable to the American Cancer Society and leave them at any branch of the Hancock Bank.

Mother's Day Breakfast For Beth Israel Family

Members and friends of the Beth Israel Family are invited to share in a Mother's Day observance Sunday.

Morning worship is scheduled for 8:30 a.m. in Beth Israel Synagogue, 33 Grafton St.

There will be special remembrance and thanking hymns.

Wilmer and Eleanor Paquette will be honored as "Good Neighbors".

The day will be dedicated in honor of the Jewish National Fund, Zion and Israel. Samuel Skoler is J.N.F. chairman.

Breakfast and a program will follow at 9:30 a.m. in the Morris Silverman Hall.

Mother's Day mementos will be presented to all ladies present.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Reisberg will be hosts of the breakfast in memory of Ida Reisberg and Ida Goldstein.

The "Curtain Up" group at Bethany Congregational Church will present a Broadway Revue Friday, May 14, at 8 p.m. at the church, 18 Spear St.

The 150th anniversary committee is sponsoring the night of show tunes from musicals such as "West Side Story".

"Oklahoma", "Guys and Dolls", "The Music Man", "Annie", "A Chorus Line", "Godspell", and "The Sound of Music".

Refreshments will be served. Tickets are available at the church office. For reservations, call 479-7300.

The "Curtain Up" cast includes Lindsay Dyett, soprano; Karen Nell Smith, soprano; Roberta Gilbert, mezzo-soprano; Kent Ahern, tenor; Scott Leland, baritone; Wayne Wilkins, baritone; David Carrier, piano; David Harvey, percussion; and Brad Smith, technical director.

Parting Ways Story At Historical Society

Marge Anderson, founder and executive director of the Parting Ways Museum of Afro-American Ethnohistory, will present a slide lecture Tuesday, May 11 at 1 p.m. in the Quincy Historical Society.

Parting Ways is a section of Plymouth that was settled in 1792 by black Americans who were granted land and freedom for their services during the Revolutionary War.

Anderson will describe her efforts to establish a Parting Ways Museum and research the lives of the black families whose presence symbolized the meeting of two cultures in America's hometown.

The program is part of the QHS's "Quincy Remembers" series. For further information call 773-1144.

H.N. Council Sponsoring Fund Raising Dance

The Houghs Neck Community Council will sponsor a fund-raising dance Saturday, May 15, 8 p.m. to midnight at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall, Darrow St., Houghs Neck.

"The Fabulous Fifties" will be featured at the record hop.

Tickets may be obtained at the door, or in advance at the Houghs Neck Pharmacy, Pattie's Beauty Salon, and from members of the council's executive board.

Peggy Nigro is chairman.

MAY BASKETS were presented to students at the Atherton Hough School by residents of the Eventide Home, Quincy. On hand for the annual exchange were Eventide residents, from front, Doris Coull, Helen Packard, May Thayer, Lottie Slater, Evelyn Perley, Ambrose McGilvary. Fifth grade students at right are Lisa Hardy, Kelli Ridlen and Mike Perkins.

Craft Showcase Saturday At Quincy Cooperative Grand Opening Celebration

The Quincy Cooperative Bank is sponsoring a Craft Showcase, featuring demonstrations by a chair maker, blacksmith, weaver and potter, as part of the grand opening celebration of the bank's new headquarters at 85 Quincy Ave., Quincy.

The Craft Showcase is scheduled for Saturday, May 8 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The demonstrations will take place, rain or shine, under a tent in the parking lot adjacent to the new offices.

"Dedication — to one's work and to one's beliefs — is the theme of the opening, and nowhere is dedication to quality more evident than in the work produced by American craftspeople," says Debbie Zawlich of the Quincy Cooperative Bank.

Among the four to demonstrate a craft is Peter Follansbee, a chair maker who resides in Weymouth. Follansbee will split boards from a green log, as well as assemble a chair from previously shaped pieces. In green woodworking, the craftsman uses a few hand tools to shape the wood. Modern power tools are not needed — and are never used.

Ray Larsen, a blacksmith from Rummage Sale At Wollaston Congregational

The Service Group of Wollaston Congregational Church, corner of

Rummage Sale At Fenno House

Fenno House, 540 Hancock St., Wollaston, will hold its annual rummage sale Saturday, May 15, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Common Room.

A sandwich luncheon will be available at 11:30 a.m.

Hanover, will do the finishing work of filing and polishing on several already-forged pieces, including a food chopper, a steel knife, and a hacksaw with handles forged to fit the user's hands. Larsen specializes in making quality hand tools, as well as reproductions of old tools for such places as Old Sturbridge Village.

Gradually a brightly colored wall hanging will appear on the loom of Joan Hausrath, a weaver from East Bridgewater. Several of her finished pieces will be on display, and Hausrath, like others in the Craft Showcase, welcomes questions from onlookers.

Those who pause to watch Polly Seliger Egelson of East Falmouth shape pots on an electric wheel are welcome to form objects from slabs of clay nearby. Finished pots — already glazed and fired — will be on display.

The Craft Showcase is one of many activities scheduled by the Quincy Cooperative Bank during a month-long Grand Opening Celebration at the new main office. Another event will be a drawing with a first prize of an Atari 400 Computer System, complete with The Entertainer and The Educator. Other Atari prizes to be awarded include the Pac Man video game. Customers who deposit $250 or more to accounts (with the exception of NOW accounts) can select one of three gifts: a $10 gift certificate to Shaw's Supermarket, a digital desk clock on a self-standing lucite frame, or a navy blue nylon duffel bag with white trim.

GRUBBY

By Warren Sattler

STARSCOPE

by Clare Annswell

WEEK OF: MAY 6

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19

Advance planning brings fruitful results in business or pleasurable dealings. (Just don't mix the two.) Home improvement scheme can become more complicated, more expensive through the week.

PISCES — February 20-March 20

Good period for cutting ties as you consider your own best interests. Partner becomes more considerate through the week. Decorating and designing are favorably accented now.

ARIES — March 21-April 20

Impatience is your worst enemy now; with unrealistic expectations, you only step backward. With care and concern, however, a romantic goal and a financial one can be yours by Wednesday.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22

Changes for their own sake get you nowhere; remember the old maxim that "less is more." Interest in health and nutrition benefits your family. Charming new faces brighten career setting.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21

Partner becomes more generous through the week, responding to your reasonable requests. That's the keyword: reasonable. Extremes in any area — spending, work hours, athletics — land you in rather hot water.

CANCER — June 22-July 22

People are interested in recruiting you into groups and committees; don't make rash decisions. Financial news brightener arrives after weekend. Academic goals benefit from re-evaluation.

LEO — July 23-August 22

Small financial favors may be earned this period, as are fresh starts in romance and friendship. Another focus is on gaining knowledge, especially in areas of psychology and the occult.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22

Reluctant friend becomes more giving by the weekend. Your ideas are clever, but you may have trouble implementing them. Look for a partner with talents to complement your own.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22

Some role reversals may take place in your household this week. Eventual financial headway can be made once you're ready to give up some short-term extravagances.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21

Imagination sparkles. Experiments in the kitchen or workplace bring an ovation — provided you don't try anything bizarre. Directions should be confirmed before starting long-term task.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22

Your wit may be brutal — make sure your audience can handle it. Trial-and-error is best approach in romance department, but use proven technique in any matters involving money.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20

It may be time to puncture a friend's inflated ego — and do everyone a favor in the process. Civic participation brings you into public eye on the weekend. Overdue letter arrives by Wednesday.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You adore the fine things in life (especially jewelry), respect the past, are realistic and cautious. Lessons learned over the last twelve months lead to significant career or academic accomplishment by late '82, early '83.

BORN THIS WEEK

May 6th, actor Stewart Granger. 7th, actress Anne Baxter; 8th, actress Melissa Gilbert; 9th, actor Albert Finney; 10th, actress Nancy Walker. 11th, dancer Martha Graham. 12th, scientist Pieter Vos.

May 18 Deadline For LaBrecque Essay Contest

Tuesday, May 18, is the deadline for submitting entries in the Richard T. LaBrecque History Essay Contest being held by the Education Committee of the Quincy Historical Society.

The contest honors the memory of Mr. LaBrecque, a local newspaper writer, whose interest in Quincy's history was evidenced by his numerous articles on the subject.

Essay topic will be "The Great Depression As It Was Lived in Quincy". There will be a first place award of $75, and second place prize of $50.

The essay will be compiled by interviewing residents of Quincy who lived through the Depression of the 1930's. Two or more interviews are required, and no more than one may be with an immediate family member.

Other primary and secondary sources may be used.

The essay must be 1,500 to 2,000 words long, and must be typed and double spaced.

Entrants must be high school graduating seniors who reside, or attend school, in Quincy.

Essays must be submitted in duplicate to the Education Committee, Quincy Historical Society, Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St., Quincy.

For more information, call the historical society at 773-1144.

Quincy Cooperative Bank Crafts Showcase

To celebrate the opening of our new Quincy Cooperative Bank headquarters we've invited four of the South Shore's finest craftspeople to demonstrate their crafts—and we'd like you to come and see them, and to enjoy musical entertainment, too. Admission is free.

Peter Follansbee
CHAIRMAKER

Peter Follansbee of Weymouth, a self-taught maker of wooden chairs, begins with a log that is repeatedly split then shaves the pieces into chair parts with a knife. On May 8, Mr. Follansbee will demonstrate this fascinating craft, alternately working on a new log and a partially completed chair.

Joan Hausrath
WEAVER

A traditional craft with contemporary flair! Joan Hausrath, a nationally recognized weaver and Associate Professor of Art at Bridgewater State College, will be exhibiting her brightly colored contemporary wall hangings, while demonstrating her craft on a 5' by 5' loom.

Ray Larsen
BLACKSMITH

Ray Larsen of Hanover has elevated the ancient art of "smithing" into a new art form. Come watch as he demonstrates finishing work on several forged pieces, including a food chopper, a hunting knife, and an elaborate all-steel hacksaw. Mr. Larsen's work has been exhibited nationally.

Polly Seliger Egelson
POTTER

Come watch Polly Seliger Egelson of East Falmouth, an award-winning sculptor and potter, as she shapes pieces of pottery from slabs of clay, both by hand and at the wheel. As she works, she welcomes those interested in trying their hand at the craft. Ms. Egelson will also exhibit several finished (fired) pieces.

Baybanks Holding "Hawaii Cashstakes" X-Press 24 Promotion

BayBanks, Inc., a Boston-based bank holding company which controls 10 Massachusetts banks with more than 195 locations, is holding a consumer promotion which will send three winners to exotic vacation spots and give others a chance to win prize money.

The cash and trip prizes total $100,000.

The promotion, is called "The BayBank X-Press 24 Yourself to Hawaii CashStakes." Anyone 18 or over can enter. A customer who has a BayBanks Card can enter everytime he or she completes an X-Press 24 transaction at any one of the BayBanks' more than 240 X-Press 24 automated tellers. Non-cardholders can enter by asking anyone at any office of the BayBanks for an X-Press 24 demonstration. Complete details and entry forms are available at all offices of the BayBanks.

The names of 12 winners will be drawn weekly through May 29th. Each winner will have a chance to make cash prize withdrawals for three minutes at one of four selected X-Press 24 locations. In addition, all entrants become eligible for the Grand Prize drawing in which cash and vacation trips for two to Hawaii, The Bahamas and Bermuda will be awarded.

In addition to having X-Press 24s at most of their branch offices throughout the Commonwealth, the BayBanks have X-Press 24s at remote locations such as Logan Airport, colleges and universities, shopping mall kiosks and at the offices of major employers in Massachusetts.

The BayBanks network of automated teller machines is the largest in New England, and is among the largest in the country.

"The retail banking industry has been revolutionized by the introduction of sophisticated banking equipment," said Gordon N. Oakes, Jr., Executive Vice President of BayBanks, Inc., "and we are proud that BayBanks is leading the way in adapting this technology in order to provide fast, convenient and efficient banking services for our customers."

North Finds Pitching But Loses Bat Power

North Quincy baseball coach Charlie Bunker, whose pitchers had been getting knocked around, finally got a fine performance last week from Paul Earle.

But the Raiders' hitting collapsed as they dropped a 3-0 decision to Cambridge Rindge and Latin to drop their record to 1-4.

North Quincy faced Quincy Tuesday, has a bye today (Thursday) and will host Brookline Monday at 4 o'clock at Adams Field.

Earle, who had been having his troubles, pitched a four-hitter and struck out seven in a losing effort against Cambridge. It was the Raiders' finest pitching performance of the season.

Bob O'Brien, one of the few veterans on the North squad, continued his outstanding play at shortstop.

Quincy Bows In Slugfest

The Quincy baseball team, after giving Coach Bud Mosher his 100th victory, lost a 13-12 slugfest to Brookline last week to drop its record to 2-4.

The Presidents played North Quincy Tuesday, will host undefeated Brockton today (Thursday) at Adams Field at 3:30 and will play at Waltham Monday at 3:30.

Jim Bandera continued his torrid hitting against Brookline as he had four hits and five RBI to raise his average to .630.

Steve Spencer had two hits and three RBI and Andy Eames hit a home run.

Quincy fell behind, 11-6, after two innings and just missed pulling it out with a fine comeback.

Quincy Girls Bomb Brookline

The Quincy girls' softball team evened its Suburban League record at 2-3 last week when it bombarded Brookline, 20-3.

The First Ladies played North Quincy Tuesday, will be at Brockton today (Thursday) at 3:30 and will be home to Waltham Monday at 3:30 at Faxon Field.

Kim Moccia continued to pitch well for Quincy as she hurled a two-hitter against Brookline and also cleared the bases with a triple.

Quincy had its batting shoes on as Susan Dacey had two hits and three RBIs Janet Whitman had two hits and two RBIs and Cheryl Carmody added three hits.

South Shore Turns Back Quincy Savings

Mike Bruson's fine pitching combined with timely hitting by Larry White and Steve Cahoon paced South Shore Bank to its second straight win in the South Shore Bankers Softball League, an 8-6 decision over Quincy Savings Bank.

Bill Lomano and Phil Jones played well for the losers.

Rich Zawulich had four hits and Bob Foy again pitched well, but Quincy Co-operative Bank came up short as Hancock Bank held on for its second win in a row, 11-10. Hancock had led, 11-3, Terry McCormack, Steve Belcastro and Bill Guerard stood out for Hancock.

Track Club Holding Registration eight-year-olds up to 14.

The club is still looking for more members and information can be had by calling 328-8188.

Atlantic Data Services picked up its first victory in the league, 9-6, over Bay Bank Norfolk. Bob Gava pitched a strong game for the winners and Bob Howe and Charlie Cahill had timely hits.

The State Street-South Weymouth Savings game was called off because of wet grounds.

The standings: South Shore Bank, 2-0; Hancock Bank, 2-0; State St. Bank, 1-0; Quincy Co-op, 1-1; Data Services, 1-1; South Weymouth Savings, 0-1; Quincy Savings, 0-2; Bay Bank Norfolk, 0-2.

North Girls Roll, 15-2

The North Quincy girls' softball team turned its best all around performance last week to roll over Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 15-2, and improve its record to 2-3.

The Raiderettes, who played Quincy Tuesday, have a bye today (Thursday) and will play at Brookline Monday at 3:30.

Karen Boutlier pitched a four-hitter and struck out two against Cambridge.

Mary Holleran, Susan Ayles and Elva Reed drove in three runs each as North unleashed its best batting attack of the season.

Colonial Defeats Boston Gear, 5-3

Colonial Federal defeated Boston Gear, 5-3, Sunday as the Junior Baseball League opened.

Bob Keddy was the winning pitcher with nine strikeouts and he also hit a three-run homer and a single. Matt Furtado had a home run and a triple and scored two runs for Gear and Steve Rabs pitched an outstanding game in a losing cause as he allowed only four hits and struck out nine.

Bright Future Seen For North Track Team

By TOM SULLIVAN

Although the North Quincy boys' track team is 0-3, Coach Bart Petracca, himself a former Raider standout, feels his sophomore-dominated team will be hard to beat in the next two years.

"If this spring season is an indication of things to come, we will be very hard to beat in the future," he said. "We have a lot of strength in the running events with these sophomores, but we need more depth in the field events to produce a more balanced team in years to come."

North does have some good competitors in the field events in its seniors. Rich Palma, 1981 Suburban League champion in the long jump, is undefeated so far this spring and should place high in the state meet. Bob Pound, a 47-foot shot putter, is expected to hit 50 feet before the season is over. Mike Panaro, who has qualified for the state meet by throwing the javelin 159 feet, is ready, shot putter Paul Ciarfella, who has placed in every meet, is also ready and, in the discus, Ed Green and Richie Stevens are the leaders. Scott Fano, in his first season in the pole vault, is shooting for the 10-foot mark.

In the running events seniors also are the leaders. In the mile, cross-country captain Rick O'Brien is looking to break the 4:40 barrier. In the 220 Palma, who indoors tied for first in the state 300, wants to repeat outdoors. Fano, a newcomer to the low hurdles, who hopes to qualify for the states. In the 880 and mile John Dunlea and Bill Mahoney are consistently strong performers.

Among the top juniors on the team are Mark Balzarini in the shot put, Dave Cuervals in the javelin and 100 and Garth Petracca, brother of the Raider coach, in the middle distances.

"The meat of this team consists of sophomores, many of whom have great potential," said Petracca.

Jim Kennedy has run the fastest 880 this spring, a fine 2:07 and also runs a strong leg on the mile relay team. Two-miler Paul Seeger, who has done 10:33, promises to be one of North's best distance runners.

Sprinters Tom Kearney, Terry Stark and Jeff Stryker are also high point-getters. Kearney, who has run a fine indoor 440 in 53.7, also is a threat in the long jump.

Stark has bettered 18 feet in the long jump and Stryker, with a 38-foot triple jump, hopes to qualify for the states.

The Raiders' lone hurdler and high jumper is sophomore Jaime Paz. Filling in the gaps in the running events are sophs Arthur Collins, Bill Donnelly, Steve Golden, Paul Gorzyca and John Tamburi. The lone sophomore javelin thrower is Mike Donovan.

"There are two freshmen distance runners on the team that I want to mention," Petracca said. "Even though they don't score in the meets, they show up for practice every day and run with the older kids. I just hope that the North teams of the future include runners like Danny Anderson and Scott Coyne."

"Despite our winless record, I feel the team can place high in the state meet. I hope that parents and friends of the boys will come to the meets and offer encouragement. The boys deserve it."

The Raiders faced Weymouth North Tuesday and next Wednesday will host Newton North at Veterans Memorial Stadium at 3:15.

HN Softball League To Open

Denneen 4-Hitter Captures Crown For North Junior

George Denneen pitched a four-hitter and struck out 11 to lead the North Junior High School baseball team to an 8-2 victory over South at Kincaide Park for the Junior high championship.

Joe Crowley, North's first baseman, was rushed to City Hospital with a possible broken collarbone after a collision with catcher Bob Lyons while both were chasing a pop fly in the fourth inning.

The North lineup included Denmore ss, Moran 2b, Mullin 3b, Coolidge cf, Lyons c, Denneen p, Crowley 1b, Bulger lf, Barnes rf-1b, Phillips rf.

The South lineup included Ricciarelli 1b, DiBona rf, Leone 2b, Weinstein c, Peterson lf, MacDonald cf, O'Donnell ss, Stranberg 3b, Morrison p, Karlson p, Bonafini rf, Taylor p.

Central scored 15 runs in the fourth inning and went on to roll up the biggest score of the year in the league with a 29-5 win over Point at Fore River Field.

FRAZIER'S HIT WINS

George O'Rourke tripled and Gerry Frazier drove him in with an infield single in the 11th inning as the Quincy High School baseball team edged North Quincy, 9-8, at Adams Field.

Dick Drake, the last of five pitchers used by Quincy Coach Billy Sullivan, received credit for the win while Ronnie Frongello, relieving starter Gus Cuneo for the second straight game, was the loser.

The Quincy lineup included Balducci lf, O'Rourke lf, Frazier 2b, Ojala cf, Tempesta rf, Drake rf-p, Hebert rf, LoCicero ss, McDonald c, Salvucci 3b, Twomey 1b, Lake p, Comeletti p, Myers p, Calkins p.

The North Quincy lineup included Nelson lf, Carroll 1b, Miller 2b-3b, Crowley 2b, Coulaos cf, Rose c, Cadogan rf, Buckley 3b, Cuneo p, Frongello p, Ryan ss.

WOLLASTON GOLFERS WIN

Capt. Al Denly and Johnny Wallace, two down at the end of nine holes, rebounded on the back nine to beat Joe DeLarrio and Jimmy Clifford of Norfolk for Wollaston's first win of the Norfolk County League season.

Denly's eagle three on the 15th at Wollaston was the decisive hole.

The Denly-Wallace best ball was a six-under 67, one stroke better than Wollaston's No. 1 pair, Charley Bowen and Chick Gallagher, who won their match easily.

JUDEANS VICTORIOUS

Krasniror chipped in with 28 points to lead the Quincy Senior Young Judean basketball team to a 53-46 victory over Worcester to win the regional and district titles.

The win earned Quincy a semi-final berth in the national tournament in North Carolina in August.

The Quincy Judean lineup included Berman, Culler, Solow, forwards; Krasniror, center; Weinstein, Schwartz, guards.

HURLEY HERO

North Quincy's Dave Hurley caught Ed McDonald of Weymouth on the anchor lap to give the Raider relay team a win over the Maroons in the annual South Shore Interscholastic track meet at Weymouth.

The victory made Hurley a hero in Baintree, which won the team title over Weymouth by two points.

OUTDOOR BASKETBALL

The Quincy team, made up of the high school jayvees, surprised Milton, 31-28, in the first outdoor armlight basketball game ever played on the South Shore at the new YMCA Youthland courts on Coddington St.

NORTH GOLFERS SWEEP

The North Quincy High School golf team of Don McNeice, John Mundle, Hal McCarthy, Fred O'Brien, George McNeil and Joe McDaniel won its fourth straight Norfolk County League match, 9-0, over Needham.

MONTCLAIR WINNERS

900 OUT FOR LITTLE LEAGUE

Harold (Boots) Chapman, who was in charge of the program, said he was pleased with first day workouts of the Quincy Little League, for which 900 candidates turned out at 10 playgrounds.

SPORTS BITS '51

Ronnie Frongello pitched a three-hitter and struck out 16 as North Quincy belted Cathedral High School, 8-2, at Montclair Field . . . Ed McGee of Quincy won the mile in four minutes, 51 seconds but the Presidents' track team bowed to Brockton, 51-26.

. . . Bill (Moon) Mullin of Squantum, a catcher on the Tufts baseball team, was leading the Jumbos in hitting with a .327 average . . . The Quincy Homing Club released 160 pigeons in North Adams and a bird owned by Archie MacPherson of Hingham won the 100-mile race to Baintree.

Little Loop Raises $2,001 For Muscular Dystrophy

The highlight of the Quincy Bowling Little Loop's 28th annual awards dinner at Quincy K. of C. Hall was the announcement of a new record of $2,001.00 collected in the Muscular Dystrophy Bowl-A-Thon. This was the league's year of participation.

The previous mark of $1,817.51 was raised in 1980. All 60 boys, ranging in age from 11 to 16, also established a new record of 100 per cent in cooperation.

A seven-year total of $12,188.85 has been turned over to the Southern Mass. Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association—the last two years in memory of David R. Brodie, a former member of the league's board of directors.

The top four fund raisers were David Murphy, $225.00; Neil Hatfield, $208.57; Robert Kovalski, $132.00 and John Waterman, $83.52. All will appear on the Jerry Lewis Labor Day telethon.

Stanley Morgan, wide receiver of the New England Patriots, was the guest speaker and gave an informative talk on the program and fielded some difficult questions from the boys, their fathers and the sponsors.

Morgan contributed to the drawing for a baseball autographed by Ted Williams, Frank Robinson, Curt Gowdy, Mark Fidrich, Carl Yastrzemski, Ralph Houk, Ken Harrelson, Johnny Pesky, Jim Rice, Dwight Evans, Jerry Remy, Sam Mele, Mike Torrez, Rich Godman, Bob Ojeda and Billy Almon. Morgan won it and wanted to give it back but the boys insisted he keep it.

Jay Dolan had the season's high average of 102.3, Eddie Tasney the high three of 356 and Matt Miceli the high single of 144.

Bryan Post VFW won the league championship with Local 1451 second and Quincy Elks third.

Hillshire Farm had the season's high team three and Montclair Men's Club the high single.

The Jim Broadbent Memorial Award for Most Improved bowler went to Jeff Darigo and the Pop Hatfield Memorial Award for good sportsmanship to John McGrath.

Stan Kovalski, Matt Miceli, Jerry Martin, Jay Dolan, John Broadbent, Pete McPartlin, Jeff Darigo, Dan Batts, Kevin Kiley, Ken McLaughlin, Chris Connolly, John Outerbridge, Bob Kovalski, Charlie Bostwick, Brian Flanagan, Neil Hatfield, John Waterman and Joe Grimaldi had perfect attendance this season.

Bill's Welding Sweeps Doubleheader

Defending champion Bill's Welding opened the South Suburban Softball League season on the right foot Sunday, sweeping a doubleheader from WSW, 6-0 and 7-4.

PJ's Minnart also opened with a doubleheader sweep, topping the Koch Club, 6-0 and 14-1.

Farrington Market and the Tigers broke even, the Tigers winning the opener, 6-1, and Farrington the second game, 5-3.

Safford Market and the Spoilers also split, Safford winning the first game, 6-5, and the Spoilers, led by the hitting of Paul Cotter, winning the nightcap, 9-5.

The Outlaws won both games from Presidential Pub as Dick Brewer was the winning pitcher in both games.

Action will continue Sunday at 9:30 with Koch Club meeting Farrington at Montclair, the Spoilers facing WSW at Montclair. The Outlaws playing Bill's Welding and Means Concrete facing Safford at Cavanagh Stadium. Presidential Pub meeting PJ's at General Palmer Field and the Tigers facing the Bombers at Snug Harbor Field.

North Girls Second In Falmouth Invitational Meet

The North Quincy girls' track team, after winning the state relays, defeated Brockton and Brookline in Suburban League meets last week to improve its record to 2-0-1 and last Saturday finished second to old nemesis Falmouth in the open division of the Falmouth Invitational Meet.

Lou Tozzi's Raiderettes faced Weymouth South yesterday (Wednesday) and will be at Newton North next Tuesday at 3:15. Saturday they will compete in the State Coaches Invitational Meet at Brockton.

The North girls rolled over Brockton, 71-47, with Michelle Millane a double winner, taking the shot put and discus.

Deirdre Donovan won the 100 and took second in the 220, Mary Kate Kennedy won the 440, Karen Lindenfelzer won the 880 with Lisa Reynolds third, Nancy McCarthy won the mile with Sheila Barrett second, Linda Kennedy won the two-mile with Regina Nagle second and Meg Leary third and Marie McGurl was third in the hurdles.

Donovan was second and Mary Kate Kennedy third in the long jump and Georgia Trafficante won the high jump with Karen Crehan second.

Millane won the shot put with Karen McCarthy third. Millane also won the discus with Lindenfelzer third. Eileen Crehan won the javelin and the North Quincy team of Mary Kate Kennedy, Lindenfelzer, Reynolds and Eileen Crehan won the mile relay.

The Raiderettes easily topped Brookline, 80-38, with Millane again winning the shot put and discus and Donovan winning the long jump and taking seconds in the 100 and 220.

Reynolds won the 440 with Eileen Morris second. Bernadette Murphy took second and Liz Toland third in the 880. Leary won the mile with Eileen Crehan second, Nancy Wildes was second in the two-mile and McGurl won the hurdles with Kristin Howard third.

Donovan won the long jump with Chris Francis second. Kara Crehan won the high jump with Trafficante second. Lindenfelzer was second in the discus and Eileen Crehan won the javelin with Toland third.

North won both relays. Murphy, Morris, Toland and Reynolds winning the mile and Howard, Linda Welby, Francis and McGurl the 440.

In the annual Falmouth Invitational North had 38 points, four less than host Falmouth. Wareham was a distant third with 14.

Nancy McCarthy was an easy winner in the 1500 meters. Millane won the discus and was second in the shot put. Donovan was third in the 200 meters, fourth in the long jump and ran with the winning mile relay team with Lindenfelzer, Nancy McCarthy and Mary Kate Kennedy.

Mary Kate Kennedy was second in the 800 meters, Barrett was fourth and Linda Kennedy fifth in the 3000 meters and Kara Crehan second in the high jump.

North scored 12 points in the novice meet as Leary won the 1500 meters in a record 5:14.9 and Lauren O'Rourke took fifth in the high jump.

"The Falmouth meet was good for us," Tozzi said. "Michelle is the best all-around thrower in the state and we expect her to lead us in these big meets. We are pointing for the Eastern Mass. meet at the end of the month."

CAR IS NOT A PLAYTHING

There are several tragic reasons why youngsters should not be allowed to play in or around unoccupied cars. Here are three:

- A three-year-old girl, playing in a station wagon with the automatic window controls, put her head out the window and pressed the button that raised it. She choked to death.

- A little boy removed the gasoline cap on a car parked in a driveway. Later, while playing under the car, he struck two stones together, creating a spark that set off an explosion. He was disfigured by burns over his entire body.

- A little girl released the brake on a car parked on a sloping driveway. It rolled across the street and struck a curb. She was thrown out the door and fell under the wheels where she was crushed.

You can prevent needless tragedies like these by insuring that your parked car is always locked, especially in the driveway.

Close Games In Spotlight

The Quincy Youth Soccer League continued to provide plenty of excitement last weekend as the youngsters, showing steady improvement each week, turned in some close and interesting games.

In girls grades 1-3, the Royals held their big lead with a 3-0 win over the Celtics. Carrie Hughes had all three goals and Susan McCole, Christine Barrett and Chris Kelly had assists.

The Teamen edged the Flames, 2-0, on two goals by Julie Tangney. Jennifer Barbuto and Colece Greeley had assists and Laila DiSilvio played strong defense.

The standings: Royals, 10-0-1; Teamen, 2-4-5; Celtics, 2-6-3; Flames, 1-6-4.

In girls grades 4-9, league-leading Patriot Insurance squeezed by the Sockers, 2-0, in Lisa Pugliese's two goals, Vicki Borek and Nancy Barrett had assists and Debbie Blaney was outstanding in goal. Amy Conroy scored for the Sockers.

Quincy Co-op Bank edged the Dolphins, 1-0, on Dede Ferreira's goal. Erin Gillis had an assist and Julie Manning was outstanding in goal. Jean Roche played well in goal for the Dolphins.

That's Italian edged the Jets, 2-1, on goals by Mary and Christine Foy. Mary Pelligrino and Sheila O'Connor played well. Rachel Boland had the Jets' goal and Claire Murphy assisted.

Razer's Edge got by the Stars, 1-0, on Annmarie Hughes' goal.

The standings: Patriot Insurance, 8-1-2; Sockers, 6-2-3; Quincy Co-op, 6-3-2; That's Italian, 4-4-3; Razer's Edge, 4-5-2; Dolphins, 1-1-1; Jets, 0-3-0 and Stars, 0-11-0.

In boys grades 1 and 2,

Hancock Bank held its slim lead with a 7-1 win over the Hawks. Mike Rose exploded for five goals and Chris Peck and Brian Doherty had one each. Timmy Sherman scored for the Hawks.

Bryan Post edged the Strikers, 1-0, on Chris Olsen's goal.

Angelo's Auto Sales topped the Falcons, 4-0, as Tony Giannandrea had a hat trick and Bob Marini one goal.

Quincy Savings Bank sneaked by the Spurs, 1-0, on Kevin Kane's goal.

Adams Cleaners walloped Wickens & Troupe, 6-0, as Chris Connor scored four goals and Matt Flynn two.

The standings: Hancock Car Wash, 7-2-2; Angelo's Auto Sales, 7-2-2; Strikers, 5-3-3; Bryan Post, 5-4-2; Adams Cleaners, 3-3-5; Quincy Savings, 3-3-5; Wickens & Troupe, 3-5-3; Spurs, 2-8-1; Hawks, 1-2-0, and Falcons, 0-3-0.

In boys grades 3 and 4, Keohane's held on to its lead with a 5-0 win over Balducci's. Timmy Roche had two goals and David Quirk, Pat O'Donohue and Bob Moriarty one each. Tim Roche and Jeff Bina played well for Balducci's.

Sen. Paul Harold Club rolled over W. T. Hight, 9-0, despite the fine play of Bill Early, John Heaney and Ed Rizzitano for the losers.

Dependable Cleaners edged President's Pharmacy, 2-1, on goals by Jason Doyle and Mike Hughes. Joey Schepis scored for President's with Bobby Lally assisting.

Yamaha-Suzuki blanked Quincy Police, 5-0, on goals by Tom McNamara, John Fahey, handled.

QJC had only seven hits but three were for extra bases, a triple by Steve Conley, a double and single by Tom Canavan and a double by Picot. Brian Condon, Brian Tobin and Mark Baker had singles.

QJC walloped Blue Hills Tech, 13-3, in the first of two meetings, with Bob Brill and DiNardo pitching well.

Brill pitched four-hit ball and struck out seven in five innings and DiNardo gave up two hits and struck out four in his two innings of shutout ball.

Six runs in the first salted away the win for QJC. It added four in the sixth on triples by Condon and DiNardo and singles by Newcomb and Baker. Baker singled with the bases loaded and had three RBI's. Condon had three hits, Canavan, Kevin McDougall, Brian Colwell and Benjamin Goodman, Chris Spillane and Tim Collins played well for the winners.

The standings: Keohane's, 10-0-1; Harold, 8-3-0; Dependable Cleaners, 7-2-2; President's Pharmacy, 6-3-2; Yamaha-Suzuki, 6-5-0; W. T. Hight, 2-9-0; Quincy Police, 1-8-2; Balducci's, 0-10-1.

In boys grades 5 and 6, league-leading Moore & Cabot edged Jack Conway Realty, 2-1, on goals by Derek Nelson and Joey Foley. Mike Perkins scored for Conway and Dan McClosky sparked in goal.

Giovanni's Bakery blanked the Bucks, 3-0, as Brian McNeil, Jimmy Fennessey and Steve Delacey scored the goals. Fennessey and Oscar Jara had assists.

China Star shut out the Rangers, 2-0, on goals by Patrick Murphy and Scott Rogers. Tommy Burke had an assist.

The standings: Moore & Cabot, 10-0-1; Giovanni's, 5-4-2; Rangers, 5-4-2; China Star, 4-3-4; Jack Conway, 4-6-1; Bucks, 0-11-0.

In boys grades 7-8-9, the Cosmos held their lead by defeating the Aztecs, 3-1, David Duffy, Tim O'Brien and Danny Herlihy had the goals and John Murphy, Ed Flynn, Paul Hennebury and Greg Harper had assists. Kevin Kuska scored for the Aztecs with Keith Freeman assisting.

The Timbers edged the Sounders, 2-1, with Kris Meyer scoring for the Sounders.

The standings: Cosmos, 6-2-3; Sounders, 7-4-0; Timbers, 5-4-2, and Aztecs, 0-8-3.

QJC later defeated Blue Hills, 7-5, coming from behind. Bruce Tobin struck out 11 and received plenty of batting support as Condon went three for three, including a double, Newcomb, Brill and Conley had two hits each and Picot and Tom Dunscombe one each.

QJC suffered its only loss at Bridgewater State, 10-2, as the Jaguars were held to three hits, Picot, Newcomb and DiNardo having them. Dunscombe made a sensational catch in right field.

QJC has three games this week. It played Bristol Tuesday, Bridgewater yesterday (Wednesday) and hosts New Prep today (Thursday). All games are at O'Rourke Field at 3:30.

Bowling

Shields Team Koch Men Champs

Mike Shields and his teammates won the 1982 Koch Club Men's Bowling League championship, defeating Dick Koch Jr.'s unit in the rolloff, 1506-1430.

Shields led his team to victory firing a 330 in the battle between the first and second half winners. He was aided in the win by Mario Scorza with 323 and Mark Hart, 316.

Koch Jr. led his squad with a 309 while Stan Locke and Tom Koch posted 284 each.

The winners caught the second half victors cold in the first string and outscored them by 54 pins to win.

In the final individual standings for the season, Jim Broadbent, Jr. first year bowler with the loop, finished with the league's high average of 111. In the top 10 are Mike Shields, 107.2; Tony Monti, 106; Joe Keenan, 105.4; Al Mancuso, 104.2; Joe Grimaldi, 102.5; Stan Locke, 102; Bob Woodman, Sr., 100.8; Steve Mancuso, 100.7, and Paul Koch, 100.6.

Joe Keenan took the high individual three string total of 396 and shares the best single string with Mike Doyle, each had 154.

Keenan also took the remaining team honors, high three string total of 1552 and best single string of 576.

Dave Prescott fired a 372 as the only one qualifying for the weekly "320 Club" in the final night of the season.

The league will hold its 32nd annual awards banquet on Saturday, May 15, at 7 p.m. at the Quantum Yacht Club on Quincy Shore Drive.

Paul Koch, the only charter member of the Koch Club Men's Bowling League, will assume the presidency for the 1982-83 season and will be assisted by 20-year member Jim Moody, secretary, and 2nd generation bowler, Tom Koch, treasurer.

Saluti, Guerriero Pace St. John's

QJC Takes 3 Out Of 4

By PETE ZOIA

The Quincy Junior College baseball team won three out of four games last week to improve its record to 5-1.

The Jaguars started the busy week with a 7-6 victory over Wentworth, their second one-run win over Wentworth.

Wentworth started fast and pounded QJC earlier Bruce Tobin for six runs and seven hits in the first two innings. Gary DiNardo came on to pitch and the former Quincy High and Morrisette star shut the door for 5 2/3 innings.

The Jaguars kept pecking away, scoring two runs in the third and tying the score with four runs in the fifth. DiNardo scored the winning run in the seventh as he walked, moved up on Steve Picot's bunt and scored on John Newcomb's hard grounder that couldn't be handled.

QJC had only seven hits but three were for extra bases, a triple by Steve Conley, a double and single by Tom Canavan and a double by Picot. Brian Condon, Brian Tobin and Mark Baker had singles.

QJC walloped Blue Hills Tech, 13-3, in the first of two meetings, with Bob Brill and DiNardo pitching well.

Brill pitched four-hit ball and struck out seven in five innings and DiNardo gave up two hits and struck out four in his two innings of shutout ball.

Six runs in the first salted away the win for QJC. It added four in the sixth on triples by Condon and DiNardo and singles by Newcomb and Baker. Baker singled with the bases loaded and had three RBI's. Condon had three hits, Canavan, DiNardo and Baker two each and Newcomb, Brill and Brian Tobin one apiece.

QJC later defeated Blue Hills, 7-5, coming from behind.

Bruce Tobin struck out 11 and received plenty of batting support as Condon went three for three, including a double, Newcomb, Brill and Conley had two hits each and Picot and Tom Dunscombe one each.

QJC suffered its only loss at Bridgewater State, 10-2, as the Jaguars were held to three hits, Picot, Newcomb and DiNardo having them. Dunscombe made a sensational catch in right field.

QJC has three games this week. It played Bristol Tuesday, Bridgewater yesterday (Wednesday) and hosts New Prep today (Thursday). All games are at O'Rourke Field at 3:30.

Notice of Fiduciary's Account

To all persons interested in the estate of GERALD R. WOLFE late of Quincy, in said County, deceased.

You are hereby notified pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 72 that the first and final account of MARJORIE L. PATENAUDE as Executrix of the will of said deceased has been presented to said Court for allowance.

If you desire to preserve your right to file an objection to said account, you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before the nineteenth day of May, 1982, the return day of this citation. You may upon written request by registered or certified mail to the fiduciary, or to the attorney for the fiduciary, obtain without cost a copy of said account. If you desire to object to any item of said account, you must, in addition to filing a written appearance as aforesaid, file within thirty days after said return day or within such other time as the Court upon motion may order a written statement of each such item together with the grounds for each objection thereto, a copy to be served upon the fiduciary pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 5.

Witness, ROBERT M. FORD, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this fourteenth day of April, 1982.

Board Clears Way

$3-M Condo Planned At Adams School

By KENNETH BORDEN and JOHN NOONAN

Plans for the renovation of the Adams School in South Quincy into 50 condominium housing units, costing approximately $3 million, have been unveiled by Adams School Associates, which has a bid in for the old building.

The Planning Board cleared the way for such a development by giving initial approval to a zoning change from residential to planned unit development (PUD), a controlled category for large projects.

Adams School Associates, which includes Kenneth F. Parry Associates, Development Concepts, and the Quincy Square Development Corp., has offered the city $350,000 for the property.

City Planning Director James Lydon said at a meeting at St. John's School last week that if all went well, the renovation plan and property bid might be given his department's approval by July.

Quincy City Council approval would then be necessary.

Adams School Associates plans include:

- Building of six townhouses overlooking Madison Ave.
- Addition of a new direct access drive into the rear parking area of the school from Madison Ave.
- Construction of a new parking area on the northwest area of the property.
- Building a pitched roof on the school.
- Internal remodeling of the school into a four and a half floor structure.

Estimated cost of the project is approximately $3 million. Funding will be available from the Federal Home Loan Bank in Washington, D.C., according to Philip Greenspan of the Quincy Savings Bank.

The average condominium unit will sell for approximately $72,000. The city of Quincy would receive an estimated tax revenue of $90,000 annually.

Most units will contain one bedroom, but a few will have two bedrooms. Starting price per unit will be $60,000. No federal subsidies will be involved.

Charles Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank, told residents the planned project is the best possible type of development for that area.

Residents warned developers that snow removal on Abigail Ave. presents a serious problem because the street is difficult to plow and goes unpaved for days.

City Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro, the meeting coordinator, told residents he would check with the Public Works Department about Abigail Ave. and any other snow removal problems in the area.

Residents voiced concern about limited space for off-street parking for visitors to the project. DeCristofaro said that if parking becomes a problem he will seek parking restrictions on certain streets.

When asked what would happen if there should be future need for the school as an educational facility, Lydon replied that Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon told him current school population predictions do not indicate the need for a school in that area.

Residents expressed concern about the lack of adequate water pressure in the area at certain times of the year, particularly

St. John's Pastor Assails Remarks By Klein

The Rev. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church, has taken exception to remarks by Andrew Klein, chief probation officer at the Quincy District Court, that appeared to equate a decline in juvenile arrests with a decline in the size of Roman Catholic families.

Klein issued a personal apology to "anyone who took offense at my off-the-cuff quip about why the state's juvenile population was decreasing."

"I certainly intended," said Klein, "nothing other than to suggest a correlation between the decline in juvenile crime and a similar decline in family size -- among Catholics, Protestants and Jews."

Asked to comment on a report by the State Department of Youth Services that the number of juvenile arrests have dropped since 1978, Klein was quoted as saying:

"We're running out of delinquents."

"Around here a lot of it is because the Catholic Church has lost its clout on birth control. Catholic families are a much smaller than they used to be."

Fr. McCarthy, in a letter to The Quincy Sun, called Klein's remark "offensive and odious not only to all Catholics living in the Quincy area but also to those living along the South Shore and other parts of the Archdiocese of Boston."

"In the confines of St. John's Parish I am quite familiar with many large families, including some with nine or more children who are a definite credit to their church and community."

"These large families clearly demonstrate what family life in today's troubled society is all about. They are united and caring for one another."

"Many parents undergo great sacrifices to keep their family units together and instill in them positive values and ethical motives. I am quite aware of the results of these parental efforts."

"With regards to birth control, one can observe that families are smaller but that cannot be attributed to what Mr. Klein calls 'loss of clout by the Catholic Church on birth control.'"

"Mr. Klein has no statistical evidence or any other kind of authenticated data to make such a specious conclusion.

"The trinity of Americanism which makes this country great is based on love of God, love of country and love of fellow-man."

"Since the founding of this country Catholic families have pledged themselves and dedicated their lives to fostering that trinity of Americanism."

"Mr. Klein by his offensive remark tends to divide our citizenry by singling out a particular religion for attack and criticism. More than 20 years ago the ecumenical movement espoused by Pope John XXIII caught fire in this country and abroad. It brought people and religions together in a spirit of love and brotherhood."

"Mr. Klein, however, prefers to conduct a movement of vilification and disunity. I call upon Mr. Klein to reconsider his rash statements and recant."

"Quincy is a city rich in history. Mr. Klein's remark is reminiscent of a past event that had great significance and impact in local religious circles."

Bar Closing Vote May Be Delayed

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The long awaited License Board decision on the rollback of local liquor establishment hours from 2 to 1 a.m. may still be a few weeks away.

As The Quincy Sun went to press, indications were that no vote would be taken at the License Board meeting Tuesday evening.

According to City Clerk John Gillis, the board would listen to one speaker from each side of the issue, and then take the issue under advisement until the next meeting, May 18.

A vote would be possible next week, except that board member Police Chief Francis Finn recently underwent minor surgery and is expected to be out for three weeks.

"We may hold it for three weeks then," said Gillis.

If a vote were taken in Finn's absence, the board would likely be deadlocked on the issue once again.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh has indicated that he will join Gillis in voting against the roll back.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald and Fire Chief Edward Barry voted in favor of the rollback at the March 30 meeting.

Finn had also voted against the rollback

City To Use Sevin Against Gypsy Moths

The city was scheduled to start spraying for gypsy moths with the controversial chemical pesticide Sevin in wooded areas of West Quincy Wednesday.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said his office has "received no calls, one way or the other" about the use of Sevin, which has been banned by some communities particularly for aerial spraying.

"It's probably the most studied pesticide that we have," said Forestry Supt. John Koegler, "and there is no concrete evidence that there are any problems with it."

City equipment was to be used to spray the Sevin from the ground in areas of high concentration of oak trees in the Blue Hills west of the Southeast Expressway and Willard St.

"We will be concentrating on the areas that were impacted last year," said McCauley. Sevin was used in the city in 1981 to check the worst infestation of gypsy moths in years.

The start of the spray program depended on the weather, said Koegler; if there were high winds or rain the spraying would be postponed until it cleared.

Spray areas will be announced on Quincy Sun's News Channel 8 on Quincy Cablesystems and on WJDA.

MDC Cracks Down On Beach Drinking

The MDC has started its summer crackdown on drinking along Wollaston Beach.

More than 20 persons were arrested last Friday night following complaints of loud noise from beach neighbors and an incident involving injury to an MDC officer.

Four two-man teams of officers in cruisers and a sergeant and two officers on motorcycles starting patrolling the beach at 10 p.m. Friday night, asking those who were drinking to move along.

Juveniles and adults who refused to leave were arrested on charges of possession of alcoholic beverages on the beach, said Officer David O'Leary.

Early Friday morning, MDC Patrolman Paul Hartley suffered several broken ribs when he was pushed over a wall by a group of men as he tried to break up their party.

He fell about seven feet from the top of the wall on Quincy Shore Drive to the beach. Police are seeking four men in their 20's in connection with the incident.

Schools Get Extra Afternoon Off

Quincy schools will be closed one additional afternoon over the next few weeks to allow time for the superintendent to meet with staff regarding year-end assessment and reorganization.

Students will be dismissed at 1 p.m. on the date their school will be closed early.

The meeting date places and the schools involved on each date are:

May 13, Point-Webster, Pollard, Broad Meadows, Atherton Hough, and Snug Harbor. Staffs will meet at Broad Meadows.

May 19, Sterling, Lincoln-Hancock, Willard, Central Wollaston, Furnace Brook, and Merrymount. Staffs will meet at Central.

May 20, Atlantic Junior, Parker, Massachusetts Fields, Squantum, and Montclair. Staffs will meet at Atlantic.

May 26, North Quincy High School. Staff will meet at the school.

June 2, Quincy High and Quincy Vocational-Technical. Staffs will meet at Quincy.

McCauley In Final Tax Rate Meeting

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has a meeting with state officials tomorrow (Friday) at 4:30 p.m. for a discussion that may at last clear the way to a tax rate for the current year, fiscal 1982.

The delay by the state in approving the tax rate already has cost the city some $200,000 in interest on short term borrowings made to keep the city running in the absence of tax receipts.

McCauley said he received a call Monday from Edward J. Collins Jr., deputy commissioner of revenue, asking for a meeting with him and Elmer Fagerlund, the chief assessor.

"They didn't ask for any new information this time," said the mayor. "I assume they want to talk about the tax rate but I'm not sure exactly what they want."

A proposed tax rate was submitted to the Department of Revenue for approval March 25 along with recap sheets and Collins twice called back for clarification of several points.

The city was supposed to have submitted the 1982 rate last fall but delays in the revaluation process kept postponing the submission.

Early this year, the state agreed to let the city use the old valuations on more time in setting the rate when it appeared that reval would be delayed until well past the end of the fiscal year.

The first half tax bills were sent out on the basis of last year's rate with the proviso that the difference be made up on the second half bills, which normally go out before April 1.

The tax rate is expected to drop from $242.60 in fiscal 1981 to about $205 in fiscal 1982.

Due to the state delay, the city had to borrow $5 million for May to meet day to day expenses and had to "roll over" another $10 million in short term loans into June.

"Once the tax rate is approved," said McCauley, "then we will start to press the state on revaluation. We don't want to get caught in the same kind of delay next year."

W. Quincy Apartment Burglaries

Two burglaries and an attempted break-in at an apartment house at 46 Tinson Rd., West Quincy, were reported Saturday.

Thieves ransacked the apartment of Penny DiGiacomo, stealing a color television set, a stereo set, a tape deck, speakers, clothing and jewelry.

A break in an apartment occupied by Timothy Taussig apparently netted a stereo and a television set.

There was also an attempted break in William Wiegand's apartment.

Harold Would Hold Up Juvenile Delinquents Driver's Licenses

The Massachusetts Senate has given near-final approval to legislation filed by Senator Paul D. Harold, D-Quincy, to empower juvenile court judges to keep delinquents from getting drivers' licenses.

The legislation, which would apply only to juveniles found delinquent by the court, would authorize a judge to delay any driver's license application by the defendant as a condition of the young person's probation.

The Senate this week sped up processing of the legislation on Harold's action, to give it the near-final step next to enactment.

The legislation now goes to the House for concurrence in the Senate action.

"This legislation is intended to give additional flexibility to juvenile court judges, who are often limited in their power to get the message across to some of the young people who come before them," Harold said.

"If you tell a 16-year-old that he's not getting a driver's license unless he's good for a year, he just might listen," Harold added.

Harold said the power would also help judges deal with juveniles who are likely to get into worse trouble if granted a driver's license.

"It doesn't make sense to let a kid who steals cars get a driver's license," Harold noted.

LaRaia Keeps 'Em Guessing

Councillor Joseph LaRaia seems to have a knack for leaving people wondering. Political observers, especially.

Many observers are convinced his real political goal is to return to the mayor's office. But he becomes a candidate for Norfolk County clerk of courts. If he should win, he couldn't be mayor because it's now a full-time job.

Last week LaRaia was somewhat upset when Councillor Leo Kelly got to wield the gavel in the absence of President John Lydon, Jr. who was out of town.

It irked him because he is the "dean" of the council in years of service and feels he should have been designated to preside over the meeting.

The rules of the City Council specify that "in the absence of the president, the senior member in service shall assume the role of president pro tem."

Also in the rule book, however, is this: "...the president may call any member to the chair, but such substitutes shall not continue longer than one meeting."

LaRaia asked City Clerk John Gillis to send a letter to Lydon explaining to him just who is the dean of the council.

LaRaia has served a total of 12 years during three different terms since 1960. He is currently in his seventh two-year term.

Kelly, Lydon and James Sheets, are all in their ninth year; Stephen McGrath and Joanne Condon both in their fifth. Theodore DeCristofaro, Richard Koch, Jr. and Patricia Toland are in their first year.

Observers who are always looking for tell-tale signs of a potential mayoral contender thought LaRaia might have inadvertently flashed one over the dean issue.

Being "dean" of the council obviously is a coveted honor. And it could be a little extra political plus in a mayoral election.

QUINN

Some political observers were convinced that LaRaia was warming up to a run for mayor last year but Francis McCauley spoiled that by jumping in before him early.

They believe that LaRaia, whose two years as mayor were quite turbulent and led to his defeat by Arthur Tobin, really dreams of returning to the mayor's office.

But now that he's a candidate for Norfolk county clerk of courts, he's doing what he always does: leaving 'em wondering.

THE CAMPAIGN FOR the Norfolk County clerk of courts post — the only real local race on the state election ballot — is warming up. A cocktail reception for Quincy Atty. Nicholas Barbadoro, currently the assistant clerk, is set for Wednesday, June 16, 6 to 8 p.m. at the Quincy Neighborhood Club. Tickets are $100.

BARBADORO

LEEREMICK is featured in the current issue of People magazine. Time sure flies. She's now 46. Remember her playing a supporting role in "Brigadoon" at the South Shore Music Circus back in the mid 1950's when it presented virtual unknowns?

The publicity puff from People magazine notes that her specially playing women "undone" has created some tensions in her real-life role as a mother when her children were younger. She has a daughter, Kate, now 23, and a son, Matthew, 20. The article quotes her as saying:

"Children get teased when they're 14. It's not easy when your mother's on TV or in a movie acting like a slut or a bitch. At that age, you just want your mother to be safe and boring."

The article, incidentally, is a little behind the times. It still has Lee's father owning the Remick's store here.

"ANGEL," the cockatiel that was pictured on the shoulder of Atty. Stephen I. Keele Jr. in the Sun last week, has been reunited with her owner.

Kevin Weinzimmer of Syracuse, N.Y., a Navy recruiter stationed in Boston who lives on Brook Rd., South Quincy, stopped by Keele's Hancock St., office last week to reclaim the bird.

WEINZIMMER

"Angel," whose breed is originally from Australia, flew away from Weinzimmer's home on the weekend after Easter while he was replacing storm windows with screens.

Keele found the bird shivering on a cold street corner about a week later.

Weinzimmer, whose brother raises tropical birds in Florida, said he bought "Angel" for $49.50 in Woolworth's last fall. Such birds usually go for $165 in pet shops, he said.

He said he thought "Angel" looked a little peaked from her adventures and could hardly wait to get back on her regular diet of sun flower seeds. With a nip of scotch now and then.

Pollard School

Preparing Booklet

Principal Francis W. Keegan of the Pollard Elementary School is asking all former teachers, students and parents to contribute to a commemorative booklet of the school slated to be closed down in June.

Suggested topics for prose or poetry would deal with items of Pollard history, personal reminiscences, tradition, or what the school has meant to the writer.

In announcing the booklet, Keegan said, "All letters must be received by the school before May 20. We encourage all to cooperate as we would like the Commemorative booklet to reflect any ideas other than our present students."

Center Plaza Spurs Downtown Renewal

By TOM HENSHAW

The coming of the new 10-story Quincy Center Plaza with its landscaped front yard on Hancock St. apparently has touched off a spruce-up campaign in downtown Quincy.

More and more merchants have been using low interest loans from the federal Community Development Block Grants to renovate their storefronts and generally clean up their premises.

"Quincy Center Plaza has really renewed interest in the downtown," said Planning Director James Lydon. "The money has been available for five years but only recently have people been borrowing it."

"It's like one house on the block getting a coat of paint," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley. "Pretty soon it spills over and everybody starts fixing up."

Lydon said all the CDBG money available for such purposes, some $50,000, has been put out to loan at 5 per cent interest this year and another $50,000 is being sought in the CDBGs for 1983.

Another spur to the program is a law passed in January that permits merchant-borrowers to depreciate their capital investments at an accelerated rate, making such projects worthwhile to tenants.

About 90 per cent of downtown Quincy merchants rent or lease their stores.

Those who have taken advantage of the program to spruce up their storefronts include the Presidential Pub, Wickens and Troup, Marker's, Rogers Jewelry, Barry's Ship Haven, the High Rise, New Clifford's Florist, the 1600 Restaurant, Bean's Music and the Union Oyster House.

Applications in for loans under next year's grants include George Tull, the Shawmut Market and Miller's Studio.

Lydon said the city has also pledged $20,000 out of next year's CDBG money to help the downtown area with street lighting and streetscaping with tree and shrubs.

MBTA Parking Lots Boost Quincy Stolen Car Rate

Three MBTA stations and their massive parking lots apparently have served to lift Quincy into the 11th spot in the Commonwealth for stolen cars.

The rankings, which were released last week by Gov. Edward J. King to kickoff a public awareness campaign for auto theft show that Boston is first and Braintree, with South Shore Plaza, is 13th.

"It's the MBTA lots," said Quincy Detective Robert Bird. "People come out from Boston on the trains and help themselves."

A daily scan of the Quincy police journal shows an average of two to three stolen car reports a day, most of them from the North Quincy MBTA station lot.

Some tips that might reduce the likelihood of your car being stolen include: Lock the doors. Take the keys with you. Install anti-theft devices, such as alarms, or locks of the brake pedal or steering wheel.

St. John's Pastor Assails Remarks By Klein

points out that Catholicity at one time was held in contempt and on occasion the Pope was burned in effigy in neighboring communities.

"The situation became so serious that it was necessary to seek the intervention of the country's most influential citizen and leader. A public statement was prepared and issued as follows:

"As the Commander-in-Chief has been apprised of a design formed for the observance of that ridiculous and childish custom of burning the effigy of the Pope, he cannot help expressing his surprise that there should be officers and soldiers in the army so void of common sense, as not to see the impropriety of such a step at this juncture; at a time when we are soliciting, and have really obtained the friendship and alliance of the people of Canada, whom we ought to consider as brethren embarked in the same cause - the defense of the general liberty of America.

"At this juncture and under such circumstances to be insulting to their religion is so monstrous as not to be suffered or excused; indeed, instead of offering the most remote insult, it is our duty to address public thanks to these, our brethren, as to them we are so much indebted for every late happy success over the common enemy in Canada."

Vietnam War Veterans To Be Honored

Ceremonies will be held Sunday, May 30, at City Hall to dedicate a plaque listing the names of the Quincy men and women who served in the Vietnam War.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley recently proclaimed May as

"That statement was issued by George Washington upon his arrival at the Revolutionary forces camp set up in Cambridge, just before the British army was forced to evacuate Boston.

"In another bygone era Quincy was also noted for its ecumenism when local businessmen and citizens met once a week to share a religious experience. A city-wide slogan attracted national attention and was very much in evidence in the press and at the local theater where these weekly meetings were held.

"The message was as powerful then as it is today - 'You go to your church and I'll go to mine, but let's walk together.'"

"Vietnam Veterans Month" to remind residents of Quincy of the dedicated men and women who served honorably during that war.

'Presenting Yourself' Women South Topic

Women South will hold a dinner meeting May 18 at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy, with the focus on "Presenting Yourself".

Shirley Henderson, personnel manager for Ittek, will speak on the practical application of presenting yourself for the interview process, during your on-going career management, and in marketing your services to potential clients.

Women South is a professional and business women's organization which meets monthly.

Trans-Atlantic Flyers Land At Squantum

Famed aviator Dick Merrill and his companion, Jack Lambie, landed at Squantum Naval Air Station for a gas and oil check on the last leg of their trans-Atlantic flight from New York to London and return.

The flyers were delivering films of the dirigible Hindenburg disaster at Lakehurst, N.J., to London and films of the coronation of King George VI of England to New York.

Lt. S. Robert Schultz, the doctor who examined Merrill and Lambie during the 20 minute stop at Squantum, said that both of them were in excellent physical condition.

"They both had headaches and were naturally fatigued but not terribly fatigued," said Lt. Schultz. "They were plenty able to go a long ways yet."

He gave them some aspirin.

Merrill and Lambie were greeted at the airfield by Lt. John J. Shea, commandant of the base, and Lt. Warren Sweetser, who was in charge of the Marine detachment.

Sweetser said Merrill told him that they had not seen land from the time they left England until they came down through the fog and found themselves over Squantum.

Merrill said they intended to land at Dennison Airport in Atlantic but there was a tractor on the runway so they went to the adjacent Squantum field instead.

LOWER LIGHT RATES

Former Mayor Thomas J. McGrath and City Councillor Avery W. Gilkerson led a delegation from Quincy to the State House in an effort to secure lower electric rates in the city.

McGrath told the State Department of Public Utilities hearing that the Quincy Light and Power Co. was "one of the most prosperous utility companies in the state."

"We feel that the dividend rate of the company in 1936 — 36 per cent — establishes a prima facie case that the light rates are too high," said Gilkerson.

FUNDS FOR SHAWMUT TRAIL

Rep. Joseph L. Whitton said the future of the Shawmut Trail, the proposed highway from Milton to the Fore River Bridge, depends on what the state legislature does with gasoline tax funds.

"If the gas tax money is diverted to the general fund for the purpose of reducing the state tax on municipalities there will be no money for the much-needed highway this year," he said.

Cleanup Party For Southwest Quincy

Southwest Quincy is planning a gala cleanup party Saturday, May 22.

Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services is sponsoring the one day program in which volunteers will rake, pick up trash and sweep sidewalks on public land and in the yards of people who request the service.

The volunteers will enjoy a cookout and entertainment when their tasks are completed.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley and Charles Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank, one of the contributing institutions, will be on hand to commend the efforts of all those involved.

"Southwest Sweep" team captains will supervise boy and girl scouts, students and members of church groups, all of whom will receive "Litter League" T-shirts donated by the Quincy Savings Bank.

The project was organized by

Elementary School Lunch

Monday, May 17 - Real zesty Italian pizza w. mozzarella cheese topping, jello w. sliced fruit, milk.

Tuesday, May 18 - No Lunch.

Wednesday, May 19 - Italian ravioli w. meat sauce, fresh baked roll, sliced fruit, milk.

Thursday, May 20 - Turkey fricassee w. whipped potatoes, buttered vegetable, fresh baked roll, apricots, fruit juice, milk.

Friday, May 21 - Fruit juice, real zesty Italian pizza w. mozzarella cheese topping, mixed fruit, milk.

Secondary School Lunch

Monday, May 17 - Grilled frankfurts on a frankfurts roll w. vegetarian beans, condiments on the side, bag of potato chips, choice of two desserts, milk.

Tuesday, May 18 - Real zesty Italian pizza w. mozzarella cheese, buttered green beans, choice of two desserts, milk.

Wednesday, May 19 - Italian style ravioli, buttered green beans, fresh baked roll, choice of two desserts, milk.

Ralph P. Chiminiello, 77, Oil Company Owner, Bowler

A funeral Mass for Ralph P. Chiminiello, 77, of Quincy, retired owner of Chiminiello Oil Company, and well known bowler, was held Monday in St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point.

Mr. Chiminiello died May 6, in Quincy City Hospital. He had lived in Quincy all his life.

Mr. Chiminiello's coal and oil business grew in 20 years from a one room office and a Model-T Ford into a fleet of 12 trucks and an 8,000 square foot building at 122 Water St.

The company moved in 1948 to the new building across the street from the old office.

Mr. Chiminiello was a former president of the South Shore Professional Bowling League.

Husband of the late Mrs. Lydia Alice (Zinchuk) Chiminiello, he is survived by a daughter, Alice Phillips of Plymouth; three brothers, Peter J. Chiminiello and John Chiminiello, both of Quincy, and Henry P. Chiminiello of South Yarmouth; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral arrangements were by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Robert M. Custeau, 61, Postal Clerk

A funeral Mass for Robert M. Custeau, 61, of Quincy, a clerk at the South Postal Annex, was held Saturday in Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

Mr. Custeau died May 5, in Carney Hospital, Dorchester, after a long illness. He had lived in Wollaston 22 years.

Born in Lawrence, he was a member of the North Quincy Knights of Columbus; and was a World War II Navy veteran.

He is survived by his wife, Marguerite A. (McSweeney) Custeau; a son, Stephen F. Custeau of Quincy; a sister, Winifred Gallant of North Andover; and two grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St. Burial was in Sacred Heart Cemetery, Lawrence.

Turkish Diplomat Services Held At Islamic Temple

More than 100 persons attended Muslim services in the New England Islamic Center, Quincy Point last Friday for slain Turkish diplomat Orphan Gunduz, 60.

Mr. Gunduz was assassinated by an Armenian terrorist May 4, as he sat in his car in heavy traffic in Somerville.

Responsibility for the shooting was claimed by the Armenian Commandos for Political Genocide which was seeking to avenge the 1915 massacre of 1.5 million Armenians by the Turks.

Among those attending the services, which had tight security, was Mr. Gunduz's widow, Meral.

A 50-car funeral cortege passed from the Islamic Center over the nine mile route to Forest Hills Cemetery, Boston, where Turkish Ambassador Sukra Elekdag led about 500 mourners in public ceremonies.

Later, nearly 200 Turkish immigrants and Americans of Turkish descent carried a black wreath to the State House to protest the assassination of Mr. Gunduz, the honorary consul general for New England.

Mr. Gunduz was killed by a man dressed as a jogger who fired at least nine large caliber bullets into the diplomat.

The assassin fled on foot. A 9-mm automatic pistol and a .357 magnum were found at the scene, and later sent to the FBI's Washington laboratory for analysis of the gun's registration numbers which had been filed off. Authorities said they were following a number of leads.

Federal officials had rejected a request for protection for Mr. Gunduz after his Cambridge store was firebombed March 22.

Funeral arrangements were by Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, Elm St., Quincy.

Alrick A. Weidman, Retired Building Inspector

A funeral service for Alrick A. Weidman of Quincy, city building inspector from 1935 to 1966, was held yesterday (Wednesday) in Faith Lutheran Church.

Mr. Weidman died Saturday in Quincy City Hospital after a brief illness.

He had lived in Quincy most of his life. Born in Sweden, he came to this country at age six.

Mr. Weidman was graduated from Quincy schools, Franklin Institute and Lowell Institute of Architecture.

He was a former builder and general contractor.

Mr. Weidman was also a former member of the Quincy License Board, past president of the Massachusetts Building Commissioners Association, a retired director of Quincy Cooperative Bank, and a former trustee of Quincy Savings Bank.

He was also a member of the Quincy Elks, past chairman of the Skandia Lodge, and a member of the Odd Fellow Lodge, Dorchester.

Mr. Weidman and his wife, Lillian H. (Hansen) Weidman would have been married 64 years in November.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Doris M. Taylor, a sister, Agda Nelson, both of Quincy; five grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

He was also the father of the late Mr. Gordon A. Weidman.

Rev. James Kimmell officiated at the service.

Funeral arrangements were by Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations may be made to Faith Lutheran Church, 201 Granite St., Quincy, 02169.

John M. Casey, 92, Retired Quincy Police Lieutenant

A funeral Mass for John M. Casey, 92, of Hingham, a former Quincy resident and retired Quincy police lieutenant, was held yesterday (Wednesday) in St. Paul's Church, Hingham.

Mr. Casey died Sunday in a local nursing home after a brief illness.

He had lived in Quincy for 54 years before moving to Hingham 21 years ago.

Born in County Kerry, Ireland, he was a World War I veteran.

After retiring from the police department in 1941 after 23 years of service, he was a builder of homes and apartment complexes on the South Shore.

Mr. Casey was a member of Wollaston American Legion Post and Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus.

He is survived by his wife, Marguerite J. (Quinn) Casey; a son, John M. Casey Jr., of Hingham; three daughters, Marguerite Hurley of Wilbraham, Ruth Harper of Weymouth and Patricia Donovan of Cohasset; 13 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by Pyne Funeral Home, 21 Emerald St. Burial was in St. Paul's Cemetery.

Clarice Maddes, 73

A funeral Mass for Clarice (Pucciarelli) Maddes, 73, of Quincy, was held yesterday (Wednesday) in St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

Mrs. Maddes died Saturday in Quincy City Hospital after a long illness.

Born in Italy, she had lived in Quincy for 60 years.

Wife of the late Mr. Theodore Maddes, she is survived by a daughter, Joan McClure, two brothers, Minot Pucciarelli and Lgo Pucciarelli, all of Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were by Vincent Buonfiglio Funeral Home, 116 Franklin St.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

'A Look At The World' For U.N. Council

David Winder, assistant foreign editor of the Christian Science Monitor, will take "A Look at the World Today" Thursday, May 13, at a meeting of the United Nations Council of the South Shore.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the parish hall, Church of the Presidents, Quincy Square.

A catered dinner at 6:30 p.m. precedes the meeting. For reservations and information about the charge, call Mrs. Viola Ellia, 773-5019; Miss Edith Coulman, 472-4960; or Mrs. Eleanor Bertrand, 479-4793.

'Squantum's First Settlers' Seniors Topic

Gordon Nelson will discuss "Squantum's First Settlers" at a meeting of the Squantum Senior Citizens Club Tuesday, May 18, at 7:30 p.m. at Maryhall, Star of the Sea Church.

A life long resident of Squantum, Nelson has compiled historical data relating to the settlers of that area.

The club will hold a mid year banquet in June. Tickets will be available from the treasurer, Ralph M. Dougherty.

Mother's Day Service At Squantum Church

A special Mother's Day service was held Sunday morning at the First Church of Squantum.

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, gave an illustrated talk to the children on "How To Help Your Mother." He preached to the adults on "Putting Children At The Center."

The Chancel Choir sang "Children of the Heavenly Father" set to a Swedish folk melody as arranged by Edwin Liemohn. Mary Ruth Scott directed the choir which sang a capella.

The Lord's Supper was observed. Seated at the Lord's Table with the pastor were deacons Kathryn Hansen, Tom Williamson, Doris Longmire and Don Frazer.

Greeters for the morning were Doris Bastey, Greg and Joan Galvin and their children Laurie, Kelly, Kim and Jamie, and George and Linda Gale and their children Tracey and Greg.

The fellowship hour was hosted by Jennie Preston and Hazel Mayne.

The service next Sunday will begin at 10:15 a.m.

St. Joseph's School

Accreditation Ceremony Friday

St. Joseph's School in Quincy Point will receive archdiocesan accreditation Friday in a ceremony to take place at a special 10:30 a.m. liturgy at the church.

Chief celebrant will be Rev. Eugene Sullivan, archdiocesan school superintendent assisted by Rev. Joseph Downey, pastor; Rev. Joseph Raeke, assistant pastor; and Rev. Peter Martocchio, Rev. Daniel Hart and Rev. Daniel Quinn.

Accreditation resulted from a three-year study of the school, its climate, philosophy and curriculum by St. Joseph faculty members and the staff of the Archdiocesan School Office.

Deborah Ormon is working for a brighter future for the women of Quincy.

When Deborah Ormon accepted the position of Chairperson of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women in 1980, she accepted a challenge. The women of Quincy, deeply concerned about health, crime, jobs, finances, and changes in society, had few resources to which to turn for information and advice.

Through the Commission, Ms. Ormon spearheaded a series of public conferences and seminars on women's issues, including the annual Woman to Woman Day. To date, hundreds of Quincy women have participated in, and benefited from these very special events.

Deborah Ormon's dedication to the women in our community is exemplary.

At Quincy Cooperative, we strive to be as dedicated in helping our customers meet their financial goals.

On June 5, Deborah Ormon will be presented the 1982 Josiah Quincy Community Service Award at a special ceremony at the Quincy Cooperative Bank Headquarters. The public is cordially invited.

$3 Million Condo Units Planned At Adams School

during summer months. They feared another 50 units will place additional drains on the pressure.

Lydon and DeCristofaro said that, based on reports of an engineering firm hired by the developers to check the water and sewerage plans, there will be adequate water supplies and pressure for the development.

DeCristofaro said residents would have two more opportunities to present their views on the project plans at public hearings.

Pearce said models of the project will be on display at the South Quincy branch of the Quincy Savings Bank.

Al Conti, longtime resident of the area, said that he had been informed the MBTA was considering opening the emergency vehicle entrance to the new South Quincy station as a walkway for pedestrians to enter the station from Independence Ave.

He said great pressure has been exerted on MBTA officials to open that emergency entrance as a public walkway by Brintree residents.

DeCristofaro said he received a letter from James Carlin, State Transportation Secretary, pointing out that the entrance would be used only for emergency vehicles.

VINCENT'S INFECTION

Q: My teenage son has sore, bleeding gums. Isn't that unusual in young people? How is it treated?

A: True — the typical person with gum problems is over thirty five, has had the problem for some time, and has little pain most of the time.

But Vincent's infection (also called ANUG — acute necrotizing ulcerative gingivitis, or trenchmouth) is different. It strikes all ages, but frequently the young. It may be accompanied by severe pain, bad odor, sore throat, swollen glands, and fever. There is a strong relationship to physical and psychological stress. It shows up often during severe weather changes, and in students around exam time.

Cleanliness is very important. The teeth should be gently cleaned by the dentist. Oxygenating agents, such as dilute hydrogen peroxide, may be useful. Antibiotics may be necessary.

After the infection has passed, scrupulous oral hygiene must be continued. Vincent's infection tends to recur, and repeated infection can cause permanent damage to the tissues supporting the teeth.

A Week To Remember

Quincy Stops Brockton, Defeats North Quincy

Last week was one Quincy baseball coach Bud Mosher won't soon forget.

The Presidents, who had given Mosher his 100th coaching victory the previous week, defeated North Quincy and then won one of the biggest games in Quincy's recent history as they handed Brockton its first defeat after the Boxers had won six in a row.

Andy Eames played a prominent role in both Quincy victories.

Eames, who had previously gained a save in a fine relief role in the opening win of the year, had been the winning pitcher in relief against Newton North. Mosher's 100th win. He made his first varsity start against North Quincy and blanked the Raiders, 3-0, with a fine five-hitter, striking out eight.

"I expected him to pitch some in relief, but I didn't see him as a starter," Mosher said. "He's going to see a lot of work."

North Quincy's Paul Earle also pitched five-hit ball as he suffered his second straight well-pitched 3-0 decision. Walks hurt his cause.

Quincy scored the only run it needed in the first inning without getting the ball out of the infield. John Balzano led off with a walk, moved up on Steve Spencer's bunt and scored on Paul Quigley's single on which Dwayne Wilcoxon knocked the ball down but couldn't make a play.

The Presidents added a run in the fifth when Spencer singled, stole second, Jim Bandera walked. Quigley bunted the runners along and Spencer scored on Eames' fly to right. They added a run in the sixth when Balzano singled in Bob Ready, who had walked.

Eames got out of two jams. In the second North's Jim Kelly singled and Bob O'Brien hit a long drive to center that looked like an extra base hit, but Spencer made a superb catch. Kelly, who had rounded second, returned to first but was ruled out for failing to tag second on his return. In the sixth Chris Bunker had a leadoff infield hit and Wilcoxon doubled. Eames bore down, struck out Jim Doherty, retired John Kozlowski on a bouncer to third and got Kelly to fly out.

"Eames pitched a super game," North coach Charlie Bunker said as the Raiders fell to 1-5.

"Earle pitched well also. He has given us two fine pitching performances after our pitching had been getting knocked around, but our hitting has fallen off."

This was North's only game of the week, but Quincy then came up with its shocker, surprising Brockton, 4-1.

Bandera, the Suburban League's leading batter at .586, pitched an excellent seven-hitter and also went two-for-three with an RBI. He struck out three, all with two outs and all with two runners on base.

Spencer, hitting .389, drove in two runs and Paul Cedrone also had an RBI. Eames again played a prominent role in the win with two outstanding defensive plays in left field, one for a double play. Quigley also played well behind the plate as Quincy improved its record to 4-5.

"This was one of our biggest wins ever," said a happy Mosher.

"They had beaten us, 8-0, earlier, but today we put together a great all-around effort."

Quincy will host Weymouth South Friday at 3:30 at Adams Field and Tuesday will play at Cambridge.

North Quincy plays at Weymouth North today (Thursday) and Tuesday will be home to Waltham at 3:30 at Adams Field.

Quincy Girls Rally To Down North, 18-14

The Quincy girls' softball team overcame an 8-0 first inning deficit and went on to defeat North Quincy, 18-14, last week, in their first meeting of the season.

The First Ladies tied the score with eight runs in the third, then, with the score tied, 14-14, won it with four runs in the sixth.

Janet Witham had five hits and three RBI for Quincy and Kim Moccia picked up the win.

This was the only bright spot for Quincy during the week, as Coach Barbara Webster's team was blanked by Waltham, 8-0, with Kathy Duggan getting the only hit, and last Thursday blew an 8-0 lead and bowed to Brockton, 11-8, dropping its record to 4-5. Quincy pulled off a triple play in the game. Mary Travers was the losing pitcher.

Lou loanilili's North girls had a good week except for the Quincy loss.

The Raiderettes rolled over

Brockton, 11-1, as Elva Reed pitched a three-hitter and Mary Holleran drove in five runs with two triples. Sue Ayles had three hits and two RBI and Laurie Barba had three hits and scored twice.

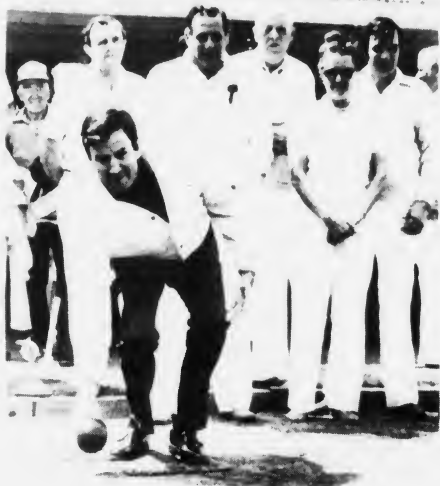

Last Friday the North girls edged Newton North, 5-4, to improve their record to 4-4, as Reed pitched a five-hitter and struck out four.

Ann Souza had two hits and two RBI, Lisa Julian had two hits and an RBI and Sue Ayles and Holleran each had a hit and an RBI.

The Quincy girls will play at Weymouth South Friday and will meet Cambridge Tuesday at 3:30 at Faxon Field.

The North girls will be home to Weymouth North today (Thursday) at 3:30 at Artery Field and Tuesday will play at Waltham.

Kohler Fires 1-Hitter, Fans 16 To Lead Orioles

The Orioles defeated the Indians, 4-1, as the Junior Farm Baseball League season opened.

Steve Kohler pitched a one-hitter and struck out 16. Jeff Pugliese had two hits and two RBI and Jim Tiberio, Jim Monroe and Sal Mangaro had one hit each. Defensively Mangaro was outstanding. Rich Kiesel pitched five-hit ball for the Indians and struck out 14. He also broke up Kohler's bid for a no-hitter with a double in the sixth inning.

The Yankees bombed the Indians, 24-6, with Jimmy Gately, Mike Gata and Gary Rawden hitting home runs. David O'Brien, Hugh Meighan and Lindsey McGovern also hit well. Chris Mausemer had a triple for the Indians.

The Yankees also topped the Angels, 11-8, with Brian Comeau hitting a grand slam homer and pitching well for the Yankees. Scott McDonald had a triple, Matt Price pitched two strong innings and Sean Cafferly was the winning pitcher. For the Angels Richie McDonald had a grand slam homer and pitched well.

The Dodgers topped the Cubs, 10-5, with Jeff Freeman the winning pitcher. He went 5 1/2 innings and Scott Dunn came on in relief in the bottom of the sixth to retire the side and end the game.

Billy Campbell had two home runs, a triple and five RBI. Mike Danick, Chris Murray, Mark Walsh and Konstantine Rigas also had RBIs. Tom Cossaboom, Aaron Silverman, Kevin Heffernan, John Grennon, Brian Campbell, Brendon Toland, Tina Donovan, Christine Barrett and Matt Danick all played well.

In a wild and wooly game called after four innings because of darkness, the Dodgers outlasted the Pirates, 24-23. Scott Dunn was the winning pitcher. Cossaboom and Kevin Heffernan had home runs and Christine Barrett, Freeman, Billy Campbell, Rigas, Murray, Walsh, Toland, Brian Campbell, Grennon, Mike Danick, Matt Danick and Donovan all drove in runs.

The Dodgers also rolled over the Giants, 10-2, with Billy Campbell the winning pitcher. He allowed five hits and struck out 14. Leading the attack were Rigas, Heffernan, Murray, Toland, Brian Campbell, Dunn and Mike Danick. Freeman and Grennon of the Dodgers and Brian O'Malley of the Giants turned in outstanding defensive plays and Barrett, Silverman, Walsh, Cossaboom, Donovan and Matt Danick all played well.

The Braves and Giants staged the wildest game of the year with the Braves winning, 23-21. Bob Crespi was the winning pitcher, pitching the last two innings. Joe Bevilacqua, Dennis Carroll and Jeff Bell had three hits each for the Braves and Ralph Bevilacqua, Bob Crespi, Joe Crespi and Bob Riccarelli had two each. Tony Riccarelli and Brian Haggerty made outstanding catches in the outfield. For the Giants Bob Kane, Tommy Collins and Karen Mosher had three hits each and Bob Brooks made an excellent catch in right field.

PJ's, Means Undefeated

PJ's and Means Concrete remained undefeated after two weeks of action in the South Suburban Softball League.

PJ's swept a doubleheader from Presidential Pub, 18-4 and 11-1.

Means swept two from Safford Market, 19-10 and 14-9. Mike McAvley was the winning pitcher in the first game and Chuck Phelan in the second game. Marc Walsh went four for five in the opener and Steve Buckles had three home runs in the second game.

The Tigers won two from the Bombers, 13-1 and 11-6, with Joe Condon pitching both games and Kevin Cox providing the offensive punch.

The Koch Club and Farrington Market split, Koch winning the opener, 7-5, and Farrington the second game, 10-6. Tom Koch pitched the opener and was given outstanding support in the field. Frank Miceli was the pitcher for Farrington in the nightcap.

The Spoilers and WSW also broke even. The Spoilers breezed, 17-1 in the opener and WSW taking the second game, 8-3. Paul Cornei pitched the shutout for the Spoilers and Glen Comelitti drove in seven runs. Steve O'Rourke was the winning pitcher in the second game and Roger Thomas led the offense.

Bill's Welding edged the Outlaws, 7-6, in their opening game but the Outlaws rebounded to win the second, 14-1. Terrance Watts pitched outstanding ball for the Outlaws in the second game.

Welsh No-Hitter Tops Hingham

Big Joe Welsh pitched a no-hitter and his North Quincy High School teammates allowed only one batter to reach base on an error as the Raiders turned back Hingham, 2-0, on O'Neil Playground.

Welsh, who went into the game with a record of no wins and two losses, also banged out two hits in three times at bat, including a double that drove in Jim Purtell with the first run in the second.

Sumner was the only Hingham batter to reach first base safely in the seventh inning when he hit a grounder to deep short and Howie Meyer's throw drew first baseman Fred Cobban off the bag.

The North Quincy lineup included: Amman 2b, Meyer ss, Ellison lf, Ela 3b, Smith rf, Cobban lb, Purtell cf, Sarling c, Welsh p.

TRADE WINS

Lloyd Sayce's pinch single with the bases loaded in the last of the ninth inning drove in Cole with the winning run as the Quincy Trade School baseball team whipped Cohasset, 2-1.

Art Napoleon limited Cohasset to five hits and might have had a shutout but for two errors by the North Quincy infield and a double by DelGrasso, the Cohasset pitcher, in the fourth.

The Quincy Trade lineup: Estes lb, Prario lf, Hayward c, Bowman cf, Donovan rf, Cole 3b, Napoleon p, Sheehan ss, Hatfield 2b, Sayce ph.

SAUNDERS LOSES, WINS

Manager Jeppie Saunders lost two arguments with Umpire Frank Rouillard but his Fore River Shipbuilders scored two runs in the ninth for a 6-5 win over the Copelands and their first City League victory.

The Fore River lineup: Groot 2b, F. Bowles ss, Cormier cf, J. Desmond lb, Kelly rf, Dilorotto lf, DeStefano 3b, C. Bowles c, Moran p, Mainhall ph.

The Copelands lineup: Sullivan ss, Smith rf, W. Cavanaugh lf, Baker c, Malvestri 2b, F. Cavanaugh lb, Pellegrini 3b, Pettiti cf, Kelland p, Kolson p, Hebert p.

FAIRHAVEN BOMBED

The Quincy High School baseball team pounded out 21 hits, including a long home run by Monte Marchant, for an 18-3 victory over Fairhaven at Merrymount Park.

The Quincy lineup: Ready 2b, Leaneu 2b, McKenna lb, Whalen ss, Sanfilippo cf, Kilrain lf, Comparato lf, Sansatini c, Mountain rf, Hoyt lb, Parsiale lb, Donnellon cf, Marchant 3b, Mullen rf, Goodhue p.

TWO MARKS SET

Frank Gilday and Paul Durup set school records in the 440 and the 880 yard runs respectively as the North Quincy High School track team walloped Attleboro, 45-18, at Brown Stadium in Providence.

FLETCHER RETAINED

The Boston Bees sold first baseman Buck Jordan to the Cincinnati Reds, indicating that 21-year-old Elbie Fletcher of Milton would be the Bees' regular first sacker.

FIVE TO WRESTLE

Dynamite Dunn, Tiger Rollins, Buck Jones, Gil Cross and Ted Germaine were scheduled to meet each other at the same time in the feature bout on the wrestling card at Quincy Arena.

NORTH GOLFERS WIN

Bob Adams and Charles Sweeney swept the first match and the North Quincy High School golf team went on to a 9-0 victory over Norwood for its fifth straight victory of the season.

REMICKS REBOUNDS

Dick Ketchum, former Harvard pitcher, gave up 12 runs in the first three innings and then settled down and his Remicks teammates pounded out a 21-14 win over the Knights of Columbus in softball.

TRADE TOPS NORTH

Lloyd Sayce twirled a three hitter as the undefeated Quincy Trade School baseball team blanked North Quincy, 2-0, for its fourth win of the season at Merrymount Park.

FALLON INJURED

Johnny Fallon, the right handed pitcher from Quincy with the Newark Bears of the International League, dislocated his left arm in a collision while chasing fungos in practice.

RIGBY STARS

Johnny Rigby accounted for the Quincy High School tennis team's only victory in the singles as the Presidents bowed to Winchester, 3-2, on the Faxon Field courts.

LOSS AT HORSESHOES

Russell Sweeney won four out of six matches but the Quincy Point Horseshoe Club was defeated, 21-15, for the first time in two years by the Smith Mills team from New Bedford.

WAR EAGLE WINS

Chief War Eagle won two out of three falls in whipping Gil Cross, the Canadian Wildcat, in the feature bout on the Quincy Arena wrestling card.

QJC Wins Big One But Bows Twice

By PETE ZOIA

The Quincy Junior College baseball team lost two of three games last week to drop its record to 6-3.

The win was a big one, a 4-1 decision over Bridgewater State College, which earlier had romped over the Jaguars.

Gary DiNardo pitched an outstanding game, giving up only two hits late in the game. DiNardo struck out nine and walked only one. He also drove in a run. Steve Picot had three hits and Brian Condon and Brian Tobin two each. Steve Conley made a great catch in deep right field.

Bristol topped QJC, 11-8, as Bob Brill was pounded for 10 runs in the first 2½ innings. Three walks, a double and two home runs sealed QJC's doom before Bruce Tobin put out the fire with superb relief work. He gave up a hit and a run and struck out four the rest of the way. QJC was in contention for five innings, as Picot and Conley had booming triples and Tom Canavan, DiNardo and Picot added singles.

QJC bowed to New Prep, 5-1, as southpaw Charlie Howard handcuffed the Jaguars batters, striking out 10 and walking only one.

Bruce Tobin was the starter for QJC and, after developing arm trouble in the second, gave way to Brill, who held his own until poor infield play hurt him in the sixth inning, three errors giving New Prep two unearned runs. Picot had a double and Condon and Brian Tobin singles, the only hits off Howard.

Quincy Tennis Team Turns Back North, 4-1

The Quincy boys' tennis team is having a fine season with a 6-2 record and last week Coach Wayne Hamilton's Presidents defeated North Quincy, 4-1.

Unbeaten Capt. Gary Durante easily won his singles match over North's Ron Affsa, 6-0, 6-0 and Matt Tobin defeated Frank Scanlan, 6-0, 6-2, in singles, while North's Joe LaPierre gave the Raiders their only win, topping Peter Papile, 6-1, 6-3.

In doubles Quincy's Bill McCarthy and Steve Durante defeated John Perlin and Andy Curtis, 6-0, 6-1, and Matt O'Brien and Steve Klaiman defeated Eric Peterson and John Joseph, 6-0, 7-5.

Quincy then defeated Brockton, 3-2, as Durante extended his unbeaten record to 8-0. Tobin also won his singles match, while Klaiman lost his match. The Presidents broke even in doubles as Steve Durante and McCarthy won while Papile and O'Brien lost.

Hamilton has been pleased with his first doubles team of Steve Durante and McCarthy.

"They are the key to the team and potentially they are the best doubles team ever at Quincy," he said.

Although Bill Willoughby's North team is only 2-4, he is playing with mostly freshmen and juniors. He is pleased with the performances of Joseph and LaPierre.

The Quincy netmen will host Weymouth South Friday at 3:30 and Tuesday will be at Cambridge.

The North team will be at Weymouth North today (Thursday) and Tuesday will be home to Waltham at 3:30.

North Girls Romp Over Weymouth N.

The North Quincy girls' track team continued to roll along last week and romped over Weymouth North, 72-46, to improve its record to 3-0-1.

The Raiderettes faced Newton North Tuesday, will be home to Waltham next Tuesday and will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin next Thursday. Both meets will be at 3:15 at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

North had two double winners, Deirdre Donovan winning the 100 in 11.7 and the 220 in 67.3, and Michelle Millane, as usual, winning the discus at 127-4 and the shot put at 40-10 (a school record).

Nancy McCarthy won the half mile in 2:36.3 with Karen Lindenfelzer second and Eileen Crehan third, Mary Kate Kennedy won the mile in 5:22.1 with Meg Leary third, Sheila Barrett and Linda Kennedy tied for first in the two-mile in 12:26 and Tracey Corrigan third and Maria McGurl was second and Georgia Traficante third in the low hurdles.

North won the mile relay in 4:37.8 with Barrett, Linda Kennedy, Bernadette Murphy and Lisa Reynolds.

Kara Crehan won the high jump at 5-0 with Traficante third, Lindenfelzer was third in the discus and Kara Crehan second in the javelin.

In the state coaches' meet last Saturday at Brockton Millane won the discus at 140-4, Mary Kate Kennedy won the half mile in 2:16.4 and Kara Crehan tied for third in the high jump at 5-0. Donovan was fifth in the 220 and Nancy McCarthy fourth in the mile.

The North boys had one scorer, Rich Palma placing fourth in the long jump.

• Junior League Baseball Burgin Wins 3 In Row

Burgin Platner is off to a fast start in the Junior Baseball League with three straight wins.

Burgin blanked Foley, 5-0, in its opening game with Tom MacDonald the winning pitcher. He struck out 12. MacDonald has two singles, Robbie MacDonald a triple, Chris Bourdeau a double and Mark Di Mattio, John Quillar and Billy Murphy a single each. Kevin Duffly and Mike Green had the hits for Foley's.

Burgin blanked Rotary, 2-0, with Di Mattio pitching six-hit ball, striking out 12 and walking only one. Brian Mosher singled in the first inning, stole second and scored on an infield out. In the fourth Robbie MacDonald tripled and Di Mattio singled him home. Dave Santosuosso also singled.

Burgin then defeated Kiwanis, 5-2, handing Kiwanis its first defeat. Tom MacDonald pitched a two-hitter. Kiwanis led, 2-0, in the fifth inning when Wayne Chambers tripled. Tom MacDonald walked. Robbie MacDonald doubled. Di Mattio tripled. Quillar singled and Murphy singled. Mosher had two singles and MacDonald won his second in a row. In two games he has allowed just four hits, walked four and struck out 25.

Bryan Post also has started well and won its first two games.

Bryan opened with a 12-3 win over Houghs Neck with Dan Overby pitching a one-hitter and striking out 12. Mike Noonan had two hits and two RBI. Matt Norton a bases loaded triple. Led Stevenson a double and two RBI. Kevin Burke made and an outstanding running catch with two outs and the bases loaded and Bryan leading only 5-3 at the time.

Bryan also edged Colonial Federal, 5-4, with Mike Ainsley pitching a four-hitter and striking out 12. Richie Connelly's grand slam, one of his two hits, was the big blow.

Boston Gear, the defending city champion, got off on the wrong foot, losing its opener, but came back to win the next two games.

Gear defeated the Elks, 9-5, with Matt Furtado the winning pitcher, allowing eight hits, striking out eight and walking only one. He also had a double and single. Nancy Flukes and Chris Higgins led the attack with Flukes having three doubles and Higgins three singles. Shawn Craig had two big hits. Steve Rabs had two key singles, and Paul Adams a single. Others playing well for Gear were Mike Paccetti, Mike Cronin, Sean Cappelis, Jimmy Glynn, Mike Kiley, Jimmy Collins, Pat McDonough and Danny Gilmartin, who shone at second base.

Gear edged previously unbeaten Bryan VFW, 5-4, despite the almost overwhelming speed of losing pitcher Danny Overby. Craig had two doubles, Furtado two singles and Flukes a single. Rabs was the winning pitcher in relief of Furtado. Outstanding on defense were Glynn, Collins, McDonough, Cappelis, Higgins, Leonard, who came up with some more outstanding plays, Adams, Paccetti, Mike Kiley and Cronin. Furtado ended the game with a running diving catch in left center with the tying run on base. Overby pitched well in defeat and Mike Ainsley had three hits for VFW.

St. John's League Opens 22nd Season

St. John's Boys baseball league started its 22nd year with the first round of the scheduled games played at Faxon Park.

Brodeur Construction defeated Braintree Paint & Wallpaper, 4-1. Brodeur scored three runs in the first inning and another in the 4th. Braintree scored its lone run, in the 3rd.

President Pharmacy defeated Riley & Rielly, 7-4, as Scott Crowley hit two home runs and was also the winning pitcher. Peter Oliverio, Billy Maffie and Ernie Light all hit well and Brian Mahoney played an excellent game behind the plate.

President Pharmacy also topped Peter Gacia Insurance, 8-4, with Jamie Fennessey the winning pitcher. Dennis Flaherty, Light and Frank Ianino played well defensively. Gacia's Bobby Luiso and Brian Snow combined for a pretty doubleplay to end the fifth inning.

Van Oriola Plumbing and Heating defeated Gacia, 8-4. Albie Brown pitched well in defeat with 11 strikeouts. Snow had two home runs and a single and four RBI and Paul Della Barba had two solid singles.

Gacia defeated the Social Club, 10-7. Della Barba, Snow and Dana Collins pitched for the winners and Greg Souza made a superb catch in center field and was awarded the game ball.

Riley & Rielly scored twice in the sixth inning to edge Braintree Paint and Wallpaper, 6-5. Edge Braintree had scored five runs in the fifth to overcome an early 4-0 deficit.

Braintree P&W rolled over the Quincy Sun, 10-0, scoring four runs in the third and five in the fourth. The game was called after five innings because of rain.

Brodeur scored 15 runs in the sixth and seventh innings. Van Oriola, 28-0. Tommy McHugh hit a grand slam homer. Jerry Foley and Larry Beguerie also had homers and Jimmy Fennessey, McHugh and Frank Calabro combined for a five-hitter.

Brodeur topped Braintree P&W, 4-1, with Beguerie the winning pitcher, scattering eight hits, striking out 11 and walking only one. Steve Savage had two triples and a single.

Brodeur continued to win, scoring seven runs in the fourth inning and defeating Alpine Restaurant, 12-8, as Beguerie, Calabro and Genreau combined for a three-hitter. They struck out 11 between them.

President Pharmacy outslugged Brodeur, 13-10. Beguerie pitched all the way for Brodeur and struck out 15. Fennessey and Light combined to do the pitching for President. Calabro had a grand slam homer and Foley, Scott Murphy, Larry Heckman and Savage all hit well.

Brodeur walloped Social Club, 9-4, with five runs in the fifth inning. Calabro was the winning pitcher, giving up six hits, and striking out 12.

President Pharmacy blanked the Quincy Sun, 3-0, behind Crowley's one-hit pitching. Scott Rooney had the only hit for the losers. Frank Ianello struck out 12 in a losing cause and Billy Santry and George Maze played strong defensively.

Van Oriola topped the Sun, 9-5, with Ken Marston the winning pitcher and Scott Grant the loser. Rooney drove in two runs for the Sun. Grant hit a home run. Santry had a double and scored a run. Ken Caldwell pitched three scoreless innings of relief for the losers.

The Social Club outlasted the Sun, 13-10. Rooney, Craig Bowen and George Karatous had two hits each and drove in eight runs between them for the Sun. Sam Carroll had a hit and an RBI, while Grant pitched the whole game, striking out seven. Caldwell played a fine defense game.

Van Oriola topped Gacia, 8-4, with Michael Miele pitching well and his younger brother, Mark, leading the attack.

Van Oriola topped the Sun, 9-5, with Marston the winning pitcher and Grant the loser. Michael and Mark Miele paced the winning attack.

Riley & Rielly scored six runs in the sixth inning to top Van Oriola, 9-4. Steve DiCenso had two hits and the Miele brothers again had good games, while Steve Noltemy starred defensively.

The Sun blanked President Pharmacy as Crowley pitched a no-hitter. John Sullivan drove in the winning run and Dennis Flaherty drove in two insurance runs.

President topped Brodeur, 13-10, in extra innings with Fennessey the winning pitcher. Flaherty was the hitting star and Ianino played well in the field.

Gacia blanked Braintree P&W, 4-0, with Brown, Della Barba and Snow sharing the pitching. Brown had a double and triple and started two double plays. Scott Campbell had a fine game defensively, playing both third base and first.

Gacia pulled out a 10-9 win over Alpine after Alpine had exploded for seven runs in the top of the sixth to tie the score. Alpine had opened with two runs in the first on Mark Rudnisky's double and three walks. In the big sixth Tommy O'Connor singled. Jim Peters doubled and Fabio Sala, Monty Baker, Scott Kaidopher, Rudnisky and Todd Kimball all singled. Baker made two excellent plays at shortstop.

Gacia blanked Braintree P&W, 5-0, with both teams playing excellent ball. There were three double plays and several other fine fielding plays.

Riley & Rielly walloped Alpine, 12-2, scoring in every inning.

The Sun rolled over Alpine, 9-3, with Sala hitting a home run.

Brodeau scored seven runs in the fourth inning and pounded Alpine, 11-1, with Calabro pitching a three hitter.

In Farm League action Nightingale Oil scored in the fourth inning to edge South Shore Buick, 1-0, in a game called after the fourth because of rain.

Frank Cavino and Matt Gendreau combined for a four-hitter for Nightingale and Greg Reynolds and Robbie Beatrice teamed up for a four-hitter for South Shore. Cavino struck out six in two innings and also won the game with a home run. For South Shore Reynolds had a triple. Sean Reardon a double and Nick Silvestro and Rob Ryan a single each. Dean Tantillo made an outstanding play at shortstop.

CHILDREN AND FIRES

Thousands of persons die each year in home fires, and one-third of these are children. Yet many of these young lives could have been saved if only precautions and general rules of fire safety had been followed. A child's natural curiosity can cause trouble when matches or lighters are left within their reach. They always should be put away after use. Other precautions are:

Never leave a young child home alone.
Show your baby-sitter the escape routes from the house (two from each room should be designated) and give instructions to get the children out of the house the first instant smoke or escaping gas is found, followed by a call to the fire department from an alarm box or a neighbor's house.

Teach children who are old enough how to get out of the house by following pre-arranged escape routes. Designate a family member to help a younger child to escape.

Art Association Planning 'Celebration Of The Arts'

The Quincy Art Association will hold its sixth annual May Festival "Celebration of the Arts" Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St.

There will be arts and crafts tables, children's art workshop, an exhibit of paintings by members and by high school students.

At 11 a.m., there will be a balloon "blast-off".

From 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., music will be provided by a hurdy gurdy player, accompanied by a monkey.

The Beechwood Center will have a tree planting ceremony at 2 p.m.

Refreshments and a food table will be available through the day.

In case of rain, activities will be held indoors.

The Beechwood Center will present a program of music, "Children in Recital" Sunday at 3 p.m.

Excerpts from "Annie in Oz" will be presented Tuesday at 7 p.m.

Also on Tuesday, there will be an exhibit by Quincy Art Association teachers and students.

Beechwood Center teachers will give a recital Tuesday evening. Louise Swindells, of the Quincy Art Association, will talk on "Alaska" and show paintings done on a trip there.

The art association will present awards and scholarships to high school students Thursday, May 20, at 7 p.m.

There will be a reception Friday at 7:30 p.m. with a magic show.

The festival will end with a sale of unframed paintings and a flea market to benefit the art association scholarship fund and the Beechwood Center Saturday, May 22, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The high school and members' exhibit will be open to the public all week.

Curtain Call Theatre To Present 'Cabaret'

Curtain Call Theatre will present its spring production of "Cabaret" beginning Friday, May 14, at 8 p.m. at Braintree High School.

The show will continue May 15, 20, 21, and 22, at 8 p.m., and May 16 at 3 p.m.

"Cabaret" features music by John Kander and lyrics by Fred

Webb in a story which takes place in pre-war Nazi Germany.

Cast members include Cathy Venti as Schneider; Joe Doniger, Schultz; Geoff Campbell, Cliff; Ellen Brams, Kost; Heather McGillicuddy, Sally; Rick Sosny, M.C.; Keith Knowles, Ernst; and Bill Devaney, customs officer.

Cast as the waiters are Allan Thomas, Skip Maloney, Tim Fitzgerald, Jack Kelly and Kevin Gaspar.

The Kit Kat Girls will be portrayed by Meg Young, Debbi Habib, Linda Levin, Laurie Halstead, Francine Mullen, Sharon Pettit, Kathy Moore and Amy Sears.

George Stevens is directing the production, with the assistance of choreographers Diane Flanagan and Marie D'Arcangelo and musical director Carolyn Curtis.

Tickets can be obtained at all branches of the Braintree Savings Bank, and by calling 925-3639.

WEEK OF: MAY 13

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Friday-Saturday focus on antique hunting, family reunions and catching up on obligatory communications. Follow up on self-improvement idea, but compare programs before signing up for formal courses.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Thursday-Saturday favor heart-to-heart discussions with favorite person. Share ideas for the future. Monday-Wednesday are practical days; lots of meetings and some business-related travel.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Friday-Wednesday accent imaginative tactics in social settings. Financial responsibilities increase, indicating some small personal sacrifices. Cultural happenings highlight the weekend.

Taurus - April 21-May 22

Refreshers course or training program should be considered for the immediate or near future. Talk session with loved one may provide you with answers to your most important questions.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Loved one is displaying affections in a sincere but understated fashion. Travel itineraries may undergo last-minute modification. Educational achievement is highlighted for a favorite relative.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Chance for financial expansion opens up; it may be opportune to take on part-time or freelance career. Consider making mid-year resolutions, namely in areas of diet and health.

LEO - July 23-August 22

A week in which you're called on to pinch-hit or understudy for the featured player. Romantic flirts can be settled lovingly; look for the right moment, then speak spontaneously.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Career star shines. Projects tackled now provide opportunities for showing off your strengths. Keep tabs on family spending; everyone is in an extravagant mood at the same time.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Loved one may find that even tiny changes are upsetting; proceed gently. New business venture demands thoroughness plus confidence in coworkers. Influential contact is likely to return a favor.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Whatever grudge you've been carrying... drop it now. It's holding you back and you should be forging ahead. There are people to meet, friendships to renew this week.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Loved one's logic has obvious holes... but is anyone being hurt? Don't harp on the situation. If forwarding, look forward to meeting colorful and generous individuals.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Secretive, suspicious friend opens up, and week favors the ferreting out of hidden facts and motives. Your independent nature, however, may be more than your family can handle.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Highly affectionate, highly determined, highly impatient. Next four months find you saying hello to new relationships, activities, places. Commitment made in September keeps you occupied for several months thereafter.

BORN THIS WEEK

May 13th, singer Stevie Wonder; 14th, opera singer Patrice Munsel; 15th, actress Alice Faye; 16th, pianist Liberace; 17th, actress Maureen O'Sullivan; 18th, actor Bill Macy; 19th, host David Hartman.

A SHOPPING TRIP at a local super market was a whole new experience for Cambodian Phoeurk Phann and his family who recently arrived in Quincy. Phoeurk's family includes his wife, Van Ny Va, 27; and daughters Kim Leang Va, 8; and Van da Boeur, 2. Among those who helped the family come to this country are, from left, Mrs. Barbara Sullivan, who co-sponsored the family; Tom Hobin, a physiotherapist who met Phoeurk in Thailand; and Charles Sullivan, also a co-sponsor.

Special Welcome At St. John's After A Nightmare, A Happy Ending For Cambodian Family

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

In late 1979, Phoeurk Phann and his wife and daughter escaped from their native Cambodia to Thailand.

The journey was to cost Phoeurk part of his left leg and to take the family to five refugee camps over the next two years.

That pilgrimage will come closer to its conclusion Sunday at 11 a.m. when Phoeurk and his family are welcomed to St. John's Parish, Quincy Center, during the family liturgy.

"This is a new life for me," says Phoeurk, 29, a soft spoken man with a ready smile despite the ordeal he and his family have been through.

A soldier since the age of 17, Phoeurk decided to leave his country when the Pol Pot regime came into power from 1975-1979 and proceeded to execute the educated class.

"My father and brother were beaten to death with bamboo poles," said Phoeurk who explained that his father had been a judge.

While crossing the border with his wife, Van Ny Va, now 27, and daughter, Kim Leang Va, 8, Phoeurk stepped on a mine and lost part of his leg. His wound tied with cloth, he was carried across the border by two friends.

"Van Ny cried the whole time," says Phoeurk.

After a month and a half, Phoeurk had surgery on his leg which was amputated just below the knee. He used bamboo crutches to get around until he was taught by two French priests to make his own artificial leg out of bamboo, the first in the camp to do so.

Phoeurk eventually became chief of the amputee rehabilitation unit at the camp and taught others at that and other camps.

In 1980, Phoeurk began to learn English by reading the dictionary and through contact with those who spoke English.

Among those was Tom Hobin, now 23, a physiotherapist who was working in Thailand with the Catholic Relief Services.

Phoeurk corresponded with Hobin. In November, 1981, he began to hope that he and his family could come to the United States.

Hobin returned to Boston and his experiences in Thailand led him to enter St. John's Seminary, Brighton. Then, he set about finding a sponsor for Phoeurk and his family.

After being turned down by others, Hobin found success with St. John's Parish. Deacon

Charles Sullivan and his wife, Barbara Sullivan.

With the help of Catholic Relief Services, Phoeurk and his family, which now included daughter Van da Boeur, 2, arrived at Logan Airport April 26 with all their worldly goods, and some small gifts for their new friends, in two plastic bags.

"It was really exciting and emotional," says Hobin who was there to meet the family along with the Sullivans and their daughter, Debra, 18.

"Van Ny came running," says Sullivan, a senior vice president of Hancock Bank, who explained that this was all the more touching because of the usually reserved behavior of people from that part of the world.

The family stayed in the Scituate home of the Sullivans which also includes a son, Charles, 20. Used to being close together, they politely turned down the bed that was offered and chose to sleep instead on a comforter on the floor.

After resting from their trip, they began getting used to such modern conveniences as electricity, showers, stoves and refrigerators.

Two days after arriving, (Cont'd on Page 18)

As Pierce Successor Sheets, Deyeso Seen QJC Contenders

By TOM HENSHAW

Two longtime Quincy educators are seen as early candidates to succeed Dr. Edward F. Pierce as president of Quincy Junior College when he steps down Aug. 6.

They are City Councillor James A. Sheets, head of the government department at QJC; and Carl Deyeso, director of academic education in the Quincy Public Schools.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley, who is also chairman of the School Committee, said he hopes to get the machinery started to pick Pierce's successor at the Wednesday, May 26, meeting of the committee.

McCauley said School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon has drawn up a job description for the post, which Pierce had held since 1972.

It includes the requirements that the applicant hold a masters degree and that he or she have five years of teaching experience and five years in educational administration.

Both Sheets and Deyeso said they will not apply for the post until they have a chance to see the job description.

"Yes, I'm interested in the president's job," said Sheets. "But I have not made a firm decision either way. I will not make a decision for a number of weeks."

"It's hard to tell what I will do now," said Deyeso. "I would have to look at the job description before I would even consider applying. I don't know how these rumors start."

Deyeso will be moving over to the junior college during the next (Cont'd on Page 12)

Rate $205.60 Tax Bills Out By May 28

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday that the city hopes to have tax bills for the second half of fiscal 1982 in the mail by Friday, May 28.

"We aim to have a due date before July 1, the start of the next fiscal year, so that we can have a lot of tax money collected by then and our balance sheet can be viewed in a favorable light," he said.

The tax collection machinery of the city went into action Monday morning with the announcement that the state Department of Revenue had approved a $205.60 tax rate for fiscal 1982.

That's down $37 from the previous year, due to the fact that 15 per cent had to be knocked off the tax levy to satisfy the demands of Proposition 2½.

McCauley said the $205.60 tax rate approved by the state was identical to the figure requested by the city when its recap sheets were submitted to the state in March.

The delay by the state cost Quincy some $200,000 in interest on short term loans taken to pay the city's running expenses in the absence of tax collections.

McCauley and Chief Assessor Elmer (Mike) Fagerlund met with Deputy Revenue Commissioner Edward Collins Friday to settle last minute problems in the tax rate setting procedures.

The mayor said Collins was concerned that the city did not have enough money in its 1981-82 budget to cover possible abatement and he wanted an increase in that account, which is called the "overlay."

The city was able to comply, said McCauley, by making adjustments of $162,000 in its favor in estimated receipts.

Taxpayers who paid tax bills for the first half of fiscal 1982 last November will find their second half bills to be considerably lower.

In the absence of a tax rate, the November bills were based on last year's rate and were higher than they should have been. The second mailing will be about 30 per cent less, said McCauley.

Gypsy Moth Spraying Resumes In W. Quincy

The city resumed spraying for gypsy moths in the West Quincy area at 5 a.m. Tuesday after an equipment breakdown halted the program temporarily last week.

Forestry Supt. John Koegler said the initial spray area is to the west of Willard St. between the city dump and the Braintree line. The program originally got started last Thursday but the city-owned equipment, a machine called a "mist blower," broke down the first day.

"It hadn't been used in about four years," said Koegler.

He said he had received few complaints about the use of Sevin, the controversial chemical that has been banned as an aerial spray in some communities.

Landfill Facility To Be Open Saturday

Quincy residents may dispose of household rubbish, brush and appliances at the city landfill facility Saturday from 7 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Public Works Commissioner

Paul N. Anderson said that the "landfill area itself will not be available for use, but dumpsters will be in place at the check-in area for acceptance of household rubbish and additional areas will be available for acceptance of appliances and brush."

Anderson said proof of Quincy residence must be in the form of a driver's license or vehicle registration.

Board Grants License For Good News Country Store

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
Good News Country Store, 9 Brook St., Wollaston, was granted common victualer and Lord's Day licenses at Tuesday's License Board meeting.

But that may not be good news for some local residents who are concerned about parking problems.

The license was granted to Mrs. Claire Cattaneo who told the board at the May 4, meeting that she would rent the ice cream shop at MacFarland's and also serve light lunches, salad, soup and sandwiches.

The non-profit operation would provide a place for young people to go "and have wholesome, good fun," according to Mrs. Cattaneo.

It would also be a place where "the Lord's name could be proclaimed without people laughing," said Mrs. Cattaneo.

The non-denominational establishment would allow no drinking or smoking, according to Mrs. Cattaneo who also said that there would be arts and crafts classes for the elderly.

Mrs. Cattaneo contended that such a place should be provided for youth.

Local residents voiced concern over more parking in the area.

"Parking is as bad as it can get," agreed Police Chief Francis Finn who recommended that Mrs. Cattaneo and the residents sit down and discuss that problem.

"I have no objection to people learning about God," said Mrs. Ann Regan of Arlington St. at this week's meeting, "but I do object to the parking."

Mrs. Regan said that another establishment couldn't help but add to the congestion.

The amount of people that will be attracted to the store will be minor, said Mrs. Cattaneo, "50-70 people on occasion will come".

Mrs. Cattaneo also said that after 5:30 p.m. there are no parking problems in that area, and that 12 abutters that she spoke to had no objections.

"We license liquor businesses until 2 a.m.," said Building Inspectors Allan MacDonald, "said here someone just wants to sell ice cream and study the bible."

"I can't figure it out. I think it's worth a try."

"If it turns out to be the horror show they think it will be, we'll act on it."

City Clerk John Gillis agreed, "I'd like to give it a trial. It's something a little different. It seems like a good thing."

Two other residents also told of parking problems.

"We know there's a problem," said MacDonald, "we should tear down a few buildings and provide off street parking."

"We have to do something. There should be posted areas and towing."

After a motion to grant the license for a three month trial period died, the license was granted with no time restriction.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh was opposed.

Law Day Observed At Quincy District Court

DENNIS F. RYAN PLAQUE was unveiled in honor of the late clerk magistrate of Quincy District Court at Law Day ceremonies last week. From left, are Judge Albert Kramer; Clerk Magistrate Arthur Tobin; Mr. Ryan's son, Christopher Ryan; wife, Mrs. Caroline Ryan; and sister, Kay Ryan; Charles J. Saraf, foreman carpenter; and Edward J. Brady, first assistant clerk.

(Quincy Sun Photos by Steve O'Gara)

550 SAVINGS BONDS were presented to five winners in the Dennis F. Ryan Essay Contest. Mr. Ryan's son, Michael Ryan, made the presentation to one of the winners, Lisa LaBlanc of Quincy High School. Other winners were Janet Magnier of Archbishop Williams High School; Mary Lydon, Braintree High School; Harris Berenson, Randolph High School; and Patricia McCabe, Fontbonne Academy. Banks that sponsored the bonds were Quincy Savings Bank, Quincy Cooperative Bank, South Shore Bank, Hancock Bank, and Braintree Savings Bank.

DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended) received the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Award to an Outstanding Community Organization. Rose Mary Kirwin, DOVE president, accepted the award from Eugene Roundtree, South Shore Chamber president.

Quincy Cooperative Bank has a word for this dedication

Patti Morris reaches out to help young and old in Quincy.

Everyone in Quincy, it seems, knows Patti! She's the senior at Archbishop Williams High School whose ready smile and helping hand have brought joy and comfort to hundreds of our area's less fortunate citizens.

With her special interest in health care, Patti has made many friends in her over 600 hours of service as a Candy Stripper at Quincy City Hospital. At school, where she's President of the National Honor Society, she's given of her time and energy for the Blood Drive.

During the Christmas-season, Patti doubles her efforts... making meals and delivering baked goods for the needy, caroling at nursing homes and running a Toys for Tots Program.

Patti Morris' dedication to others is an inspiration... not only to those who know her, but to all of us at Quincy Cooperative Bank as well. For at Quincy Cooperative, we strive to be as dedicated as Patti is to others in helping our customers meet their financial goals.

On June 5, Patti Morris will be presented the 1982 Josiah Quincy Community Service Award at a special ceremony at the Quincy Cooperative Bank Headquarters, 85 Quincy Avenue. The public is cordially invited.

By Henry Bosworth

4-Year Mayoral Term? No!

Should the mayor of Quincy get a pay hike? Should he have a four-year term instead of the two-years he serves now?

These are two of the major questions facing a special nine-member committee named by Mayor Francis McCauley to study the mayor's office and to make recommendations.

Nobody's asked us yet. And probably won't. But if anyone is wondering, our answers would be "Yes" and "No."

"Yes" for the pay raise. "No" for the four-year term.

There's little argument that the mayor should be making more than the $25,000 the job now draws. He's the chief executive of a multi-million dollar corporation involving and affecting some 82,000 persons.

It really doesn't make much sense that the No. 1 man has under him at least three people — superintendent of schools, police and fire chiefs — making twice as much as him. And many others making more than him.

At least they should give him an aspirin allowance. He has got to have more headaches than anyone else in town. Some of the biggest headaches, anyway.

HANNON

The present salary went into effect with Mayor Walter Hannon, Quincy's first full-time mayor in 1972. It came as the result of a salary study.

Prior to that the mayor's salary was $10,000. Mayor Amelia Della Chiesa, who was a penny pincher and after whom McCauley has patterned his administration, was a major factor in the salary staying at $10,000 in his time.

He told the City Council if it voted him a pay raise he would veto it. Della Chiesa, of course, was a part-time mayor as all mayors before him were and he was drawing a salary as a state representative.

But if it hadn't been for him, the mayor's salary today might have been $30,000 or more. But even $30,000 isn't much considering the responsibilities of the man sitting in the hot seat at the desk in the mayor's office.

A pay raise for the mayor now might not set too well with the many who have lost their jobs either due to Proposition 2½ or the economy slump.

Some people will say that a man knew what the salary was before he ran for the job. And he should stick by it.

A pay raise for the mayor, however, is inevitable. Quincy is going to have to face up to it sooner or later. Or, go back to part-time mayors. That would be stepping back into the 19th century.

But a four-year term?

McCAULEY

"Two years is really not enough time to accomplish anything in this office," says McCauley. "A man should have a chance to do the job and get a track record before he is forced to run for re-election."

He appointed the study committee in April and noted at that time:

"I am only four months into this term and pretty soon it will be January and I'll have to think about running again. Can I do the job effectively and still run for re-election?"

Well, a mayor should always be reminded he has to run again. And, reminded often.

A convincing argument against a four-year term is the wrong mayor. Two years with the wrong man (or woman) is bad enough. Four years is twice as bad. Four years with the wrong mayor would be a long, long time.

A mayor coming into office for the first time doesn't have to prove he is a genius. The people of Quincy aren't that demanding.

All they expect is that he be honest (and those around him be honest, too), that he has some know-how, a little common sense and that he try to do a good job. They'll be glad to give a second term to allow him time to carry out his programs.

But if he's inept, or if corruption is uncovered in his administration, they'll vote him out after two years. And if there is ineptness, or corruption, how would you like four years of it instead of two?

Four years could be a long, long time. What about recall? Well, what about it? Even if the present city charter is changed to provide for it, recalling a mayor isn't the easiest way to get rid of the wrong mayor. A two year term is.

Mayor McCauley notes that only two cities in the state — Newton and Boston — have four year terms now "but the trend around the country is toward four-year terms."

Boston Mayor Kevin White might be another argument against a four year term. In the eyes of many, he's pretty arrogant. And maybe a mayor does get arrogant knowing he has to face the voters only every four years instead of two.

Wonder what the reaction would have been if Arthur Tobin, Walter Hannon or James McIntyre had appointed a study committee that might recommend a pay raise for them.

They would have been lambasted on "Party Line" and in letters to the editor. But Mayor McCauley initiates the study, and everyone seems to be taking it in stride.

A pay raise for the mayor, whether it be for McCauley or his successor has merit. A four-year term is another matter.

The right mayor has nothing to worry about with a two-year term. But Quincy would have a lot to worry about with the wrong mayor with a four-year term.

After 14 Months Campaign

Geary's Hopes High For Lt. Gov. Endorsement

By TOM HENSHAW

Fourteen months of hard work and self denial has brought Bill Geary of Wollaston to a turning point this weekend at the Democratic State Convention in Springfield.

That's how long he's been running for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, a virtual unknown among the John Kerrys, Fred Langones, Lois Pines and Joel Pressmans.

He thinks he has put together the strength, if not to win the endorsement of the convention outright, at least to attract the 15 per cent of the delegates needed to get on the primary ballot.

"We have 430 delegates for sure," said Geary this week in a visit to The Quincy Sun. His delegates include his wife, Mary Ellen, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Marguerite Fitzgerald, both of Quincy.

Since there will be 3,300 voting delegates to the Democratic convention Saturday, he will need 495 in order to continue his quest legally into the September primary.

"In a field of eight candidates," he said, "it is possible that no one will have 15 per cent on the first ballot. The attrition will start on the second ballot."

"All the polls that I have seen show me leading among the second choices of the delegates. In a field as crowded as this one, that's not bad at all."

In addition to the 15 per cent rule, Geary has set his own standards for continuing in the race. He'll have to finish first, second or third in Springfield.

Right now, his favorite poll shows him running third behind Sam Rotondi and Evelyn Murphy.

"It all depends on how well I do at the convention," he said. "If I do well, I'll go on. If I don't do well I'll be working in the backyard at 24 Elm Ave. Monday morning."

It's no secret that Geary also has a favorite candidate to be his running mate as governor.

"I'm the only candidate who has expressed a preference for Mike Dukakis," he said. "I am proud of his administration and the role that I played in it. Many of his supporters are my supporters."

Geary served as special assistant to Gov. Dukakis (1975-79) and assistant secretary of consumer affairs (1975) as well as first deputy secretary of state.

He was also a White House consultant in charge of political and logistical arrangements for the travels of President Jimmy Carter and Vice President Walter Mondale.

Since the rustication of the Dukakis administration from the State House in 1979, he has been executive director of the Advertising Club of Greater Boston. He resigned April 30.

Geary is so close to Dukakis, in fact, that he has said he will step down if he wins the nomination to run in tandem with Gov. Edward J. King.

He sees the role of a lieutenant governor a little differently from other candidates.

"The proper role of the lieutenant governor is to serve as the valued right arm and confidant to the governor," he said.

"He should be an extension of the governor's office. He should not be off pursuing his own agenda. He should be fulfilling duties delegated to him by the governor."

Geary has been on the campaign trail since March, 1981. In a recent four-day period, he was in Millers Falls on Friday, Brockton on Saturday, Gloucester on Sunday and Fall River and New Bedford on Monday.

"One thing I did not anticipate was the wear and tear that campaigning has on family life," he said. "I'm disappointed by that. We've been a very close family."

Family is his wife, Mary Ellen, and their four children, Sean 13, Robert 12, Thomas 9 and James 4.

Sean will be in a play at St. Ann's School tomorrow (Friday) night and his father is going to have to miss it in order to be at the convention. He plans to make a dress rehearsal.

It worked out a little better with James, a recent graduate of the Barrette Nursery School in Wollaston. The school switched James from an afternoon to a morning graduation so his father could attend.

"I've never spent as much time with my family as I would have liked," said Geary. "I got all my formal education at night schools and I drove a cab for five and a half years days to support my family."

"When I worked in the governor's office and the White House I spent every spare minute with my family. But it's never enough."

Judge Dumps Incinerator Plan For Quincy

Superior Court Judge Edward O. Gourdin upheld a petition by 80 Quincy residents that would, in effect, prevent the city from constructing an incinerator in the Hardwick Quarry area.

Judge Gourdin ruled invalid an action by the City Council to change the zoning of the land from Residence B to a category known as "city property." The judge said there was no such category.

The residents had brought the suit after the city announced plans to build an incinerator on the quarry site, a plan that was endorsed by voters by a big margin at the last election.

RAISES FOR OFFICIALS

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa said four high city officials have been added to a list of some 100 city employees to be recommended for salary adjustments, effective July 2.

The proposed raises would cost the city $15,869.

The salaries of Solicitor Douglas A. Randall would go from $9,755 to $11,458; his assistant, Stephen T. Keefe Jr. from $7,393 to $9,000; Librarian Gertrude Callahan from $7,895 to $8,435 and Welfare Director Anthony Venna from $8,435 to $10,573.

FLABBY AMERICANS

Ralph H. Colson, state director of physical education and safety, told a Quincy Lions Club luncheon that the Russians have a six-year lead over the United States in the field of physical education.

Colson said he had an idea that would close the gap in six months.

"Send them 20 million of our television sets and give them to the Russian children," he said. "I'm not talking politics. We have watched our country go to pot."

PARKS, RECREATION MERGED

The City Council voted acceptance of a plan to merge the Park and Recreation Departments under one seven member board and then proceeded to nominate two of the members.

They were Richard (Dee Dee) Morrissey, 9 Buckingham Rd., Wollaston, and Gerard A. Coletta Jr., 151 Dorchester St., Squantum.

AIR RAID DRILLS

George C. Young, chairman of the Civil Defense committee for the schools, said practice air raid drills will be held June 4, to see how long it takes pupils to walk home from four schools.

Schools in the test were South Junior High School, and the Snug Harbor and John Hancock Schools.

Quincy Bay Sewage Disposal On Cable Ch. 3 Thursday

Quincy Community Television will present a special live program dealing with the problem of sewage disposal in Quincy Bay tonight (Thursday) at 10 p.m. on Ch. 3.

The program, called "Not in Our Bay," will be a follow-up to The Advocates, to be shown at 9 p.m. focusing on the question "Should cities and towns be able to refuse hazardous waste facilities?"

The Quincy follow-up will be a panel discussion featuring Robert Daylor, member of the Eastern Peninsula Association and the Citizen's Action Committee, who is an engineer and environmental consultant; Dr. Robert McKeogh, Quincy Health Commissioner; Joan Haggerty, Director of Project Planning Management, Sewage Division; and Dan Donahue, Representative of Metcalf and Eddy, the consulting firm doing the Nut Island option study for the MDC. Dan Michak, a reporter for the Valley Advocate, who has done extensive reporting on waste disposal sites, will moderate the discussion.

The program will concentrate on where to dump sewage, who decides, and how to regulate the Nut Island facility.

This follow-up is a special effort of Quincy Community Television and WGBH, Boston, which provided Channel 3 with The Advocates program. This effort is the first to link the broad reach of a public television station with the local access of the individual cable company. The Quincy program is produced by staff and volunteers at the station.

Threatens Legal Action State Demands New Reports On City Dump

The state has told the city of Quincy to get its reports on the city dump up-to-date or face some form of action through the attorney general's office.

Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson told the City Council Monday night that the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering is not happy with the way the city has been reporting on the dump.

"We're supposed to submit either a tonnage or some sort of a volume report to them each month indicating the amount of new material entered into the dump," he said.

"It appears that this has not been done on a regular basis.

"They're very concerned because they're not sure how much material has gone in there. They can no longer estimate the useful lifespan of the landfill."

"We don't know where we are in the life of the dump," said Councilor James A. Sheets, the Council's resident expert on the dump which lies in his Ward 4.

"If the current Phase 3 is going to be the last phase in the life of the dump then we've got problems. There would be a maximum of three, maybe four years left.

"But if we are able to go into Phase 4, if that phase is not denied for environmental and ecological reasons, then we will have a much longer period of time."

Sheets said he is also concerned about the leachates, that is, the liquids that pass through the dump carrying off the soluble materials.

"I want to know where it is going," Sheets said. "Is it going into Furnace Brook? I think the state is concerned about that too. That's why they're going to the attorney general for enforcement."

In a letter to Anderson April 29, the DEQE expressed concern about leachates, the useful life of the dump, groundwater monitoring, proposed expansion of the landfill to Phase 4 and general supervision.

"They want us to submit to them a plan of action for monitoring the leachate emission points," Anderson told the Council, "and take corrective action on the closure (covering) of the landfill."

One of his recommendations, Anderson said, will be an aerial topography survey of the dump area "to allow engineers to determine exactly how much useful space we do have left up there.

"Is it your opinion," Sheets asked, "that the leachate is making its way into the underground water system and will end up in Furnace Brook?"

"There is some evidence that that may be occurring," said Anderson. "That is one of the problems we have with the potential opening of Phase 4, the wetlands that drain into the area."

"Do you see a delay in Phase 4 until these problems are taken care of?" Sheets asked.

"I see that potential," said Anderson. "And that's what we are examining now for the mayor in response to the state letter."

If the city is unable to go into

Phase 4 at the dump, then within three or four years it would have to truck all rubbish out of the city to another landfill at a cost estimated by Sheets of at least $2 million yearly.

Rabies Clinic Saturday For Dogs, Cats

A rabies clinic for dogs and cats three months old and older will be held Saturday, noon to 4 p.m., at the Public Works Garage, 55 Sea St.

Sponsored by the Quincy Health Department, the clinic will be held rain or shine.

There is a $3 fee per animal.

Health Commissioner Dr.

Robert P. McKeogh noted, "Massachusetts law requires animals to have rabies vaccine every three years.

"Our clinic on the 22nd of May will be the only rabies clinic this year."

Dr. Alan Morse of the Emerson Animal Hospital, North Quincy, will conduct the clinic.

Sheets, Deyeso Seen Contenders For QJC Post

academic year, anyway, in a job as yet undetermined. The post of academic dean is also open.

Sheets, a graduate of Eastern Nazarene College, joined the junior college as an instructor in 1963 and became chairman of the Division of History and Government in 1966.

"Whether I apply or not depends on what kind of a contribution I feel I can make to the junior college in that capacity," said Sheets. "What do I have to offer the college in the decade of the 1980s.

"Is it something I really want to do? I thoroughly enjoy classroom teaching and this would be a major career change. There is a big difference between the classroom and the administration office.

"There are also some elements yet unknown about the job. I have not seen a job description yet and I would have to take a look at that first."

The junior college was recently cut off from the city budget with a revolving account of its own but it is still under the wing of the Quincy School Committee.

One of the elements of the job description is that the president of the college handles all matters concerning the school — but reports to the school superintendent.

McCauley said it is undecided how the School Committee will go about selecting a successor to Pierce, whose resignation was announced without comment or explanation on May 6.

"I suppose we'll have to advertise the job and open it up to others," he said. "There'll be all those affirmative action guidelines and advertising in the minority papers. It may take some time."

Edna Moran Retires

Edna Moran, a teacher at Central Junior High School for the past 20 years, is retiring May 15. Her retirement was approved by the School Committee last week.

Maine Pastor To Preach At Wollaston Lutheran Church

Rev. Gregory J. Wismar, pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church, Cape Elizabeth, Me., will be the preacher in the 7:30 p.m. Ascension Day Vesper Service tonight (Thursday) at Wollaston Lutheran Church, 550 Hancock St.

The service will be conducted by the Rev. Frank J. Bauer, pastor. Music will be directed by Professor Charles E. Seifert of Eastern Nazarene College, church organist and director of the Hand Bell Choir.

Rev. Wismar's sermon topic will be "The Promise of the Ascension". The Hand Bell Choir will play "We Are Climbing

REV. GREGORY J. WISMAR

Jacob's Ladder."

Rev. Wismar, in addition to his Maine pastorate, serves as vice president of the New England District of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod and chairman of the New England District Youth Commission.

A former jazz musician, he is nationally-published composer of church music, and a member of the National Association of Parliamentarians.

Following the service, the May meeting of the congregation's Voters Assembly will be held, chaired by the Congregational President, I. Bradford Hutchinson of Braintree.

Beth Israel Synagogue Honors Good Neighbors

Beth Israel Synagogue recently showed its appreciation to a pair of good neighbors, Wilmer and Eleanor Paquette, who live on Lancaster St., near the synagogue.

The Paquettes were honored at a breakfast attended by some 100 persons at the synagogue for being good neighbors by watching over the synagogue.

The Paquettes are credited by Beth Israel officials with having prevented much vandalism over the years. The Paquettes declined the offer of a money gift, but were given a plaque identifying them as "Good Neighbors".

Supper, Show, Song Fest At Wollaston Congregational

A roast beef supper, cabaret show and songfest led by some members of "Just Friends" will be held Saturday, beginning at 6:30 p.m. at Wollaston Congregational Church.

Reservations should be made by Friday afternoon for the event which will be held in the social hall.

There will also be dessert and coffee. For reservations, call the church office at 773-7432.

Revival Service At W. Quincy Congregational

Rev. Oliva Rosenberg, an evangelist from Bingham, Me., will conduct a revival and evangelistic service tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at West Quincy Congregational Church, 47 Buckley St.

The public is invited.

Parents Council Asks More State Aid For Schools

The Citywide Parents Council presented the City Council Monday night a petition containing the 5,000 signatures asking that 50 per cent of any additional state aid be given to the schools.

Robert Wilson, president of the Council, said a similar petition with 5,000 names will be given to the Quincy legislative delegation and to Gov. Edward J. King's office.

Wilson ticked off the fiscal blows that have fallen on the public schools in the past two years.

The school budget is down 28 per cent, classroom teachers down 27 per cent, guidance counselors down 30 per cent, book purchases 88 per cent, and 12 neighborhood schools closed.

"Last year," he said, "the city received $3.5 million in additional state aid. The school department got $191,000. This year the city is likely to get $7 million."

The petition urged the mayor and the Council "that the school budget absorb no further cuts and get at least 50 per cent of the additional state aid returned to Quincy."

"It is owed to the children of Quincy," said Wilson.

'Music Of Christmas' Chosen Festival Theme

"The Music of Christmas", suggested by Mrs. Robert Duguet of 168 Parkside Ave., Braintree, has been selected from more than 50 entries as the theme for the 1982 Quincy Christmas Festival.

"The response to recent news releases asking the general public to suggest a theme for 1982 was very gratifying", said George F. White, general chairman of the festival committee.

Mrs. Duguet will receive an appreciation award for suggesting the winning entry.

Floats in this year's parade, to be held Sunday, Nov. 28, will be divided into two segments.

Mrs. Frances Flynn of 79 Freeman St., Wollaston, will be committee chairman for the non-commercial, clubs and organizations segment.

Situate resident David Keefe of Quincy Cablesystems, Inc. will chair the commercial float committee.
